

We appreciate the splendid poem sent in by Thora Browning, Box 269D, Route 13. We hope you'll enjoy reading it as much as we did. The poem is printed below:

PRAIRIE POINTER

Welcome, Prairie Pointer. We've often wished we could say, "Oh, yes, we have a paper." And now you've come to stay.

We have some thoughts regarding you. Which we would like to state. We know that you faithfully. The news to us relate.

And if you continue to fill your pages. With things that we should see. Why, then, the Prairie Pointer Will in every household be.

Thus, when every Thursday's mail-call comes, We'll gather at the gate, To read the Prairie's Weekly, The finest in the state.

Welcome, Prairie Pointer, Once again we say. We're glad you've come to join us, And we know you're here to stay. —Thora Browning

Arthur Wright, that well-known bricklayer who lives out in the Spanaway balliwick, came in the Pointer office the first of the week to get his name on the subscription list. Art is taking this week off from work to loaf a bit after not missing a day for the past three years.

2,777 miles of sightseeing and vacation was the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bartley and family. The Bartleys returned last Tuesday from a two weeks tour to California. Bob, who owns Bob's garage on Sales Road, reported a pleasant trip—except for one thing, they just couldn't find any sleeping accommodations. The cabins and hotels were all filled to capacity.

We have learned that Rev. Martin has been named as the new minister of the Spanaway Community Church.

Harry Critchley of Route 13 deserves some kind of a medal as a good Samaritan. The other night, as it was getting dark, some serviceman's car had a tire blow-out in front of his house. The soldier didn't have any tire tools, so Mr. Critchley spent about an hour or so helping the unfortunate lad out.

Mac McCann, partner at the Bargain Basket Center at Spanaway, found out that selling groceries is much easier than sanding sheet rock walls and it isn't nearly as dusty. In making our rounds at Spanaway, we noticed he was plenty busy after working hours at the store doing the sanding job in the new home of Mrs. Stella Gillum.

Al Jordan, who is in charge of 17 German prisoners at Fort Lewis, suffered a painful injury Tuesday afternoon. He was in Tacoma unloading some paint when a five-gallon can fell on his ankle. He was taken to the hospital where an X-Ray revealed broken bones. Al has lived in the South End for over a year. At the present time, he and his family are occupying an apartment over the Bug in Parkland.

Gus Gullberg, who operates greenhouses at Allison Road and A Street, Parkland, and his neighbor, Werner Stay, were out resetting their mail boxes Monday. As near as can be surmised, some Saturday night driver couldn't manage his car up around their corner. Gus found his mail box 20 feet over in one field and Stay is still looking for his. Mr. Gullberg offers to return part of an automobile which was left on the scene if the owner will call for it.

Young, five and a half year old Rosemary Trail was all smiles when her grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Packard, purchased a package of gum for her at a local grocery store. "She surely is sweet to me," said Rosemary.

Midland and Parkland to Get Their Own Water Supply

MIDLAND TO BID FOR OWN WATER WELL

MEMBERS OF MUTUAL FIRM TO SPEND $30,000

The South East Tacoma Mutual Water Company has taken official action and advertised for bids for some one to dig a deep water well in the Midland community.

The 875 members of the Midland mutual-owned water company took steps to supply their own water needs when Tacoma hiked the water rates.

Members of this organization voted a budget of $6,000.00 to make the initial water well test. If proper results are secured, the company will probably spend between $30,000 and $40,000 to get its own water plant.

According to A. P. Easton, manager-treasurer of the firm, the City of Tacoma, which supplies the Midland community with their water, hiked the rates 330 per cent on the first of March. Mr. Easton stated that the rates skyrocketed to that figure without any explanation. When no reason was given or any action made by Tacoma to reduce that per centage figure, the residents of Midland held their group meeting and took steps to construct their own water system.

Under the present set-up, the Midland company buys their water from Tacoma and then distributes it to their individual members.

Mr. Easton, in speaking of rate increase, mentioned that the company has paid the city of Tacoma the same price for water for the past 18 years when the rate increase was announced.

The Midland company is anxious to get the first test well started. If the first test is satisfactory, then a move will be made to dig several more in order to insure a substantial water supply for the Midland consumers.

