Health Director Stresses Suburban Sewer Need

Businessmen Give Boost

PARKLAND BUSINESS CLUB officials turned over a $510.38 check to County Commissioner Harry Sprinker last week to be used to help defray maintenance costs of Gonyea Playfield. Pictured checking the 1966 Parkland Rodeo and Roundup profit and loss statement with Commissioner Sprinker (center) are treasurer Irene Clemmons, president Bob Magdanz (standing), and president-elect John Guizzetti.

Hospitality Impresses Transient on Horseback

SUMNER - "Washington hospitality has really been great! Everyone has been so good!"

These were the words of a recent visitor to the area Al LeGate who is making a trip from Mexicali, Mexico to Vancouver, B.C. by horseback.

While in this area he spent several days with his brother Eddie McAvoy, who lives on Wehl Road, whom he had never seen before.

This trip is the first phase of LeGate's plan to make the public more aware of the shortage of trails for riders and hikers.

He has spent many years talking with just horsemen about this shortage, but is now presenting the problem to the general public and is very pleased with the reception shown so far.

During his trip he has outlined his plans before several service organizations in an attempt to get local people interested in creating trails in suburban areas. "These trails could follow secondary roads and could be placed on the other side of the freeway fences or ditches," pointed out LeGate.

"One project for this area would be a trail out South Meridian to Mt. Rainier. This would offer a three-day trip for riders or hikers," he said. On his return trip it is his hope to get a group organized to begin work on this idea.

LeGate is not conducting a one man campaign as he has the support of many riding clubs.

The past president of the Washington State Posse Association Buzz Carmel of Tacoma approved LeGate's plan to make trails along secondary roads. Also endorsing these trails is the president of the Tacoma Chapter of the WSPA Lloyd Alton.

When passing through Olympia, LeGate talked with Governor Dan Evans and was invited by the Bureau of Natural Resources supervisor Bert Cole to speak at the Inter-Agency Committee on Recreation at the Olympic Hotel in Seattle two weeks ago.

Representatives from 80 Washington towns heard LeGate outline a brief description of his plans.

When LeGate left Mexicali, Mexico May 1 he had only $6 in his pocket. "When I run out of money I keep going until someone offers me help," he related.

A 6,000 member California organization, The Equestrian Trails Club, met him along the route and gave him $200. When arriving in Tacoma, the owner of B & I Store added another $200 to his funds.

"Before arriving in Washington I usually bedded down along the trail, but every night since being in this state people have offered to put me up for awhile," said LeGate.

Traveling up the coastal route through California to Gold Beach, Oregon, then into Grants Pass, Oregon and from there up the freeway to Portland and continuing on the freeway to Sumner has been the main route for the traveler.

The horse he was riding when he arrived in Sumner was the 13th horse used during the trip. None have belonged to him. He has many requests from horse owners to "break in" horses for them.

Last year when he was here planning the route for his trip, he located a sister living in Tacoma whom he had not seen for 26 years. She told him about a younger brother Eddie who was at that time serving with the navy in Viet Nam. LeGate had left home at an early age before this brother had been born.

When taking time out from his riding, LeGate is a free lance writer for a horse magazine in Inglewood, California. When he returns home he will become field representative of the Trail Horses Association visiting various towns where he made contacts during his ride to help organize groups to lay the groundwork in establishing safe trails.

Peterson To Speak At Parkland Development Meet

Parkland Development Association members will hear Curtis Peterson, prominent local builder, during the regular meeting to be held 8 p.m., December 12 at the Parkland Light and Water Building.

Peterson, who has a master's degree from the Harvard Business College, will discuss the functions of the Pierce County Advisory Council. He will also suggest new approaches to land development, and the importance of proper, well planned use of urban areas.

During Peterson's eight years in business, he has pioneered many new ideas in residential land development. He is chairman of the Pierce County Citizen's Advisory Council, and a member of the Home Builder's Association,

Fourth Dairy Nutrition Meeting Set

The fourth in a series of dairy nutrition meetings will be held December 14, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., at the Winter School Building, Western Washington Research and Extension Center, Puyallup.

Dr. Tim Blosser, Chairman of WSU's Department of Animal Sciences, will be the featured speaker. Topics for discussion will be forage evaluation methods, hay vs. silage vs. pasture feeding, artificial drying of hay, effects of feeding on mastitis and sterility, and new concepts of measuring energy in dairy feeds.

Dr. Blosser developed a reputation as an authority on forages in dairy feeding before his promotion to Chairman of WSU's Department of Animal Sciences.

