AMERICAN LEGION

Meetings every second and fourth
Friday at 8:00 p.m. in the Sunshine Hall

Tomorrow night the fair sex will reign supreme. (Not that they don't all the time, but this is sort of a special deal.) We have several lady Legionnaires and are mighty proud of them, too. They earned the right to full-fledged membership through service during the war in the many branches of the armed services that opened their ranks to women. We have found that the ladies of the Post are our most willing and conscientious workers. Their presence makes the meetings so much more interesting—gives the meeting a certain something that rounds out any discussion. Face it, men! The ladies' opinions and ideas are always new, interesting and constructive.

Tomorrow night is Ladies' night and all former WACs, WAVES SPARS, Army and Navy Nurses and lady Marines are cordially invited.

CLOVER CREEK POST NO. 118
AMERICAN LEGION

Meetings every second and fourth
Friday at 8:00 p.m. in the
Spanaway School

Greetings to all Comrades and Ladies of American Legion Post No. 118, and A Happy New Year.

Since last your reporter sent in a message, all the holiday activities have taken place. Notable were the several hospital visits on Christmas Eve, accompanied by gifts for every hospitalized veteran. Save for these gifts many veterans would have been completely ignored, and Christmas would have passed its weary way as the other three hundred sixty four days of his year. Instead, joy was on the face of each patient, and while tears glistened in many eyes—all were thankful for the gaily wrapped gift packages. "Not to be forgotten," as they were listening to Christmas carols over the air, put the finishing touch to their holiday season and proved that some folks care.

So, dear Comrades, chins up! You are to be glad that you dug deeply into the "old sock" for these gift packages and, dear ladies, be glad that the weary hours you spent in beautifully wrapping the Christmas packages brought such rich reward. As a witness to these hours of satisfaction, I, too, wish to congratulate you upon these labors and tell you your labor was not in vain and was indeed worth the effort.

Your Commander, William Lee Bailey, now somewhat stronger, takes this opportunity to add his appreciation to the Comrades and Ladies and wishes to bespeak his pride in his Post for the part his comrades played in dispensing Christmas cheer, and says "more power to you."

This Friday, January 14, will be held the first meeting in this new year.

The Comrades will meet in the Scout hall, but the Ladies Auxiliary will hold its meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Irma Long.

So, everybody all out! Start the new year right. Start right with the new year and put your shoulder to the wheel of our great American Legion, and carry through its noble aims.

Frozen water coils in the kitchen range indirectly caused $250 damage to the home of Mrs. A. V. Thompson, 96th and Golden Given, January 10. Knowing that the pipes were frozen, Mrs. Thompson made a fire in the range hoping to thaw them. Just as the stove exploded, she was entering the kitchen from another part of the house. Had she been in the room, death would likely have resulted. She was thrown to the floor from the concussion and parts of the stove flew all about, breaking cupboards and windows in the kitchen and completely demolishing the range. Harvard, Midland and Larchmont fire department answered Mrs. Thompson's call, but luckily no fire broke out.

What Value Received?

Votes cast at the polls November 2 last have already been counted and the tally marked official. Now those votes are to be counted again in their true significance—during the biennial session of the Washington state legislature which convened this week in Olympia.

Our state legislature convened on the heels of the opening of the national Congress. This sequence is an indication of the relative attention centered on the national and state law-making bodies. The national government is first in the spotlight of public interest and generally almost completely overshadows the state governments. At increasing pace governmental functions have been stripped from the states and centralized in Washington, D. C. Yet there is much that our state legislators can and must do and much more that a strong state law-making body could and should accomplish, to bring government closer to home.

The legislative session now getting under way in Olympia is faced with a number of impressive problems. How positively it meets them will show what value is received for the votes cast last November.

Residents of this area are near neighbors to the state capital and from that fact have exceptional opportunities to sit in on legislative meetings. Those who use their opportunities to attend will be well rewarded in surer knowledge of law-making processes. They will come to understand that law-making is almost always a process of compromise. They will get to know the qualities that make for an effective legislator and will be in position to look for those qualities when candidates are again set before them.

Crowded hours of a legislative session show points of interest to every viewer. Seeing a chapter of law written is often incentive to subsequent following of the workings of that law, leading in turn to more enlightened citizenship. Those who go to scoff at the zany antics frequently present at a legislative session and just as frequently given undue prominence will soon learn that sober hard work is pre-eminent.

Attention now being given the results of "the fine print" in newly adopted initiative measures—particularly the pension law—is giving strength to adverse criticism of the initiative process. Though we rightly consider the initiative petition precious, we find it imperiled by the practice of hiding niggers in the phrasing timbers of true people's mandate. One who has witnessed the close attention that trained law makers pay to the most minor phrases of a proposed act will not readily be led to endorse any proposal not soundly drafted.

Whether or not you use your seat in the galleries at Olympia, you'll pay for it. If you do use it, you'll get something out of the current performance. Your presence will spur the performers and you will be a more discerning purchaser when the advance bills go up for the next attraction, two years from now.

Since it's pleasant to think that honor accorded any individual among our residents is shared by the whole community, Parkland folk are feeling mighty good this week over Mrs. Ray Renwick's re-election as chairman of the county library board. It's honor she well deserves.

Also, the county library branch in Parkland deserves to be better known and patronized. It is located in the Parkland school for use of adults as well as school children.

COAST'S TELEPHONES DOUBLE IN TEN YEARS

How we've made your telephone a more valuable servant than ever... and a better buy too

2. Our family had to grow to make this gain. In '38 we numbered some 29,000 men and women. Today there are more than double that number... operators, installers, linemen, plant maintenance men... all the people who make telephone service possible. And training them to do their work for the West was a big job in itself.

