PARKLAND POST NO. 228 AMERICAN LEGION Meetings every second and fourth Friday at 8:00 p.m. in the Sunshine Hall

Well, the boys brought home the bacon Monday night. The bacon we're speaking of is the 4th district title in Junior baseball competition. Parkland American Legion is sponsoring a Junior baseball team this year, in case some of our good friends who may be reading this don't know what we are talking about. Judging from the attendance at the team's home games, this bit of information is news to quite a few. All I can say is that it is a good thing that our baseball team won its title by virtue of excellent playing skill and the able leadership of W. H. May and management of Frank Berry-for if they had been dependent upon support of the community to win games, you can be sure that no games would have been

We are indeed fortunate to have a team that plays because it loves the game and has gone as far as it has with virtually no outside support save a handful of he membership of the post. The membership of the post has been quite faithful in attending at least the home games and has been rewarded with a lot of topnotch baseball. But support from the community of Parkland has been sadly lacking. An air of complete indifference has prevailed throughout the season.

Last year it was thought that the reason for non-attendance at games was the fact that we had no home field close enough to Parkland. This year, through the kindness and generosity of Pacific Lutheran college, we were able to bring the games right into the back yard of Parkland at the college field-within walking distance of practically every home in the community. But apparently the people of Parkland either refuse to recognize the good of the Junior Baseball program or they fail even to try. Maybe next year an age of awakening can be brought forth.

Our team goes to the state play offs in Seattle the end of this month. Up to now it has subdued the cream of the crop from Tacoma, Olympia, Shelton, and Puyallup. Let's all hope our Juniors continue their fine record and bring home every title that they go after.

Everybody Celebrates

This Saturday evening, residents of the south end area are invited to inspect the modern and complete quarters of the new branch bank at Parkland of the National Bank of Washington, before the branch opens its doors for business Monday morning. The open house Saturday evening will be the bank's way of marking completion of the months of preparation leading to its final establishment in our community.

But, the bank is not alone in having cause to celebrate the event. It is an event that holds meaning for all residents of this area. It marks successful culmination of long months of effort by many of our residents, also.

Addressing the local Kiwanis club, two weeks ago, J. K. Ewart, assistant vice-president of the National Bank of Washington, stated: "I give credit for this bank to residents of Parkland area." Mr. Ewart has been in close touch with all developments leading to opening of the bank here this week end. He knows personally, and remarked on, the "aggressiveness" and "persistence" with which merchants of this area battled to secure establishment of a bank here.

Why did our residents so much desire a local bank? There are many reasons for their persistence.

Foremost is the fact that another important service is provided our residents. As available services of an area are increased, its desirability increases proportionally. Property values are enhanced. More families and more businesses are attracted to it; providing in turn still more services, additional attractions. The area becomes better equipped to provide the conditions for modern living.

Also important, to both bank and bank patrons, is that banking service can be provided on a friendlier basis when fall. Eastvold is now a deputy in rendered by neighbors with full knowledge of local conditions. Breaking down of the impersonal relationships so often unavoidable in dealings with a large, centrally located establishment makes doing business at the bank more pleasantjust as it's more pleasant to deal with your local neighbor storekeeper than with the professionally courteous but insincerely interested clerk met in the emporia of a metropolitan center. Mr. Ewart summed up the advantages of this relationship nicely when he said: Banking brought to the people attains a local accent. The local accent is, in many ways, more important than the convenience of local service.

The foregoing are among the reasons why our citizens teacher and coach at several high strove valiantly and successfully for a bank here—and why schools of this state. He was gradwe all join whole-heartedly in the bank's celebration, voicing our sincere wish for pleasurable and prospering careers here for he was an outstanding basketball the new bank; its manager and our old neighbor, Arthur player. Subsequently he coached Swindland; his assistant manager and our new neighbor, Robert Snowden; and all members of their staff.

Treat'Em Like Champs

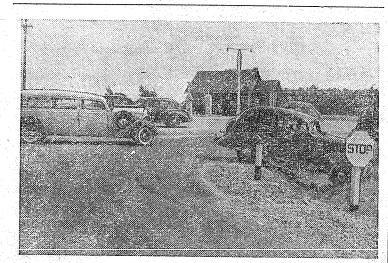

Unheralded and to great extent unhonored at home, the Junior baseball team sponsored by Parkland American Legion 1946, when he entered law school post 228 has climaxed an uphill fight by capturing the district championship and a berth in the state championship tournament to be held in Seattle later this month. The team has passed its first hurdle in the race for the national Junior Fatal to Mother baseball crown with very little local support outside the membership of the sponsoring post. This despite the fact that its home games this year were played right here, on the Pacific Lutheran college diamond, made available to it by the college.

