AMERICAN LEGION
Meetings every second and fourth
Friday at 8:00 p.m. in the Sunshine Hall

Groundwork for the procurement and establishment of a new post home was laid at an executive board meeting, when a ways and means committee was appointed. It is now functioning. There are many angles to be worked in a deal like this and it is the committee's duty to see that all possible means and possibilities are explored and brought to light before the membership. We anxiously await its reports. The sooner we get started, the sooner we get done.

The meeting Friday night was terminated at an early hour—8:45 to be exact—and the entire membership present, both ladies and men, took a sojourn out to be present at the installation of officers of Clover Creek Post 118. We enjoyed the evening thoroughly, although some of us were put to work on Commander Al Bragg's installation team. Parkland Post's reputation as "chow hounds" was not hurt in the least as the entire delegation managed to get to the head of the line out at Spanaway. We had a very fine meal and the Spanaway post is to be complimented on a very thorough and well-planned installation. We wish the best of luck to their incoming officers in both the Post and Auxiliary.

Don't forget the Parkland Fire Department's annual Ball at Sunshine Hall, Saturday, October 2. Hear tell that there will be some Bingo going on too. With a dance and Bingo going there is no excuse for either young or old to stay home. In case any of you guys and gals did forget your tickets, just call St. John at Granite 7898, and he will personally see to it that they are delivered to the door.

A goodly crowd of Comrades and ladies of the American Legion gathered last Friday evening at the Spanaway school to witness the installation exercises of Clover Creek Post No. 118, American Legion, and its Auxiliary unit.

Friends from posts at Tenino, Sumner, Rhodes Post, Post No. 138 and Parkland brought with them their spirit of genial comradeship lending a great feeling of "oneness" to the occasion.

The officers-elect of the unit were inducted into office and obligated by Fourth District President Hazelvern Funk and assisted by Vice Hot Time!

Outstanding event of this coming weekend, locally, is the annual Firemen's Ball, set for Saturday night, October 2, at Sunshine hall. The event is sponsored by the Parkland Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary, as a source of funds for fire department operation. Games, including bingo, dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., refreshments and door prizes will add to enjoyment of those attending. It's a top affair of the year, for a top purpose.

Business Club

Parkland Business Club members will hold their regular first Tuesday of the month dinner meeting at Indian Inn on the evening of October 5. President Neil Thomas says this will be a strictly business session, getting under way at 7 o'clock.

Centre Grows

One of two additional business establishments to open soon in Parkland Centre is Evergreen Studios, a portrait and commercial photography enterprise under the ownership of Chapin and Bowen of Tacoma and operated by Tom Casto, formerly of Bay City, Mich. Opening date announcement awaits completion of adapting the Garfield street premises for studio use, including installation of lighting, dark room, displays and reception room. Casto, who until recently for two and one-half years operated his own studio at Owosso, Mich., near Bay City, has been in photography and related business for 12 years. Mrs. Casto will assist him in the studio here, as receptionist and doing color work.

They have two children, a son, Bob, six years old, and a daughter, Linda, five. At present they are residing in the Blue Spruce Motel.

Joins Market Staff

John Tennent this week joined the staff of the Clover Creek Market as meat cutter, a trade at which he has 35 years experience. He and Mrs. Tennent are long residents on Brookdale Road.

Party Hour

A reminder that this Friday, October 1, is the first birthday of the Parkland Hour—Program Director Louise Lynd will be "mama" at a KTB studio birthday party to be put on the air at the regular program time: 12:15 to 1 o'clock. Listeners will receive the gifts and program sponsors will share the cake and compliments.

It Happened In Parkland

Pictures of the Fox building blocks desired by the kindergarten were shown by Miss Frances Scarse and ways and means of raising the money for the purchase of the blocks were discussed by the board.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Satern and daughter, Joan, of Silverton, Ore., were weekend guests here of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sunset. Their son, Darrel Satern, is a student at PLC. Miss Satern accompanied them north from Kelso, Wash., where she is teaching school.

