Prevent Tragedy . . . . Prevent Fire

All Hail Our Firemen

Take the Fire Department, for instance — only be sure to bring it back. A Fire Department has a definite and well-recognized purpose. It deals in fires. Should you have an unwanted fire in your house, the fire department will obligingly put it out for you, if you let them know in time. To make sure you don't call the police station by mistake, the Department has supplied you with a little card to be pasted up near your telephone. It contains the Fire Station's telephone number. Call that number day or night and the boys will be right down to take care of your fire.

To cover all phases of this great public service, we shall now go into the causes of fires. They are many. For instance, little Toodles over three in the corner playing with matches — the old-fashioned kind. Accidentally he gets on lit, makes a wild stab with this tiny blazing torch and manages to set the drapes on fire. Or Mom, dashing into the next room to answer the telephone, leaving her hot iron to sizzle through the ironing pad while she gets an exciting earful of the latest gossip. Or Dad, having his last drag in bed, allowing a lighted cigaret to fall on the rug while he dozes off to dreamland. Whatever the cause of the fire, the result is serious, often tragic.

Taxes Sneak into your Wallet

Next we come to the cost of fires. They are paid for out of taxes. Taxes are no more popular than fires. Some folks believe they are an invention of the devil, forever sneaking into your wallet and nibbling away at your dollars. Yet, they are a necessary evil, for a fire department operated on a free enterprise basis, where the owner pays for his own fire, may lead to serious complications.

To illustrate, let us picture a scene at the local fire station just before a fire. The two-story fire hall stands lonely and alert on south Canyon. A neon sign in the upper center of its gambrel-roofed front, gives the appearance of a fiery red eye gazing intently ahead. In the recreation room on the ground floor, several fire fighters are engaged in a game of pool. The cue artist you see poised ready for a shot dynamites a closely packed triangular arrangement of ivory balls. They scatter and roll about the table like crazy, bumping into one another, caroming off the green cushions. One even drops into a pocket. (Nice shot.)

At this very instant a bell rings frantically. Somewhere there is a fire. In perfect order the men collect their gear, mount the big truck loaded to the guards with fire fighting equipment. The truck roars out of the station with the Chief and rolls up to the scene of the conflagration. Black smoke and slashing tongues of red flame are pouring out of the upper story window. People are carrying things out of the house. The lawn is littered with furniture and bedding. The owner rushes up to the Chief.

Just Hook onto the Faucet

"Thank heaven, you are here," he cries. "You will find the faucet on the left of the road. It is painted yellow."

He doesn't mean faucet. The poor fellow is excited. He means hydrant. The Chief doesn't have to be told where the hydrant is. His map shows him the exact location of every hydrant in the district — and the water pressure. His deliberation is not due to ignorance. The Chief fails to share the owner's excitement. He is cool, almost cold in spite of the heat from the fire.

"Not so fast, buddy," he says in an even tone. "On our books your credit isn't worth a hoot. We need a substantial down-payment before we pull a hose."

In desperation the owner grabs frantically for his billfold. It is not there. One agonizing look at the second-story window of his burning home and he realizes he has left it on the dresser.

Of course, this does not happen — not in real life that is. The Chief wouldn't let the man's house burn down. He is a firm believer in the Good Neighbor policy.

Thus, when you are paying your taxes, you may derive some solace from the fact that volunteer fire fighters, besides paying taxes themselves, make tremendous sacrifices in protecting your homes from the ravages of fires.

The Roof's a Gone Goose

In real life you'd see action. Extension ladders shooting up like rockets. Men racing to the top, carrying axes, man at the hydrant with a wrench waiting for the signal to turn on the water. Men chop holes in the roof — the old roof's a gone goose anyway — they poke the business end of the hose through the hole, and clouds of steam mix with the smoke. There is perfect team work. Every man knows his place and what to do. The fire is stubborn. The men keep fighting without let-up until the early hours of the morning. This is the life of the volunteer firemen — the community's unsung heroes.

