

This week marks the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, an organization restricted to veterans who have had campaign medal service with American armed forces outside the continental limits of the United States.

Among the many outstanding Americans who are paying tribute to this organization, is General Dwight Eisenhower, himself a veteran of two World Wars, who said:

"On the 50th anniversary of your organization, I extend my congratulations to all of you who are members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Among you are numbered hundreds of thousands with whom I had the honor to serve in two world wars, and our personal ties, consequently, are close.

"But beyond personal affection and respect, your organization demands of me—as of all Americans—continuing support in your campaign for an America, secure against foreign foe, united against internal enemies."

To the words of General Eisenhower, add these:

There is no greater tribute to our gallant dead than service to their comrades. For fifty years the Veterans of Foreign Wars has been paying this homage by helping the living to achieve a full and just measure of the security and opportunity for which so many have given so much.

May the future bring every success to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its 1,500,000 members in 10,000 posts and thousands of auxiliary members across the nation, as they join in renewing their pledge to the nation on this Golden Anniversary.

The week of April 3 to 9 has been designated National VFW Golden Jubilee Week by Governor Arthur B. Langlie. The highlight of the observances in this state will come April 12 in Seattle with the visit of Lyall T. Beggs, national commander.

The national organization had its beginning in Columbus, Ohio, in 1899 when 13 former army privates of the Spanish-American war gathered to form the American Veterans of Foreign Service. Less than a month later, the Colorado Society of the Army of the Philippines was formed. These two organizations merged in 1913 under the name of Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Restricting its membership to veterans with wartime overseas service, the VFW has grown in the past 50 years from a few hundred members to its present national strength of 2,000,000 veterans.

The organization is a comparative newcomer to Washington, however.

The first VFW post in the state was the Ensign John R. Monaghan Post 51 of Spokane, instituted April 13, 1915. Second post was organized on March 18, 1918, under the name of Wild West Post 91 of Tacoma. The first Seattle VFW Post was instituted on August 27, 1918, under the name of Col. Theodore Roosevelt Post 24.

The statewide organization, the Department of Washington, was set up on May 12, 1921, representing the then seven posts in the state.

With the return of World War I veterans, the organization's strength grew from 3,000 in that post-war period to its present strength of over 40,000. The end of World War II multiplied the organization's membership to Washington ten-fold.

Also planning observances for the jubilee event are members of the Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW and

QUARTET BOUT, GARBAGE HIGH ON CG DOCKET

There's much that's important coming up on the slate of Parkland Community club for its next meeting, April 14, Thursday, 8 p.m. in Parkland school auditorium, but significant or not, it likely will yield the spotlight to the heralded "Battle of the Quartets," which will be the evening's program feature.

Next Thursday is the night when the Parkland American Legion post's challenge to the Parkland Volunteer Firemen is to be jousted out, to the full power of vocal chords and havoc of ears. A mysterious prize has been arranged for the victorious four.

Top topic of actual business will be discussion of garbage disposal, with County Commissioner Harry Sprinker to be heard briefly. Principal speaker on the matter will be E. D. Parsons, supervisor of sanitation for Pierce county. He will show films illustrating his talk subject.

Development of a garbage dump for the South End area on Fort Lewis reservation lands, will be further discussed.

As usual, refreshments will follow the business meeting.

ELMER J. BEARD, COMMUNITY LEADER, SUCCEUMBS TUESDAY

Peace in death has capped months of illness for one of Parkland's foremost citizens, Elmer J. Beard, 49, who died at his home here early Tuesday morning, April 5.

Funeral services are to be held this afternoon (April 7) at 1 o'clock from Trinity Lutheran church. The Rev. Ernest B. Steen will deliver the eulogy. Services and cremation will follow under direction of Mountain View mortuary.

Founder of The Prairie Pointer, in September 13, 1945, Mr. Beard operated the Beard Printing company in Parkland until February 1948. Until ill health forced his resignation shortly before his death, he had been acting postmaster here.

