Plan Parkland Survey

Next Sunday, February 17, the members of Trinity Lutheran Church will conduct a house-to-house church survey in Parkland. After meeting at the church at 2:00 p.m. to receive materials, they will canvass an area from 96th to 138th streets and from the freeway to Waller Road. The purpose of the survey is to take a census of religious affiliation and preference in the community. The results of the survey will be made available to churches of the other denominations and all interested individuals. Commenting on the project, the Reverend Erling C. Thompson, Pastor of the Church said, "Our congregation is glad to undertake this task and we do so with a sense of high responsibility to God and the community. Naturally we hope that every citizen will recognize this and be willing to give us the statistics and information we seek. Lest unauthorized people should appear at the doors on Sunday we have instructed each visitor to wear a blue ribbon on his lapel with the word SURVEY imprinted in gold. In addition to this, an official calling card bearing a picture of Trinity Church will be given in each home. We do not ask to enter the home but merely to take down the essential information. It is our sincere hope that with information given by our neighbors, the ministry of the church can be made more effective in our fine community."

Armstrong, Carmin Write Of Sewers

Dear Editor: For some time now I have been sitting back reading about little things and big things in the Times Journal. I never in my life thought that I would ever think of sitting down and making up a letter to a paper of any kind about plumbing, or as it reads, Sewers For Sanitation. Of course, being a plumber and making a living at it puts me in somewhat of a spot to make a statement of any kind, mainly because I do make a living at it: However, there comes a time when a person just can't keep from making a statement of some kind. For years now I have read article after article about whether or not we need sewers for Parkland—I read about the cost of sewers, I read about the district lines or boundaries, I read whether or not we even need sewers. I have read articles about sewers from people that have no idea of what they are talking about other than that they can run water into a sewer line and never have to worry about it running over or stopping up. At this time, I would like to say that I don't want to offend anyone too much, but some people are so mixed up by the things that they read in the paper nowadays that it is hard to tell who is telling the truth. I would like to say that plumbing is one of the most important things in this world. Water is one of the most important things that we have on this earth. Our drinking water in the out-laying areas comes from the ground. We at this time, are taking millions of gallons of water out of the ground each day of the week. We are, at the same time, putting back into that same ground the same water that we have taken out of the ground, but we are putting it back in a very bad condition. In fact, it is not safe to use anymore until it has treatment of some kind. When I look around and see big schools, bridges, freeways big churches, I see big business and home after home. I read in the paper of people who get sick from some unknown cause and spend millions of dollars to find out why they are sick. They spend millions for lights in in the distant future, become one large sewer district. As to the plain facts he talks about, I am sure the information being spread about the Parkland Sewer District is based on anything but facts. His group says our plans are impractical. On what grounds? If they have a better system in mind, if, as Mr. Morris says, many of them are not against the sewers, we would be glad to hear of it and work with them. One seasoned bank executive, whose judgment and wisdom could hardly be questioned, aptly says: "If they dissolve the district, they are only postponing the inevitable and it will cost more later." In their determined drive to dissolve the district, they are giving out erroneous information. They are even getting the pro-sewer people to sign the petition by saying their purpose is to dissolve the district and then form a larger one so the cost will be less. It is wrong ethically and it is wrong by actual financial fact. We know some of the men trying to dissolve the district. It could even, (Continued on Page 4) district. They fought the sewer district from the start when the front foot assessment would have been $3.50 instead of the $6 to $7 as would be necessary now. After that bitter lesson they still fight the sewer.

system is roughly two-thirds of the total cost. The $7 per front foot goes mostly for laying the pipe in front of your house. Regardless of any increase in size of the district, it will never cost less per front foot because the larger the district, the more pipe you have to lay in almost direct proportion. The $7 per front foot plus the $100 side sewer charge (the cost of the pipe from the street main to your property line) can be paid all at once in cash or over a 20-year period.

The other $3.50 per month (called the monthly service charge) also goes for paying off bonds and the operating and maintenance expenses come out of this. These are 30 year bonds. This $3.50 per month service charge could be adjusted downward over a period of years as increasing revenue comes in from the trunk. But it certainly would not be less now even if the district were larger.