Following the nutrition meeting, Dr. Blosser will meet with area FFA and other interested high school students. He will discuss the WSU animal science curriculum, demand for animal science graduates by industries, salaries for graduates and other related topics. This meeting, beginning at 4:00 p.m., will also be held in the Winter School Building.

County Extension Agent Eddie Thomason emphasizes that this meeting will be of tremendous help to high school seniors in planning ahead for their college education.

Septic Tanks Don't Dispose Of Sewer Wastes

"Septic tank drainage is like the country cousin who came to town and created nothing but trouble," Dr. Ernst Kredel, Pierce County Director of Health, stated last week in pointing out the need for sewers in suburban Pierce County.

Seepage from rural septic systems eventually filters into one of the county's natural drainage basins, where it is rapidly becoming a serious problem, he said. Even the most desirable types of soil will not filter phosphates and nitrates, and they are two of the agents that contribute to pollution of our water facilities, Dr. Kredel stated.

Depending on the filter factor of soil, it will tend to purify to a degree, he explained. "But when 60,000 people pool their septic drainage, the soil becomes rapidly saturated. Whatever you introduce into the soil is going to stay there, and over the years our soil has changed from its original composition."

Referring to Parkland and Lakewood areas Dr. Kredel said, "The population density of many suburban county areas is as dense as most parts of Tacoma. They just don't carry a city name-tag."

Although septic tanks are a county wide problem, he said some spots are so contaminated that building permits are being denied until sewers are installed. This move is not an attempt to stymie the growth of an area, but an effort to persuade citizens to take the sensible route, he said.

"We would prefer to accomplish the installation of sewers by education rather than regulation," Dr. Kredel stated.

Of the proposed $200,000

treatment plant for Parkland's new high school, Dr. Kredel warned, "Such a plant is merely a deferral of sewers and not a solution." When developers open new areas, he suggested they classify sewers like any other utility.

"Why give a community permanent improvements like electricity, water lines, and paved roads, but only temporary sewage disposal facilities in the form of a septic tank," Dr. Kredel questioned.

The County Health Dept. recently set up a five member board to hold hearings and review cases. Serving on the board are Harold Sitts, chairman, Clayton Peterson, C.S. Seabrook, Gordon Kempe, and Keith Jones. Their second meeting was held December 2 to set up rules of procedure for review hearing cases.

Migrant Group Picks Officers At Meeting

The election of new officers highlighted the ninth annual dinner meeting of the Puyallup Valley Migrant Ministries Association recently at Ivan's.

Elected were president Mrs. W.H. Winters, vice president Charles Bond, secretary Mrs. Fred Stickney and treasurer Mrs. S. VanLierop.

Frank Wright, Director of MORE (Make Opportunity Rehabilitate Economics) spoke briefly on the work of the Multi-service Center at 1402 E. Pioneer Avenue, Puyallup, which is serving low-income families and especially Indians in many ways. Ten different Indian tribes are represented in the staff.

Dr. C. Walter Johnson of the Tacoma Indian Center was felicitated on his coming retirement, and a moment of remembrance was held for Mrs. Fern Mather, worker with migrant children, who died recently.

The featured speaker of the evening was Dr. Ernst Kredel, Director of Public Health for Pierce County. He told of many experiences in public health work in British Honduras, Puerto Rico, Michigan, New Mexico and finally in Bellingham and Tacoma in our own Pacific Northwest.

G. Lee Matlock, farmer, gave a brief explanation of the effect that the extension of the minimum wage law to agricultural workers, which goes into effect next February, will have on migrants in the Valley next summer.

In the business meeting the resignation of Mrs. John Wise from the Board of Directors and as health co-ordinator was received. Appreciation was expressed for her many services to the Migrant Ministry program since its beginning in 1957.

Directors elected were Charles Bond, Dr. C. Walter Johnson, James Rooker, Dr. Ernst Kredel, Mrs. John Coffman, Pat Gallegher, Richard Kennedy, Mrs. Fred Stickney, Mrs. Leonard McKibben and Mrs. Cynthia Keyser.

New Association members elected are Mrs. Agnes Bauer, Rev. Calvin Moore, Mrs. John Wise and Frank Wright.

The art exhibit will continue through Thursday, Dec. 29. M.J. Stap Box Derby

by John VanDevanter

If there doesn't seem to be much activity in the Democratic "race" for the gubernatorial nomination in '68, it's because there isn't. What seemed like a hot three-year tournament a few months ago has apparently vanished in the Republican whirlwind which took over the State Legislature early this month.

Although there still probably are aspirations beating away in the hearts of Attorney General John O'Connell, State Senator Martin Durkan, Land Commissioner Bert Cole and possibly even King County Commissioner Ed Munro, they don't show. These and other prospects are showing all the enthusiasm of Rose Bowl nominees awaiting a shot at Notre Dame.