Elmer J. Beard

Mr. Beard was born in Brainerd, Minn. He and his father, E. E. Beard, became well known in Western Washington journalism when the elder Beard became publisher of the Columbian at Vancouver, Wash., where Elmer Beard broke into the printing and publishing business, trained by his father in the Columbian shop. The elder Beard later published weekly newspapers in Port Angeles and Olympia, Wash. E. E. Beard died in 1937. His widow preceded her son, Elmer, in death in June, 1948, at Tacoma.

Elmer Beard worked for a time on the Evening News, Port Angeles,

INCORPORATION ISSUE SHORN OF COMPLICATIONS

John Krilich, a citizen of Ruston and deputy prosecuting attorney of Pierce county, Tuesday evening, stripped confusing side issues from the question of city incorporation under the statutes of the state of Washington, to leave members of the Parkland Business club with a clear impression of what incorporation can mean to a community, and what should be looked for in the cost picture.

"Parkland is taking on the semblance of a town in spite of not having an organized town government," is one closing thought Krilich left with the business people. "One thing is certain," he advised, "either incorporate ultimately or, ultimately, the city of Tacoma will have you."

Krilich was introduced to the members of the club as a speaker on the affirmative side of incorporation. In his talk, he showed his own favoring convictions and pointed out all that is to be gained, but he did not neglect to point out also the costs that accompany the gains.

Spanaway P-TA to Elect Officers at Wednesday Meeting

Officer nominees will be submitted for election at Spanaway school Wednesday evening, April 13, when Spanaway P-TA will choose officers for the coming year. All members are urged to attend this regular April meeting.

ALONG THE STREET

Huge boxes of groceries, to be given away free April 15 and 16 to some lucky folk, are on display at four popular South End food markets: Gjoerloff's and Fletcher's, Parkland; Clover Creek, Brodskale, and Bargain Basket, Spanaway.

Myrtle Gets Mileage

Myrtle Mockel, who this week is celebrating the first anniversary of the opening of her popular apparel shop in Parkland Shopping Center, for two weeks recently was a mighty busy traveler about the state. March 11, she entrained for Spokane, accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Oscar Lemons, to visit one week with the family of her daughter, Mrs. Dancil Robertson (Mary Lou Mockel), particularly granddaughter Gertrude. Mrs. Mockel reported her trip through the beautiful snow-mantled Cascade mountains was "simply grand." Snow encountered at Spokane gave her some trying moments while out driving.

Following her return west, Mrs. Mockel went to Aberdeen, Wash., Saturday and Sunday, March 19 and 20, to attend the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKeever, long family friends. Sunday, March 27, she drove to Port Townsend, Wash., to visit her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Blanchard.

Mrs. V. R. Selle was back on the job at Parkland Fuel Oil and Auto Parts this week, following several weeks away due to illness.

Volunteers Needed
FRIDAY TO HELP ON LOCAL FLOAT ENTRY

Twenty thousand bright yellow daffodils Friday morning will be waiting for all who volunteer to put the finishing touches on Parkland's float entry in the 1949 Puyallup Valley Daffodil Festival parade. The work of placing the fresh flowers is expected to take all day and much of the night, Friday, and as many workers as will volunteer will be welcomed, float committee chairman Tom Casto has announced.

The float will be located at Beitz' garage, Airport road and Pacific, for the flower-pinning session. Five thousand more daffodils will be on this year's float than were used for last year's Parkland entry.

Saturday morning, April 9, when the parade forms at 17th and Broadway, Tacoma, Parkland's entry will be No. 8 in line of parade. Floats are to be on the spot at 9 o'clock, with the parade to commence one-half hour later.

This community's float will represent the "Growth of Parkland." The design, created by Mrs. Iver Johnson, will carry out the theme through two "daffodil trees," a large tree and a small one, and two Parkland girls, a tall one and a small one. The charming float princesses, chosen last week by popular vote of residents of the community, are: Ingrid Fynboe (tall one) and Marla Parker (small one).

Chairman Casto expressly urges that all members of his committee be on hand through the Friday flower-pinning session at Beitz' garage, to lend a hand. Final construction work on the float framework is to be completed tonight.