Carl Taylor is president of the Midland association.

17 PATROLMEN ARE SELECTED AT PARKLAND

At a school assembly Friday, seventeen students were sworn in as officers of the Parkland School Safety Patrol by Officer Paul Pattison of the Washington State Patrol. For the first time, Captain Winton Victor has girl members on his squad. Wilma Chapman, Marian Myers, Ethel Girt, Betty Turner and June Lavine have set a precedent as the first girls to be on the Parkland school patrol. Other members are: Lieutenants Dexter Washburn, Dale Carroll, Weldon Swanson and Alvah Scott and Patrolmen Carl Anderson, Bill Cooper, Ronnie Colwell, Dick Rounner, Alan Ahrens, John Younce and Cliff Simonsen.

Members of the patrol pledged to work for the safety of the pupils of the school as they would work for their own safety and the safety of their families and friends; to try to protect themselves and those with whom they come in contact from the risk of unnecessary chances; to keep themselves clean, morally, mentally and physically, by being honest, trustworthy, loyal, helpful, obedient and brave; and to do their part in helping reduce the number of accidents during this year and by their example to try to make Parkland School a model one for safety.

In his talk to the student body, Officer Pattison outlined the new rules for bicycles passed by the Washington State Patrol. He stated that all bicycles must pass a safety inspection and must be equipped with 3-inch reflectors, fenders, hand grips that are glued on and a chain tight enough to avoid slipping. Rules for riding on the roads are the same as for automobiles. Hand signals should be used and slow vehicles must move aside for faster traffic. He stated that bicycles improperly equipped will be impounded and bikers infringing on the rules will have their bicycles picked up by the State Patrol and it will be necessary for parents to go down to the Highway Patrol to get them back.

P. L. C. FILLED TO CAPACITY

TOTAL OF 208 FULL TIME STUDENTS ENROLL FOR 1945-1946 SEASON

The enrollment at Pacific Lutheran College has reached the 208 mark, with more young people living in the dormitories than at any time during the history of the college.

Dr. S. C. Eastvold, president of P. L. C., announced that this year's enrollment topped last year's registration by 36 students. Last year, 172 students were enrolled at P. L. C. and two years ago the number of full time students totaled only 144.

Dr. Eastvold announced that the Board of Trustees will meet on October 17 to consider the college expansion program. At that time, the college president will recommend that the school immediately proceed to set up three new buildings on the college campus.

The new buildings will include a science hall, a dormitory, and a gymnasium.

While all these programs of expansion are tentative and there are certain contingencies which are necessary to the program, it is believed that the Board of Trustees will consider favorably the recommendation of the president and business manager of the college.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hoheim, Rt. 13, Box 227, Tacoma, and son Freddie, are happy at the return of Jack Hoheim, naval air technician, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hoheim, from Baha, Brazil. Jack's arrival was especially thrilling to his wife and year-old daughter whom he had never seen. Gone a year on a government assignment, Jack is now working in Seattle at the air traffic control tower at Boeing Field until he is reassigned.

In July, the Hoheims were visited by their daughter Shirley, wife of Major Bert Hartzell, air inspector over instruction of navigation. Major Hartzell was transferred from Tampa, Florida to St. Joseph, Missouri. Major and Mrs. Hartzell were accompanied by their small daughters.

Midland Leader

REIN KEHLE

As chief of the Harvard-Midland-Larchmont fire department, Rein Kehle has been one of the hardest workers to bring about a successful three-day celebration being staged by that organization at Midland this week-end. This affair starts with a Keeno Carnival Friday night, with some mighty valuable prizes offered. Then Saturday night there's the first annual Fireman's Ball that promises to be one of the biggest dances in the history of the Prairie section. Drawing the attention of many is the awarding of an electric range and other prizes during the evening. Movies will be made of the grand march. On Sunday afternoon comes the fire department's open house which will feature fire-fighting demonstrations. Everyone is not only invited but urged to attend any or all of these big events.

NAMES MUST BE TURNED IN MONDAY A. M.

An S.O.S. has been sent out by Carl Anderson, president of the Parkland Community Club, that all team workers turn in their petition lists by Monday morning. The signature solicitors are asked to leave them at Anderson's Grocery Store or at Bietz Corner.