4. All these new telephones give you more value from your own telephone. You can call more people... more people can get in touch with you. And it keeps right on being a big bargain. Even in these days of higher prices, a few pennies still buy a telephone call.

3. An amazing number of miles of wire has been added to link these new telephones... 6,000,000 miles of it. New buildings by the hundreds have been built and sensitive equipment installed. Yet we're far from through. For the West is growing still—and it must have good telephone service to help it grow soundly.

University Slates Open House Dates At Medical Center

To provide the public with a preview of the new Health Sciences building at the University of Washington, an open house will be held in the first units of the building Saturday and Sunday, January 22 and 23.

The structure, which eventually will accommodate the Medical, Dental and Nursing Schools, will be open for guided tours from 1 to 5 p.m. both days.

Continuous tours of the Dental School clinics and laboratories, medical school clinics and basic science laboratories, as well as administrative offices and conference rooms, will be conducted by faculty members of the Health Sciences division.

The public will have an opportunity to see the unique 110-chair dental operatory in which actual diagnosis and treatment are now being conducted by third-year dental students. Operating cabinets in this main clinic were designed by Dr. Ernest M. Jones, dean of the School of Dentistry.

Other interesting features that will be explained on the tours include a 600-seat auditorium and modern library facilities.

The new building is one of the most functional and modern of its kind in the world. Its planning involved intensive study of medical and dental training facilities throughout the United States.

The structure is unique in its integration of departmental activities. When the proposed 500-bed hospital for teaching and research is completed, the Health Sciences center will be unexcelled in the nation.

At present, only the first three units of the building are in use. Five other units will be completed in time for classes next fall. Facilities eventually will serve from 3,000 to 3,800 students, including undergraduate and graduate students in medicine, dentistry, nursing and related fields.

BOND HOLDERS MAY RE-INVEST EARNINGS IN NEW BONDS

Individual holders of Government Savings Bonds, Series D-1939, which begin maturing January 1, 1949, may now re-invest the proceeds of these bonds in Series E Savings Bonds without regard to annual limitation.

This announcement was made recently by Reno Odlin, Tacoma banker, and state chairman of the United States Savings Bond Division.

"Holders of the 1939 D bonds may re-invest the earnings of their maturing bonds up to any amount that their maturities will fully cover," Odlin said. "The Series E bonds so acquired will be exempt from the $10,000 (maturity value) annual limitation. Their purchase, however, is restricted to individual holders of the maturing D bonds."

The D bond series were issued by the Government between January 1939 and May 1941. Their sales to individual investors during these years exceeded $1,000,000,000. They were the last in the "Baby Bond" Series, which started in March 1935, when the A bond series were first sold to the public.

Withholding Forms Due This Month From Employers

Employers of the State of Washington and Alaska are reminded by the collector of internal revenue, Clark Squire, that the following federal withholding tax forms must be filed by January 31, in connection with wages paid during 1948.

Form W-1 must be filed to report and pay income taxes withheld from employees' wages during the fourth quarter of last year.

The withholding statements, Form W-2, in duplicate, must be given every employee from whose wages taxes were withheld during 1948. This is the withholding receipt, one copy of which must be attached by the employer to his income tax return.

The triplicate copies of Form W-2 (Forms W-2a) must be submitted to the office of the collector, together with an adding machine tape or similar list, indicating the total of tax withheld as shown on all Forms W-2. These statements are to be accompanied by Form W-3, which reconciles the total of the quarterly tax payments made by the employer during the year with the total amounts withheld, as indicated on the adding machine tape. Any discrepancy between these two amounts must be fully explained by an attached statement.

Minimum Wage of Women, Minors Is Raised for State

A legal minimum wage of 65 cents an hour will become effective April 1 for all women and minors employed in office work in the State of Washington, Earl N. Anderson, chairman of the Industrial Welfare Committee, announced this week at Seattle.

The order rescinds a previous order, issued in 1942, setting the minimum wage at 37½ cents an hour. The new order applies to all women and minors employed in office work and similar occupations, whether they are paid on a time, piece rate, commission or other basis. A minor is defined as any person, male or female, under the age of 18 years.

Exempted from the order are women and minors employed: (1) by common carrier railroads, sleeping car, freight and express companies subject to federal laws; (2) as nurses or nurses' aids not engaged in office work, and (3) telephone operators employed directly by a telephone company and not engaged in office work.

Hours of employment are made subject to any applicable statutes of the State, with specific provisions for lunch periods of at least 30 minutes in each eight-hour shift. Rest periods of at least ten minutes in every four-hour period of employment are required. Safety, sanitation, first-aid, illumination and heating standards are established.

Mrs. Renwick Again Heads Library Board

Mrs. Ray Renwick of Parkland was re-elected chairman of the Pierce county library board, for the coming year, when the board held its annual meeting January 10, at library headquarters. Carlin Aden of Lakewood was chosen vice-chairman.

WHY IS JANUARY 15 A TAX DATE?

The pay-as-you-go system collects substantially the full tax of the average wage-earner by withholding a portion of his tax from each paycheck. Therefore, January 15 does not apply to him.

The pay-as-you-go system requires others, especially farmers, business and professional people, investors, landlords, and certain wage-earners, to pay estimated tax (Form 1040-ES). January 15 is the last day for filing, amending, and paying estimated tax for these people.

Since January 15 falls on Saturday this year, Monday, January 17, becomes the deadline for amending 1948 Declarations of Estimated Income and for paying the tax.

MRS. LAPENSKI WILL TELL HOW PARKLAND P-TA DOES
