DEPUTY CHIEF CURT PARSONS of the Spanaway-Elk Plain Fire Dept. surveys the progress of a training fire at 174th and Yakima Monday night. Two buildings, one a small house and the other a large chicken shed were burned for the owner, Don Olin, as part of a training problem by the department.

DRIVER DEL LADWIG escaped with glass cuts and possible internal injuries when his rig left the road, slid down an embankment, rolled over and slammed into a tree on the Mountain Highway last week. Wrecker operator Buzz Bowerman, shown here atop the truck belonging to Lyle Nelson, was left with the task of righting the big Kenworth, replacing the trailer and getting all this back on the road.

CUBS LEND HAND. Cub Scouts from Pack 34, Den 4, came to the aid of Spanaway Cooperative Nursery by making table toys and bean bags. Pictured above turning their donations over to teacher Mrs. Sally Sheppard are (standing l-r): Tony Davis 8, Erik Modahl 9, Charles Walle 8, and Doug Symmons 8. Kneeling are Michael A. Davis 9, Douglas DuVall 8, and Larry McLaughlin 9. Not pictured, but also a contributor is Michael W. Davis. Those desiring information on the Spanaway Cooperative Nursery program can call Sheila Hager, VI 7-2566.

BIKE VS TRUCK. State Troopers Gain and Weeks are pictured administering first aid to 5 year old John Hagen, 3404 182nd Street East, after the youngster was struck by a pickup truck driven by J.F. Meyer, 38, of Rt. 1, Box 211, Graham. The accident happened at 38th Avenue East and 182nd Street East where troopers reported the cyclist missed a stop sign and went into the path of the truck.

A check for $33,010.74 was recently presented to Pacific Lutheran University by Carroll Anderson, right, director of Lutheran Ingathering for Education (LIFE) in Minneapolis. Accepting the check is Dr. Robert Mortvedt, PLU president. At left is Norman Fintel, executive director of the board of college education of the American Lutheran Church. The check brought the total received by PLU from LIFE to $377,783.15 toward a goal of $1 million.

Indian Longhouse Suggested For Point Defiance

Point Defiance Park has become a popular attraction for Pierce County residents, tourists, and school children on educational field trips.

Studded with displays of historical significance, the park has afforded historians an opportunity to recreate pioneer life as it was in early Pierce County. A tour of such displays as Fort Nisqually and Camp Nine gives one a better understanding of the past.

We feel the addition of an authentic replica of an Indian longhouse would provide a meaningful contribution to the historical attractions already in the park. It would serve to give the public greater insight into Pierce County before the settlers arrived. Idea for construction of a Point Defiance longhouse was advanced by Martin Sampson, 81-year-old Swinomish Indian Chief. Chief Sampson is a frequent guest speaker at area elementary schools. In telling children of early Puget Sound life, Sampson states that one of the least understood facts about local Indians are the buildings they crafted from cedar.

Called longhouses, the structures were up to 1000 feet long and often housed an entire village. In addition to dwellings, the longhouse was also used as a social center and sometimes a council house.

The replica proposed for Point Defiance would be 50 to 100 feet in length, which is somewhat smaller than most of the early longhouses. But according to the Chief, it would serve to give youngsters some idea of early Indian architecture.

It is proposed that cost of construction be covered by donations. Old timers, such as Chief Sampson, still recall details of longhouse floor plans from which the design could be formulated.

Since the first buildings in Pierce County were longhouses, we feel there is considerable merit in Chief Sampson's suggestion and hope progress can be initiated to make it a reality.

Parkland Author's Latest Book Refreshing Reading

To say that Parkland author John McCallum's 12th book, "GOING THEIR WAY," is delightful reading for people of all ages and tastes is like saying fresh air is good for you.

This latest volume, featuring his life with famous people since the end of World War II, illustrates that the one-time Tacoma newspaper man is not only a good all-around writer, he is also a good reporter. To write well is a talent of sorts, but to be an objective reporter requires hard work.