EASTVOLD FINDS WAR-RAVAGED EUROPE DEPENDENT UPON U. S. AID; CHURCH EFFORT BRIGHT SPOT

Dr. S. C. Eastvold

State in Displaced Persons Camps Pitiful in Extreme

"It was a rich experience of a sad nature," Dr. S. C. Eastvold, president of Pacific Lutheran College, described the four-month tour of devastated Europe just completed by him and Mrs. Eastvold. Dr. and Mrs. Eastvold returned to their campus home in Parkland last Wednesday, sincere in their realization: "It's great to be an American."

Dr. Eastvold had been commissioned by the college board of trustees to study educational problems and methods in Europe. The National Lutheran Council commissioned him to go to Germany and study resettlement and the refugee problem.

These connections enabled him to complete his survey, Dr. Eastvold said, stating that otherwise he never would have been allowed to see the things he saw nor to meet persons of influence.

In the interests of PLC, Dr. Eastvold made arrangements for two or three DP professors to be brought here as instructors of mathematics, French and German next fall. At least one Baltic student will be enrolled in the spring semester at the local college on a scholarship offered by it.

Dr. Eastvold visited 10 countries, traveled throughout England, the Scandinavian countries, including Finland, Germany, Holland, Switzerland and Italy.

Dr. Eastvold talked with everyone, from peasants to rulers, and all expressed the belief that the U. S. would remain firm in the present political and economic crisis.

Destruction Appals

The destruction of a country by all-out, total war, as evidenced by the ruins seen in Germany, appalled him. He visited Nuremberg, Stuttgart, Munich, Heidelberg and Berchtesgaden, among other places. Debris, rubble, and devastation were everywhere. The problem of rehabilitation was well nigh impossible.

"The buildings are ground to dust; they pile up the debris in great heaps," said Dr. Eastvold. "The people are broken in spirit. They barely exist. Most of them live day to day by the generosity of Americans, whether it be from government sources or church and philanthropic organizations. Our problem is a continuing one. We will have to contribute our financial support for another five years at least before Germany can be self-supporting."

The situation of the displaced persons, the exiles who refused to return to their native lands in fear of prison or death, was pitiful in the extreme, Dr. Eastvold found. He visited four DP camps in the interests of several thousand Lutheran refugees—principally of Baltic nationality. Some of the camps were worse than the most evil slums that

C. Roberts of McChord Air Force Base. The visitors were somewhat amazed at the Northwest, the stands of timber being almost beyond their comprehension; but like all good Texans, there just wasn't any place but Texas, at least for the present. They headed South again early on the morning of the 27th, anticipating about a four-day drive home.

Dr. S. C. Eastvold, PLC president, who with Mrs. Eastvold returned last week from a summer-long survey trip in Europe, Tuesday evening this week reported his experiences before a regular meeting of the Lutheran Brotherhood, in Trinity Lutheran Church basement.

Mrs. Ellis Hillberg sustained a broken shoulder cap recently in a fall in her home where she is now confined, her right arm in a cast. Also sick at home in the Sales Road area is John Crall of Head street, suffering from bronchial pneumonia. Douglas Hager, resident of Polk street, has entered the Veterans Hospital at Vancouver, Wash., for minor surgery. He will remain there another week.

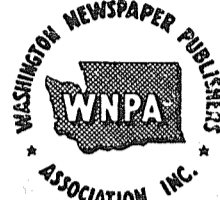

Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy and daughter, Ginny Lee, have again established residence on Harrison street. They have been in Portland, Ore., for almost two years.

County Council Of P-TA Will Be Held Next Week

Pierce County Council of Parent-Teachers Association will convene in fall session Thursday morning, October 7, in the Steilacoom Town Hall, it was announced this week. Hostess groups will be the Steilacoom P-TA and Pre-School.

Mrs. A. W. Millard, county P-TA president, will call the meeting at 9:45 o'clock.

