

With the closing weeks of school there was so much news of importance submitted to the office of the Prairie Pointer that this column was pushed aside. However, the response from our readers indicates that it has been missed and should be revived.

To continue where Along the Street left off mention should be made of the subscription campaign which was completed in Spanaway and Midland. Over 60 per cent of the residents of these two communities now read the Prairie Pointer weekly on a paid subscription basis. There were a few who requested that they be allowed to send their subscription payment in at a later date. However, due to the shortage of newsprint, beginning with this issue only paid up subscribers will be allowed to remain on the mailing list. For the same reason we have not begun our subscription drive in Parkland. However, as soon as the paper shortage is relieved we hope to begin a thorough canvass on the home base. When it does begin, Bernice Eklund will be in charge and will visit most homes in the area.

8-Page Pictorial

For the past month the editor has been preparing a special pictorial issue which should be distributed during the third week in June. It will be a record breaker in many ways. In the first place it will be a 14-page paper. It will contain a picture of almost every business in the entire South End with a little news story about the people that own and operate it. Over 130 pictures will be displayed. Additional copies will be printed and those who desire them may receive extra papers at the Prairie Pointer office.

Because people add human interest to a picture, most of the shots that will be displayed include the owners and the employees. Some of the pictures are clever and unusual.

Beauty Shop

It isn't every day that the men get an opportunity to see the ladies in their "Holy of Holies," the beauty shop. Most men stay away from such places by choice and yet most men wonder at times just what happens on the inside. Although the ladies might be a bit surprised and embarrassed to see their pictures in the paper under such circumstances, one of the pictures in next week's paper depicts several of the fairer sex being made fairer.

Air Fields

Some residents of the South End are going to be a little surprised to learn that we have two very fine air fields well equipped with planes for instruction and charter flights, as well as for sale. One of the air views of the flying field is particularly interesting.

Photographers

Myron Kreidler has taken most of the pictures that will be used. However, Doris Morrison, who specializes in portrait work, got together with Myron one day last week and the lights flashed as they took each other's picture for our pictorial. They sent each other equally large bills for their mutual work.

Horses

One of the riding academies in the South End cooperated with us so well that we were able to get a picture of a large number of their beautiful horses in parade fashion. Even a little girl and boy helped out.

Eye Opener

The people in this area will have their eyes opened soon to the amount of business activity in our communities. The pictorial will be so complete that we can virtually say that every business of any consequence will be included. The cooperation of the merchants has been excellent in making this venture possible and deserve our sincere commendation.

Local Boys Make Good

Three Parkland boys who appeared on the Spring Fair program at Parkland school got their first break into the radio entertainment field recently. Cleve Woods, Johnnie Cavin and Spencer Phipps drew the crowds when they stood outside a local dine and dance spot singing cowboy songs and accompanying themselves on their guitars. Eventually the professional entertainers who were inside, came out and offered the boys a job playing over KMO. These stars of tomorrow say their favorite songs are "Feelin' My Way," "Guitar Polka," "Midnight Boogie," "Missouri Waltz," and "Steel Guitar Rag."

SPECTACULAR FIRE AT P.L.C.

OLD GYMNASIUM IS TOTAL LOSS IN BLAZE MONDAY NIGHT

By BERNICE EKLUND Associate Editor

The hall of the Gladiators came to a spectacular end at midnight last Monday when P.L.C.'s old gymnasium went down in flames.

Two or three hundred spectators, many clad in their night clothes, stood in awe, watching the building crumple as the mighty structure was eaten by flames shooting 150 feet into the air. Scorched shingles were found as far away as Brookdale, carried by air currents caused by the fire. At the height of the blaze, the crowd of onlookers voluntarily remained at least 300 feet away from the building for the heat was unbearable at that distance. The glare lighted up the surrounding area and was reported to have been seen as far away as the Tacoma tidelands.

Mrs. Olson, who lives directly across the street from the gym, missed the whole show. She said she awoke once and heard the fire pumps but dismissed the sound from her mind, turned over and went back to sleep.

Excellent Photos

Myron Kreidler, who was conveniently located in the main building, took some excellent pictures which were used on the front pages of both the Tacoma dailies, and by Associated Press Wire Photo, as well as the Prairie Pointer.

Although it was soon obvious that the gymnasium, which also housed the chemistry and biology departments, was doomed, fears for Old Main kept the firemen busy shooting water on the walls nearest the fire. These volunteer workers were magnificent in their courage and stamina. The dangers they faced were very real, with the chemistry lab quite capable of producing explosions and with electric wire snapping as they broke apart and whipped through the air to the ground.