Asleep at the station or in their homes, the alarm comes at one, two or three o'clock in the morning. Outside is a howling gale or a driving rain. Nothing stops them. They're off to the scene of the fire. What motivates a volunteer fireman? Maybe it's his love of excitement, his sense of duty to the community; maybe he thinks it may happen to him and he wants to be able to protect his family — who knows? whatever the motive, it's one of the finest and the highest, and when they are whooping up cheers for meritorious service — all hail the volunteer fire fighter.

Bethel Improves Special Education

Bethel School District's Pupil Center in Elk Plain has really been buzzing with the addition to the administration staff of Dr. Bruce Alexander as Coordinator of Special Education. Dr. Alexander's experience in education makes him well qualified to fill the position. After completing his public school education in San Francisco, he attended San Francisco State and Humboldt State Colleges and received his Doctor's Degree in Special Education and Education Administration from the University of Oregon. His teaching experience of two years at Eureka, California, and one year as counselor at the same school brought him to an administrative position implementing special education programs in the Humboldt County Schools. Dr. Alexander is interested in developing educational programs that fit the students; besides the average classes, providing for programs for the exceptional and the handicapped. Dr. Alexander is married and has four children. He's a typical Californian in that he winces at the sound of rain, but is realistic enough to realize that how else can our trees stay so green?

Vicki La Ree Anderson Weds Lorin W. Rice

Mr. and Mrs. Lorin W. Rice photo by Skip Larson

On Saturday, September 19, 1970, at 3:00 p.m. Vicki La Ree Anderson was married to Lorin W. Rice. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson of Parkland, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rice of Mt. Vernon, Washington. The ceremony took place in the Lake Burien Presbyterian Church with Reverend Paul McCann officiating.

In a gown of antique white satin, which her mother wore at her own wedding, the bride carried a white orchid and white stephanotis resting on a white Bible borrowed from her sister.

Maid of Honor, Susan Dressler, cousin of the bride from Seattle, wore a floor length dress in hot pink trimmed in light pink. Bridesmaids Cindy Anderson, sister of the bride, Helen Rice, sister of the groom, and Debbie Hansen from Tacoma wore street length dresses, also pink. All carried bouquets of white carnations with shades of pink trimming and matching arrangements for their hair.

Best Man was Bob Snyder from Puyallup, and seating the guests were Donald Rice, brother of the groom, Bob Butterfield from Spokane, and Dale Sebo from Mt. Vernon.

A reception followed the wedding in the fellowship hall. After the reception a buffet was given the family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stovall of Seattle.

The wedding trip was to Orcas Island. The young couple will be at home in Bellingham where both are juniors at Western Washington State College this year.

Camp Fire

The 6th Grade Camp Fire Girls of Midland School, under the leadership of Mrs. Finis Curry, have a display at school of the 56 items which received ribbons at the Western Washington Fair.

The Bethel Leaders Assn. will meet Monday, October 12th, at Spanaway Methodist Church, 135 So. 163rd St. The Franklin Pierce Leaders Assn. on Tuesday, October 13th, at the Parkland Methodist Church, 123rd and "A" St. (Note change of day). Both meetings are at 9:30 a.m. Please bring your October Beam, to review the Annual Project. Also, bring Fair and Halloween crafts to display.

The 6th Grade group of Parkland School has a reservation, October 15th, to help the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Assn. The girls will be labeling and stuffing Christmas Seal envelopes. Other groups wishing to help, before Nov. 4th, may call MA 7-1891, for a date and time.

The Horizon Club Cabinet will meet at the Fircrest Community Center, 555 Contra Costa, on October 14th, at 7:00 p.m. The Jr. Hi Cabinet will be meeting at the Fern Hill Library, 765 So. 84th, from 7:30-8:30. Please send one delegate and an alternate, from each group.

Basic Training for new Blue Bird leaders will be held on October 15th, at Asbury Methodist Church, 56th and So. Puget Sound, 9:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.

Christian Science

The healing power of spiritual awakening will be brought out at Sunday Christian Science church services.