Over 16,000 teams, represnting over a million boys, started this season of Legion-sponsored play in cities and towns all over the land in the race for the national crown. The Legion teams offer wholesome competition and real opportunity to boys participating. Lou Boudreau, Ted Williams, Stan Musial and Hal Newhouser are just a few of the big leaguers who got their start with an American Legion sponsored team.

These teams are recognized assets of their communities. Tacoma, Puyallup or any other town in this district would cheerfully give freely to have the champion team. Parkland July 9, from St. John of the Woods has it-without effort. It's Parkland's turn now, to give the team whole-hearted support in return.

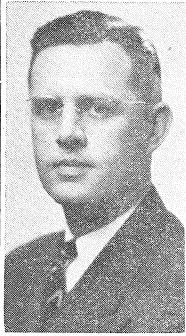

Driver of the car in the ditch failed to yield the right-of-way, even to an ambulance. He ran through a plainly visible stop sign, directly into the path of the ambulance, and was knocked across the road. Driver was killed, and a passenger was injured. Emergency vehicles always have the right-of-way—but at other times, too, it pays to be courteous at intersections. Failure to grant right-of-way ranked second as a cause of motor vehicle deaths in 1946. National Conservation Bureau advises: when in doubt, always yield the right-of-way.

tion, Pacific Lutheran college has session at Olympia, June 24 and 25 approved a "general certificate," riculum to provide training for gen- holders of which will be authorized eral teaching certification and, in to teach in the state's schools on the interim, will list courses neces- both the elementary and secondary levels after 1951.

Students now in training who are terested in completing their work in the elementary or secondary field only will be eligible for certification on one or the other level.

According to the action taken by the board, public and private colleges will be permitted to give training on both levels.

In support of the new general certificate the following comments were made: "It is believed that the needs of youth will be served best by providing teachers who are equipped to teach at either level. Continuous improvement of the edneational program as a whole, from the kindergarten through the twelfth grade, should result when there is an increasing number of teachers in the field whose teacher education program has prepared them to work with both elementary and secondary school students."

POINTERS FOR LONG DISTANCE CALLERS

How you can save money on your cross-country calls — and help us give you still faster service

1. Even before you call, you can start getting the most for your money. It's a good idea to make a list of the things you want to talk about. A few handy notes can help make sure you won't think of something you really wanted to say—afteryouhang up. Experienced long distance users keep paper and pencil at the telephone and make notes while they're talking, too.

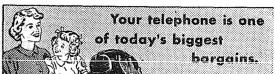

2. When you place your call, you can save time all around if you give the information to your long distance operator this way: First, the name of town you're calling...then, the number if you know it, or the address. (Good idea to keep a list of the out-of-town numbers you call most frequently.) Next, if it's a person call, give the name of the one you want to talk with. The operator will then ask your name and number.

4. Wise use of the telephone—either local or long distance—helps you get the greatest value from it. And service is constantly growing more valuable. A local call is still just a few pennies. And you can make a daytime station call from coast to coast for only $2.50, plus tax.

3. When you complete your call, be sure to hang up promptly—and properly. If you remember to use these pointers every time you call long distance, you'll be certain of getting the most from your call for the least money. With really efficient use of the telephone, you can pack as many words into a three-minute conversation as you can in a letter-and you'll get an answer to your questions right away.

of a water district at Spanaway has been called for Monday, August 1, at 10 o'clock a.m., in the Pierce county court house, Tacoma. Time and place of the hearing was set by Pierce county commissioners at their meeting July 5.

The hearing will provide opporunity for those who object to formation of the proposed district to voice their objections.

Petition asking formation of the water district was filed with county authorities June 20. The petition was signed by 281 residents of the proposed district. Formation of the district is sought to provide machinery for construction of a public water system to service the Spanaway area. It has the backing of the Spanaway Progressive Community

Fall Out of Summer

To paraphrase the poet: When summer comes, can fall be far behind? Designer Toni Owen has fashioned this dress to be equally comfortable under September starlight or July parasol. The patio skirt is of Juilliard Featheroy (three ounces lighter than corduroy), with side zipper and buttoned waist band. Shepherd Knitwear makes the matching T shirt. The ensemble, chosen by Cosmopolitan magazine's Male-Tested Fashion Jury (Kirk Douglas, Robert Sterling and Louis Jourdan) comes in red caviar, taupe and gold. Its price—about $15 for skirt, $2.25 for shirt—leaves budget room for July juleps or autumn apple cider.