John McCallum, who is spending his vacation at his father's home, 11407 17th Avenue East, before starting a new lecture tour in New York State in late August, has always been fascinated with famous people. With zest and verve and great good humor he gives us a rare glimpse into the lives of some of the headline-makers he has known down the years. People like the famous Eisenhower brothers, including an absorbing interview with the late General Ike; Ty Cobb, baseball's greatest player; Princess Grace Kelly; famous author-historian James Warner Bellah; the incredible W. W. (Pudge) Heffelfinger of Yale, who played football for 50 years; Pacific Lutheran University's Dr. Luther Jerstad, conqueror of Mt. Everest in 1963; and a host of "Damon Runyon" characters McCallum used to write about when he was a newspaper reporter in New York City after the war.

What inspired him to write "Going Their Way?"

"People," he told Times-Journal publisher-author Emerson Matson in an interview the other day. "Since 1962, I have been spending a fair share of my time going back and forth across America on lecture tours. I imagine I have addressed more than 3,000,000 people in person over the past seven years. My programs have revolved around the general topic, 'Famous People I have Known.' Teachers, librarians and other members of my audiences kept telling me, 'You ought to put your lecture material into a book.' So I finally sat down and wrote my favorite stories and personal scenes about those famous people I knew. The result is 'Going Their Way.'"

The book, published by Chilton Book Company, of Philadelphia-New York-London, sells for $5.50 and is catching on fast. The New Brunswick, N.J., Sunday Home News calls it "zestful, colorful, inside stuff." The University of Scranton's (Pa.) "Best Sellers" reviewer wrote: "... the author's own optimistic personality shows through the entire book in very pleasant contrast to the psychotic agonizers who usually clutter today's scene.

John McCallum was born in Tacoma, in 1924. He was educated at Lincoln High School, Washington State University, and New York University. After serving in the infantry and tank destroyer units in World War II, he finished WSU, had a brief fling at professional baseball with the Portland Beavers of the old Pacific Coast League, and then settled in New York City for the next 12 years, employed variously as a newspaper sports columnist, staff writer for the famous NEA Syndicate, editor of several national magazines, public relations director of The National Football Hall of Fame, and associate editor of a New York publishing house.

Drama Workshop

A summer drama workshop and two television courses will be offered by the Pacific Lutheran University speech department during the second PLU summer session beginning July 21.

The drama workshop offers five weeks of intensive study of stage management, lighting and all other phases of production, and will culminate with a dramatic production.

Theodore O. H. Karl, chairman of the PLU speech department, is the course instructor.

A television workshop and a course in the use of television by the classroom teacher will be taught by Judd Doughty, head of the PLU radio and television department.

The workshop will stress study of creative and production techniques of television programming, featuring extensive use of studio equipment.

Examination of television as an instructional device in the classroom is the theme of the second TV course.

Jody Abbott June Bride

Jody Abbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Abbott, 11915 Spanaway Loop Drive, became the bride of John D. Coffey Jr. in Parkway Presbyterian Church June 27.

The new Mrs. Coffey is a graduate of Franklin Pierce High School and attended Eastern Washington State College. The groom is from Lynchburg, Virginia, and was recently discharged from the Army after a tour in Vietnam. He is presently employed by Mutual Fir Columns.

The couple were married by the Rev. Wesley Drummand. She wore a full length alencon lace over satin gown designed with long sleeves and a sabrina neckline. The full tiered skirt fell into a chapel length train, and the gown was accented with pearls and iridescents. A single white rose held the veil to her hair.

Given into marriage by her father, the bride selected pink and yellow as her colors. Maid of honor was Lynda Abbott, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Dave Blauvelt, Mrs. Douglas Evans, and Mrs. Thomas Pomeroy III. Angela Childs was flower girl.

Standing with the groom were Robert Lee Abbott,

Rash Under Wedding Ring Not Sign Of Unhappy Marriage

Wilmington, Del. (WMNS) — If you suddenly develop a rash under your wedding ring, is this a sign that all is not well with your marriage?

Some psychologically-oriented doctors favor this explanation, but a woman doctor takes a prosaic view. In a letter to a medical journal, Dr. Bernadine Z. Paulshock reasons this way: take a young woman, put a wedding ring on her, place her in the kitchen to wash the breakfast, lunch and supper dishes day after day, add several pounds as the years pass "distributed from head to toes, including the ring finger," then notice the itchy rash under the wedding ring. That's Wedding Ring Dermatitis, caused by dishpan detergent trapped beneath the tightening band.

