Three from FP honored for science

Three Franklin Pierce High School students have been named to attend a National Science Foundation study program at the University of Puget Sound this summer.

Sue Bondo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bondo, 11723 Bingham Ave., won her scholarship to study in the area of marine ecology. Randy Bulger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bulger, 1214 E. 121st St., will' study chemistry, and Steve Spencer, son The of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Spencer. 1322 E. 90th St., will study geology. All three are iuniors. The national program is being conducted at college campuses throughout the country for outstanding high school students in science. The students will attend an eight-week session, during which they will carry out individual research projects under the guidance of a college science faculty member. Scouts plan

Against the theme "Strengthen America-Scouting Can Make the Difference," over 6,000 Cubs, Boy Scouts and Explorers are now preparing for the highlight of the Scouting season, the annual "Scout-O-Rama," to be held at the University of Puget Sound Fieldhouse May 1-2, from 7:00 to 10:00 each evening.

During the two-day performance, a total of 150 colorful booths will focus attention upon all phases of Scouting activities, including merit badges, camping, nature, conservation, first-aid, crafts, games, and a host of other subjects. The combination exposition and carnival is sponsored each year by the Tacoma Rotary Club. Packs, troops and explorer units from Pierce and Southern King Counties, comprising the Mount Rainier Council of the Boy Scouts of America, will participate.

Adult tickets went on sale Saturday, April 3rd and will be sold by Scouts throughout the area. Children under 16 years of age, when accompanted free.

With JACK BROWN

We now have a tax cut which, when it becomes fully effective, will amount to something over $11 billion a year, and a lot of people are yelling, hooray!

But we are confronted with still another deficit, in the neighborhood of $9 billion.

As The Wall Street Journal puts it, ". . . those nine billion dollars must be taken out of the hide of the economy . . . In effect, the government will simply print up nine billion paper dollars. The resulting inflation will take back from the people the relief that the government professes to give by 'lower' tax rates.'

Writing in The Reader's Digest, James Daniel summed up the situation in a single sentence: "More dollars chasing after goods and services spell higher prices." That has been the case since time began and, carried to its ultimate extreme, it has resulted in the ruin of nations-the post World War I disaster in Germany, when it took a wheelbarrow load of marks to buy a loaf of bread, being the prime example of recent times. Beyond bankrupting the people, it was a major contributory element to Hitler's rise to power and thus of World War II.

The tax cut can be justified only if it is offset by a comparatively proportionate reduction in federal spending. Failing that, we're just robbing Peter to pay Paul.

The irony of it all is that this maneuver, which adds up to Zilch. will get some lawmakers votes from the non-thinking element of our society. .

If you think Uncle's big nose in private industry doesn't affect you. how about this example . . . It seems that diabetics will have to suffer along for a while without the use of some new drug discoveries, due to that long nose.

Dr. Thomas P. Sharkey of Dayton. Ohio, president of the American Diabetics Association, has been quoted as saying that mountains of governmental paper work and red tape may creatly delay the use of these helpful new discoveries for the treatment of diabetics. In his words, "The regulations put a penalty on the conscientious investigator. There's no elasticity in this. It's an all or none law," referring to the new regulations imposed by the Food and Drug Administration.

Any way you look at it, it just adds up to more and more federal control over every facet of our life.

I wonder how long it will be before we all have to register, fill out forms in triplicate, send in with our remittance for our monthly permit to use the bathroom and flush the toilet into sewers emptying into waters owned by the government. Sounds ridiculous? If so, give a good thought for a moment to some of the permit requirements now in effect.

Happened to hear my old friend Bert McMurtrie on radio the other day. Bert was laying into a few people about the loyalty oath. He said that he couldn't understand any American not being proud to stand up and take an oath of loyalty to our country. I imagine his words hit home to a few people

Which reminds me. It seems that letters are still being mailed to some of my advertisers to try and influence them into a decision that would adversely affect my pocketbook. It might interest these advertisers who have received letters to know that the organization instigating the letters was one whose officers steadfastly refused to sign the loyalty oath required in order to use the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board. They probably had their reason, but I'm with Bert. I would consider it an honor to take a loyalty oath every day in the week and twice on Sundays. I, for another, just can't understand the thinking of those who so refuse. What about you?

I felt that the word "injustice" depicted more clearly the course of action taken by game department officials and a Justice of the Peace, and so stated . . . and for the record, my feelings haven't changed one bit.

To make a long story short, a member of the game department came into my office and in essence yelled "Foul". It seems the department felt that every story has two sides and indicated that they would like to have their's heard.

As I see it the entire issue revolved around the future attitude of our young hunters. The question that rung out was simply this . . . What do we tell the neophyte hunter, if he accidently kills a cow or doe? Should we advise him to face up to his problem like a man or run like hell?

The answer could have been forthcoming from an open forum meeting with the game department. Perhaps in such a discussion the one sidedness of the law could have been rearranged in some manner so as to bring it into the realm of justice for those choosing the American plan of action.

At any rate, at the expense of the hunter involved, whose only interest was the future of our young hunters, the necessary arrangements were made and a hall was hired in which to conduct such an open meeting for all sportsmen interested in laws, rules enforcement and wildlife conservation. Floyd Hicks, known to one and all as a man capable of moderating such a meet, with complete fairness to all sides, consented to preside.

The result — When notified of the time and place the local game protector advised this office and Mr. Ted Boehm, the hunter, that they would definitely not attend any such open forum. I personally asked them, as public servants, could they suggest a better way to discuss the matter than openly, with the public invited, and the answer was still that they would not attend.

It's just that simple! After approaching me with the request to air their side of the story they purely and simply ran like hell when presented the opportunity to discuss their department's policies publicly.

This certainly does little to upgrade my regard for the State Game Department. I believe that any organization operating on our behalf should have the courage of their convictions to back up their actions and decisions with open discussion.