O'Connell, whose campaign seemed well underway a year ago, has been almost silent since the primary campaign and Durkan buried himself in the problems at hand and the coming legislative session. Cole and Munro, who hadn't got underway, still haven't. It is understandable that O'Connell, who made a false start in 1963, would not be eager to tackle a stronger Dan Evans in 1968. But he has declared himself out of the race for attorney general next time and reportedly has taken some contributions for the governor's race. Virtually his only alternative to running is to bow out of active politics.

Durkan had a ready-made involvement which took him temporarily out of the governor's race -- he had to get re-elected state senator from the 47th District. The results of the election and expected legislative organization make him a likely candidate for the nomination. He may well become the strongest Democratic voice in the Senate and in Olympia.

But the factors which favor Durkan's getting nominated do not make him a shoo-in to beat Evans. O'Connell from an administrative position "above" the partisan battle which will shake Olympia, might have a better chance of election if he can win the nomination.

Unless there is a dramatic change in the political patterns, it may be that neither of the leading contenders will run in 1968. O'Connell may change his mind and seek reelection, take an appointment somewhere or simply retire.

Durkan may run for attorney general or wait another four years and build up his senatorial strength. The other two candidates have the least to lose. Neither

Cole nor Munro is considered on his way up politically. And, while neither of them could beat Evans in 1968, they might go after the nomination in hopes of a Democratic resurgence which might sweep them into office. The dramatics personae are the same as in the first act . . . but the dialogue has changed.

Can you believe the month of November? I get my ark almost completed and then the rain stops now I have to go to work on my dog sled.

 Christmas is just around the corner and I hope you have a good start on your Christmas shopping. If you haven't started shopping yet or still have a little to do check this week's Pierce County Herald for some real good ideas. Each year we have a section devoted to Christmas specials and the merchants in Parkland-Spanaway are doing their best to help make your Christmas Season merrier and your shopping easier.

 If you have a minute or two I wish you would stop by our office and see the montage our gal Betty put together. I'm just speechless about it in fact I don't have the slightest idea how to explain it to you. It's a series of pictures cut from magazines and pasted on a board from there on all I can say is that it's hanging on our wall.

 Until next week, good luck on ymur Christmas shopping and I'll see you along Pacific Ave.

Cards Journey To Indian Country

Braves Host Hornets After Splitting Openers

Franklin Pierce's Cardinals, led by reserve Chuck Harris, outpointed the Wilson Rams 17-10 in the final period to eke out a 42-39 non-league win at Pierce last week.

Fighting from behind throughout the game, the Cards rebounded from an early 21-8 deficit to bring the score to 26-21 at intermission. They reeled off 12 straight points during that hot stretch.

In the third period both teams suffered through a cold spell, as Wilson could manage only 3 free throws, and the Cards 2 field goals.

With a little over six minutes left in the game the Cards began to move, and they took the lead when Hadland hit a bucket with 3:44 remaining. After extending their lead to 41-35, they held on in the closing 90 seconds to grab the triumph.

Harris tallied 11 points to lead the Cardinal scoring and also snagged 10 caroms. Glenn Hadland added 9 and Al Bulger 5 to aid the Redbird's cause. Don Gustafson was high for the Rams and the game, as he potted 17 points.

After hosting the Tye Totems last night, the Cardinals journey to Renton Friday night to meet the defending champion Indians.

Braves

After nipping the Sumner Spartans 41-40 in their season opener, Bethel's Braves received a heartbreaking 66-63 setback at the hands of the North Thurston Rams last Saturday.

With nine seconds left, Bethel led the Rams 57-55, but then things turned sour for them. A court-length pass went awry off the fingertips of a Ram player, but a Brave tipped the ball back into play and Grey Emry's 35 footer ripped the twine at the buzzer. In the extra period, North Thurston connected on six straight free throws to nab the win.

The Braves were paced by Walt Brown's 16 points and their cause was also aided by Dean Ketter and Dan Dolfin who each tallied 13.

Bethel will take its 1-1

Knights Hit By Injuries

Tacoma (Special) -- With three starters hampered by injuries, the Pacific Lutheran University hoopsters faced a tough hurdle when they entertained the Central Washington Wildcats here last night at 8 in Memorial Gymnasium. The junior varsity fives of the two schools met in a preliminary tilt at 6 o'clock.

Coach Dean Nicholson's Central five dumped the Lutherans, 89-83, Saturday night at Ellensburg.

