

ALONG THE STREET

Shriner Pilgrimage

In case you haven't heard about it from him personally, here's a little of Win Hunt's story of the famous Shriner pilgrimage to San Francisco last month.

Marching seemed to have been the major activity during the week the 22,000 overran San Francisco. When they held their big parade Wednesday night, the streets were as crowded at 4 a.m. Thursday as on a shopping Saturday.

Rest and quiet were not particularly the aim of this first post-war jaunt and the Affi Shrine started the week right with band concerts on the train every two hours throughout the night, with hill billy renditions at the off hours.

Canterbury Hotel personnel know the Affi men intimately. They took over the entire place. Affi Shriners are particularly impressed with California hospitality. They were accorded every usual courtesy of a hospitable city plus a generous downpour of familiar, homelike rain.

Each Shrine group presented unusual entertainment and souvenirs—for example, the genuine Hawaiian music of the Aloha Temple and their Kanaka dancers. Those extra features provided by those imaginative Masons are what make a trip memorable.

The night of the big parade the exercises made a lot of the Shriners ravenously hungry, so hungry that they stopped right there on Market street and ordered breakfast. Waiters rushed back and forth through traffic with piles of satisfying food. For some reason the police were sympathetic with the hungry breakfasters and carefully routed cars around them.

Any more details of the grand trek to San Francisco may be obtained from your nearest Shriners. In passing let us report the confidential remark made by one of the San Francisco restaurant keepers. He said, "You Shriners are swell fellows, but I just can't stand those Masons."

More Bird Stuff

That man's at it again. Pointer Publisher Beard has notched lessons three and four in his flying career and, believe it or not, hasn't loosened a hangnail. However, you can thank Norman Hondle for that because if it were not for his deft instructions Buddy Boy would by now have knocked Prof. Pfeleger off that tall ladder he has been on building a new fireplace chimney.

Turns

When he gets the Taylorcraft into the air Hondle explains how to make a 180-degree turn with the right amount of bank and rudder. So I slant the stick over and apply the rudder. Around we go, and how. First thing I know the air speed shows about a hundred and eighty and I'm looking right down Win Hunt's throat, who's staring up from the street below wondering what kind of a crazy stunt some fool aviator is putting on. After leveling off from that Norm says the bank was too steep, and I'm willing to agree, what with almost losing my upper plate. Then I take it a little easier, and it's surprising how quickly one can grasp the proper co-ordination.

Time Will Tell

In these early lessons the procedure is to practice turns and climbs and glides perfecting the technique and coordination. Much of this appears to come with getting the feel of the plane. That "feel" for your's truly is still in the offing. I hope that it will come before too long or Wayne Russell and Hondle might get together and recommend that I do my flying from a rocking chair in an old folks home. It won't be long before I'll know whether that stuff Russell gave me about this flying being an old man's game is the goods. So far it has been a very thrilling and enjoyable experience.

PARKLAND GETS NEW FIRE TRUCK

DELIVERED AFTER FINAL TEST BY STATE FIRE UNDERWRITERS

Delivery of the new fire truck which the Parkland Fire Protection District commissioners had on order since last April was made Tuesday after a thorough test by a representative of the Washington Survey and Rating Bureau.

The testing was done at Spanaway Lake where it was put through a series of pumping and pressure runs of three hours duration. Paul Braun, of the rating bureau, supervised this work. Kenneth Swain and Hugh L. Putnam handled the truck and equipment for their company, the Howard Cooper Corporation. Clarence Marsh and Fritz Beitz, Parkland fire commissioners, were present to observe the operations. A note of interest was pointed out by the commissioners in that an approximate $800 increase in the equipment cost has taken place since this truck was purchased. The total price is $6,800, while on today's market it would be near $7,600.

Specifications

Truck and equipment are listed as follows:

One 500-gallon Howard Cooper Seagrave pumper mounted on a Chevrolet chassis; 1 auxiliary pump for putting out brush fires while the machine is in motion; 1,000 feet hose body; one 500-gallon booster tank; one 24-ft. extension ladder; one 12-ft. roof ladder; one axe; one crowbar; one siren; one 2½-gallon foam type extinguisher; one cab control spotlight; two red warning lights; two rear loading lights; two 10-ft. lengths of 4-inch suction hose; one suction strainer; one pike pole; 800 feet of 1½-inch hose with nozzles; 400 feet of 2½-inch hose with nozzles.