The petitions contained the names of qualified Parkland voters who are seeking a fire district for this territory. Approximately 360 signatures are needed.

Mr. Anderson stated that he felt that the needed amount of signatures had been secured and that he is appealing to all the 20 team workers to turn them in by Monday.

After the petitions are in they will be taken to the county clerk for certification. Then the appeal of the Parkland voters will go before the Pierce County Commissioners for action. It is the latter body that will decide whether an election will be held.

The election must be held prior to May 1, 1946, in order that next year's taxes can be collected and used in the fire district budget. Tentative plans call for approximately $4,000 in annual taxes which will be used to purchase better fire fighting equipment and provide centralized quarters for the Parkland department.

JAMES MCGUIRE CIVILIAN

Pfc James McGuire, who returned this summer from Germany where he had been for months in a prisoner of war camp, received his discharge from the army Tuesday morning at Fort Lewis. Big Increase in Water Rate Forces Midland Residents to Dig Own Well

We became well acquainted with a large city banker whose philosophy it was to assist the small community towns to get as many manufacturing firms and business houses as possible.

As head of the biggest of three banks in town, his city interests kept him plenty active but never too busy to work with other business leaders through the Chamber of Commerce and city service clubs. They went out into the small towns and assisted them with their problems.

This banker firmly believed that anything he could do for the communities within a radius of 50 and 60 miles would be a job well done for his city. In other words, he well knew that any increase in revenue for the small communities would eventually land in his big city.

It surely is sound philosophy. It is good business practice.

We wonder whether the city dads in Tacoma shouldn't accept that same kind of philosophy.

We can't understand why they should, without any reason according to A. P. Easton, treasurer-manager of the South East Tacoma Mutual Water Company, increase their rates on water which is being consumed by Midland residents to amount to 330 per cent.

Just think, 330 per cent in one jump. It is outrageous.

As a result, the members of the Midland Mutual Company, who have been buying their water from the city of Tacoma for 18 years, are forced to make plans to drill their own water wells to supply the needs of their 875 members.

Let's take for granted that the cost of production has increased, and it probably has. But there is no reason for Tacoma to hike their cost over 300 per cent at one pop.

It brings us back to the banker's philosophy. Tacoma will never grow bigger or faster than its many small communities. And, figuratively speaking, the communities will never grow bigger and faster than what Tacoma will help.

Surely Midland residents are none too happy about the deal they are getting. Undoubtedly they are not getting any help from downtown business heads who are anxious to see the community grow.

Some one, and by that we mean quite a few progressive business men in Tacoma, had better wake up and take stock of what is happening in the business circles of their small communities.

After all, business booms in Midland, Parkland, Brookdale and Spanaway mean bigger business for Tacoma.

The church is the mother of all humanity. In the dawn of civilization she cradled humankind and became the benefactor of the weak. Under her protection womanhood has been freed from social slavery and given freedom. Through her beneficence hospitals have been erected and schools founded. This mother of humanity knows no race. Expansive with affection she seeks to bring all men, of every race, into the common fold. All this finds in the church; but there is still something greater. For, at her altar, she offers to a hungry humanity, "THE CHRIST." Attend it and take your place among reverent worshippers every Sunday.

The congregational meeting will be held on Friday, October 5, at 8 p. m. Purpose of the special meeting is to hear the report of committee to make recommendations for calling a successor.

Confirmation classes will meet again on Saturday morning, at 9:30.

Members who have been added to our church rolls include: Mrs. Esther Jacobs, Dr. and Mrs. O. M. Jordahl, Eric and Peter Jordahl, J. N. Reed, and Miss Dorothy Satterlie.

The flowers to decorate the church last Sunday were provided by Mrs. William Storassli.

We invite the men of this community to visit these Brotherhood meetings held every fourth Tuesday evening of the month and get acquainted with this fine group of men. You'll be very welcome.