Route of Saturday's parade is: Broadway from So. 17th to 9th, 9th to Pacific avenue, Pacific south to 19th street. The same parade will reform to pass through Puyallup at 12 noon and to go through Summer at 1 p.m.

A military review in honor of Army day will also be held at Fort Lewis—not in Tacoma—at 2 p.m. Saturday.

On Sunday, the festival program will be headlined by the Daffodil Cup ski race, an open giant slalom at Paradise valley, Mount Rainier national park, and by an afternoon parade of decorated power cruisers and a yacht race on Commencement bay between Old Tacoma and the 11th street bridge.

Quill has long been an enthusiastic follower of Pacific Lutheran college athletic teams. In addition to his baseball proficiency, he was quite a football player in his youth, also. He played right end on the 91st division Army football team that went to the Rose Bowl in 1918. For five years, Quill was president of the Tacoma Tigers of the Western International league.

Let's Get Specific

In last week's issue of the Prairie Pointer was printed the sixth of a series of articles intended to give general information regarding procedure and effects of city incorporation. The series included samples of city revenues and expenditures, from which some idea may be gained as to what a city of Parkland might expect.

There is much more to the process of incorporation that should be considered before such step could be taken, principally details of organization and statutory regulations. Time to study them will come if steps toward incorporation are ready to be taken. Before that time, a comprehensive study of Parkland's assets and requirements must be made. All the general information so far put forward must be made specific.

Tuesday evening, the Parkland Business club heard a very able presentation of issues concerned in incorporation, by Pierce county Deputy Prosecutor John Krilich. His talk pointed out that the step is one Parkland should consider now. He cleared away much of the confusion that has marked previous discussion of the matter.

Krilich's offer of the services of his own office and assurance that other county offices will willingly cooperate, opens the way to the kind of close study of Parkland's own situation that should come next. Why not accept his offer? There's nothing to lose by just looking.

Community Loss

Death, this week, of Elmer J. Beard removes from our community a most sincere worker for the welfare of Parkland. Until his health began to fail in late months, he was in the forefront of efforts to improve his community. As founder and editor of The Prairie Pointer, he displayed the too rare courage and unswerving devotion to his beliefs that is the mark of a real newspaperman and the very best type of Christian citizen of a free land.

Liberty has never come from the government. Liberty has always come from the subjects of it. The history of liberty is a history of resistance. The history of liberty is a history of limitations of government power, not the increase of it.

CLOVER CREEK POST NO. 118 AMERICAN LEGION

Meetings every second and fourth Friday at 8:00 p.m. in the Spapaway School

Calling all comrades and ladies of Clover Creek Post 118, American Legion, to attend the regular sessions on Friday, April 8, at 8 p.m. The Post will meet in Scout hall and the ladies at the home of President Irma Long.

Several important goals to be considered are up for discussion. So, come on out! See you next meeting.

April has many issues to study. Among them is Army Day. As an American Legion we wish to invite as many as will to visit Madigan hospital, American Lake hospital and Fort Lewis. April 6-9 are the dates. The slogan, "The U. S. Army—Part of the Team—for Security" offers food for thought as we're always pushing for "security."

Another "pet project" is Child Welfare—and our effort is to give "a square deal to every child." The Legion's ambition is definitely to make our community a good place for all children to live; for these, our children, are our chiefest wealth, indeed—"our jewels." We hear constantly the phrase, "juvenile delinquency." We of the American Legion are convinced that such action is in truth "parental delinquency" and rejoice that King county is rounding up adult offenders, parents, tavern operators and others who are the responsible parties in our "drunken youth" orgies. Come out and let's work for our children. The United States of Tomorrow.

This brings up the question of Communism, which is developing at such rapid rate, by subtly encroaching upon and boring within the American principles of good government, that it behooves us to further our efforts to perpetuate "100 percent Americanism."

PARKLAND POST NO. 228 AMERICAN LEGION

Meetings every second and fourth Friday at 8:00 p.m. in the Sunshine Hall

Tomorrow night is initiation night for the month of April, so all of you guys who have not ridden the goat as yet please find it convenient to come out and submit yourselves to the friends waiting to do the honors. This initiation ceremony will be conducted by our own officers and members and it is hoped that those waiting for this deal will come out and make it successful.