Until the new fire station is completed the truck will be stationed at Beitz Garage, Airport and Mt. Highway.

TURKEY MEN WILL CONFER

WILL REORGANIZE STATE FEDERATION; DISCUSS FOWL DISEASES

The Washington State Turkey Federation's 1946 meeting, scheduled for August 30 at Tacoma, will "probably be the most important turkey meeting ever held in the State of Washington," says Fred Frasier, extension poultryman at the State College of Washington.

"It's importance is the direct outcome of the reorganization of the State Turkey Federation," according to Frasier.

Especially invited are turkey raisers, breeders, hatcherymen and feed dealers. Other interested persons are also welcome. The meeting will be held at the Winthrop hotel.

Dr. W. A. Billings, a noted turkey authority from the University of Minnesota, will be the featured speaker. L. C. Boggs, president of the Federation, has announced. Billings is said to be one of the best known turkey authorities in the country. He is a poultry veterinarian, and has had much to do with making Minnesota gain the position of one of the top three turkey-producing states in the country, according to Boggs.

"Doc" Billings' main topics will be disease control, feeding and marketing. He has had years of experience with controlling Blackhead in turkey flocks and, since Blackhead is still one of the more serious turkey diseases in Washington flocks, Billings may be expected to bring information and advice that will be valuable not only to every turkey raiser in the state, but to those persons who are allied to the turkey industry, says Boggs.

Other speakers on the program will be Prof. J. S. Carver, head of the poultry department of Washington State College; T. L. Brown and Bob Mitchell, prominent state turkeymen; and L. C. Boggs.

MANY CASES OF MEASLES

Doctor Warns Against Measles, Whooping Cough and Diphtheria

Measles and whooping cough, which many parents consider to be relatively mild and not serious ailments, have cost the lives of 27 Washington children and adults in the first half of this year, Dr. C. E. Reddick, Pierce county health officer, said yesterday.

Many Measles Cases

"This has been a heavy measles year, in line with earlier predictions," Dr. Reddick said. "More than 12,000 cases were reported throughout the state in the first six months, resulting in 20 deaths. Any exposure to measles should be brought to a doctor's attention immediately, so that he may prevent its development or make it less severe with human immune serum globulin."

Whooping cough is particularly severe with infants under three months old, Dr. Reddick declared. Almost half of all whooping cough deaths occur in this age group. Since immunization of infants is not very effective until after they are three months old, the practice of immunizing mothers during pregnancy to protect the baby is gaining acceptance, he said. The baby should get its first whooping cough immunization at about three months of age.

High Diphtheria Rate

Several recent diphtheria deaths in Washington have underscored the need for immunizing children against the disease, which usually kills about one in ten of its victims. The diphtheria rate in Washington has been unnecessarily high for the past two or three years, according to Dr. Reddick, because not enough children have been immunized.

Immunizations for any of these diseases may be obtained from the family physician or from the Pierce County Health Department.

JONES, SIBURG ARE MARRIED

PIONEER, DR. LANDEN, PERFORMS CEREMONY FOR 3RD GENERATION

Third in three generations of marriages was performed Saturday, August 6, at 8 p.m. in the First Methodist Church in Tacoma by the minister, Dr. George A. Landen, aged 92, who had officiated at the same ceremony for the bride's grandmother and grandfather in 188, Mrs. Mary Smith and the late W. T. Smith.

Dr. Landen joined in holy matrimony, Betty Mae Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Southworth of Parkland, and Jim Howard Siburg, son of the Otto Siburgs, also of Parkland.

Against a graceful setting of white flowers, gladiolas, stocks, pink larkspur and rose and white aisle bouquets, the bridal party progressed down the aisle to the wedding march played by Mrs. Walter McHoney on the organ.

The bride was escorted by her father and attended by Miss Betty May Wilson, maid of honor, dressed in a cloudy rose gown. Other bride's attendants in the procession were Misses Mildred Price, Marian McCormick, Mrs. Robert Cook, the former Bernice Peterson, and the junior bridesmaid, Gratia Louise Siburg, sister of the groom. They were all dressed in delicate pink gowns designed like the bride's.