LAND OF APPLES

BY MRS. AL JORDAN

Saturday afternoon at 2:00 my husband, Al to his friends, came home unexpectedly from Ft. Lewis. Of course I was pleasantly surprised to see him, but at the moment, had no idea of what it was to mean. "Grab a few belongings," he said, "and let's go for a trip for the weekend." Well, like a dutiful and obedient wife, I grabbed, but like a typical woman, not without asking "what to wear?" By 4:00 the question had been satisfactorily settled, and our 7-year-old daughter, Kayleen, and I were ready to leave; for parts unknown to us at that time. By the time we reached Seattle, Al had broken down and told us we were going to the Wenatchee Valley where the Apples (note the capital A) grow. Of course, we were very excited, as we had never been privileged to see many apple trees, much less great orchards of them.

We took the Snoqualmie Pass route and although we had been over this particular pass twice before, its majestic beauty still gave us a thrill. It was not so late in the day, but the mountains made it seem much later as they practically hid the sunlight. The shadows on the lake at the foot of the pass looked as though someone had taken a great brush filled with black paint and made swaths across the water. The scenery was something to make a mere human seem insignificant.

By the time we reached Blewett Pass it was too dark to see much except the hairpin curves in the road, and to someone reared on the Texas prairies, they were really curves. We arrived in Cashmere, just out of Wenatchee, about 8:30, and ate in a little place called "Shipley's." Then, we started out to find a cabin in which to spend the night. We drove through three towns looking for a hotel room or just anyplace to sleep, but not one empty room could we find. Finally, at 11:00, we decided it was no use, so we just pulled over to the side of the road and went to sleep. About 1:00 a. m. I was awakened by a light shining in the window, and footsteps approached our car. A little frightened, I woke Al, and at that moment someone knocked on the window. We could see a silver star shining in the light; a Highway Patrolman! Well, being law-abiding citizens, we weren't too worried when we saw who it was, so Al rolled down the window to see what he wanted. He asked what we were doing parked there, and Al told him the predicament we were in. The patrolman said it was the apple-pickers who were occupying all the available rooms, and it would be all right for us to stay there. Kayleen had a blanket and was fairly comfortable on the back seat, but have you ever tried to sleep in a Tudor sedan, in the front seat? We slept, off and on, until 7:30, however, and when we awakened, I was looking at a big red apple on the tree under which we were parked. It was the first of millions which we saw that day.

After eating breakfast, we drove around in the Valley, and looked at the orchards. I never thought to see so many apples in all my life. The limbs were so heavy with fruit they had been propped up with large poles. There was every kind of apple you could think of in those orchards. Golden Delicious, Johnathan, Red Delicious, and some names we didn't know. We got a few of each kind, but they were really not ready to pick. The owner said it would be a week before the apples would be sweet.

The Wenatchee Valley is truly a wonderful sight, with the river running through it and the orchards filled with red and yellow fruit showing against the green of the trees. We drove for awhile, admiring the country, and exploring out of the way places. Then, to Kayleen's disappointment, we started back to Parkland. This time we took the Stevens Pass, and, if possible, it was even more beautiful than the Snoqualmie Pass. Autumn had started its work on the trees and shrubs along the highway, and the variety of colors was a joy to behold. Kayleen and I just had to stop and get a few of the autumn leaves.

Driving along the Wenatchee River, we found a place to stop by the side of the road, and clambered down to the river. There, we found a miniature beach about six feet long and four feet wide, so Kayleen and I built a sand castle while Al looked for a place to fish. It was a lovely place, but after all, we had to come home sometime, so, after taking a few pictures, we set out again for home. The trip back was uneventful, except for many appreciative exclamations over the scenery and of the wonderful time we had.

Let me leave you with this thought, that if you really want to appreciate your bed at home just spend one night trying to sleep in a car. In spite of it though, not one of us three would have missed our trip to the land of the Apples, even had we known of the hectic night we were to spend.

Fowler Family Holds Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fowler of Spanaway had a big family reunion last Sunday, the occasion for the event being that their son, Bill, chief specialist in the navy in charge of athletics on the Hawaiian Islands, came back to the States after an absence of three years. He was discharged from the navy after his arrival in the States.

Bill, well known on the Prairie, graduated from Lincoln high school in 1927 and then attended P. L. C. where he starred in football.

While in the islands, Bill coached the navy baseball clubs that won the championship for the past two years.

The family reunion was held in the old Fowler homestead that was built in 1888.