Understand that Woody Cline and Kittelson have got together on the prize for the contest of the quartets at next Thursday's Community club meeting. Getting any information out of either one of them though is an impossibility—and believe you me, I've tried to no avail. Whatever it is, it can naturally be assumed that when two guys get together and start bumping heads the only possible result can be a useless and insignificant article of questionable value. The only redeeming feature is the mysterious air surrounding the whole thing, which lends a spirit of keen competition to the participants—let us hope, whatever the prize may be, that we ever remember the spirit in which it was given. 'Tis said that is the way this sort of thing should be looked at. Speaking of competition, undercover agents of the Legion elite guard report that we don't have much to worry about from the firemen's aggregation.

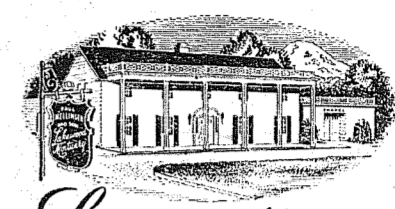

This is just a passing thought, but was wondering whether Walt Young could use the post quartet in the stumping campaign he is so engrossed in at the present time. We might—I repeat—we might be

Pierce County Is Trailing in Sale Of Easter Seals

Spokane county is way ahead of Pierce county in contributions to the Easter Seal campaign, Mrs. John C. Long, Easter Seal chairman for Pierce county, reports.

At the halfway mark in the campaign, Spokane reported $12,000. Only $5,000 had been contributed in Pierce county, although Pierce county boasts a slightly higher population.

This will make a material difference in the amount of help coming to the crippled children and adults of Pierce county during the coming year unless a sudden spurt in contributions is seen during the final two weeks of the campaign.

Contributions are being sent to Joseph E. Hawthorne, Honorary Treasurer, c/o Puget Sound National Bank, Tacoma.

Pacific Lutheran college has made application for permission to grant both elementary and secondary teaching degrees.

Heretofore, PLC has granted only elementary certificates. However, an act passed by the state legislature this year gave permission to state schools to give both elementary and high school degrees, and paved the way for private schools to do likewise.

Pacific Lutheran's application was filed Saturday with the state board of education by Registrar Philip E. Hauge. The local college has been turning out teachers on the elementary-junior high school level since 1926.

New Recreation Center Opening Here This Week

Formal opening of Parkland Recreation Center, a new place of amusement for this area, will take place this week end, it is announced by manager Allen Buck. The Center will feature such games of skill and amusement as billiards, English billiards, pocket billiards and shuffleboard.

A sandwich bar, where sandwiches, soft drinks, ice cream and candy will be available, is incorporated into the arrangement of the building.

After completing his education, Buck came to this area from Virginia, Minnesota. He has been manager of a recreation center at Ortling, Wash., for the past year and one-half. Desiring to have his own business, he picked the Parkland location in belief Parkland offers a good future. He is now a resident of the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck invite all to stop in and get acquainted. The new Center will be open from noon daily, including Sundays.

CUB PACK MEETS

Surprise entertainment is promised parents who turn out Friday evening at Metropolitan Recreation hall for the meeting of Spanaway Cub Scout Pack 34. There will also be discussion of plans for a trip to Ocean Beach in the near future. Refreshments will be served.

Global Timekeeper

Many and varied are the functions of the century-old U. S. Naval Observatory in Washington, D. C., but principal among them is that of timekeeper for the nation and its ships at sea. Elegant and pretty patterns from top Paris designers are available to us now. And with the new collection of spring patterns, you will find great emphasis placed on accessories. The one-color theme will apparently be popular . . . beige silk shantung is shown with gloves of the same color, a deeper beige scarf and natural color straw pumps. Sky-blue sandals accompany a sky-blue and white dotted swiss dress with a white straw bonnet trimmed with blue cornflowers. Pink satin pumps add charm to a pure silk dress with a plunging neckline . . . light pink . . . and a pale pink hat of the same material, trimmed with a gray silk scarf which loops around the chin and buttons on the opposite side of the brim. * * *

