Better keep kiddies away from phone!

Pacific Northwest Bell customers in Tacoma, Roy Puyallup, Graham and Sumner received a very important booklet in the mail this week, manager David L. Williams said. Mailed Monday, the pink-and-white booklet explains Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) service.

DDD service starts Sunday, May 24. DDD is a new, fast and convenient way to dial all station-to-station long distance calls to almost any telephone in the continental United States and Canada.

Each area in the United States and Canada is assigned an Area Code. Area Codes tell automatic dialing equipment what section of the country you are calling. If a call were dialed from here to Colorado, one only has to dial "1," "303" (Area Code for Colorado) and the telephone number wanted in that state.

DDD calls are recorded and timed by extremely accurate equipment. Besides selecting the route, the equipment records the called telephone number, the calling telephone number, the date, the hour, and length of the conversation. Actual conversations are not recorded.

a - Wondering and a - Wandering . . .

With JACK BROWN

Here I sit at a desk in an office at the Merced, California, Airport, and can't think of one intelligent thing to say, so will turn out one of those "Dear John, How are you? I'm fine," sort of things.

At least, as the publisher of a weekly paper, that is one thing that I can get away with that would be taboo on a daily. As far as I am concerned, it's just a matter of writing my thoughts weekly to a bunch of friends anyway. Of course there is the odd case where someone reads it who just doesn't quite fit that category, but then if everybody continually agreed with me there would be little use in writing this.

Just to give you an insight on how interesting life can get sometimes, listen to this. Yesterday morning I rolled out of bed in Klamath Falls, Oregon, and as I walked out of my hotel room I actually didn't know where I was heading. The answer hinged on three dimes for phone calls. First I could have ended up taking a bus or commercial plane from K. Falls to Merced. Or I could have headed right out by car for Hot Springs, Arkansas, and then to Illinois. Or I could have headed out straight for Los Angeles. As it ended up I drove from K. Falls to Merced. From here I will go to L.A. and then again I still don't know if I will head directly back there to Tacoma or go to Arkansas and Illinois.

I have been herding the presidential parade car around, that you have all heard of. So far it sure has shot an excellent driving record in the fanny. That fool thing is so overpowered that you can't even coast thru a town at legal speed without riding the brakes.

I have met police officers from three states and two towns so far. When it was raining I had to sit all hunched up over the wheel, like a wine-o warming his jug in a cold box car to keep from getting wet, since the car has no top. The result of sitting in that position is that I couldn't see the speedometer. This resulted in my meeting a very courteous Washington State Patrolman and a member of Portland's finest.

In the sunshine with the wind blowing on my skull, lulling me into a state of fixation. I met a member of the Oregon State Patrol and the California Police. By this time I began to feel like a fugitive from justice.

The final touch came last night just before dark when I looked up into the mirror to see the now more than familiar flashing red light. Here came some fellow in a wide brimmed hat with the brim blowing up over his head and looking for all the world like Casey Tubbs, coming out of the chute on a red eyed mustang. It turned out that he was a sheriff's deputy and had the disposition that would match any of the horses Casey ever rode.

You know, when you consider it, it is rather ridiculous that the auto manufacturers keep stepping up the speed and smoothness and safety of new cars and yet the speed limits do not go up accordingly.

Now I suppose a lot of you will think of me as an overgrown hot-rodder, but such is not the case. Just picture yourself driving along these big freeways in a car that will cruise at 120 as easily as not and try to coast along with a 65 mile per hour limit. If you do, all the traffic behind nearly runs over you, and if you go along with the rest, here comes the red-eyed monster.

They built it. You buy it. You pay for it, but you can't use it. Horsepower, that is.

I guess the civil rights bit has cut into the fun of the Irish. It used to be that an Irishman could bend an elbow with friends, get into a friendly tiff, knock some guy off his stool and go back to drinking and talking, with a feeling of well being.

Now it seems that before he lets lose a haymaker he has to look around the bar for a member of one of the minority races to knock down, as well, lest he be accused of discrimination.

Think this is absurd? I'll give you a run down on some cases, almost as bad, one of these days.

My old grandpa left a thought with me one time that I'll pass on to you. He said, "Son, it's not how tall you are that counts. It's how tall you stand that really tells the story". Sage advice that I shall always remember.

So until next week . . .
Yours from the scourge of the highways, who'd rather be flying anytime.

A Second Look At . . . THE BUSINESS CLIME

by LARRY ROE

Was interested in some sage advice by Reno Odlin, vice-president of the American Bankers Association and chairman of the Puget Sound National Bank, at a recent conference in Chicago of the National Installment Credit Association.