Guests for the reunion included the following Fowler children:

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fitts (nee Dorothy Fowler), and daughter, Margo Lee, Tacoma; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Pease (nee Mary Fowler) and daughters, Mary Lou and Dorothy Jean, of South Tacoma; and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Fowler and daughter, Rosalie, of Spanaway.

After the reunion Bill and his wife left for Yakima where they will make their home. There, for the first time in three years, he saw his two daughters, Mary Lou and Kathryn.

Newspaper Week Proclamation

OLYMPIA—(UP)— Gov. Mon C. Wallgren Tuesday proclaimed Oct. 1-8 as newspaper week.

"The newspapers have taken an aggressive and active part," Wallgren said, "in the shaping of American social and political institutions. They have given the public impartial and unbiased accounts of ever-changing world events and have kept us fully informed of all that has happened throughout the war."

"Through their world-wide facilities and by the aid of man's inventive genius the news and photographs from far-flung engagements were brought to us within a matter of minutes and hours. The week beginning Oct. 1 has been set aside as national newspaper week and newspapers throughout the state and nation will take part in this observance."

D. D. T., Miracle Insecticide is Now Available Locally

D. D. T., the marvelous new miracle product, is at last available to the general public in three principal forms; namely, dusting powder, as an oil spray and as a spray powder to be mixed with water. Varying conditions warrant the use of these three types.

In the steadfast pursuance against the havoc of disease and contagion wrought by the insect family, D-D-T promises a winning battle in the future. The deadly consequence of these threats to a healthy world are at long last realized. This remarkable discovery will revise the entire system of insect control.

D-D-T was used with wonderful success in combating disease throughout World War II, in heavily infested areas in the Pacific. Many lives were saved due to the unequalled potentiality of D-D-T.

The Avenue Feed Store, 96th and Pacific, received a supply this week and is advertising it in this issue of the Prairie Pointer.

SPORT FANS READY FOR ACTION

Record turnouts at some of the nation's bigtime football is evidence that the postwar sports program will continue where it left off prior to Pearl Harbor.

Good football games, a close baseball game, and an exciting basketball game will always attract big crowds. Probably the average sport fans are eager to get "back" to the game much faster than most of the bigtime sports promoters predicted.

Not only are the fans anxious to get back to the games, but we know a lot of bigtime athletes who are all set to carry on where they left off.

In making our rounds at the Medical Training Section at Fort Lewis, we have become acquainted with many sport notables.

Take the case of Robert Kahler, a trainee who spends many hours taking basic medical training. Kahler, if you do not happen to remember, was all-American backfield man for the University of Nebraska. He played in the Rose Bowl for three years. Then he went to pro ball and played three years with the Green Bay Packers. He's a swell guy and you can count on him making the headlines when he returns to the game. He can really boot the pigskin. We saw him kick the ball downfield 65 and 70 yards.

Then there is Lou Thesz, the former worlds champ wrestler. You can't find a better fellow than Lou Thesz. All the fellows in the company like him. By being around him, you would never guess that he was a great sports figure. He trains faithfully and works and works to maintain a good physical condition. He wants to get back in bigtime wrestling as soon as he gets out.

Another soldier that we became acquainted with is Dick Bassi, former all-American guard. Dick is coaching the Fort Lewis Medics. The Medics won the Northwest Service crown last year and they are out to repeat this season.

Dick has a 4-year-old son that he is anxious to get back to and help get started on the right track in football circles.

Kahler, Thesz, Bassi and thousands of other sport aces are anxious to get back to their first love—sports.

And their participation, after these years of absences, will add a lot of color to the game.

SUMP HOLE

By
Cpl. ROBERT FOSTER
Fort Lewis, Wash.

The factory owner read the petition carefully. When he was through, he laid the paper on the desk and looked at me. "You think I'm a pompous ass, don't you?" he bluntly asked. I felt my face flush and I didn't look him directly in the eyes. "No," I said, shaking my head.

"This paper," he remarked casually, "is very interesting." Taking the petition I had given him to sign, he shoved it across the desk towards me. "Why do you want me to sign it?"

"Everything's down there in black and white," I said a little caustically.