Most of us have best and second best possessions . . . Best dress for church, second best for dinner and the movies with your husband's relatives. Best dishes for company, best silver. It's true that your good dishes may chip or break, but did you know that your sterling improves with use? That's true . . . it gets more beautiful the longer it's used. With daily use, it acquires a lovely soft lustre . . . and it won't tarnish. * * *

Seldom do our conservative husbands get a chance to display new styles in suits or hats or coats. Their fashions don't change the way ours do. Poor dears get a new necktie now and then or fancy socks . . . a touch of color to brighten the customary grays and browns and blues. We have a much better time with fashion . . . letting down hems, adding bustles to skirts, cutting our hair off, wearing pale blue stockings. We have almost TOO much choice. When we go downtown to pick out a new suit or dress or pair of shoes . . . even if we know what we want . . . we can be led astray by the wide selection of attractive things. How many times have you come home with a print dress when you firmly intended to buy a basic navy blue . . . with red sandals when you were sure you'd choose black suede? Not so with the man of the house. He marches straight to the store he has confidence in, asks for a gray suit and generally takes the first one he tries on. He never knows the pleasing bewilderment of dozens of styles and colors. However, here is a note of cheer for him. There is news in shoes. It's brushed leather. Brushed leather is reversed leather . . . similar in appearance to what women call suede. Oxfords and loafers are available now in a medium gray, soft, dark brown and combedore or midnight blue. These shoes are suitable for street, office and casual wear. And they require no shining and polishing! Just a

PARK COUNCIL STUDIES ACTS

COUNTY LANDS MAY BECOME AVAILABLE

Meeting March 30 at Parkland school, Parkland Recreation council heard discussion of pieces of enabling legislation pertaining to parks which were passed by the recent state legislature. State Representative Gordon J. Brown was present with amended copies of the two acts. After comparing them, he recommended close study by the council to determine which, if either, it would be best for the council to act under.

One of the measures, amends previous authorization for operation of recreation facilities by metropolitan districts to enable school districts to maintain rural parks and playgrounds. The other act authorizes creation of county park boards, acting under the county commissioners, to acquire and maintain rural parks and park facilities. The council decided to ask Tom Lantz, Tacoma recreation commission superintendent, to appear at a meeting in the near future and give more information on the county board measure.

Mrs. Al Seaman, recreation council chairman, informed the group that County Commissioner Harry Sprinker has advised of unencumbered county-owned lands in Parkland which might be made available for recreation development. It was a thought that certain lots in the Tule Lake road section could be converted by volunteer local effort to softball fields, etc., for use this summer. The lots concerned had been used for county gravel storage, but Sprinker indicated to Mrs. Seaman his feeling that such storage depots should be discontinued in residential areas.

Commissioner Sprinker was prevented from attending last week's recreation council session here by official duties which called him to Eastern Washington. It is hoped to have him present at a meeting in the near future, also.

An offer, submitted for Franklin Pierce School District 402 by Superintendent of School Morris E. Ford, to make available a portion of the new 60-acre high school site for development for baseball and similar activities, was not considered favorably by the local recreation council. It was felt that efforts should be applied to locations nearer Parkland. Ford advised that purchase of the high school site will be completed by the school board, regardless of state action on financing construction of the school. Any group of residents of the school district may have the use of the part made available (adjoining Knapp road), he said, but no exclusive use can be granted. The school board would retain full control of reservation schedules, he advised.

whisk of a brush and they're well groomed. This means that a man can be fashionable and lazy at the same time! Brushed leather is apparently going to be popular this season and according to indications, you'll see plenty walking this coming fall.

BUNYANS HOLDING ON TO RIFLE LOOP SPOT

Two tough weeks, shooting against the top teams of the loop, dropped Paul Bunyan Rifle and Sportsmen's club back to sixth spot in Mt. Rainier Rifle league standings. But, last week the Bunyans got back on the winning side with their best total to date, an 1839 score against 1775 by the Sumner Rifles. The Bunyans have two matches yet to go, to complete league competition for the season and expect to retain their present ranking as top tyro team.