"When we wake to the truth of being, all disease, pain, weakness, weariness, sorrow, sin, death, will be unknown, and the mortal dream will forever cease," one of the citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads.

An incident in the healing ministry of Christ Jesus will be included in the Bible readings: "And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them."

The Lesson-Sermon is entitled "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" The public is invited to attend services held at 11 a.m. at all Christian Science Churches of Tacoma.

LEGION NOTES

The American Legion Auxiliary, Parkland Unit No. 228, will meet Monday 8:00 p.m. at the post hall, 111 Street and South Yakima Ave., with Mrs. Hazel Mackey presiding. Reports of the fourth District Council will be given. The Post will join the Auxiliary for refreshments.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

Chances of Pregnancy
Dear Miss Brookfield:
I am 46. It has been over two years since I had a period. Can I still conceive? I don't want to take any chances on getting pregnant so please answer as soon as possible.
A.B., New Iberia, La.

Dear A.B.:
We don't want to take any chances either, so we suggest you visit your doctor for an answer to your question. Generally, medical authorities agree that a woman who has not menstruated for a year is menopausal and unable to conceive. These authorities also recommend annual checkups as a form of preventive medicine. So visit your doctor and discuss your question with him.

Friendless Widow
Dear Miss Brookfield:
I am a widow of 57 who needs some suggestions to help me pick up and go on. Despite all I do — praying, sewing, shopping and calling friends — I get more depressed and withdrawn with each passing day. No one wants to "be involved" and we are advised not to bother our children. I work but my salary is low and I am forced to pinch to get by. If I had more money I could probably attract more friends. Can you advise me?
R.S., Minneapolis, Minn.

Dear R.S.:
They say you "can't buy friends." But as one comic used to say, "I've been rich and I've been poor. But rich is better." Other than personal initiative, we have no suggestions for increasing your income. However, as your pursuits seem to be solitary ones, why not involve yourself in more social activities, either through your church affiliation or community organizations? In addition, we would certainly advise you to discuss your symptoms of depression and withdrawal with your doctor. Perhaps he can help relieve them.

Answer to Divorcee
Dear Miss Brookfield:
Would you advise M.F., the lonely divorcee from Fort Wayne, Indiana who complained about the eligible men she meets, that there are many fine divorced men just looking for the right girl. I am 42. If I lived closer, I would look her up myself.
B.R., Wilmington, Del.

Dear B.R.:
Want to bet we get a pile of letters from lonely Delaware women, where distance is no excuse? We might as well advise them right now that we cannot forward their letters to B.R.

Problems at 20
Dear Miss Brookfield:
I am 20 years old, five-foot-six and weigh 110 lbs. I would like you to help me get some dates or else some boys to write to.
S.A., Dubuque, Iowa

Dear S.A.:
We wish we could but we can't. Are there no family members who can introduce you to boys? If they can't help, are there no co-educational community organizations you can join for this purpose?

Orchids on Stage

Discussing plans for the coming orchid show are Ken Woolery, President of the Tacoma Orchid Society, and Charles Waid, show chairman.

The 16th annual show of the Tacoma Orchid Society will be held October 10 and 11 at the Villa Plaza Branch of the National Bank of Washington. Saturday, the show is open from 12 noon until 8 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

There are, in nature, more than 600 different types of orchids with over 15,000 species. Man-made hybrids number in the hundreds of thousands. Orchids range in size from one-sixteenth of an inch to as much as ten inches in diameter and come in all shades of lavender, yellow, red, green, blue, bronze, and of course white. All varieties will be well represented at this show. The flowers are entered by amateur and commercial growers and awards will be given from the American Orchid Society. In addition to the display of blooming plants and cut flowers, there is an artistic division for those who wish to try their talents in corsage and arrangement design. Orchids in nature grow under many different conditions, on trees, rocks, in the ground and even under the ground. The plants themselves range from a few inches to more than twenty feet in length which brings about unique designs and arrangements naturally and should inspire many new creations. The general public is invited to the show free of charge to enjoy the "Orchids on Stage."