She wore a white dress of shining slipper satin and tulle, fashioned with a round neckline, fitted bodice, and a yoke of net extending to the deep fold of satin which topped the gown. A graceful train trailed from the full skirt. Completing her wedding gown was a fingertip length illusion veil and a bouquet of ivory roses with orchids and streamers of stephanotis.

Her attendants carried bouquets of lavender and rose gladioli and cream roses, while the junior bridesmaid's bouquet was of dark pink gladioli and dainty sweetheart roses. Fresh flower coronets adorned their hair.

Gerald Siburg, brother of the bridegroom, was his best man. His cousin, Phil Sessions, was an usher with Smith Campbell, Charles Bonham and Robert Jones, the bride's brother.

Double Ring Ceremony

Dr. George Landen performed the double ring ceremony, having officiated at the weddings of the bride's mother, Mrs. Roy Southworth, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Smith.

The bride's mother wore a blue gown with a corsage of white baby orchids. Mrs. Siburg was dressed in a white Jersey print and wore orchids in her hair.

Miss Jeanne Winters added to the solemnity of the occasion with solos, including "I Love You Truly."

More than 300 guests were present.

Reception in Parlors

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for over three hundred guests with Mrs. Herbert A l g e o, the bride's aunt, and Mrs. Jim Pine, the groom's aunt, presiding. Assisting them were Mesdames Harry Southworth, Charles Southworth, Bert Hartzel, Lee Heilmeyer and Miss Trudy Traill.

Mrs. Smith Campbell and Mrs. Warren Peterson cut the bride's cake and the Misses Louise Siburg and Kay Southworth cut that of the bridegroom.

The guest book was handled by Miss Lisetta Rowe while the gifts were supervised by Mesdames Louis Cedarcrans and Verna Barbee.

Trip to Canada

The happy couple left by boat for a week's trip in Canada. Mrs. Siburg wore a three-piece gray gabardine suit with navy blue accessories and Alaska marten furs.

They are well known in Tacoma and Parkland. The bride attended Lincoln high school and Pacific Lutheran College, and the groom Lincoln high school, and U. S. Maritime Officers school in Alameda, Calif., where he graduated in 1945. Their new home will be at Brookdale. Mr. Siburg and his

HOPPERS TO MEET

Prairie Hoppers plan to meet this week on Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Elk Plain hall.

OREGONIANS VISIT

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bryson, Parkland, were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton of Salem, Oregon.

We Must Not Fail

Friends, this is an appeal for you to give generously to the living memorial to Parkland's war heroes. The task of raising $5,000 for the project has been shouldered by the Community Club and during the past week a crew of volunteer workers has been making a house to house canvass.

In this time only $1,395.50 has been subscribed. This is a dismal showing for such a progressive community. It is as if the people are saying: "Yes, veterans, we know you fought for us and won, and saved our right to be free men. But now it's done so let's forget it."

It is not conceivable that such is the case, and with a little thought surely the right and need for such a memorial will stand out as a necessary monument to those who sacrificed and served our great commonwealth.

The community must not fail to bring into being such a living and useful tribute to all who so valiantly went to war and gave even to their very lives.

Just a few dollars from each resident of the great Parkland area will bring this monument into being. Be sure YOU are wearing that badge which says: "I Gave."

Elk Plain Club Will Pick School Cook

A special meeting of the Elk Plain School Club will be held at the school to decide on a cook for the coming year.

Anyone wishing to apply for the position should turn in an application to Mrs. E. L. Haskins, Loveland, before Friday noon.

Meeting is to be Friday, August 16, at 2 o'clock.

We're Trying, Folks

Almost every week The Pointer staff hears "gripes" about one community getting more publicity than another or one fire department being publicized while the other is treated with coolness.

When The Pointer was established our aim was to give every community an equal coverage of news and we have endeavored to engender a feeling that the entire South End is more or less one big community. However, we cannot manufacture news and therefore try to record events as they happen. One week Spanaway may have more activities which come to our notice than does Parkland or Midland and thus that particular district gets headline mention. Too many folks forget that maybe only a short time previous their pet project was in the news spotlight.