PLU freshman Center, Al Kollar, who earned a starting berth by virtue of a 36-point outburst Friday night in the Lutes' 101-93 four over time period loss to Western, injured a thigh muscle against the Vikings and saw limited duty against Central. It is doubtful if he will play at all until Friday when PLU will meet Seattle Pacific in the first round of the daffodil tournament at the University of Puget Sound Fieldhouse. UPS will meet Central Ohio in the other tourney tilt.

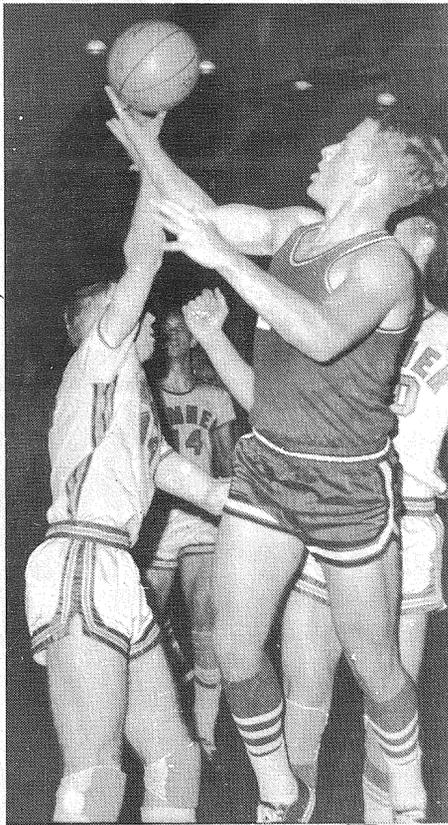

Starting senior guard Al Hedman also injured his leg in the Viking game and will not be at full strength for the Tuesday Central game. Senior forward Doug Leeland dislocated his shoulder in practice last week and will not be ready for play until January.

Coach Gene Lundgaard will probably start seniors Tom Lorentzen and Tim Sherry at forwards, junior Dennis Buchholz at center, senior Mark Andersen at one guard, and sophomores Greg Leeland or Tim Chandler at the other guard if Hedman is not ready.

Despite his injury Kollar scored 7 points in his brief appearance against Central and the freshman ace from Tacoma's Franklin Pierce High leads the Knight scoring parade with an average of 17.5 points in three games.

He set two new free throw records against Western when he hit 15 straight and a total of 16 for 20 in the game. Previous game high was 15, a record held by several Lutes.

He set two new free throw records against Western when he hit 15 straight and a total of 16 for 20 in the game. Previous game high was 15, a record held by several Lutes.

JUMP SHOT. Unidentified Bethel hoopster lets one fly over the tight guarding of Sumner's Marv Wol-ever (44). The Braves eked out a one point victory in season openers for both teams.

Outdoor TIPS AND TALES

STEELHEADING is perseverance.

It's the ability and willingness to work a succession of holes or drifts until you think your arms are going to fall off. It's losing gear time and again on snags in those fishy looking spots without a hit.

It's setting your hook a thousand times, only to find it was a rock that had stopped the downstream progress of your lure along the bottom.

It's being about ready to quit, of setting your hook again, more from habit than anything else, and of suddenly feeling solid, vibrant life on the end of your line as a powerful steelhead starts peeling line off your reel. Steelheading is that complete surprise when a fish does hit, which drives all weariness from you. Then it's the suspense as you battle this gallant fish, knowing that more fish are probably lost at this point than are landed.

And finally, every now and then, steelheading is that great feeling of working a spent fish up onto the beach.

Lakeside Wins Viking Relays

PUYALLUP - The powerful Lakeside mermen captured top spot in 5 of 10 events to win last week's Viking Relays held in the Puyallup pool. Puyallup swimmers made a fine showing by nailing down 3 firsts, but lack of depth prevented them from finishing higher than 3rd.

Results of the relays were Lakeside with 122 points, Mt. Tahoma 98, Puyallup 84, Hoquiam 60 and North Thurston 58.

The four-year-old morning class has scheduled their program for 7:30 that evening. The afternoon four-year-old group will gather at 7:30 Monday evening for their program. All members of the children's families are invited to hear the children sing Christmas carols, recite poems and to view the nativity scene.

Parent Help Sought By FP

Parents of Franklin Pierce District bus riding students will be asked to help enforce school bus regulations by reviewing them with their youngsters, Thomas Stephens, District Business Manager, disclosed last week.

A copy of the rules for conduct on Franklin Pierce buses will be sent home with each student. Failure to comply with the new regulations may result in temporary or permanent withdrawal of bus riding privileges, Stephens stated. We must have the parents cooperation in impressing the importance of the new rules on their children, he said.

The regulations are being published in a booklet entitled, "Rules For Riding School Buses", and cover the students' conduct from waiting for the bus to unloading.
