South End Team

At the opening game of the Pacific Coast Football League in Tacoma Stadium last Sunday afternoon, the South End was not only well represented in the large crowd of fans but in officials and workers also. Morris Ford, Stan Willis and Paul Larson handled the yardage markers during the game while men at the gates and working about the field were mostly PLC students. No less than four former Pacific Lutheran grid greats—Marv Tommervik, Marv Harshman, Earl Platt and Sig Sigurdson—are members of the Tacoma Indians team.

Busted Bubble

Just when I myself—Beard, that is—thought I was making a bit of progress towards learning to fly an airplane, that man Norman Hondle, instructor, had to spring some new maneuvers and was my bubble burst. Well, to make a short story long, last Thursday I went jauntily to Mr. Russell's flying headquarters and we warmed up the Taylorcraft. Then Hondle says, "Okay, we'll shoot some take-offs and landings."

Snake Dance

We taxied down to the runway's end, swung into the breeze, tested the magnetoes and then I got final instructions before sailing away. "Give her full throttle, keep 'er straight down the runway, wings level, stick forward, tail up, then ease back, she'll take herself off the ground!" That's all, easy, isn't it? I push in the throttle all the way. We pick up speed fast. I think of getting the tail up, then the craft wants to head towards Henry's; push the rudder quick and back we go toward John's; tail's too high now and got to get the rig straight. All this at 70 miles per hour. Think of a snake slithering down a country path at that speed and you get an idea of how that Taylorcraft looked. About this time Norm yelled to pull back on the stick and get off the ground and up we went, just in time to swish over a pile of stumps 40 rods from where that plane should have been. All of this action took place in about two seconds flat. After getting a couple hundred feet between us and the ground I looked at Hondle and he was gasping for breath. How that man keeps his youthful appearance is more than I'll ever know.

Coming Down

We circled the field and then started down for a landing. The pilot must be able to judge the proper height and distance away from the head of the runway to start his glide. This is done while banking and turning into the field and according to the instructor this is just another maneuver. It is for the boy who is tried and true. But for me, phooey. I started gliding—first too fast then too slow—my muscles tense, which is no good, and I can't tell whether we are two hundred feet or twenty off the ground. Norm says head into the runway straight and wings level. Keep up flying speed, pull the nose up, come back on the stick—more, more. Wham, we hit the ground, bounce ten feet in the air, settle down again and then swish a long the ground. I try again to keep her straight on the ground and hoping all the time the plane will stop rolling before we reach that south fence. It does.

Over and Over Again

That first round leaves me a bit on the weak side and more of my hair has turned to silver, but Hondle says to taxi on up the field and try again. Off we go, not much better the second time around, but maybe not quite so nervous. After four rounds I was mighty glad when that half hour was up. The mental hazard in this take-off and landing business is the toughest hump to get over. And it leaves one a bit fatigued. However, two days later, Hondle took me through another half hour of take-offs and landings. I started out a bit shaky but found that I could keep the plane on a straighter course down the runway and thus concentrate more on the process of a smooth lift into the air. Those landings, though, are still something to be mastered. I can get the plane down over the runway fairly straight and level, but just when that three-point touch is ripe still has me baffled.

Hangar Flying

Talking shop with the men at the airfield is known as hangar flying, and when Wayne Russell, Joe Entus, Norm Hondle and other pilots at the field get going there's not even any sky limit. But of one thing I am sure—if motorists were as careful to check their autos as the men do their planes and pilots before they take to the air the accident rate would be cut in half. Another thing one learns at these gabfests is that all student pilots have about the same troubles and that as one gets more mechanical in the small details of piloting, flying becomes easy.

LUTES TO PLAY ON SATURDAY

TANGLE WITH ST. MARTIN'S UNDER THE LIGHTS AT OLYMPIA

By Lenny Anderson

Eight Gladiator lettermen will lead Pacific Lutheran College gridriders in the opening game of their quest for a fourth straight Winko championship at 8 p.m. this Saturday night against the St. Martin's Rangers at Olympia.

PAUL POLILLO Regular End

Not be on hand, it is true, but Lutheran Coach Cliff Olson feels he has a backfield combination that may be capable of approaching the performances of the marvelous Marvs in: (1) Frank Spear, Tommervik's bullet-passing understudy in '41, and (2) Jack (The Riot) Guyot, the hard-hitting, shifty fullback from Ballard.