This newspaper cannot live unless it renders a service to all of the communities in the area served. Therefore, we are trying to give each its just share of news coverage. To an individual his own personal problem is of utmost importance, and therefore he often forgets that maybe his neighbor has a problem of just as great importance. In reporting these problems The Pointer tries to evaluate them as to how much importance they are to the greatest number of persons. No matter how hard it tries a newspaper will always be accused by some as favoring certain individuals or projects. The Pointer has been trying to avoid such accusations as much as possible, but human frailties being what they are we no doubt get "off the beam" now and then.

However, The Pointer will keep trying to be fair and bend every effort to promote the entire South End as a whole. Some day in the not too distant future we hope this section will become one united community as it should, and instead of several community clubs there will be one; instead of several fire departments there will be one giving complete protection to every home; instead of many separated school districts there will be a uniting to bring a high school that can serve all the communities equally.

OPA Gets Bronx' Cheer

In other sections of the country the OPA may be popular and in demand but if local opinion is any criterion it certainly is in disrepute hereabouts. One hears discussions of the price administration almost constantly. In restaurants, in the stores, or whenever a group gathers invariably the conversation gets around to OPA and there seems to be almost a unanimous accord that the bill should never have been revived.

With such a strong feeling against the measure it is surprising that the congressmen from the northwest were so wholeheartedly for it. They seemed almost hysterical in their efforts to restore price controls. As near as one can judge from listening to the man in the street, he is willing and anxious to let supply and demand have a chance to regulate prices.

There appears to be a feeling that prices would spiral for a period of time but without government controls a quick pickup in production schedules would soon supply the demand and thus bring about a leveling off of the price structure.

Now under the present administration policy a great cloud of doubt has spread over manufacturers and retailers and indications are that another freezing up of the markets is taking place.

It has been noted in the past that when a national representative stays too long in congress he tends to lose touch with his constituents. And this is apparently the case with some of our delegates. A word of advice to these men is that they lower their national sights and have a look around their own backyard. That's where the votes come from, and right now these voters are a little bit upset by some of the things done in Washington—OPA and otherwise.

Worthy of Note

For all their so-called faults newspapers do try to produce some worthy community efforts, and more often than not succeed in bringing about betterments in communal living. What is on our mind to say is that the Tacoma Times has come out with a daily front page feature that will no doubt do some great good in the future.

"We Suggest" is the title of a boxed article each day suggesting an improvement for the city of Tacoma. So far the subjects touched upon have been worthy of note and if acted upon by the proper officials can bring much good for the townspeople.

NURSE'S CAREER OPEN TO GIRLS

TACOMA GENERAL HOSPITAL SEEKING GIRLS FROM 18 TO 30

More opportunities in the career of nursing face the young women of Pierce county today than practically any other profession, it was pointed out this week as the deadline nears for enrollment in the School of Nursing of Tacoma General Hospital.

Applications at Tacoma General Nursing School from women between the ages of 18 to 30 will be accepted until August 25 for the new term which marks the opening of a three-year course of study and training.

Besides the increased opportunities offered in a career of nursing, the new agreement between the Pierce County Hospital Council and Washington State Nurses Association, the registered nurse commands top salaries, as well as vacations with pay, sick leave and other benefits.

Approved School

Approved by the Washington State Board of Nurse Examiners for the registration of nurses, Tacoma General Hospital School of Nursing was organized more than half a century ago and has since been admitting students regularly for study and training so that they might enter an honorable and well-paying profession.

A non-sectarian school, admission requirements are not too stringent. All that is required is proficiency in 16 units of secondary school subjects, of which some are prescribed and the remainder elective.

With the program of expansion at Tacoma General Hospital, the nursing school has not been overlooked. A new nurses' home, with the latest of comfortable and modern surroundings soon will be opened and will provide quarters for students enrolling in the nursing school.

$385 For 3 Years

Tuition at the hospital school for the three-year course of study and training costs but $385, which covers all fees, food and miscellaneous items.

Another feature of the school is the 12-week vacation period during training, which affords ample time for the student for recreation and other outside activity.