"Is it?" he asked. He swung around in his chair and looked out of the window. "I don't think so," he said, answering his own question.

He made no effort to continue the conversation but kept his face toward the window. I couldn't refrain from studying him as he sat there. His features were those of a heavy man, but the sagging lines beneath his eyes seemed to be more from fatigue than obesity. There was an expression of sensitivity about him that made me uncomfortable. As he said nothing more, I thought his silence was a dismissal. I picked up the petition and started to rise, but he swung around, faced me again.

"You're thinking I'm difficult to approach, is that it?" he asked. I shrugged.

"I have a daughter," he said. "I'm quite proud of her." His eyes brightened. "She's 20 now. . . . But you can't see what that has to do with my not signing the petition."

I didn't say anything. "You came here believing I would jump at the chance to sign your paper. Good for my business. . . . put me on the right side of the right people. Young man, my business could go to ruin and I'd never sign your paper." He studied me closely for a few moments. "You don't believe that, do you?"

When I didn't answer he turned away. "I have a daughter," he repeated. "When she was six years old her mother and I took her on a picnic. While I was catching a nap, she wandered away. Her mother was busy. Those things happen," he said defensively.

"I know," I said. "No," he said, "you don't. You're so filled with what you think is the importance of your own work you don't know the difference between sentiment and reality." He paused reflectively. "The first warning we had that anything was wrong was when we heard our daughter screaming. Her mother and I rushed to the place where the screams seemed to be coming from. Our daughter had fallen into a sump hole. We saw a man jump into the water and grab her. That man couldn't swim, but he held her above the water by treading his feet. I was able to rescue them both in a short time, but if it hadn't been for that man I wouldn't have enjoyed celebrating my daughter's 20th birthday with her last week."

He looked at me strangely. "That man was a Negro." I picked up the petition and placed it in my pocket. "That paper," he said, wagging his finger as I buttoned my pocket, "asks me to refuse to hire any colored people at this plant. That petition is the dirtiest piece of slander I've seen in a long time. It's an insult to intelligent thinking people. You're prejudiced with me now because you think I'm taking this personally. Perhaps I am. Because that paper you have there is nothing but another sump hole. . . . a sump hole of fascist-inspired racial prejudice, and every name on that list is floundering in the muck of his own stupidity."

I stood up then but he didn't acknowledge my movement. "I wonder," he mused, "just who in hell is going to pull them out of their sump hole?"

Lead is found generally throughout the world.

71st Birthday for Graham Lady

On Sunday, September 16, Mrs. Hanna Truitt celebrated her 71st birthday with a family dinner at her home at R1, Graham. All of her seven children were present for the occasion, this being the first time in over 30 years they were all able to gather at the family home at the same time.

Coming up from California for the occasion were a daughter, Della, and a son, Arthur. Other children present were daughters Effie and her husband, M. C. Heath of Tacoma; Ruth, and her husband, Jake Ziegler and daughter Marlene of Parkland; and Alice and her husband, Lambert Dlouhy, of Seattle. Two other sons and their families present were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Truitt and daughters Donna and Ann of Tacoma and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Truitt of Mineral.

After dinner a most delightful time was had by their mother in opening the many lovely gifts presented to her.

During the afternoon friends

TWO-COLOR EYES

Mr. and Mrs. Val Cookson of Parkland have a kitty that has two different color eyes—one is blue and the other is brown.

Recently the cat caught a live pheasant—a dish that came in handy for the Cooksons during meat rationing.

and relatives who called to wish "many happy returns of the day" were Mrs. W. T. Stidham and Mrs. John Vitovich of Eatonville, Mr. and Mrs. John Cope of Tacoma, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Matthews of Tacoma, Mrs. Alice Kinsman of Loveland, and Mr. and Mrs. Thorne Tibbits and sons, Dale and Thorne, also of Loveland.

Mrs. Truitt was born at Benton, Wash., Pierce Co., across the street from where the Benton school house now stands; although the house she was born in no longer remains. She has been a life long resident of the community, living in the present home over 40 years. Many old timers will remember her father "Grandpa Matthews" and his oxen team he used for plowing. Other familiar sights in those days were the wearing of wooden shoes which were hand carved. Also homespun yarn made on the spinning wheel Mrs. Truitt now cherishes as a keepsake.