The first business session will feature "Plans of Work," outlined by the county chairmen. The speaker for the morning will be Sgt. Paul Pattison of the Washington State Patrol who will give a "Safe Bicycle Demonstration," similar to those which children will be seeing in their schools during the months to come. The University Place Mother-Singers will present several numbers.

This is an important legislative year and the first speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Ruth Bethel, county superintendent of schools, who will tell of latest developments in school legislation. The second afternoon speaker will be Thomas Lantz, superintendent of public recreation, who will talk on "Future Recreation Programs for Counties."

Because Parkland P-TA is the second-largest elementary school group in the state, it is hoped that Parkland School District, as well as other districts in this area, will be well-represented at the session.

Transportation will be furnished those wishing to attend. A school bus will leave from the Parkland school at 9 o'clock. Mrs. W. W. Cline, Parkland P-TA president, has appealed: "Let's fill the bus and bring home the attendance-award cup."

A nursery will be provided for pre-school youngsters and luncheon will be served.

Mother-Singers Will Plan Year, Enroll Members

All those interested in singing with the Parkland P-TA Mother-Singers group are asked to come to the first meeting of the year, to be held at the school auditorium on Monday, October 4, at 3:30 p.m.

The Mother-Singers are under the leadership of Mrs. C. O. Olson. This is the second year of the local group.

Talent Show and Carnival Coming Saturday, Oct. 9

Did the frog-voiced concession barkers, enticing Midway throngs, and spangled artists thrilling thousands last week at the Puyallup Fair leave you asking for more?

You'll get your chance to taper off that craving right near home next week when the Parkland Orthopedic Guild presents its Talent Show and Carnival Saturday evening, October 9, in the Parkland school.

There will be bazaars, games, prizes and a top array of home talent performing for your pleasure, and for a most worthwhile cause. It will be the first major undertaking of the Parkland Guild, which was organized last spring. Substantial assistance in putting on the Talent Show and Carnival is being received also from Sylvia Storaasli Guild, another local Orthopedic unit, which will help out with a baked goods booth and other contributions to success of the project.

This local Talent Show and Carnival is to be another step toward the 27-year goal of the thousand women comprising the Tacoma Orthopedic Association—a children's hospital for Tacoma and Southwest Washington. It is now hoped that construction of the needed institution can start within the next two or three years.

At present, the Tacoma Orthopedic Association maintains a clinic in the Pierce County Health Center for care of crippled children.

The home talent program for the big evening, October 9, is to commence at 8 o'clock, in the school auditorium. The carnival, with its booths offering hand-sewed articles, home-made pie, coffee, ice cream, soft drinks, hobby craft and many other items as well as games and door prizes, will open in the school basement at 7 o'clock. General admission charge will be 25 cents for adults, 10 cents for children. Admission includes both talent show and carnival.

Local merchants have been generous in donating prizes for winning performers and for awards to patrons.

Everyone is invited.

Talent Show heralds are loudly proclaiming an array of performers that will "surpass Arthur Godfrey's or Horace Heidt's famous shows." It includes talent from Parkland and from neighboring communities. There are singers, dancers, speakers and instrumentalists.

The talent show is still open to anyone, states Mrs. E. J. Perrault, committee chairman, "So, if you know of anyone special who would be good on our show we would appreciate hearing from you. To encourage people to turn out, we are giving prizes to the best talent." To enter, just call Mrs. Perrault at Granite 8931.

Mrs. Earl Platt, president of the Parkland guild, has named the following:

Don't Stay Home on Election Day!

One of the very essentials of American democracy is the right every citizen of this land has, of periodically expressing his choice as to who shall represent him in the councils of government. Any attempt to deprive the American citizen of this right has been met with great outcries of alarm; and several wars have been fought in which this right, along with other rights, have been defended against encroachment.

Yet it is a sad and astounding truth, that these very same American citizens, will themselves thoughtlessly deprive themselves of the right to vote through carelessness, by the simple expedient of forgetting to register.