Plenty of Veterans

DON D'ANDREA

Jack Proud, freshman from Stadium; Pete Peterson, the Anacortes letterman; big Don D'Andrea, veteran center; letterman Erling Holand, Eldon Kyllo, the seasoned tackle from LaCrosse, and Captain Paul Polillo, the Ridgefield Reacher.

Tommervik has been handling the backs as Olson's chief assistant, and big George Fallstrom, the veteran tackle from the '41 team, has been working with the linemen.

Tackles Aplenty

Cliff's big problem has been at the tackle post, where there is a wealth of oversized wreckers but a dearth of seasoned material. He feels that before the season is done, however, these forwards will be playing a smashing brand of ball and there are enough lettermen in the backfield to give the club good scoring punch.

The loss of Gordon Bolton, promising frosh backfield candidate, and Don Loete, rangy tackle aspirant, put a dent in Olson's hopes earlier this week, but with an initial turnout of 84 gridriders—largest in the history of the school—he has had a good selection to work from, and probably more replacements than he has benches.

REOPEN DRIVE FOR MEMORIAL

PARKLAND CLUB SEEKS $2,166.65 TO COMPLETE FUND FOR MONUMENT

Parkland Community Club will renew its drive for funds to complete its War Memorial and a group of workers will start at once to canvass for contributions, according to an announcement Wednesday by Herbert Socolofsky, president of the club. The sum needed is $2,166.65.

The War Memorial committee, headed by Morris Ford and Stan Willis, met Monday night to reorganize and make plans to raise the needed funds.

An original goal of $5,000 was established and a drive was started on August 6. However, so many people were not available due to vacations, etc., that a temporary halt was called. The club members now plan to have the campaign raised in a short time and bids for the construction of the two tennis courts and memorial fountain will be called for.

"I feel that the destiny of Parkland as a fully united community depends on the completion of the War Memorial," Socolofsky said. "We cannot fail. Posterity is entitled to know the part played by our brave young people in the late great conflict. This memorial will provide such recognition as well as a permanent recreational facility."

PARKLAND PTA HAS INCREASE

436 Paid Members on Roster for This School Year, It Is Announced at Meeting

The first fall meeting of the Parkland P.T.A. was unique in the experience of veteran P.T.A. members, as it was marked by several changes of routine.

After President Mrs. L. C. Klippen called on Rev. George Cooper for the invocation, three trim Girls' Club members, June Wellan, Nancy Hall and Wilma Chapman, dressed in black and white, entered the auditorium carrying the colors which they presented for the flag salute.

Mrs. A. Samnerud introduced Cleve Woods and Spencer Phipps who presented several musical numbers after which Frank O. Sather told the audience why the State P.T.A. is urging the public to vote "No" on Referendum 27.

Mrs. Jack Hart was elected treasurer of the P.T.A. as Mrs. Harold Anderson resigned the position. It was announced that there were 436 paid memberships in the P.T.A., an increase over last year.

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Klippen departed from the usual procedure by inviting the parents down to the luncheon room for the introduction to the teachers. There a lovely surprise awaited the teachers for the women were presented with corsages and the men with boutonnieres. The eighth and ninth grade mothers were hostesses.

Fire Chief Answers Call

Couldn't Take Truck Outside H. M. and L. Area; Goes Himself

H. M. and L. Fire Chief Dave McPherson answered a fire call from Summit at the Stanley Harding home on McCackran Road, a quarter mile east of Knapp Road, at 10:30 a.m.; Sept. 17. Because it was out of the district, McPherson could not take the truck, leaving the H. M. and L. district unprotected.

McPherson organized neighbors who were attempting to stop the blaze in the one story bungalow which had apparently started from a crack in the concrete block chimney. Through his quick action, a garden hose, and volunteer help, the fire was put out. The damage was estimated at $430.

Because of the crack in the chimney a wall stud caught fire spreading to the kitchen ceiling and roof. McPherson climbed to the roof, pushed a hole through it and the kitchen ceiling, and inserted the garden hose.

Stanley Harding, whose house it was, was away at the time.

CAN YOU GIVE TO FIRE HALL?