While discussing things generally related to consumer credit and its future, he confined his remarks principally to the interest of banks in education.

" . . . It has been proved that education increases the purchasing power of the individual, which is an important element in the success of the economy . . . Therefore, we, as bankers, should be concerned not only for a continued supply of trained personnel for ourselves but for continuing to upgrade the quality of the graduates of our high schools and schools of higher education."

Mr. Odlin stated that even though banks have been active in supplying financing for higher education, even more could be done and should be done in this respect.

AMEN! . . . But since the school dropout at the lower level is largely related to lack of finances, it would seem fitting that a long range and broader program be instituted to assure qualified students the chance to reach the plane of higher education.

I can see far more sense in Federal spending to assure mass education at all levels than I can in financing some derelict government's quest for military autonomy . . . I've yet to see the friendship — purchased by giveaways — that didn't eventually create a monster to be reckoned with!

AMEN! . . . But since the school dropout at the lower level is largely related to lack of finances, it would seem fitting that a long range and broader program be instituted to assure qualified students the chance to reach the plane of higher education.

The ultimate in red-tape stupidities has been arranged by the Department of Defense . . . probably to assure its employees an orderly transition into the next world.

It's all printed on DD Form 886: "Federal employees who are unable because of enemy attack to carry out their responsibilities . . . are required to go to the nearest post office, ask the postmaster for a special Federal Employee Registration Card, fill it out and return it to him" . . . I'm sure St. Peter could care less — but the taxpayers who support this tid-bit will probably do a slow burn.

Letters to the editor

To Jack Brown:

I must make a personal reply to your column of May 14, 1964. I agree that school districts have been reduced from 49 to 20 since 1947 when this committee was set up. Most of this was done as the result of petitions by the people themselves. We held hearings and invited people to express their opinions. Many of these districts had only a few students and desired to get in a larger system. By senate resolution, we have been asked to examine our original comprehensive plan. We have three to five year plans for from three to twelve districts. We discussed these plans at our last public meeting and have set May 25, 1964, at 8 p.m. at the Franklin Pierce High School for another meeting. We hope the public will turn out, ask questions and make any suggestions they may have. It may be we haven't given enough publicity to our meeting. You often speak of the one-world trend and I certainly agree with you, the welfare state and government control is growing obvious. The solution is simple if we . . . tell our congressmen to stop this stupid legislation or be put out of office. We would soon get results. The public could prevail if they would wake up and demand results. Remember, May 25th at 8 p.m. in the Franklin Pierce High School.

Chairman Webster some direct questions. For instance, what schools are obsolete, what schools are in need of redistricting? Who opposes this redistricting, who is in favor of it, and, in each instance, why? What advantages will be gained and what lost and by whom by the proposed redistricting? Will taxes go up or down, and what changes in school financing will come about as a result of the proposal? And lastly, who submitted which plans and since the chairman, himself is rarely heard from in these meetings, what, specifically, is the plan which he submitted?

Dear Mister Brown, Last week I saw you printed a letter from my cousin, which should tickle him pink. However, I noticed you misspelled our fine old family name. We Banzais have been in America for over a century and some of our ancestors even fought in the Civil War. It seems a shame and will no doubt lessen my cousin's joy in seeing his name in print for the first time in his life, that you spelled it wrong. So please, for Cousin Sam's sake, "Banzai", not "Banzai".

Clairene Banzai
Ed. Note: Apologies to a fine old family, the Banzais.

Dear Editor: The American Legion Post and Auxiliary of Clover Creek unit #118, located at Spanaway, wishes to thank you for giving us space in your wonderful paper, we of the community receive each week. We also want to thank all those of the community who bought tickets for the Alaskan Relief Dance we had — as it was a success.

Keep up the good work on Americanism. We need every one to stress this great program "Americanism", which

So Clean It's Ridiculous

THE NEAT, clean appearance of Engstrom Family Dairy exterior is only a prelude to the hospital-like cleanliness of the interior milk handling facilities. Built exactly to Department of Agriculture standards, this new milk producing plant provides a continuous supply of Grade-A Raw Milk for your family consumption.

This is often the comment by those seeing the new Grade A milking parlor of Engstrom's Family Dairy. Why, just why, would anyone go to so much trouble for a cow? The answer is, that the cows of the Engstrom herd are really a lot of badly spoiled bovines. They are pampered and petted and generally looked after to the point that they consistently produce some of the finest milk to be had anywhere.

With this in mind, isn't it only natural the Engstroms continue along these lines by providing the very finest in milking parlor, bulk room and refrigerated display cases? This pure and wholesome Grade-A raw milk may be had in sterile glass containers at the low cost of only 67c per gallon. Farm fresh eggs are also available at 40c and 50c per dozen.