When a Tacoma General Hospital student nurse completes her training, she is awarded the pin of the school, which then makes her eligible for the state examination to become a registered nurse, a professional field in which demand for her services is ever-increasing.

Because the number of applicants by August 25 is limited, prospective students are urged to immediately contact Dorothy E. Glynn, R. N., principal of the school of nursing and director of nursing service, Tacoma General Hospital, Tacoma, for further details.

When they arrived in Ensenada, Mexico, they found no English speaking Mexicans and only a few white people, who were tourists also.

They saw Grand Canyon from top to bottom on a horse and Pike's Peak, 14,910 feet up, by car. After visiting relatives in North Dakota they toured Yellowstone Park. A record was established, they are convinced, when they made the entire trip of 7,655 miles without one flat tire.

BREADWINNER—This young Chinese in Hunan Province is gathering weeds for his family near Hengyang. Supplementing a small allotment of flour from UNRRA, the weeds are all that maintain life for this boy's family as for many other Chinese in famine-ridden areas. To support greater shipments of food to the starving, Americans are asked to conserve their wheat and wheat products, produce all the food possible in Victory Gardens as well as on the farm, and to preserve their surplus food.

Personality

in the beauty art in addition to enhancing natural charms has often been the aim of clever women.

Black "beauty spots" were applied to the face by many women living today.

In the 17th century women stuck patches to their faces shaped like stars, moons, gnats, and in one case reported the woman wore on her forehead the silhouette of a stage coach and horses.

Women of ancient India painted colored designs on their faces in shapes of birds, flowers and conventional ornaments.

For the charm of today's beauty techniques, see Parkland's Beauty Shop experts.

TIGERS LOSE CLOSING GAME

Lincoln Electrics Win Contest, 12-4, at Jefferson Playfield on August 7

Midland Tigers were defeated by Lincoln Electrics, August 7, at Jefferson playfield No. 1. The game ended 12-4 and was the last game for the Tigers in the City Women's League season. They are second in the second round with 4 games won and 2 lost, moving them up a step from their third place in the first round. Patsy Strachan was socking them out again to be high point player for the Tigers with two runs. Three runs were scored by Jackie Church, making her Lincoln high point player. While the Electrics scored all the way through the game it wasn't till the sixth and seventh innings that the Tigers found an opening to sock out one run in the sixth and three in the seventh.

Midland batteries were: pitching, Esther Deuel, who struck out none, walked three and threw five balls that collided with Lincoln bats; and Barbara Taylor, who also struck out none and walked three, but allowed seven runs. Patsy Strachan and Esther Deuel caught.

Teddy Davis pitched for Lincoln, striking out three, walking three and sending 13 balls to the field. Patsy Strachan of the Tigers and Lincoln's Betty Knowles hit the ball the longest distance in the game and landed on second base.

Tellie Pagni manages the Electrics and John Deuel the Tigers. Les Bishop umpired.

Chicago—Neurotic Al Arati was thirsty. So he jumped from a bridge into the river, drank his fill and swam to shore. Awaiting him was an ambulance, a pulmotor and a cop. The latter arrested Al on a disorderly conduct charge.

Tigers Win From Hardware Girls

Gathering darkness increased tension at the baseball game between the Midland Tigers and the Washington Hardware team, Aug. 2 at Franklin playfield.

Tigers led the Hardware gang with eight runs to one until the latter took the last trip up to bat for four runs hit out into a darkening field.

In spite of the poor visibility, Pitcher Barbara Taylor held the score to five for an eight to five victory.

Patsy Hankinson was highest scorer for the Tigers, batting out four runs. Esther Deuel caught and Taylor pitched for Midland. John Deuel manages the Tigers. Charlotte Nelson and Katy Martin manage the Hardware team. The former pitched and Kitlar was catcher.

COUPLE WED IN TOPEKA, KANS.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stockton, Parkland, announced the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Louise, to Delmar James Olson of Tacoma, on July 19 in the Trinity Lutheran church of Topeka, Kansas. The Reverend C. R. Friedstrom officiated. Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Mee.

Mrs. Olson attended Pacific Lutheran College after graduating from Lincoln High School. She joined the Waves in 1942, received basic training at Hunter College in New York City, and was stationed at the air field in Alameda, California. After receiving her discharge in November she studied advanced secretarial work in Oakland, Calif.