Household Items Are Needed to Furnish Quarters in New Parkland Station

The generous hearts of Parklandites have been asked to swell again in a good cause. The new fire station is nearing completion and the Parkland Fire Department's women's auxiliary has undertaken the task of furnishing the quarters which the men on duty will occupy. The women voted to tackle the job at a meeting held last Thursday night with Mrs. Louis Duffy as hostess. It was determined that not enough surplus furnishings could be secured from members alone so a call has been made for help from the good people residing within the fire protection district.

The following articles will be welcomed with appreciation on end:

First aid kit, towels, pillows, furniture, kitchen and table utensils, cots or twin beds or any other items that might be useful about the fire hall. Persons having contributions can have the stuff picked up by calling one of the following:

Mrs. H. W. Jenness, GR 7359.
Mrs. Louis Duffy, GR 7795.
Mrs. Haley Peterson, GR 8833.

THE FOREST MUMMERY

The logging industry is primarily for cutting trees. When it has cut enough trees it throws them in the water and they are washed up on the beach and make swell places for beach-fires. We should all, therefore, admire the logging industry and prevent forest fires, which annoy it very much.

The first thing needed for a logging industry is a forest, preferably a forest of trees. Trees have, on the whole, been found to make the best lumber, and every effort should be made to start a logging industry in a region where there are trees.

Logging for Beginners

Trees are usually found by a man called a surveyor, who goes out with his dog and finds all the trees you want by keeping away from cities and highways. The dog has been found invaluable for this purpose, and has his own sleeping quarters, called a pup-tent.

Once a tree has been found, a man with a Swedish accent is sent out to cut it down. This man, known as a "faller," can easily be identified by the fact that he yells "timber!" just before the tree falls down.

Unfortunately, if you are close enough to a faller to hear him yell "timber!" you will probably be killed by the tree when it falls down. This is known as workman's compensation and is quite popular.

Besides his axe and his Swedish accent, the faller must take along a friend who is a "bucker." This man saws the big tree, once it is felled, into a lot of little trees, making it look like more and fooling the company.

Donkey Serenade

Wherever the faller and bucker go they are followed by a donkey.

Goodbye Mr. Truman

The past week has seen a bad rift develop in the Democratic party and from one who is not particularly a political sage, it appears that President Truman is singing his swan song. To those citizens who believe that Franklin Delano Roosevelt was a great statesman—and they are legion—what Henry Wallace advocates sounds like good diplomacy and a continuation of the policies of a man who had Russia on friendly terms with the U. S. A.

Whether Americans as a whole like communism or not it must be admitted that Russia has emerged from the war a great world power, even overshadowing England. The right kind of diplomacy now can bring about co-operation and peaceful relations forever.

If we are to follow the "get-tough" policy advocated by many of the big press combines and some of our reactionary politicians then we should prepare for war, for surely that is the road to intolerance among peoples which ends on the battlefield.

Truman has made a grave error in vacillating on this matter and he has surely lost the support of all those liberal democrats which now make up the largest membership in the party. Henry Wallace has gained many backers the past several days and may emerge stronger in the party than Truman. The Democrats have tried to avoid an open rebellion against the president. It can't be done, so the leaders should rally around a man such as Wallace who carries the banner of liberalism and world cooperation.

Now We're All Against It

Comes to hand this week a pamphlet from Puget Sound Power and Light stating that this private power company is against Initiative No. 166. This initiative will be on the November general election ballot and is explained briefly thus: It requires a vote of the people on bond issues of public utility districts for the condemnation or purchase of existing electric utility property.

Common knowledge is that this measure was drawn up by a coalition of large private power companies which spent plenty of money to get enough signatures to place it upon the ballot. Up jumps P.S.P. and L. to say "It ain't so good, boys, so let us out."

People interested in getting more and cheaper power through public ownership knew 166 for what it was at the outset and are fighting it. Now that one of the private power trusts has also come out against the bill that should make it unanimous. It's a shame public money has to be spent to bring the matter to a vote.

"On June 7, 1946, the directors of the Puget Sound Power & Light Company, after careful consideration and full discussion, adopted the following resolution:

"RESOLVED—That the Board of Directors of this Company deems Initiative No. 166 to be opposed to the public interest and to the interests of the Company, its employees and its stockholders.