And what if your rash appears only under the wedding ring and not under other rings you're wearing? Paging Dr. Paulshock . . .

brother of the bride, Allen Paffenroth, and Gerald Paffenroth. Michael Childs was candlelighter and page.

A reception in the church parlor followed the ceremony.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

Pen Pal
Dear Miss Brookfield:
I am a widow in the early 40's and do like to write letters. By any chance would you know of any pen pal clubs I could get in touch with? I would appreciate your help.
E.M., Wittman, Md.

Dear E.M.:
There are numerous pen pal clubs but the majority cater to youngsters or students. Two international pen pal clubs, however, do include mature correspondents. They are: Letters Abroad, Inc., 209 East 56th St., New York, N.Y. 10022 and the International Friendship League, 40 Mount Vernon St., Boston, Mass. 02108. The first is for pen friends from 15 to 50; the League is for correspondents from seven to 75.

A spokesman at Letters Abroad said they receive more requests for international pen pals from students. "We get few inquiries from European housewives." Also, while there is no fee for this service at present, Letters Abroad plans to start charging one dollar starting in September. With the initial inquiry to any pen pal club, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. Give age, occupation and interests.

Pregnant At Fifty
Dear Miss Brookfield:
Recently, when some of the "girls" got together at my house, a question came up. Maybe you can answer it. We are all married women, well over 40. Our question: what is the oldest age at which a woman got pregnant.
K.L., Doylestown, Pa.

Dear K.L.:
According to medical authorities, pregnancy is rare in women over 50. Professor P. J. Huntingford, M.D., a British gynecologist, was recently quoted as saying: "I should hesitate to say, however, that conception cannot occur beyond the age of 52 years. Indeed, I was recently at a discussion at which it was claimed that a lady of 58 had conceived."

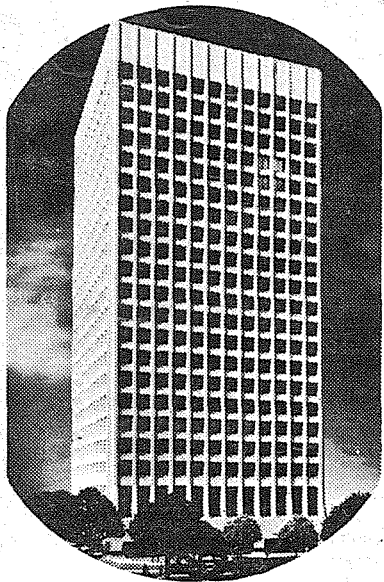

If your question was not prompted by idle curiosity but the doubts of "one of the girls," we would suggest a talk with a physician. One of the first signs that the menopause is approaching is usually a change in the pattern of menstrual bleeding. Sometimes the period may come earlier than usual; sometimes later. An entire period may be skipped. Occasionally a woman will skip a few months and then resume. This irregularity can go on for two or three or more years before menstruation ceases entirely.

Unhappy Working Wife
You seem to get many letters from women who want to return to work so I thought you might like to hear from someone with a different viewpoint. After the children married I spent one happy year running the house. Then my husband had a business set-back and I returned to work "for a while." That was three years ago and I hate it. I'm a secretary. Eight hours a day I take orders from my boss and try to read his moods. (Talk about moody women!) At night I rush home to prepare dinner and look forward to an evening filled with such joys as washing dishes, ironing, cleaning, marketing. By bed time, I am exhausted. As so many women seem so anxious to return to business, can you tell me if there is something wrong with me?

D.Y., Oklahoma City, Okla.
Dear D.Y.:
There's nothing wrong with you. Obviously, you are one of those women who enjoy running a home. If your husband's business set-back hasn't been straightened out, perhaps you might explore the possibilities of buying a dishwasher, sending the clothes to the laundry, etc., before you have a set-back yourself.

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

British Wives Meet
The British Wives Club a branch of the Transatlantic Brides and Parents association will hold their monthly social on Friday July 18th at 7:30 p.m. at St. Johns Lutheran Church in Lakewood.

IT TAKES MONEY TO MAKE MONEY

It's something we've always heard. And how true it is. How often have you wished you had that "nest egg" to get started with? How often have you let good investment possibilities go by because of lack of capital? Why not start doing what so many wise people are doing these days? Begin building capital for yourself in an insured Citizens savings account? It's easy. And it's surprising how fast it grows.