Your commissioners, and I do not believe anyone else, would want to build sewers without first taking in East A Street, South on Pacific Avenue, PLU, or any territory west of present boundaries that desire to join. That would, of course, be entirely up to them. It is easy for these areas to join by vote. It could also be done by petition of the property owners without a vote. With this latter method, there is no expense whatsoever in the expansion process.

To dissolve the district now and organize a new one would be a time consuming and costly process. By that time the costs would be up again. One group east of A Street has already become part of the district since it was formed. Another group has petitioned to come in but we may have to wait until after the election to accept them because of time and technical reasons.

It would not cost less to empty the effluent from a local treatment plant into the prairie here at home as some suggest because, as already mentioned, most of the cost is in the collection system anyway. And the Pollution Control Commission has previously intimated that they would not approve a plan for emptying into Clover Creek. They have approved our present plans. So have the County Engineer and the State Department of Health.

Sewers can only cost less by doing them now and thereby freezing the costs at present levels which will shrink in comparison as wages and prices of other commodities rise. They have done this for generations, but recently at a more rapid and steady rate.

Some important news concerning this controversy can be expected very soon!!

I shall never permit myself to stoop so low as to hate any man.

a - Wondering and a - Wondering

Yesterday I was standing in the snow and slush at Parkland. Tonight I am running around with my shirt sleeves rolled up and have long since shucked my shirt. It's kind of hard to realize that the sun does shine perpetually in some parts of the world. Then perhaps the reason I feel so warm is due to the slow burn I've developed since I got tangled up with the big post office monopoly. At first I thought I'd just drop the subject, but on the way down here with no passengers and nothing to do but think for a day and a half I believe I'll at least blow off a little steam on the subject regardless of whether it can possibly do any good.

As you know I am an advocate of more opportunities for our teenagers. I feel that in our modern protective world we are turning our youngsters out to be drones. On every hand they are stifled with restrictions placed on the prospective employer to the point that the kids of today just don't have a chance as far as on the job training goes.

With the recent raise in postage I had the idea that perhaps the establishment of a messenger business in Parkland might aid the teenagers in their search for employment, offer a small savings to some of the local businesses and then to face facts squarely, it might also make me a buck.

First a check with the state employment service turned up the information that all youngsters wishing to work as messengers between the ages of 14 and 18 must have a duly signed and approved work permit. Those under 14 come under the jurisdiction of the juvenile department, and still further arrangements must be made if they are to work. This would entail a mountain of red tape, but I reasoned that it could be lived with.

Still checking further I called the Superintendent of Mails because someone had told me that if you send a package by bus or auto freight and attach a letter to it you must buy a stamp and affix it thereto. This I doubted but to be sure I made the call . . . Absolutely right! Anything that would be considered first class mail if handled by Uncle Sam, must have the stamp before it can be delivered for anyone by a second party. There are no ifs and ands . . . The law is firm and some of our intelligent members of congress made it so.

This naturally ended all thoughts of starting a messenger business and also brought out the ridiculous fact that a government department that has continually yelled wolf about too much work and repeatedly raised postage rates on us to keep from going further in the red has seen fit to have such a regulation passed. Assuredly it was passed and voted on years ago but until repealed we must abide by it.

And there you have it. Here in the land of free enterprise where we are waging a war against communism and socialism we allow one government agency to be set up in business and outlaw all competition or aid and succor if, as they say, they are so overloaded with work. This makes sense?? Nuts!

The first part of this article has long since been sent in for this week and I have failed miserably to come up with another thought worth writing about, so will just ramble on and see what happens.

Banging around down here in Mexico has given me little to cogitate on other than the fact that it still seems to me that all bathrooms in Mexico are on the fritz. Labor is cheap down here and when it comes to construction, these people still haven't heard of the word quality yet. A place that is fairly new and looks good from the outside usually is pretty ratty inside. Of course, some of the finer hotels manage to keep up their internal appearance but on the whole it seems as if these people build something fairly nice and then immediately forget about it as if they expected it to last forever without maintenance.