"The reasons why the directors are opposed to Initiative 166 and believe it should be defeated are as follows:

"1. Initiative No. 166 misleads the people in that it gives the impression that the adoption of the measure will improve private power's capacity to exist and effectively function. It is assumed that the real objective of 166 is to preserve private enterprise in power. However, such will not be the case. 166 does not in any way seek to provide for tax equality with public power. The people must come to the realization now that what private power needs and must have in order to live is tax equality with public power and the elimination of subsidized public power competition. There is no other legislative remedy or cure. When the need is the greatest for legislation as to public power competition, 166 completely ignores this deadly aspect of the situation. This is no time for rear guard actions which obscure and confuse the basic power issues. If private enterprise in power is to be preserved the approach must be positive and realistic.

"2. Initiative No. 166 does not provide for a vote of the people on bond issues for the construction of duplicate facilities. Thus the measure is astonishingly inconsistent and if, as appears, the objective is to prevent the districts from getting into business—such will not be the case. It just doesn't make good sense to require a vote of the people on the acquisition of existing electric utility facilities regardless of how small the amount of property involved and at the same time leave the gate wide open for the districts to spend huge sums for the duplication of facilities which is very costly, extremely wasteful and decidedly not in the public interest.

"3. Initiative No. 166 encourages the utility districts to engage in a program of duplication of facilities because a vote of the people is not required on such a program. It fans the flames rather than puts out the fire. Instead of resulting in the elimination of subsidized public power competition, this measure would bring about the expansion of such competition. For example, Seattle City Light, which is in competition with the Puget Sound Power & Light Company in the Seattle area, has issued over $70,000,000 of revenue bonds without a vote of the people. This measure plays into the hands of the Bonneville Administration which, it is understood, has been advocating that the public utility districts engage in a program of duplication of facilities. The Bonneville Administration is setting an example for public utility districts in the matter of direct competition by proposing to sell power direct to some of the Company's industrial customers at rates cheaper than it is willing to sell the same amount of power to the Company for resale.

"4. Initiative No. 166 provides a stimulus for the establishment of a Columbia Valley Authority or other like federal agency, for as long as public power has such large tax and cheap money advantages, if it does not get into business through the vehicle of public utility districts, public power will seek other ways to expand its activities. This is especially true as long as the Bonneville Act and the administration of it gives decided preferences and special privileges to public agencies. Thus enactment of 166 could pave the way for complete federal domination of electric power in this State.

"5. Initiative No. 166 contains provisions which are contradictory. For example—the language of Section 5 of 166 is ambiguous. The first part of this Section purports to save pending condemnation proceedings and executory purchase contracts from the operation of the Act and the requirement of a vote for the acquisition of utility property. The last part of the Section seems to contradict this saving provision. Neither voters nor others can be sure of the meaning of such contradictory language until it is construed by the courts.

"6. Initiative No. 166 would not prevent piecemeal condemnation but it could make an overall purchase of existing utility property extremely difficult if not impossible. On the face of it Initiative 166 seems simple and fair enough. The people should have a right to vote on any matter at any time when they feel it is in their interest to do so. However, from a practical standpoint, the provisions of 166 are so confusing and so contradictory and the procedure as to a vote of the people is so involved and so cumbersome as to actually prevent an overall purchase of existing electric utility property even though so doing would be the best of alternatives for all concerned. An indication of the practical difficulty of the districts effecting a purchase of existing electric utility property under 166 is as follows:

"Before the stockholders of this Company would act on a purchase proposal they would want assurance that, in the event they voted to accept the proposal, the necessary cash would be available to pay for their stock. On the other hand, before the people of each district affected would vote on an overall purchase proposal, they would want to know that the proposal was acceptable to the other districts and to the stockholders. In other words, neither the people nor the stockholders would want to be voting on trial balloons.

If unfair public competition is not eliminated by proper legislation then in any transition from private to public power fair treatment should be accorded the public, the Company, its stockholders, employees and customers. In such case it would be in the best interests of all concerned that the existing facilities of the Company be purchased at a fair price and with proper provision made for employee rights. The alternatives of condemnation and competition through duplication of facilities are basically destructive. Neither acquisition by condemnation nor a program of duplication of facilities affords any protection of employee jobs, pensions, insurance and other rights. Human rights and property rights should not be wiped out by governmental oppression or confiscatory procedures.

"7. Initiative No. 166 fails to provide any protection of employees' jobs, pensions, insurance and other rights. Any amendment of the public utility district laws should provide, in the event of acquisition of private utility property, for the preservation of employee rights and benefits which have accrued under private utility operation."