In 1944, for example, over 48 million Americans participated in the selection of a President, congressional representatives, governors and local officials, and thus exercised their full rights and privileges as citizens. BUT nearly as many Americans—who could have done so—did not vote. In other words, some 40 million Americans deprived themselves of one of the basic and essential rights of being a citizen in these great United States.

Yet the process of registration is certainly no more difficult than purchasing a stamp, affixing it to a letter and dropping it into the nearest mailbox!

It would hardly seem necessary to exhort on the need for registration and to issue repeated reminders through billboards, newspapers, radio and other media; but the plain fact is that all these appeals have been found necessary. It is the very reason these words are being written.

Let's do everything in our power to improve that record—NOW! You can't vote unless you register and the time to register is not tomorrow or next week or next month, but—NOW!

Any citizen, whether by birth or naturalization, who can read and write the English language, who has resided in the State for 11 months and in the county for 60 days, and who is over 21 or within 30 days of being 21 at the time of registration can REGISTER NOW!

Registration books in this state re-opened on September 15, following the primaries, and will remain open up to and

Highway Study Shows Over Half This State's Mileage Unfit for Traffic

OLYMPIA — Washington's highways, roads and streets have deteriorated to the point where $868,611,000 in construction work will be required in the next ten years, it was disclosed in an engineering report presented September 24 to the Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Highways, Streets and Bridges.

G. Donald Kennedy, consultant in charge of a year-long investigation of state highway, county road and city street systems, summarized the report for the committee at a public meeting held in the senate chamber of the Legislative Building.

In presenting the construction cost estimates, Kennedy said that 48 per cent of the total, or $417,286,000, was needed to correct conditions so critical that they require immediate attention. He gave the needs by system as:

State highways, including urban connections, $575,323,000; county roads, $176,735,000; city streets, $116,553,000.

The survey, authorized by the 1947 legislature, revealed that 52 per cent of the total mileage in the state is unfit to render safe, convenient and economical service. Stated another way, 27,378 of the 52,456 miles require improvement, along with nearly 3,000 bridges.

The percentage of deficient mileage on the various systems was found to be:

Primary state highways, 86 per cent; secondary state highways, 90 per cent; urban state highways, 40 per cent; primary county roads, 78 per cent; other county roads, 42 per cent; arterial streets, 59 per cent; other city streets, 22 per cent.

The need for improvement, Kennedy pointed out, was greatest on the principal roads and streets carrying the heaviest volumes of traffic.

For the convenience of the committee and the legislature, Kennedy explained, the long range program of highway improvement was prepared in alternative 10, 15 and 20 year periods. Average annual costs were worked out to include expenditures for construction, maintenance and administration.

A ten-year program would require average annual outlays of $96,778,000; a 15-year program would cost $76,360,000 a year, and over a 20-year period the yearly expenditures would average $67,128,000.

Before the engineering staff developed the long range improvement programs, many aspects of highway and street problems were studied, Kennedy said. A study of the growth of Washington's population and the concurrent increase in traffic volumes indicated that highway facilities will be required for 2,621,000 people in 1960, and 2,826,000 in 1970. As the population grows and the state's economy expands, travel will become heavier year by year. Vehicles were driven more than seven billion miles in Washington in 1947. At the predicted rate of increase, the total will be nearly nine and one-half billion miles in 1960, and will exceed ten billion miles by 1965.

One of the conclusions of the study was that classification of primary county roads and arterial city streets should be established to facilitate administration and the programming of improvements on the basis of greatest need.

The report urged that the routes of all state highways through cities be made the responsibility of the State Department of Highways, with proper authority to cooperate with local governments in construction, maintenance and operation.

It was recommended that 172 miles of highways in the Columbia Basin be added to the state highway system to meet the needs of that rapidly expanding area.

Particular emphasis was placed on the application of adequate standards of design for roads and bridges to insure that facilities would safely and conveniently handle the traffic loads of the present and the future.