It was reported that the windows in the Viking room cracked from the intense heat. Students on the gym side of the building were quite upset and nervous; one occupant of the dormitory awoke and frantically grabbed her radio, carrying it to another part of the building which she considered more safe.

It was with heavy hearts that many alums, students, teachers and friends of the college viewed the gorgeous display of pyrotechnics saw the fire burn itself out, leaving a bare skeleton of the building with ghosts of smoke, symbolic of the many memories of former days.

Turns in Alarm

First to turn in the alarm to the Parkland firemen was Stanley Peterson, who operates the Parkland Taxi. He was passing by when he noticed flames shooting from a rear window on the main floor, and immediately phoned in and then dashed to the fire and gave further assistance to the firemen.

Parkland's fire truck was first to reach the blaze and they immediately got a stream of water on the roof of Old Main which was beginning to scorch from the intense heat of the gym fire. Midland's truck, one from Tacoma, and another from McChord Field were on the job in jig time. All these firemen did valiant work in controlling the conflagration.

Everyone enjoyed the games that were planned by Lyle Catt, seventh grade teacher, and Mrs. Fred Boness, Sr. The animals were one of the main attractions for the children; in fact, almost as much of interest to them as the delicious picnic lunch prepared by the mothers.

Veterans Need Rooms

A veteran may not be able to attend school this fall because he lacks living quarters. This is the picture that faces all of our colleges and universities as they approach the fall of 1946. Over 1,000,000 veterans have indicated a desire to take advantage of the educational provisions of the G.I. Bill of Rights. This addition is more than the institutions can handle without some assistance.

To localize this situation, PLC, which is located in Parkland, has already received more applicants for next fall than it can adequately house even with its building program now under way. An appeal is therefore now being made to all of the residents in this area to help meet this emergency by allowing a student to avail himself of an extra room that they may have until the crisis passes. In some cases the college can help to secure additional beds and furniture if it should be necessary.

Many of these young men have dreamed of the day when they could return to civilian life and a college of their choosing. It would be a shame if this dream should be denied them because of the lack of a bed and a room.

Persons having rooms available are asked to send in their names and addresses to the college or call GRanite 8611.

Accident Prevention

A boating party on Spanaway Lake ended in tragedy last Saturday afternoon when Norman Seely, an ex-serviceman of Rainier, Washington, was drowned as he tried to recover a dropped oar. According to Coroner Paul Mellinger, who completed an investigation begun by Justice of the Peace William Bresemann of Spanaway, Seely was apparently seized with a cramp and sank among snags on the lake bottom.

This tragedy, which is so close to home, should cause many of us to stop and think. Most of us are calloused by the oft-repeated fatality figures caused by accidents. The fact that more U. S. citizens were killed by accidents here at home in the last 10 years than were killed all during the war, should vividly portray the real danger that young and old face every day.

Now that summer is here and gas rationing is no more, many delayed outings and holidays will be enjoyed. But in proportion accidents will increase to mar the vacation joy.

National safety month has just ended. During the past 30 days particular emphasis has been placed by our national and civic leaders on the importance of practicing, with diligence, safety measures to prevent the sorrow and grief of unnecessary accidents. Let us constantly be alert and practice those safety measures which are nothing more than good common sense.

Politicians Wanted

Will Hays, who has served as chairman of the national republican committee, Postmaster General and more recently as president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, recently made the startling statement, WANTED—MORE POLITICIANS.

The American people have just paid a staggering price, on the fields of battle as well as on the home front, for the privilege of governing themselves. Now that this privilege has been won and secured they are reluctant to use that privilege to the full.

Government is not the privilege of the few nor are political parties private property. The control that professional politicians have is built upon the foundation of public disinterest in the primary elections. If a well-organized minority, of republicans or democrats, work effectively they can in most instances determine who shall and who shall not be nominated. This reduces materially if not completely the basic principles of democratic choice.

It is more important, therefore, for the American voter to turn out for a primary election if a comparison or choice is to be made. The primary election is the selective election. It is the election which offers the greatest choice. We must not and cannot look upon it as unimportant in comparison with the finals. On July 9, it will be the obligation and duty of every voter to go to the polls. The primaries must cease to be the concern of a relative few.

SEASON NEARS FOR POLIO RISE

Doctor Ringle, State Health Director, Urges People To Take Precautions

Eight precautions for guarding against poliomyelitis, which may become more prevalent in Washington as the summer progresses, were listed yesterday by Dr. Arthur L. Ringle, state director of health.