On the whole it would seem that the Mexican tourist trade has boomed in the past few years. Every airport I landed at has a flight line full up with U.S. and Canadian planes of all descriptions. It seems I've met someone I knew at every airport so far. I saw Art Wing of Shop-Ette Variety down in Mazatlan. Art has been going out nearly every day trying for a sailfish and getting skunked just as regular as he goes out, while others on the boats have been getting at least a marlin or something. When I left there he was still working on it.

I went to a show here in Guadalajara tonight just to see what the Mexican version of a movie is. It seems that they get the first run shows here just as in the states but with the dialogue dubbed in Spanish on the bottom of each scene. Likewise they seem to get the best of the Italian and English shows with the dialogue dubbed in on them as well. As far as the tourist is concerned this is having some effect on the ease with which he can now travel in Mexico without speaking Spanish. With very little TV in the entire country, all of these American speaking films seemed to have rubbed off on the natives to the point that everywhere you go if you ask loud enough if anyone "hablas Engles" someone will gladly step forth to help and to give their newly founded vocabulary an airing.

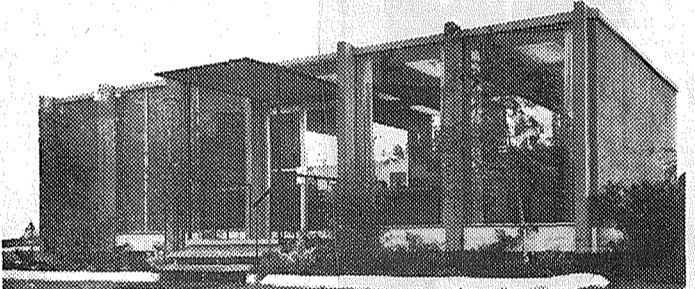

One thing I will say is that you are really subjected to the advertisements on the screen here. There is at least a half hour of coming attractions and ads on everything from ladies rompers to Barcardi Rum on the screen.

Farm Dog Ails Need Treating Co. Agent Says

A good dog is a valuable animal to have on the farm, but disease is a serious threat to "man's best friend". Rabies, distemper, infectious canine hepatitis and leptospirosis are four major canine diseases that can be prevented by vaccination, George Purcell, county extension agent, says.

Dr. Roy I. Hostetler, WSU's Extension animal health specialist, reminds that rabies can be acquired from the bites of rabid dogs, and wild animals such as skunks, foxes, squirrels, or bats. A rabid dog will bite and infect livestock on the farm or members of the family with probable fatal results. There is no cure for rabies once it is past the incubation stage, so vaccinate your farm dog or pet under the direction of a veterinarian, Dr. Hostetler advises.

Distemper, canine hepatitis, and leptospirosis may be confused with each other, but all can be prevented by vaccination, Dr. Hostetler says. He lists the most common symptoms of each. Distemper is a highly contagious, virus disease, characterized by high fever, loss of appetite, discharges from the eyes and nose, and pneumonia and intestinal disorder.

Canine hepatitis attacks the liver and intestinal tract. Animals will show loss of appetite, abdominal pain, intense thirst and, in the later stages, blindness and incoordination. Rapid breathing and convulsions are common in the latter stages.

Flying With Slim
Roy Marchesini soloed again after a lay-off since May of 1959. He continued his quest for a private license with his first dual cross country to Shelton, Toledo and return. The unseasonably nice weather attracted Sunday dinner flights to Shelton, Orv and Jen McLaughly went in their Cessna 182 and Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Chuck) Wheatley were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnston in the Johnston's Mooney.

Probably a little known fact to Spanaway and Parkland residents is the value of an airport that serves their area. An increasing number of private and business airplanes are using the local airstrip for their respective use. Marymount Academy heads the list of fly-in visitors followed closely by visitors and students of Pacific Lutheran University.