Bossy 'Mal-limed,' Area's Dairy Cows Up to Calcium Par

Tests determining the calcium content of dairy products from Washington state farms refute the fallacy that local dairy products are deficient in calcium.

Results of the analysis, conducted by the University of Washington Department of Home Economics, are announced by Dr. Jennie I. Rowntree, director.

The study, conducted in the University home economics laboratory, showed milk and cheese from Washington farms contained an average calcium content which is as high and in some cases above the average amount of calcium in dairy products for the rest of the nation as a whole.

The calcium content of 25 samples of pasteurized milk from the western part of the state was determined in the tests conducted by Miss Goldie A. Simeon, home economics graduate student. The survey was part of her thesis work toward a master's degree.

"This study indicates the deficiency of calcium in Washington's water and soils does not reduce the calcium content of dairy products produced in this area," Dr. Rowntree said. "In addition to Washington milk having a high comparative calcium content, other tests show that calcium is not removed when milk is pasteurized. Pasteurized and raw milk both have the same calcium content."

After comparing 21 samples of cottage cheese from three dairies, Miss Simeon found cottage cheese made in Washington contains 15 per cent more calcium than the generally accepted average for the United States.

Of the dairy products studied, results showed that Cheddar cheese contains the most concentrated source of calcium. This is true because whole milk is used in the process, Dr. Rowntree said.

Into the restaurant came a regular customer. He ignored the menu, but looked up at the waiter and said, "What have you got that will give me heartburn immediately instead of at three o'clock in the morning?"

Portable Unit to Promote Fluorine Vs. Tooth Decay

A new dental program which will demonstrate the use of fluorine in reducing tooth decay will soon be under way in the state of Washington. Sodium fluoride, applied to the teeth of children (topical application) will reduce tooth decay on an average of forty per cent.

Doctor Arthur L. Ringle, State Director of Health, received word today from the U. S. Public Health Service that a demonstration unit will be made available somewhere near the first of October. Washington will probably be the first state in the West to inaugurate the program.

The unit will be provided by the Public Health Service and will consist of a dentist, two dental hygienists, and a secretary. The program provides for the use of a portable unit which will move to various areas throughout the state, and will be under the supervision of the State Department of Health in cooperation with the Washington State Dental Association.

The objectives of the demonstration program are to inform the public generally in regard to topical fluoride treatments, and to make communities more dental health conscious. It is hoped that communities may want to carry on similar programs of their own by beginning permanent programs or improving existing ones.

It should be pointed out that although fluoride applications cut down tooth decay on an average of forty per cent, this might mean that one child may benefit by an eighty per cent reduction, and another child by only twenty per cent reduction or less. Although sodium fluoride is effective in combating dental decay, one should remember that it is not a cure-all, and periodic visits to the dentist are still the most important phase of dental health. It must be recognized, too, that there are other accepted measures for controlling this disease.

Because it is a demonstration program and will operate in the state for a limited number of months, it will be impossible for the unit to visit every community. The State Department of Health and State Dental Association have not yet completed plans regarding dates and locations to be visited. Further announcements will be made at a later date.

Eastvold Reports Europe Dependent

could be pictured in the U. S. Morale was gone and so were morals. Bunks were arranged in tiers of three and the camps were unclean, unsanitary—and impossible.

General Impressions

Dr. Eastvold expressed these general conclusions:

1. "Most Europeans are cynical, interested only in having food, shelter and clothing. They have been fooled so often by their rulers that they care nothing about what type of government they get. They want only to be fed, clothed and housed. They want peace, but they are uncertain. The vast majority of the exiles, who fled from Hitler or Stalin, however, are praying for a third World War, hoping that Russian Communism will thus be wiped out. Of course, they expect America to carry that burden.

2. "We just cannot afford to isolate ourselves and quit Berlin. Every European nation feels confidence in us and to quit under such circumstances would be tragically disappointing and cause us to 'lose face' that could never be recovered. Everyone abroad expects the U. S. to call Stalin's bluff.