Community Band & Choir

One new addition to Fort Steilacoom Community College, along with the Mini Campus, is a formal music department. Although in its first year, things are moving, the college has purchased several instruments — tubas, french horns, and other expensive and somewhat awkward instruments. And — they have even shipped in direct from Wenatchee (via L.A.) Mr. Jay McCament to organize the movement.

Mr. McCament, his wife and three children have moved to Spanaway where he plans to do a little farming on the side. He carries with him a B.A. from Central Washington State College and an M.A. in Music from the University of Washington. In between obtaining his degrees, he toured the country playing trumpet with Tony Pasteur, Johnny Long, Hal McIntire and several others.

The classes beginning at Fort Steilacoom are mainly music appreciation. Last week, Community Band and Chorus started. Open to everyone (for credit or just for fun) the Band meets every Tuesday night from 7:50 until 10:00 and the Chorus on Thursday nights from 7:50 to 10:00. The music being played is by demand of the performers — which may prove interesting, and a very MINIMUM of previous experience is necessary to join.

The classes are offered for the musicians enjoyment, for relaxation and to aid in a little learning. It's not too late to join — just drop on by the College, room A-9 at the new campus (by the northwest corner, near the humanities department).

If you're interested in further information, or need a little "talk-me-into-it" call Jay McCament at his home — LE 7-7953, or Fort Steilacoom Community College.

Granger of the Month

The Pierce County Pomona Public Relation Committee along with the members of Collins Grange have selected Thomas Croston as "Granger of the Month" for September. At Ocean Shores Mrs. Andy Nigretto and Mrs. Kent R. Pray, both Girl Scout Troop Organizers and Troop Consultants for Service Unit 5, recently attended a 2-day Pacific Peaks Girl Scout Council's Service Team Training Workshop at Ocean Shores.

Among the varied topics of discussions and sharing of ideas, there was a panel of three, moderated by Mrs. Margaret Peterson, Field Advisor, that explained the origin and purpose of "Action 70", followed by a film "Open Your Eyes", which was most enlightening.

The President of the Pacific Peaks Girl Scout Council, Mrs. Robert Quoidbach and the entire professional staff took part in the training event.

Troop 430 at Fair

The members of Senior Girl Scout Troop 430 participated in the Girl Scout Booth at the Puyallup Fair recently to acquaint the public of the fifteen-girl unit's work with the Pierce County Search and Rescue Team.

Troop 430 is sometimes referred to as The COMESAR, meaning they are the Commissary Unit of the Explore Search and Rescue unit (ESAR), who are Boy Scouts. The Senior Scouts are trained to prepare and serve balanced meals under any condition for the ESAR unit and they are also Teresa Walen of the Bethel FFA displaying her Grand Champion Southdown Ram, and Grand Champion Southdown Ewe, held by her brother Patrick, at the Western Washington Fair in the FFA Division. She also had the Reserve Grand Champion Southdown Ram and the Reserve Grand Champion Romney Ewe. She was named Grand Champion in the FFA Sheep Fitting and Showing Competition. Each of her 7 entries received blue ribbons. A vest which she knit from wool she sheared from her sheep, carded dyed and spun on an Indian Hand Spinner was featured in a wool display at the fair. It had previously won a special prize at the Evergreen State Fair.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Freedom to Ruin?

There is a noisy minority which is today stating that we should accord them the unrestrained freedom to be as vile as they please.

Moreover, they claim the right to flaunt their gross immorality in our faces and the faces of our children — in the name of freedom.

But there is a question which we must answer. On our answer depends the fate of our nation, for historians tell us that most great civilizations have fallen because of internal decay, rather than as a result of external aggression.

The question is: what kind of freedom do we want?

Freedom Vs. Freedom

There are two kinds of freedom, which are in conflict with each other.