Doctor Ringle said that 42 cases of polio, almost double the number at this time last year, have already been reported to the state health department, and that experience indicated that the summer months will probably bring a sharp seasonal upswing.

Precautions
The precautions are:
1. Particularly during the polio season (May through November) persons developing an illness which includes intestinal disturbance, headache, signs of a cold and fever should remain in bed until a physician has made an accurate diagnosis.

2. If poliomyelitis is present in a community, tonsil and adenoid operations should be avoided.

3. Dental cavities should be filled and teeth extracted before the polio season begins. When polio is present in the community, it is advisable under ordinary circumstances to delay extractions until after the season.

4. A high standard of sanitation must be maintained, with particular emphasis on the elimination of flies. Only approved water and milk supplies should be used.

5. Swimming in polluted water should be prohibited.

6. When polio exists in the community, avoid all unnecessary contact with persons who are ill.

7. Children should be restricted to playing with only their usual playmates.

8. Travel, even from one part of town to another, should be avoided; especially by children.

Two Types

Doctor Ringle pointed out that there are two types of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis. The abortive or non-paralytic type produces headache, fever, muscle pains, sore throat and intestinal disturbance, but the illness does not progress and the victim becomes well in a few days. The other type, paralytic poliomyelitis, is preceded by muscle soreness and weakness; and paralysis occurs, which may or may not be permanent. Victims of the second type are often helped by the "Kenny method," which involves the use of hot packs on the affected muscles while they are in spasm, and re-education of the muscles whose nerves are not destroyed by the disease.

"Our knowledge of how polio is passed from person to person is still quite incomplete," Doctor Ringle said. "The precautions listed above are based upon the results of the most recent experimentation."

Experience has shown that such measures as closing schools, parks and playgrounds has been of no value in halting the course of polio in a community. There is no serum or vaccine at present which will prevent the disease. The rules listed above will either decrease the chance of exposure, or have a tendency to minimize the results of infection, Doctor Ringle said.

Matt Hill Seeks State Judgeship

Weeks ahead of the July 9 non-partisan judicial primaries, many lawyers throughout the state had already given their written endorsements of Judge Matthew W. Hill for Supreme Court Judge, position No. 3, according to reports from his headquarters.

In December 1944, Judge Hill was appointed as interim Superior Court Judge during the absence of Judge Malcolm Douglas.

Judge Hill, a resident of the state of Washington since 1907, was graduated from the University of Washington law school, cum laude, in 1917. He was president of the U. of W. Alumni Association during 1921-1922.

After a short time in Bellingham, teaching and practicing law, he opened his practice in Seattle in 1919 upon his discharge from the army at the close of World War I. He served as assistant

United States district attorney during 1924-1925, then resumed active practice.

Judge Hill is married and has three children ranging in age from 9 to 19; owns his own home; and has, through the years, been active in church, fraternal and civic affairs.

What our $400,000,000
 five-year expansion program
 means to you

More than $100,000,000 Construction Planned for 1946

If you are waiting for a telephone... you may be certain that getting one to you just as rapidly as possible has top priority in our plans. We are working full speed on buildings, cables, switchboards and other equipment needed to provide service for everyone who is waiting... and to make service even better for every telephone user.

If you are a farmer... you may expect the extension of telephone service in rural areas. New methods and new developments will be used, including high-strength steel wire, power line carrier equipment and possibly radio for remotest locations. You may also expect fewer parties on the lines, fewer rings for other parties and other service improvements.

If you use Long Distance... you may look forward to an even better and faster service than ever before. We are working on our part of a nation-wide coaxial cable network for long distance calls and television transmission. Equipment will be provided for nation-wide operator dialing of toll and long distance calls and for customer dialing of toll calls between some communities.

Thousands of jobs... millions of man hours of work... will be created by this program, the largest in our company's history. Our total plant investment will be increased to more than a billion dollars. For it is our purpose to provide an ever-widening, ever-improving telephone service... to grow with the West and to help the West grow.

Every day we seek to make telephone service even better than it has ever been before

Parkland Jr. High Awards Letters

On May 31, the closing day of the school year at Parkland junior high, the annual award assembly was held. School letters were given to all those who had participated in Glee Club during the year by Miss Murial Dawley, music director.

Coaches Paul Larson and Stanley Willis presented letters to a group of boys who have been active in the school sports; football, basketball, baseball and track. Superintendent Morris Ford announced the names of the winners of the Inspirational Award for this year as being Ruby Stauffacher and Stanley Selzer. This selection of the outstanding boy and girl is made by the faculty of the Junior high school on the basis of scholarship and student activity, and their names will be entered on a plaque especially designed for this purpose.