Speaking of advertising, I happened to come across some figures somewhere along the line on this trip that proves what we newsmen have always advocated, and that is the fact that without newspapers in which to advertise various and sundry products and services the economy of the country would be badly hit and to further put it bluntly we have always advocated the fact that the printed advertisements always surpasses all others in results. The figures released on the business slump in New York due to the newspaper strike bears out this theory. Radio and TV have not been able to step in and hold the sales level for the merchants of the greater New York area. Business there has fallen off to the tune of several million dollars due entirely to lack of newspaper advertising space. It's certainly too bad that the innocent merchants must suffer because of someone else's dispute but I guess that's the way the cookie crumbles.

One last thought that still bugs me. In Hawaii or Acapulco you'll find all the middle age people, who normally don't ever visit their own nearby local home beaches, sitting out in the boiling sun at these spots doping themselves up with oil and then frying themselves to the color of a well done lobster ... for some reason that I just don't get. It would almost seem a sin to return from a vacation without a good burn to show. Oh, well ... it takes all kinds to make the world go round I guess, and it's a cinch if someone tried to analyze my every action they'd burn out a bearing or spin their wheels for sure.

Scout Anniversary
Members of Midland's Explorer Post No. 84 were hosts to scouts and parents of Midland's Boy Scout Troop No. 84 at a special Boy Scout Week Court of Honor held Saturday evening, Feb. 9th.

"This is Your Scout Life, Forrest Sallee", was presented by Explorer Advisor Samuel Boone, after which the Sallees were presented with a Scouting plaque, two fishing poles, a life membership in Midland's Troop No. 84, and a potted tulip plant. A standing ovation was given the Sallees for their many years in working with cub, scout and explorer groups.

Trip To Olympia
Ninety-eight Scouters from Midland's Cub Scout Pack, Boy Scout Troop, and Explorer Post traveled by chartered bus to Olympia on Thursday, Feb. 7—the first day of Boy Scout Week. They were taken on a tour of the Capitol building, including a walk to the top of the Capitol dome where they viewed the city of Olympia. They visited both houses of the Legislature; and were introduced to the Senate by State Senator Rueben Knoblauch. They also interviewed Governor Albert Rosellini.

Next they visited the Washington State Supreme Court, where Justice Hugh Rosellini and the Clerk gave an orientation to the group. Of special interest to the boys were the many guns—exhibits to famous cases—on display. The scouts also toured the State Capitol Historical Museum.

Adult chaperones enjoying the trip were Harry Southern, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jackson, Mrs. and Mrs. Vern Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nordberg, Mrs. Jack Smith, Mrs. David Lorange, Mrs. Joseph Lawson, Mrs. Robert Reed, Mrs. Gerhardt Kazda, and Mrs. James Minion.

Scout Window Displays
Be sure to notice the window displays at Baskett Hardware Store, 96th and Portland Avenues, which Midland Cub Scout Pack No. 84 and Boy Scout Troop No. 84 have decorated.

A special thanks to Bas-ketts for allowing the Scouting groups to decorate their windows each year.

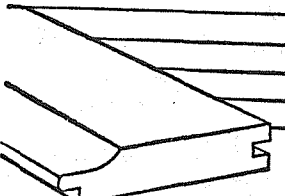

4-H Club
The Nature's Defenders have been very busy organizing the Forestry 4-H Club. The club officers are: Michael Tytlet, President; Richard Reding, Vice President; Ronald Reding, Secretary; and Stan Lyon, Reporter. Other members of the club, elected to various committees are: Brian Baskett, Thomas Fletcher, Donald Fletcher and Jacqueline Curtis.

Other projects taken by the Nature's Defenders include Home Gardening, Rabbits, Bees, Cooking, and Sheep. Mr. Jerry Haller and Mrs. George Baskett have been helping organize the club. Demonstrations have been given by Brian Baskett on "Rabbit Hutches"; and an illustrated talk by Beverly Baskett on "Ponderosa Pine".

Also the Nature's Defenders Club welcomed Mr. David Klemperer, County 4-H Forestry Agent, who was their speaker on "Leaves and Trees from Many States". All the club members enjoyed his talk.

On February 2nd, a field trip to Bonney was made by the 4-H Forestry Club. They were supposed to have planted trees, but were rained out, so instead the instructor taught them how to prune and shear trees. The next meeting of the Nature's Defenders will be held on February 25th at the home of Mrs. Baskett.
