Prizes Listed For Color Contest

Prizes, prizes, prizes—all yours for the asking, if you are between 5 and 14 years old and can win the Times Journal Coloring Contest.

All you have to do is color the pictures in the special page of last week's Journal and take them to the various merchants whose names appear beneath the pictures.

When finished, each picture should be taken to the store sponsoring that space and deposited in a contest box provided there. The contest closes Dec. 10 and the winner's names will be announced in the Dec. 15 issue of the Journal.

The following prizes will be awarded: Bargain Basket offers a five dollar cash prize, "Xmas money", South End Plumbing will award a flash camera kit, Parkland Rexall Pharmacy will give a table tennis set, Brookdale Lumber will present a pair of roller skates, and Parkland Western Auto has a bowling set for the boys and a doll for the girls.

Paul's Shoes will award a pair of Welco Slippers for first prize, tennis shoes for second prize, and shoe shine kits for third through 10th prizes. Ashmore Spanaway Drug is offering a model airplane and a coloring book for the boys, and an Uncle Wiggly game and a coloring book for the girls. Summit Trading will present a York archery set to the boys and a badminton set to the girls. Big Bear will give away a box of fancy Washington apples.

Shop-ette has not chosen their prizes as yet, but promises something "extra special" for the boy and girl winners.

Planter Honoring Ford In FP Quad

Gracing a corner of the main quadrangle at Franklin Pierce High School is this memorial planter dedicated to the memory of the late Morris E. Ford, superintendent of the District for several years.

A memorial planter honoring the memory of the late Morris E. Ford has been constructed in the quadrangle of Franklin Pierce High School. Located near the entrance to the school gymnasium, the planter, shrubbery and sidewalk were built with money from a memorial fund created after the passing of Ford, superintendent and guiding hand of the Franklin Pierce School District for many years. Construction of the memorial was done by Martin Construction Company, a local contractor, and the shrubbery was furnished by the Washington Wholesale Nursery in Midland. Small shrubs were also planted in the other three corners of the court area as a part of the project. Money remaining in the fund will be used for a scholarship for a Franklin Pierce graduate next spring, according to present superintendent Edwin Nelson.

Christmas Meeting

a-Wondering . . . and a-Wandering . . .

With JACK BROWN

Well, for the last couple of weeks I've wandered around and rambled around in this column and haven't really said much of anything. Of course, there are those of you who feel that I never say much of anything anyway. At any rate I've had a little time to think, so guess I'd better get out the dictionary, look up a few four bit words and start to expound like the big city boys.

Before I settle down to anything serious I can't help but think of an editorial I read the other day in the daily. Seems their editorial writer feels steps should be taken immediately to save the grizzly bear from extinction. Well, one conclusion I came to from his article is that he's either a young writer or an older city boy that never got himself chased by a bear. Anyone that's run through the woods with a bear sniffing his rump every step he took, or come up the trail to find his summer cabin a shambles would fail to sympathize with his philosophy.

I've often wondered if there is any connection between welfare and crime. A lot of people are asking that question in one form or another. One noted author, lecturer and radio commentator, John Flynn, brought out several interesting points in a recent article. Flynn thinks no one can give a definite answer because no one had made an objective study of the subject, but by using some of the points he brought out we can make an interesting conversation piece out of the subject, and maybe get an inkling of what the answer might be.

The "welfare" referred to, of course, means outright government handouts to individual citizens. These handouts may seem to come from generous and benevolent governments — federal, state and local — but in reality they come from self-reliant and energetic Americans who work hard for their wages. The governments then step in, tax the results of their labor, and use part of these taxes to make the handouts.

Now the last 20 years in the United States have been years of boom and prosperity. There have been, of course, periods of recession, but generally speaking anybody who really wanted a job could get off the dime and get one. But evidently there is a growing segment of our population who would rather live on the earnings of others. That may seem like a harsh and coldhearted statement. But the Tax Foundation recently made a study of welfare payments in the United States which reveals some shocking figures. Keep in mind two things about these figures:

The first is that they refer to a period of great prosperity. The second is that they include only outright handouts — what we used to call doles when I was a kid. They do not include social security payments or payments under any other government insurance schemes. They refer only to what goes under the fancy name of "public assistance".

Well, in the last 20 years — years of raging prosperity — this outright welfare spending by the federal government has risen 685 percent. (This is no misprint)

In the case of state and local governments, it has risen 117 percent.

These incredible figures mean that there are nearly SEVEN MILLION AMERICANS living on outright doles from the governments.

Undoubtedly, some of these people cannot help themselves. But how many of these people have fallen for the vicious notion that the government owes everybody a living? Why work? Why not just sit back and let the government take care of you? This is what is meant when someone asks what effect welfare is having on the character of the American people.

There was a time when the American was the most independent, self-reliant individual in the world. He considered it a major ingredient of his own moral integrity to earn his own way if he possibly could. What, then, are

'Thread Of Life' Explained

Your chances of being exactly like anybody else in the world — even your brother or sister — are less than 1 in 70 million million. The reason for your having such a minute chance of being a carbon copy of anyone else is explained in the Bell System's latest science series television program, "The Thread of Life." It will be telecast over the NBC-TV network on Friday, December 9th, at 9 p.m.

"The Thread of Life" is a story of the science of genetics, which studies the laws of heredity. Or in a more personal sense, it is the story of how you became you. Dr. Frank C. Baxter, narrator of the hour-long color telecast, goes into the facts of how genes inherited from your parents will account for curly hair or green eyes, stature, or even the shape of your heel!

The film makes use of scientific motion pictures, animated drawings, charts and models to explain the complex mechanism of heredity; and ponders a molecule of deoxyribonucleic acid — DNA — which may be the key to the secrets of heredity, and literally — to anything you want.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Editor, The Times Journal:
Dear sir,

I am writing this letter in the hopes that the person that sprayed acid, or some other liquid on my dog will read this and know what he has done. "Ole Yeller" is the name of our dog. He is a big yellow dog—dane and collie. He has a very good disposition and is a wonderful watch dog. For the past 10 days he has been in constant pain—misery and discomfort. All his hair is gone on the left side, leaving one big sore or burn that the liquid has slowly burned off.

Now I know Ole Yeller must of bothered this person and I know they must have a female dog that they don't take care of, otherwise they would not be bothered twice a year with my dog and I am sure many others. (This is the only time Ole Yeller leaves home.) The main reason I am writing this letter is, I am in hopes that the person will at least call you or someone on your staff and tell us what he used and sprayed on my dog, so we can treat him accordingly — if by the time we receive information it's not too late. The second reason is that I hope he never does this to any dog or any other animal again. The Sheriff's office has a well trained man to handle these problems, as does the Humane society.

I sincerely hope we don't have a sadist in the Parkland area that does this sort of thing for kicks. If anyone knows of such a person, let us know and I will take proper steps to handle him.

I ask "you" again, contact the Times Journal and let us know what you used.

So good you just can't wait...

Why wait? Any schoolboy knows how good a Jordan's snack tastes on a rainy, rainy day. Let's give Mom A+. She knows that Jordan's bread gives growing youngsters extra vitamins, baked in every slice. In fact, Jordan's is the white bread that contains the same wholesome nutrients found in whole wheat bread. Jordan's is still first choice for flavor, nutrition, and freshness. It's great for school lunches, too. Try some today!