Opdahl-Dahl Rites Performed July 6

A recent wedding of interest to many Parkland folks was that of Ruth E. Opdahl, daughter of Mrs. John T. Opdahl, and Orwoll F. Dahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. J. Dahl of Parkland. They were married July 6 at Granite Falls, Minn., by the Rev. Scriber Peterson in the [Granite Falls Lutheran Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Guy Jacobson. She wore a dress of nylon marquisette with eyelet bodice, a sweetheart veil with seed pearl and lace applique, and carried white roses. Her attendants, gowned in pastel, yellow, pink and blue, were the Misses LaVerne Klusmann and Trudy Opdahl, bridesmaids, and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, matron of honor. Candles were lighted by the Misses Bernice Anderson and Helen Holien.

Mr. Dahl's best man was his brother, J. Stanley Dahl of Parkland. Ushers were George Butorac and Lloyd G. Johnson.

The couple met in North Dakota more than three years ago while Orv was one of a group of thirteen PLC men who began their naval training at North Dakota State Teachers College. Later Mr. Dahl completed midshipman's school at Columbia University and until his recent discharge from the navy served as gunnery officer aboard the U. S. S. Kasaan Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. J. Dahl and sons Hans, Jr., and Stanley motored east for the wedding.

The newly married couple spent several weeks honeymooning at a lake resort near Ely, Minn., and traveling in the midwest, before driving on to Parkland where they are at home on Cleveland street.

Mary Ruth Lono Marries Ira Otto

The Rev. Mikkel Lono, pastor of Grace Lutheran church, Alpena, Michigan, performed the ceremony which united in marriage his daughter Mary Ruth to Ira L. Otto, son of Mrs. Ira S. Otto, of Linwood, Md., and the late Mr. Otto. Garden flowers, rambler roses and blue delphinium were used in the church.

Preceding the ceremony "Crown With Thy Benediction" by Mendelssohn was sung by the church choir. Other vocal numbers included "The Lord's Prayer" by Mrs. Erwin Flewelling and "O Perfect Love" sung by the choir. Miss Harriette Hansen was organist.

The bride wore white marquisette with inset bands of imported lace. The long skirt ended in a train and her fingertip length veil had a beaded halo. She carried a white Bible on top of which was placed a corsage of roses and sweet peas. Miss Ingrid Lono, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lois Ann Belk, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. William Belk of Alpena, and Kathryn Kraabel, Canby, Minn., cousin of the bride.

Open house was held at the parsonage following the service with members and friends of the congregation calling to meet the bride and bridegroom, both of whom are strangers in the community. Assisting in serving were members of the Senior Sunbeams, L. D. R., and pouring were four aunts of the bride, Mesdames T. O. Kraabel, R. E. Kraabel, Alf M. Kraabel and M. O. Kraabel. Miss Eline Kraegel, also an aunt, cut the wedding cake assisted by Mrs. Norman Despeaux, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Thelma Kraabel, aunt of the bride, was assisted by the Misses Ruth Martinson, Marie Kelsey, Millie Jacobson and Evelyn Jerdee, who served as hostesses.

Drives From California

Dr. George A. Landen, for whom this was the third wedding in as many generations, is a tall, stately clergyman of 92 years. He drove his own car from his home in Riverside, Calif., to Boise, Idaho, to attend the ministers' conference, thence to Walla Walla, Wash., to attend the Pacific Northwest Conference. He arrived in the Puget Sound country to visit relatives, old friends, and to perform the marriage ceremony for Betty Mae Jones and Jim Siburg.

He was a charter member of the Puget Sound Conference of the Methodist Church. Since 1884 he has held pastorates in Puyallup, West and South Tacoma, Olympia, Seattle, Sumner and Mason and Trinity Churches in Tacoma. Successively he was superintendent of the Centralia, Bellingham and Seattle districts.

Was Pioneer Minister

From the early pioneer days since 1883 when he rode horseback over the trails of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, Dr. George A. Landen has preached the gospel and assisted in the ordination of more Methodist ministers and at the opening and dedication of more Methodist Churches in the Pacific Northwest than any other minister in this great region.