FIREMEN CALLED TO CHIMNEY FIRE

The Parkland volunteer fire department made a quick run to Brookdale last Friday evening at 5:50 o'clock, and stood by while a chimney burned out. The fire occurred at the Neil Thomas home near Brookdale golf course. Fritz Beitz, assistant chief, reported that no damage was done to the house.

Home Town Notes

From all Points in the U. S.

Beverly Hills, Cal.—Carol Tisher, who was sentenced to 15 days in the jug for drunken driving, didn't show up at the jail. "I can't," he wrote from the city jail at nearby Van Nuys, "I'm serving 30 days here for disturbing the peace."

Chicago—Burglars broke into police headquarters here, cracked a safe, and made off with hundreds of envelopes containing evidence to be used in pending criminal cases. In their haste, however, they neglected an envelope containing $200,000.

Detroit—Men's shorts are so hard to get in Detroit that male customers are buying ladies panties at department stores.

Kansas City—Joe Infogield, a restless sleeper, got his head wedged between the bars of his bed. His wife, mother-in-law, a neighbor and two cops finally freed him with a hack saw.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Dave Everett struck a bargain with his divorced wife. She could have $700, all their furniture and $80 a month, he agreed, if he could keep the telephone.

New Rochelle, N. Y.—Thomas Paine, denied the right to vote in New Rochelle in 1806 by local citizens, at last has won his citizenship back in this town. New Rochelle's mayor, restoring Paine's voting rights 139 years too late, said that the author of "The Crisis" had done more than any other man "to make this a free and independent nation."

Sacramento (CNS)—A 30-day jail sentence was imposed on a Sacramento woman for threatening to burn the house of an evacuee Japanese. A American family unless they left the building. The sentence was the first of its kind imposed on a local resident for threatening Nisei who have returned to the West Coast.

CABINET SHOP PLANS EXPANSION OF PLANT

A. M. Smith and Leo Craney, owners and operators of the Spanaway Cabinet Shop, are making preparations for remodeling and expanding their present shop located in the rear of the Spanaway Lumber Company.

Mr. Smith, speaking for the firm, stated they were getting more equipment and as a result were adding more space to their plant.

MEASURE INGREDIENTS

Measure ingredients accurately—you'll waste less and have better cooked foods besides. Cook potatoes with skins on and other vegetables in as little water as possible.

Anderson's Store Opens New Meat Department

After long planning and waiting for equipment, Carl Anderson of Anderson's Farwest grocery in Parkland, now has the meat market section of his store in full operation. This weekend he is featuring a fine selection of meats and invites everyone to come in and see this modern department.

Spanaway Cubs Display Handicraft

Cub Pack 34 of Spanaway had its regular pack meeting Monday, September 17, at 7:30 p. m. in the Spanaway School. The program was opened with a flag salute led by acting Cub Master Harvard Bradshaw, then the Cubs sang their friendship song. Bobby Miller, a bear Cub in Den 1, then described to the assembled pack a typical meeting of his den. Mr. Bradshaw told the boys a little story about the stars.

Reregistration cards were presented to George Spencer, Bobby Miller, James Miller, Ronald Bradshaw, and Harold Tarpening. Mr. Bradshaw and Mr. Tarpening received their reregistration cards as committeemen, and Mrs. Bradshaw was presented her new den mother's card. Donald Omat attended his first pack meeting, and will receive his card at the next pack meeting.

There was an exceptional display of handicraft from Den 1 which was indicative of the activity of this den and a great credit to the pack. Let no one say that boys, because they are small are helpless. These boys made and put on display, tie racks, kettle pad holders, plaster of paris plaques, wall memo pad holders, and wooden parrots that were well made and extremely decorative, challenging the skill of many an adult.

Also of interest to those assembled was the library of Den 1 which consisted of many books on nature and Cub lore, and was held in a small book case made by Cub Ronald Bradshaw in the well equipped wood shop in the Tacoma Boys' Club. Movies were shown as the last thing on the program and the meeting broke up at 9 p. m.

There was a 60 per cent attendance of parents which pack 34 challenges any other cub pack to equal.