One kind of freedom is that which film director Michelangelo Antonioni described in an interview reported in "Life" some time ago. Referring to a picture which he was then making, Antonioni said:

"The young people among whom my film is situated are all aimless, without any other drive but to reach that aimless freedom. Freedom that for them means marijuana, sexual perversion, anything. . . . What you get at the end doesn't interest me. . . . It's that conquest of freedom that matters. . . . Once it's conquered, once all discipline is discarded, then it's decadence. Decadence without any visible future."

The extent to which we have already yielded to this freedom which leads to "decadence without any visible future" is indicated by the titles which are currently appearing on some theatre marquees.

The August 28 issue of "Life" pictured a marquee proclaiming that the theater was showing three movies: "The Filthy Five," "The Promiscuous Sex," and "Sex with a Stranger."

It used to be understood, but seems now to be largely forgotten, that there are many in our country who want the freedom to live and work and rear children in communities where they will not be constantly subjected to immoral, degrading and destructive influences.

Is the right of a parent to have a wholesome community in which to bring up his children to be denied — in order to allow those who delight in immorality to be free to debase themselves and others?

Control Environment

In the final analysis, of course, each individual must make the choice for himself. All that the nation or the community can do is to provide a suitable environment.

But should there not be a freedom for those who do not wish to be surrounded by pornography, obscenity, and filth?

Should we not be free to exercise our right, as a majority, to control the environment in which we and our children shall live?

The Apostle Paul, writing to his friends in Rome, said, "Made free from sin, ye became servants of righteousness. . . . When ye were the servants of sin, ye were free from righteousness. What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? For the end of these things is death."

Freedom from sin—or freedom from righteousness?

Freedom from pornography and obscenity—or freedom to wallow in filth without restraint?

Which freedom do we want?

Parkland Kiwanis Installation

Earl Dryden, President of Parkland Kiwanis Club receives the official gavel from past president Al Raber at the installation ceremonies held last Thursday evening.

The Parkland Kiwanis Club installed new officers in ceremonies held last Thursday night in Knutson Hall on the campus of P.L.U.

Earl Dryden, manager of the Parkland branch of the Pacific National Bank of Washington will be the Club President for the 1971 year.

Kiwanis District Lieutenant Governor Larry Hauge installed the new officers. With Dryden will serve Sam Harris, First Vice President; Clint Richardson, Second Vice President; Bill Olson, Treasurer; and Harry Chambers, Secretary. New Board members installed were John Hansler, Hal Willard, and Rufus Fox to serve two year terms.

Grange News

The annual Graham Grange, No. 962, Booster Program will be held in their hall Friday evening, October 9, at 8 p.m. A warm welcome is extended to all members and friends.

Mr. Cliff Fautin of Fire District No. 21 will demonstrate safety in the home. Mr. Virgil Baker, Assistant Superintendent of Bethel School District will conduct an informal question and answer program concerning the Public and the School. Come and participate. Find out just how our taxes affect the school. Square dancing in charge of the Merry Mixers will round out the evening's festivities.

Mrs. Ross Curtis is in charge of refreshments and invites everyone to join also in the "potluck" supper beginning at 6:30.

Roy Grange members, their friends and their neighbors will meet at 6:30 p.m. October 15th for a "potluck" dinner which will be followed at 8 by the annual Booster Night program.

The program will include motion pictures of the Roy Rodeo, the latest information available on H.B. No. 26 (open space legislation) and the initiative measures.

Entertaining features and music will round out the program. We hope to see you there Thursday night.

Politicians Visit Bethel

The Student body government and the Civic's department of Bethel High School are sponsoring a "Meet the Candidates Day" to better inform the Bethel students of state government. The day will be held October 13. The candidates will be talking about their positions on the up-coming elections and giving their views on current subjects.

Suburban Study Club

The Suburban Study Club will hold its first meeting of the year on Tuesday at 1:30 P.M. at the home of Mrs. Esther Davis, with Mrs. Philip E. Hauge as co-hostess. Mrs. J.E. Danielson will preside over the business meeting and extend a welcome to the members of the Club.

The election issues will be presented by Mrs. Harold J. Leraas and there will be a question and answer period.