3. "Lack of American dollars in the Scandinavian countries—in fact, all of Europe—is hurting international trade. There, education is on a high plane, but there is almost a total disinterest in the church.

4. "It is sad to see Europe slowly being de-Christianized. By that I mean, being indifferent to the faith that was brought to them by their forebears. The people are not anti-church; they are not against religion; they willingly pay taxes for state-supported churches, but they are cynical, pleasure-seeking and avoid church attendance.

5. "Fear of a new war was frequently expressed by Englishmen when the British Isles were visited in June, but that subsided later. The Scandinavian countries were less fearful."

There were some bright spots in the picture, as told by Dr. Eastvold. These were the camps maintained in various countries by church groups.

"The work of the church is helping to save Germany from Communism," Dr. Eastvold said. "Christian kindness does pay dividends. The Lutheran church, for instance, has sent twenty-five millions from the U. S. for the rehabilitation of war sufferers in Europe."

Finland Impresses

Finland, particularly, impressed the Parkland educator. A country that has had 76 wars with Russia in its long history, its people take no chances. They are always on the alert. They have done a splendid job in absorbing 1,000,000 persons left homeless as a result of the last war. The people there wear suits 10 years or more; a man is fined if found with more than one pair of shoes; necessities are rationed, yet the morale of the country is high, said Dr. Eastvold. This country is weighted down by Russian dominance. She must pay a $300,000,000 war indemnity based on the 1938 dollar. Here, war is always expected and its people live always in expectancy of it, as they would rather die fighting for their country than to be under Russian dominance.

Yes, the Eastvolds are happy to be home again, in a land where freedom of speech is permitted, in a country where people eat regularly, in a nation that has luxuries where other people have bare necessities, and much of that only by the grace and generosity of Americans.

President Maria Brickert. The president of the Sumner unit, Mrs. John McClane, acted as sergeant-at-arms most properly.

The president, Mrs. Funk, spoke in praise of the work of the unit and complimented the ladies upon their originality and attractive exhibit at the Hobby Hour at the Puyallup Fair, saying further that many visitors, were impressed by the ideals of the American Legion, which the exhibit illustrated.

During the ceremonies, presentation of gifts, in appreciation of their meritorious service, were made to Mrs. Irma Long, re-elected president, Mrs. Mable Hart and Mrs. Amy Wormald.

Throughout the evening, for the joint services, Mrs. Young of Rhodes Post acted graciously as guest musician for the occasion, for which we express our appreciation.

After the ladies of the Auxiliary were installed there followed the installation of the officers of the Post. Officers performing the service were Commander Al Bragg, Vice Commander Brickert, Sgt.-at-arms Will Bierer and their installing team. Comrade Hunt, out-going commander, was presented with the Past Commander's Jewel and was given much commendation for his work during the past year. The newly-elected Commander, Wm. Lee Bailey, pledged himself to be a loyal Legionnaire and to carry on to their completion the purposes of the American Legion in this community.

That of course, means building our Memorial Hall. He further challenged every member to get in and push for the success of the Legion—a great organization, second to none in the United States.

Everybody was pleased to hear Miss Virginia Queen give an interesting account of her experiences as the Girls' State representative from Clover Creek Unit No. 118. She said her knowledge of government procedure was much developed and her understanding of the principles of Americanism clarified because of her learning gleaned at Girls' State. After all the formalities of the evening were ended, everyone enjoyed a social hour, a sumptuous repast planned by our nonpariel chef au cuisine, Mrs. Amy Warmald, and pleasing musical numbers presented by the men of our neighboring Post No. 228 of Parkland. In fact, everyone was so pleased with everybody and everything, that the wish was expressed that it would be a "swell idea to have more such occasions."

Well, come on out folks, and get the spirit of the Legion. We can make a good team, you and the American Legion.

"See that boy over there annoying Mabel?"

"Why, he isn't even looking at her."

"That's what's annoying her."