W. J. ENGSTROM adjusts the milking machine on one of the prize Jerseys of his herd, as the cow stands relaxed in the comfortable "Surge" milker stall. Why don't you become a user of this fabulously fresh milk? Don't take our word for its excellence, stop by 5608 East 96th (96th & Canyon Rd.) and see for yourself. (Paid Adv.)

Tips on Before and After!

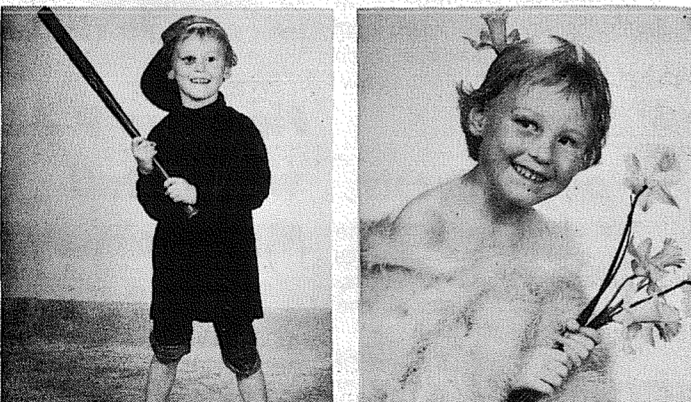

GOOD LANDSCAPE GROOMING

By Howard & Elaine Motteler

Controlling Lawn Weeds. Lawn weeds may be controlled with one of the "weed and feed" fertilizers or a weed spray. The method we have found most convenient is to spray the leaf weeds with one of the 24D weed killers. We use a type of bottle sprayer that works on the end of a garden hose. This type of sprayer is made to mix a certain portion of the concentrated spray with the water from the hose, producing a uniform spray mixture. Anyone who has used the heavy galvanized pressure tank sprayers knows of the frequent stops to pump up the pressure, and will quickly appreciate the convenience of the bottle on-the-hose sprayer. One drawback of this new type of sprayer is that the concentrated spray must be in liquid form. Ground powdered sprays, such as arsenic, will tend to plug the sprayer. If you are using this type of material the galvanized pressure tank works better.

Another advantage of the bottle on-the-hose sprayer is the lack of weight and ease of handling. The garden hose used with this sprayer should be either reinforced rubber or plastic, and long

A CLASSIC EXAMPLE of Before and After is demonstrated above by young (4) Christy Ann Schell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schell, 9906 East 116th Street. After receiving the thorough-going shiner in a hot softball game, Miss Schell promptly threw down the bat and went in for more feminine activities—such as borrowing her mother's finery and posing as a princess for cameraman—a daffodil princess, to boot. er than the other grasses) may be controlled by more frequent mowing. This reduces the leaf area and weakens them. In a season or so the good grasses take over.

The lawn should not be mowed for three or four days after it is sprayed. You can tell whether the poison is effective by the amount of leaf curl that begins a day or so after you spray. The plant wilts in less than a week, and then dries and dies out. Some plants, such as large dandelions, seem able to resist the first application, but succumb with the second or third spraying.

We find it usually takes two or three sprayings, about two weeks apart, to eliminate the weeds. This should do away with all weeds except the broad leaf grasses. (they grow up faster and are light yellow-green, light-

Dorothy and Russell Cottam, are shown here with Bonnie Mauer, cook, preparatory to staging their Grand Opening this Saturday, May 23rd, from 7 a.m. until the last guest departs. Mrs. Cottam says she hopes everybody in the area will drop in for free coffee, doughnuts, and ice cream cones for the kiddies. The Jolly Roger is located on Airport Road (East 112th) and Vickery. The well-known eatery was burned out last month but, seeing the need for such an establishment in the area, the Cottams have refurbished it, adding a dining area which will seat at least two dozen additional patrons. A specialty of the house are the one dollar steaks which are personally selected by Dorothy Cottam at the neighboring North Pole Food Lockers on East 99th. Dorothy's sister-in-law, Mrs. Em Cottam, also helps out as cook and is chiefly responsible for the home made pies and fresh home made doughnuts served daily.

Science church chooses subject

The transforming and healing effects of knowing man's spiritual identity as a child of God will be emphasized at Christian Science churches this Sunday. The subject is "Soul and Body." The healing of the lame man at the temple by Peter will be read (Acts 3), and also this verse from II Corinthians: 3:18: "We all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord."

Related reading from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include these lines: "Consciousness constructs a better body when faith in matter has been conquered. Correct material belief by spiritual understanding, and Spirit will form you anew" (p. 425).