When the students had received all their awards they showed their appreciation of the help given them by the teachers by presenting remembrances to Miss Gladys Carlson and Mrs. Lottie Gregory, ninth grade teachers; Miss Muriel Dawley, who is leaving the music department of Parkland; Miss Ruth Simonson, Girls' Club adviser; Coaches Larson and Willis, and Superintendent Ford.

Shower Honors Miss Nora Kjesbu

On the evening of Friday, May 31, Miss Nora Kjesbu was honored at a miscellaneous shower in the home of Miss Annie Lien of Parkland. Miss Kjesbu will be married to the Rev. H. Alfred Weltzin of Landa, North Dakota, on the 28th day of June. After an evening of pleasant conversation the guests were served refreshments at a table centered with a little red schoolhouse since both the hostess and guest of honor are school teachers.

Tucked away inside the napkins they discovered small booklets in the shape of schoolhouses with the names Bob and Annie, Aug. 23. It was in this fashion that Miss Lien's engagement and coming marriage to Robert Newton of Oakville, Washington, was announced.

Those present were: Helga Olson, Nelma Guleson, Marjorie Edghill, Betty Christenson, Jocelin Lynne, Nellie Risa, Dorothy Satterlie, Alice Kjesbu, Emily Kilde, Alberta Preus, Esther Davis, Helen Lien, Mrs. John Klintzmann, Mrs. William Kilde, Mrs. Ernie Lease, Mrs. Albert Kuhn, and the hostesses, Mrs. Claude Pellet, Mrs. John Lien and Miss Annie Lien.

Mrs. Elledge Going To Illinois for Visit

Mrs. Fena Elledge, popular cook of the Clover Creek school, will leave for Galesburg, Illinois, June 7 to attend a reunion of the Nordwall family. She will be driving with her brothers, S. V. Nordwall of Seattle and C. E. Nordwall of Spokane. The family has not been together since 1910.

While in the east Mrs. Elledge will visit in Douglas in North Dakota, and Zimmerman, Galva, Peoria, Monmouth, Chillicothe, Media and other points in Illinois.

Mrs. Dorothea Valentine will stay in Mrs. Elledge's home while she is away.

DOYLES DISPOSE OF BUSINESS AND HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Doyle sold their business and home, both of which are located in Midland, last week. Bob has planned an extensive vacation which will take him as far east as Wisconsin and will also include a tour of the southern states. The housing shortage will not worry the Doyles, as they have purchased a trailer which they plan to use on the trip.

Mrs. Doris Trent is the new owner of Doyle's Fountain. She has had eighteen years of experience in the fountain business in Tacoma. She intends to enlarge the store, with emphasis upon improving the variety department.

Army Calling For Return of Wacs
To meet a critical shortage of skilled personnel in such Army installations as hospitals and separation centers, the Army has set up a voluntary reenlistment program for former enlisted members of the Women's Army Corps. Former Wacs who possess certain vitally-needed military skills may rejoin the army in the grade held at time of discharge. Major Robert E. Wilmarth, officer in charge of the Tacoma Army Recruiting Station, 761 Broadway, explained today.
"The plan is designed to supplement the present volunteer program," he said, "under which many Wacs now in the service are remaining beyond the date of eligibility for separation because they wish to keep on contributing their special skills to the nation during this difficult time."
Former enlisted women who were honorably discharged, and who possess a skill usable by the War Department or a major continental military force, may apply through any Army Recruiting Station to reenter the service. They may volunteer either for the duration of the emergency plus six months, or until Sept. 30, 1946.
Volunteers must meet the same standards for enlistment in the WAC as were in effect in August, 1945, except that they may have reached their 38th but not their 50th birthday. They must waive all rights to discharge because of marital status or age.
The program is in no way connected with enlistments in the Regular Army, which are open to men between 17 and 34.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN AIDED THROUGH THE STATE'S PROGRAM
Nearly 600 Washington youngsters with disabilities that threaten to make life-long cripples of them were given corrective treatment last year through the State Department of Health's crippled children's program, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Arthur L. Ringle, state director of health.
These children suffered handicaps as the result of such conditions as poliomyelitis, osteomyelitis (an infection of bone tissue) or were born with certain congenital deformities. Thirteen practicing orthopedic physicians and three plastic surgeons who participated in the program performed operations, or gave other indicated treatment, to help these youngsters overcome their difficulties.
"These children deserve the best care they can possibly be given," Dr. Ringle declared. He urged parents of boys and girls with these handicaps to have them treated by specialists, either on a private basis or under this program, "so they may have the best chance for recovery and a useful life."
Last year 592 boys and girls were referred to the crippled children's program for care and were examined by the participating physicians. Of these children, 166 were admitted to hospitals for observation and treatment, and remained hospitalized for an average of 47 days.
A child with a crippling defect may be referred to a crippled children's clinic by his private physician, the local health officer, or one of the several private orthopedic agencies in the state, Dr. Rollin E. Cutts, who has charge of the program, explained.
If the family is unable to meet the entire cost of treatment, a medical social worker arranges a program so that the family pays that portion of the bill it can afford, and the remainder is met by the State Department of Health from crippled children's funds made available by a special state appropriation and by the U. S. Department of Labor.
More information about this program can be obtained from any city or county health officer, Dr. Cutts said.