This Saturday, April 9, the Bunyan club members will turn proceeds of their regular Midland dance session to benefit of the Pt. Defiance pavilion rifle range.

Newspapers depended upon the chance arrival of private letters as sources of news during the Revolutionary War.

Inspect Wells Now, Urges Health Dept.

Well owners, particularly those in areas experiencing heavy run-off of spring snowmelt and with heavy spring rainfall are reminded this week by the Washington State Department of Health to check the safety of well-water supplies against pollution.

According to the engineering division of the State Health Department, after the past winter of heavy precipitation all property owners with individual wells should check for accumulations of water near well sites. Ponding of surface water or rain water near wells may result in rapid seepage of contamination into the source of supply.

All dug, driven and drilled wells, say Health Department engineers, should have locations checked to make sure ground surfaces at the tops of the wells are graded so that they slope away from the wells. Shallow wells particularly should be checked at this time for contamination.

At the signs of sediment in the water supply overflow of wells, interruption of the water supply or any other indication that there is a possibility of pollution, well owners are urged to contact their nearest local health department for a test of well water.

Cold, clear, sparkling water is no guarantee of safe drinking water. The presence of disease producing germs and other objectionable material in a water supply can only be absolutely detected by examination in the laboratory of a water sample. The Washington State Department of Health should be requested for a sanitary survey and bacteriological examination as a positive check on the quality of water.

The State Health Department advises the well owner himself to check at this time of the year, a number of points.

Water-tight construction of the cover is important in all types of wells.

In the case of dug wells, the casing should be closely inspected for porous qualities that may be permitting seepage into the shaft.

Drilled wells should have the hole around the top at the surface of the ground checked to insure that there is no seepage down along the steel shaft.

Driven wells should be checked for leaks at the joints in the drive pipe which extends down to the source of supply. So-called older model "pitcher pumps" for this type and older wells with open spouts may cause pollution through pump leakage. Packing seals at the pumps should be checked to ascertain that an absolutely tight connection is not allowing anything to enter.

The nearest health department will answer inquiries regarding well pollution or construction of new wells.

PLC Carnival Set For This Week End

Six tents have been erected, the program is all set, and Pacific Lutheran College students are now building booths of all types, as the student body prepares for the annual Saga Carnival, set for this Friday and Saturday night, starting at 7 p.m.

This is the first time since before the war that the carnival has been a two-night affair. Friday will be students' night, and Saturday will be children's and Parklanders' night. Two complete programs will be presented each night in the Student Union.

The midway will consist of over 20 attractions, including everything from bingo and smorgasbord booth to a house of horror and "the big splash." All proceeds will go to the Saga, PLC yearbook.

A feature of the carnival will be the crowning of the Saga king and queen by Stanley Willis, principal of Parkland school. Students voted Tuesday and Wednesday for their choices, narrowing the field down to Don Pedersen and Blaine McKanna for king and Patricia Bleasner and Mary Ann Wick for queen. Final results won't be revealed until Friday night.

Pierce P-TA Council Date Set Back Week

Pierce County Council of P-TA will convene at Puyallup April 14, instead of the originally announced April 7 date. The change is made to avoid conflict with the Daffodil festival.

This will be the last council session of the current school year and Mrs. W. W. Cline, Parkland P-TA president, strongly urges members of the Parkland association to be present so that the attendance trophy may be captured for the summer months.

Transportation to Puyallup will be furnished by school bus, leaving Parkland school at 9:15 a.m. A nursery for pre-school children will be provided.

Principal item of business will be election of officers who will head the county council during the next two years. Luncheon will be served, followed by the afternoon program under direction of the social and mental hygiene chairman. The film, "Human Growth," will be shown.

FOOD SALE WEDNESDAY
 A food sale, sponsored by the Ladies Aid of Trinity Lutheran church, will be held Wednesday, April 13, in the Parkland Light and Water building, starting at 1 p.m. All kinds of home-made bakery goods, including lefse, will be on sale.