Organize State TB Conference

Organization of the State Conference of Tuberculosis Secretaries was one of the accomplishments of the annual meeting of the Washington Tuberculosis Association held in Seattle July 30 and 31.

Mrs. Helen M. Davis of Pacific county was elected chairman of the organization with Mrs. Georgia LeDuc of Spokane county as vice chairman and Miss Margaret Randolph of Yakima county as secretary.

The conference will include all local executive secretaries and professional personnel of tuberculosis leagues in the state of Washington. The need of such a professional organization to discuss mutual problems and to exchange ideas for program development has been established in other sections of the country.

Miss Virginia Parsons, associate director, program development, of the National Tuberculosis Association, described how such groups were functioning elsewhere and recommended the organization of the conference in the state of Washington.

Staff personnel of the Pierce County Tuberculosis League holding membership in the newly formed conference include: Miss Stella S. Kellogg, executive secretary; Miss Jean M. Hallen, health education secretary; and Mrs. Lillian Jones, rehabilitation director of the Mountain View Sanatorium.

Woman's World

Furs in August always seem very inappropriate and even uncomfortable to contemplate. If you have a fur coat, however, it's a matter of some anxiety to see how much in or out of style it is. If you plan on buying one, your problem is to look them over at every opportunity in order to make a wise purchase.

Coats being shown by leading stores are eminently luxurious this post-war year. They have pushed up full sleeves, round shoulders, and flare widely, either to swagger or full length. Wrapped in their soft ample folds, a woman might feel very well cared for.

Fall fashion people are now insisting that black dresses are de rigueur and are tempting us with figure flattering rayon satins and crepes. Full skirts, side drapes, high necks, snug waists make these little dresses an asset in any wardrobe.

Clearance sales are worth watching for this time of year and should help stretch our summer wardrobes.

To those of us who don't dare give fur coats a second thought for fear of what we might do to our budget, there is some consolation in thinking that we don't have to dress like a movie queen or a Mrs. Astor to be happy. On the other hand, should a rich uncle leave us his estate, we probably would very much enjoy wearing mink.

It's easy enough to understand why a beautiful fur coat is a pleasure to wear, but there are some who insist we slaves of fashion only dress to show off, without regard to the season. At a large university one of the professors was famous for his statements that women dressed in total disregard of the weather requirements. He was at a loss for words when, on a hot spring day, one of the girls appeared in class dressed in a bathing suit only.

One of America's earliest philosophers, Henry Thoreau, declared most men chose clothes because of their love of novelty and regard for the opinions of others, rather than to keep warm, or to cover nakedness. Man is more anxious to have clean, unpatched clothes than to have a sound conscience, he charged.

As for the fall season coming up, Thoreau would say, look out for occasions that require new clothes and not instead a new wearer. Daily, as a garment becomes part of us, it reflects our character.

If philosopher Thoreau could look into our closets, perhaps he would be less critical. He would undoubtedly find several old favorites, dresses or suits, which we are fond of and cannot bear to part with. If only our clothes would not wear out!

Engineer Describes Care of Tractor

These tips on "what to do when the tractor stalls" are given by William H. Johnson, agricultural engineer at the State College of Washington:

It is good common sense—if your tractor isn't performing satisfactorily—to check the easiest portion of the machine first. The ignition system on tractors is the easiest system to check. It is also that part of the machine which is most often at fault.

Test Spark

To check for a good spark on a tractor engine, all you need to do is to disconnect the spark wires and hold them up near the block. For a more thorough check, it may be advisable to remove the plug from the engine and lay it on the block. Good sparks should always jump a gap of at least one-eighth inch, but the exact spark-plug gap for the particular engine which you are dealing with should be ascertained by consulting the instruction manual for your machine.

If you have no spark at all, a common place to look for trouble is on the breaker points of the magneto. If the breaker points are rough or dirty, or are not able to open or close properly you will get no spark. Also, check your wiring for broken insulation or loose connections. Sometimes your plugs or magneto may become grounded because of dirt or grease on the plugs or magneto.