In the bridal party were Miss Donna Mae Paul as maid of honor who was gown in a yellow dress, Miss Beverly Swanson and Miss Shirley Williams as bridesmaids in dresses of blue, and Miss Patricia McKay and Miss Carol Mac Hahnenkraut as candlelighters dressed in pink. Mr. Stephen Proctor was best man and Richard Kernighan and Rickey Gjertsen acted as ushers.

The bride's dress was of white satin with a net skirt and train. Her veil was of imported illusion at cathedral length and had been worn by her mother before her. A white Bible topped with an orchid and other flowers and white ribbon streamers completed the bride's costume.

Mrs. Stephen Proctor sang "Apple Blossom Time" and "Because," with Mrs. Gunnar J. Malmin at the organ.

Olson-Kellner Rites Held Last Sunday

The chapel of Pacific Lutheran College was the setting Sunday evening, June 2, for the wedding of Miss Roumelle Olson and Albert Kellner. Rev. Lowell Satre performed the ceremony, which united the two in marriage. Miss Olson is the daughter of James Olson of South Dakota and Mr. Kellner is of Tampa, Florida.

The wedding was the culmination of a romance which began when the two met at a Junior Guild party held at Fort Lewis while Mr. Kellner was in the service.

The chapel was decorated with huge, white peonies in tall baskets and the candles were lit by Miss Edna Martens, gown in a pink dress, and Miss Janet Hauge, in blue. The matron of honor was Mrs. Lowell J. Satre, who wore blue satin, and tiny Susan Dahl, in a colonial style silk dress, was train bearer.

Attending the groom as best man was J. Stanley Dahl, and the ushers were Orv Dahl and Paul Preus. Little John Preus was ring bearer.

The bride wore the white taffeta dress with applique flowers of velvet which Mrs. Stanley Dahl wore at her wedding. The dress was fashioned with leg of mutton sleeves and a long train and the bridal bouquet was of white roses and sweet peas. A veil effect was created by the use of flowers and starched tulle.

Music was provided by a vocal quartet composed of Elizabeth Stuen, Dorothy Satterlie, Albert Kuhn, and Merle Pflueger. Miss Satterlie also sang "O Perfect Love" and Mrs. Stanley Dahl was at the organ.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Lowell J. Satre apartment at the college. Assisting Mrs. Satre were Mrs. J. Stanley Dahl and Mrs. H. L. J. Dahl. Mrs. S. E. Dahl cut the bride's cake. Miss Edna Martens was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Olaf Hagness was in charge of the gifts.

For going away Mrs. Kellner wore a navy blue and white rindogote with white accessories. They left immediately for Tampa, Florida, where they will make their home. Mrs. Kellner had just completed her freshman year at Pacific Lutheran College and Mr. Kellner will be in business with his father.

THE HOME OF THE MONTH

Two-story houses will be popular in the postwar era, and don't let anyone tell you differently, says the building magazine, PRACTICAL BUILDER, of Chicago. This attractive two-story home incorporates all the features of modern living, while forming a pleasant combination of the modern in plan and traditional in appearance. The first floor is well-planned in that every room can be entered from the hall with the exception of the hobby playroom which can be entered either from the porch or the kitchen. This is a particularly good arrangement when mother is working in the kitchen and wants to keep her eye on the little ones while still not having them directly under foot. The upstairs closet space is unusually abundant. The large storage closet, in addition to two closets in every room, is an additional feature that few houses can boast. Although the house will ultimately be finished upstairs, if at first you only want to use the first floor, it can easily be adapted to full use. Either the dining room or the hobby room or both can readily be converted to bedrooms, while the lavatory can be enlarged to a full-sized bathroom. Laundry facilities can then be provided for in the basement. Although the house is planned for a basement, if it were to be built in a warm climate, floor furnaces could be used for heating.