Feeding Schedule For Laying Pullets

With millions of laying pullets in Washington how being placed in the laying house, the Poultry Council of the State College calls attention to the following feeding schedule for pullets.

"This feeding schedule is a result of many years of study by the Poultry Council and is now being used by hundreds of successful poultrymen of the state," says Fred Fraiser, Washington extension poultryman.

The schedule is for 100 birds and may be used successfully for all breeds of laying pullets, according to Fraiser.

1. The birds should have not less than a 13-hour day. It is recommended that the artificial lights be turned on at 7 a.m. and off at 8 p.m.
 2. They should receive laying mash once each day, at least. Fill hoppers only half full to prevent wastage.
 3. For grain feeding, the following schedule is recommended: Feed three pounds of heavy whole oats in the morning. Wheat or scratch is fed in the afternoon, with the amount varying according to the production and body weight of the birds—about 7-8 pounds for leghorns and 8-10 pounds for heavies.
 4. Green feed may be fed at noon. Not over five pounds daily. This amount should be decreased if yolk color is too dark.
 5. It is recommended that oyster shell be fed twice each week and kept constantly before the birds. Granite or silica grit is necessary and should be kept constantly before the birds.
- Make sure all your canning jars are free from cracks and chips. A lot more than the price of the jar is lost if food spoils.

Letter to the Editor

Spanaway, Wash.
Sept. 19, 1946.
Dear Editor of Prairie Pointer:
I saw in your paper where Mrs. V. L. Statham was visiting her brother, Harold Baker, and family, and it made me think of the colored man who met his master and said there was no news, only the barn burned. So I must write and tell you more or I will never sleep a wink, even though it is 1 a.m.

Mrs. V. L. Statham of Riverdale, Calif., is my baby sister of a family of nine, all living, and our mother is 84 years old and one of the oldest pioneers to come to Washington.

I cut and polish rocks, and so my sister and her husband came up to spend the day with me to see them (also my mother, Mrs. W. Holt and husband and my sister, Mrs. Davidson came) and we had a lovely dinner and they looked at rocks. My brother-in-law was just speechless—he never knew there were such things.

Then on Sunday we all went to my sister's—Mrs. Davidson's—in Steilacoom for a turkey dinner (one of Gaul' frozen, and was it good!) My three brothers—W. H. Davis, Charley Baker and Harold Baker and families were there, and we four sisters—Mrs. W. Davidson and Mrs. Carrie Simons, Mrs. V. L. Statham and myself, Alice Moorten, and our families—our mother and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. Holt, and my sister's son, Stanley Simons, and his new wife, just married on the 6th of September. They had a very large wedding at First Presbyterian Church in Tacoma and we were all there. (One sister and one brother were not with us—Mrs. W. Lucas and Henry Baker.)

After dinner Mr. Davidson took them all for a ride around the bay in his new yacht. My sister, Mrs. V. L. Statham, had not been home for 12 years, so we all did our best to entertain them.

On Monday Harold Baker took them to Mt. Rainier and on over to Coulee Dam. They went back to California on Tuesday, very tired but pretty breathless with it all. My mother had 12 children, 9 living, and has 29 grandchildren, and, I think, 22 great-grandchildren.

Now maybe I can sleep (maybe you can't, after all this.)
Alice Moorten

Spanaway Couple Exchange Vows In Church Ceremony Last Saturday

A small but charming wedding was held last Saturday evening in the Little Chapel of the First Congregational Church, Tacoma, when Miss Katharine Esther Waterman, Spanaway, daughter of Storrs Seymour Waterman of Redondo, became the bride of Burton Scott Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Brewer of Spanaway.

The Rev. Paul Van Horn performed the double ring ceremony. The bride, wearing a suit of green wool, soft gray hat, white blouse and black pumps, was given in marriage by her father. Her flowers were white orchids, and she carried a handkerchief which was also carried by her grandmother 75 years ago.

Her only attendant was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Storrs Seymour Waterman, Jr., who wore a suit of brown wool with matching accessories and a corsage of roses. For his best man the bridegroom chose his brother, George M.

Brewer, Jr. Miss Maxine Shaw played the organ.

Following the service, guests were received by Mrs. Waterman, Jr., the bride's father, and the bridegroom's parents, who stood with the young couple.