The Special Research Committee of the Washington State Delta Kappa Gamma Society announces the release of a book entitled, "Capable Youth — Commitment to Education". This publication has a single purpose: to suggest ways of helping capable young people of Washington make maximum use of educational opportunities. It is based upon a study of approximately 4000 capable graduates of Washington high schools. Dr. Eugene H. Smith, Director of Advanced Placement, University of Washington, conducted the study which, according to Mr. Louis Bruno, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, "filled a long-standing need." Findings of the study suggest for improvement are made in the areas of education for women, family patterns and influences, high school program and activities and educational and vocational decisions.

FP Spanish teacher chosen for UPS scholarship

John Kennedy Conant, who teaches Spanish at Franklin Pierce High School, has been accepted to attend a Spanish Language Institute at the University of Puget Sound here this summer.

Dr. L. Bruce Bucklin, institute director, said Conant was one of 52 teachers chosen from high schools throughout the United States to participate in the Institute, which will be sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education under the National Defense Education Act. Dates are June 24 to August 11.

Participants will engage in intensive work on elements that make up the qualifications for an expert language teacher, he said. There will be instruction in the use of the language laboratory, observation of expert teaching of local junior high and high school students as a demonstration class, practice teaching, instruction in methods, a daily lecture in linguistics, a daily lecture on the civilization and culture of the Spanish-speaking peoples.

Spanish will be spoken on all occasions during the institute. Participants will be housed in a single dormitory and their only language will be Spanish. That language also will be spoken at meals and will be featured in entertainment during the institute.

Local boys are chosen to attend camp

Two Pierce County boys, Ron Eliff of Eatonville High School, and Bob Johnson of Franklin Pierce High School, have edged other area competitors and will be offered a chance to attend this year's annual Resource Management Camp near Carson, Washington. County Agent David Klemperer, in announcing the selections, said that two young men chosen from each of the Western Washington counties will take part in the program from June 7-13. The camp will attract about 35 high school boys 15 and older and will provide intensive training in forestry and conservation. Site of the camp is the Hemlock Ranger Station in the Gifford Pinchot National Forest which is located about 35 miles east of Vancouver. Local sponsors for this year's resource delegates are the Pierce County Future Farmers of America Chapter and the Daffodil Valley Kiwanis Club. Each has contributed $30 for each boy. The camp is sponsored by the Washington Resources Council in cooperation with the Washington State University Agriculture Extension Service and the State Department of Vocational Education and other groups. It gives well qualified boys a full week of close-to-nature study of soil and water, fish and game, power, timber and other forest products of the region. The manager of this year's camp is Keith Sarkisian, vocational agriculture instructor, Arlington, Wash. David Klemperer, county Extension agent, Tacoma, is assistant manager and Joe Buhhalp, WSU Extension Forestry Specialist, Puyallup, is program director. Instructors contributing to the program during the week include: Dr. C.B. Harston, Extension Soils Specialist, WSU; Win Gillard, Stevenson, Wash., Clar Pratt, game biologist, State Department of Game; Robert W. Lyman, director, Keep Washington Green; David Brannon, Extension Entomologist, WSU; Fred Pratt, forester, State Department of Natural Resources; Keith Petrie, District Forester, Industrial Forestry Association; Harold Friese, Forester, Weyerhaeuser Company; Ivan Donaldson, Biologist, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers; and Frank Mauer, district ranger, U.S. Forest Service.

NEW FASHION FAD is displayed by Tom Kostecky and Terry Finklien at Franklin Pierce High School. The "dressed up" style started as a publicity stunt, but now has become a new style.

Midland Bulletin Board

The next meeting of the Harvard P.T.A. will be held Thursday, May 21, at 8 p.m. at the school. Installation of new officers for the 1964-65 season will be held, with Mrs. Lucille Reid of the Franklin Pierce Council, as the installing officer. A band concert will be presented by the fifth and sixth grades band. The following officers will be installed: Mrs. Francis Reding, president; Mr. Harold Wooten, vice-president; Mrs. Vern Jordin, secretary; and Mrs. Elna Wallin, treasurer.

Teens go 'ape' on haberdashery

Kathie Hoover
Cutoffs are nothing new among teenagers, but at Franklin Pierce the fad is seen in a new light. The style has been "dressed up." A sloppy sweatshirt is out of style! Now, a suit jacket, white shirt and tie complement the unusual outfit of cutoffs and tenny runners. With the approach of sunny days, the style is beginning to become contagious among the males.

Election week is known for all kinds of addities, but this is the first time a new style has been the result. Terry Finglien and Tom Kostecky, who were running for the positions of president and vice-president, used the fad as a publicity stunt. Now it is spreading as others don the garb.