Fuel May Be Poor

The second system which should be checked is the fuel system. If there is any question about the fuel system, the first thing to do is to remove the spark plugs after cranking or turning the engine over several times to determine whether the fuel is getting to the cylinders. If fuel is available at the cylinders, it is a wise plan to check the fuel to see if it will burn well. This may sound ridiculous, but a good deal of time can often be saved by simply taking a little of the fuel, placing it on the ground and touching a match to it. Good gasoline will burn briskly. Poor gasoline burns slowly and waveringly, and if there is much water in the fuel it will not burn at all.

Check Carburetor

If your fuel is satisfactory, check your carburetor to see if it is supplied with fuel. This can be done in several ways, depending on the kind of carburetor you have. You may be able to examine the float chamber easily or open the drain under the carburetor. If your carburetor is supplied with fuel, check the needle valve for dirt. This can be done by closing it gently and then opening it and removing to see if dirt is on the stem.

If the trouble seems to be in the carburetor, it is best to take it to a mechanic for repair or replacement.

It is impossible to cover all the phases of tractor care and adjustment in this space. The one factor which cannot be over-emphasized is: Follow the instruction book recommendations. Attention to this rule, plus good common sense on the part of the operator, will result in many more years of satisfactory service from your tractor.

Homemakers' Hints

Store canned goods in a cool, dark place. Red and yellow fruit are sensitive to light. Hang paper or curtain over the shelf if there's a window in the storage space.

Total fat collections dropped from 16 million pounds in April to 12 million pounds in May. Homemakers should continue to use all fat drippings for cooking and turn them and other salvaged fats in when their usefulness is over. The world-wide shortage of fat continues.

An old hen may be steamed until tender, stuffed with cornbread dressing, brushed well with fat, and roasted for 45 minutes, until nicely browned. Baste from time to time with some of the broth mixed with additional fat.

Caterpillar Eggs Cause Inquiries

Disturbed by masses of a "dark gray or silvery" substance on their trees and plants, a number of residents of several Western Washington counties have written recently to Dave Brannon, extension entomologist at the State College of Washington, to inquire anxiously concerning the nature of this strange condition.

These are tent caterpillar eggs, says Brannon. They are the result of an extremely heavy outbreak of tent caterpillars which occurred in these counties earlier this season. "In many areas," said Brannon, "the entire tree was covered with caterpillars, and the trees were defoliated in a short period of time."

From these caterpillars there developed moths. The females of the moths lay thousands and thousands of egg clusters on various trees and plants and even on raspberry and strawberry fruits. These egg masses appear as "very characteristic rings and are covered with a silvery gray or dark cement." The tiny caterpillars form in the late fall, pass the winter within the egg cells, and emerge when the leaves begin to unfold in the spring.

"There is not much that can be done at this season of the year to control next year's infestation—other than to destroy the egg masses whenever they are found," says Brannon. "Close watch should be kept of the trees and shrubs next spring at the time the leaves begin to appear, for evidences of caterpillars. A thorough application of lead arsenate at the rate of two pounds to 100 gallons of water will give effective control of the worms when they appear in the spring."

We Deliver the Food Abroad

In the year ending June 30, the United States exported a record-breaking 16½ million long tons of precious foodstuffs to avert famine abroad. This great contribution in meeting world food shortages may be measured by the fact that of all food distributed from United States supplies in 1945-46, one out of every six pounds went overseas, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

President Truman has paid tribute to his countrymen for achieving an almost impossible task as follows:

"Only by cooperation and determined effort on the part of everyone has it been possible to make good on our promises—and, in the case of food grains, to exceed our commitments. The public generally, food producers and handlers, transportation companies, organizations, and government agencies—all have helped to make this impressive record possible."

Bread grains—mostly wheat and flour—made up the bulk of 1945-46 shipments. In the year from July 1, 1945, to June 30 this year, the U. S. shipped 11,747,000 long tons of all grains. These foods, high in calories and easily handled, were the greatest needs of the hungry nations. Quantities of other foods exported were: dairy products (cheese and condensed, evaporated and dried milk), 764,000 tons; meat, 614,000 tons; fats and oils, 356,000 tons; and 3,200,000 tons of relief foods such as dry beans, and peas, potatoes, sweet potatoes, fruits and vegetables, sugar, eggs and canned fish.