Tea was served from a lace covered table centered by the wedding cake and set with silver. Serving were Mrs. Richard Brewer, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Mrs. Sam B. Stocking, cousin of the bride, and Mesdames George Brewer, Jr., Elizabeth Thomas and Hunter Kennard.

Later the couple left for a week's motor trip along the Oregon coast.

Mrs. Brewer is a graduate of Stadium high school and the College of Puget Sound, where she was affiliated with Delta Alpha Gamma sorority. Afterward she was an aerographer with the United States Navy, stationed for three years in Norfolk, Va., and Washington, D. C. Mr. Brewer is a graduate of Lincoln high school and attended Washington State College, where his fraternity was Theta Xi. He spent five years in the United States with the rank of first sergeant in the quarter-master corps, and was stationed in New Guinea and the Philippines.

The couple will make their home in Parkland.

Brooklyn—A Brooklyn truck driver is convinced that this is a tough old world. He couldn't make a living with his truck, so he turned to bookmaking. He complained to an officer: "And now every player is beating me." Magistrate Ambrose J. Haddock in Gamblers Court took pity, gave the driver (and his pocketbook) a 15-day rest when he couldn't pay the $75 fine.

I want to Protect my Right to Vote on how my money is spent

Vote X FOR INITIATIVE 166

Under existing laws public utility districts may take over electric systems and issue bonds to pay for them without a vote of the people on the proposal or cost.

School boards, county commissioners, city and town commissioners, port commissioners, all submit plans, costs, and bond issues to a vote of the people in the democratic American way.

Initiative 166 is a simple, straightforward measure to give you, the voters, the right to vote yes or no on PUD plans to buy electric systems. You will know the plan of purchase in advance. You will know the cost in advance. You will know the bonds to be issued in advance. You may then vote to approve or reject the proposal in an election which will show the majority-will of the voters affected.

What valid reason can anyone have for objecting to a vote of the people on how their money is spent? To protect your right to vote on how your money is spent, Vote FOR Initiative 166.

Forest Mummery

chases the spark into the woods until one or the other is extinguished.

When the tree has been placed on the flatcar, it becomes a log. This is made official by a "scaler," a man who climbs up on the loads and measures the logs in board feet. When the locomotive engineer thinks the scaler has measured enough board feet, he starts the train, throwing the scaler off the loads and usually killing him. Besides the workmen's compensation involved, this helps to amuse the locomotive engineer and prepare him for the arduous journey ahead.

During the trip, the logs depend for their welfare upon two men who sit on top of the last load of logs with their knees crossed. These are known as "brakemen," or "brakies," and it is their function to annoy the locomotive as much as possible. They do this by jumping off the train, setting switches, and forcing the locomotive into a siding. They then wave their arms at one another until the locomotive is obliged to go to the back of the train in disgrace. The train then starts off again with the locomotive tamed by pushing, instead of pulling and fuming at the sight of the two "brakies" now sitting on top of the front load, with their knees crossed.

Rough Water Needed

Thus, when the locomotive reaches the sea, it is in an excellent mood to hurl all the logs into the water and stalk back into the woods in a huff. What the locomotive doesn't know, of course, is that this is exactly what the company wants it to do. For, as soon as the locomotive has gone, a number of men appear on the logs, and start sticking them with sharp poles to see if they are ripe. These are the "boommens," whose job consists chiefly of staying on the logs without falling into the water. At this point, another scaler appears to see whether the dead scaler up in the woods has correctly counted the number of board feet in the logs.

Unfortunately, this scaler is maintained by the government and the company cannot kill him off. Unless, of course, there is a change in the government, in which case the company can obtain permission without much difficulty.

Finally, a tug comes into the bay to take away all the logs that have been found to be ripe and showing the proper number of board feet. When it is a suitable distance out to sea, the tug is struck by a sharp storm, losing most of its logs, which are washed up on the beaches, where they are quickly demolished by a swarm of beach parties.

When good neighbors get together...

The same thoughtfulness that makes you a good neighbor also makes you a good party-line user. That's why good neighbors sharing the same line . . . giving each other the same consideration and help . . . get the most out of their telephone service.

with these simple golden rules you can't miss...

- Space your calls instead of making a series of them without interruption.
- Talk only as long as you have to on each call.
- Replace the receiver properly when you finish talking.
- Make certain, if you are using a dial telephone, that the line is clear before you dial.
- Ask your youngsters not to monopolize the telephone. Thank you.
