Buildings Near Occupancy

RAPIDLY NEARING COMPLETION, more evidence of the building expansion which is going on around the Parkland area is shown here where Pacific Floor Covering will have their new quarters in the near future. Finishing work is being done and the building may be complete in time for the firm to move in before Christmas.

EXPANDED QUARTERS for T&J Auto Repair were opened last weekend at the company's location on Pacific Avenue. The addition gives Tom Lawing and Jim Boyer room for four or five more cars inside and provides parking area out front of the repair shop. New office space was also incorporated in the new building.

Let Me Tell One:

How Do We Look To Them?

Today is the anniversary of "the day that will live in infamy" Pearl Harbor Day, when the United States was attacked twenty years ago and all speculation about entering the war were resolved.

I can well understand my father's feelings at that time. He was well into his fifties and he and a number of his veteran friends tried to enlist "to finish the job they didn't get done in 1917."

The news today gives us an echo of the events which were being reported at that time. Crisis after crisis came up just as it is today. Wars were being fought around the world and unrest was reported at various spots.

However, I don't feel that today's events will necessarily lead us into a war with anyone.

Neil McLean

Over the weekend I saw two programs on television which gave some insight into what is happening and what we could possibly do to prevent the world being reduced to ashes.

Attack this from the viewpoint of the Russians. We don't trust them, because they have abrogated treaties and generally gone back on their word many times.

From their standpoint, however, it might look to them as if we were talking out of both sides of our mouth.

Looking at the world from Moscow, the general public and some of the leaders of that country are looking at us and listening to us with fear and trembling in their hearts.

We stand up and say we do not want war. We are the most peace loving country in the world. If every dispute that arose were arbitrated to a solution we would be the happiest people that ever lived. (All of this is true.)

But at the same time, the Russians also hear us say that the missile gap is really on our side. We are ahead of the Russians in the amount of nuclear destruction we can pour down on any enemy and we can retaliate in moments to any sort of an attack.

This reminds me of the small boy who is being held down by the big bully and promises to anything asked if he can only get up. Then the first chance he gets, he runs away from the bully, regardless of the promises he has made.

Think of the Russians as being on the defensive, knowing that they can't match us yet in destructive power, and I think their blusterings might be a little more comprehensible.

This is not an apology for the Russians. I am against Communism and military dictatorship against the Russians. But I think the Russian people are as afraid of war as we are.

Color Contest Meet Your Neighbor:

Deadline December 15

The Times Journal Coloring Contest is now in full swing and the popular contest is drawing many entries.

The contest will close this year on Friday, December 15, at all the participating stores.

Space has been left below each picture for the name, address, phone number and age of each contestant, and the name and address of the sponsor of the picture.

Harry Newkirk, Local Booster

HARRY NEWKIRK, waits on a customer at his counter in the Parkland Hardware, where he dispenses friendliness along with the products he sells.

One of the busiest men in town, who always has time for Boy Scouts, hunting and the Parkland Business Club, in addition to his customers, is Harry Newkirk.

Operating the Parkland Hardware is a full time job for Harry, but he manages to be active in many other activities.

Born and raised in the Pacific Northwest, Harry came to the Parkland area after serving Belfay-Smith as superintendent for nine years.

He says he chose Parkland because of the friendly people and has found nothing to change his mind in the time he has been here.

He feels that the area is an excellent district and will continue to grow and prosper in the years to come.

Among his relaxations is to head for the hills with his rifle and stalk big game in season. He says the best way to go hunting is by jeep. The Web-footers is his idea of a fine organization and when he joins he looks forward to the many jeep trips the group takes around the state. First, he says, he has to acquire a jeep. Harry is another of the group which feels that Parkland should be incorporated. He feels that as a city the area would thrive much better.

In the meantime, the present field will be used by the Franklin Pierce team for next season, after which the lights and other equipment will be moved. The state has acquired the land for a freeway access to Puyallup.

The theme this year will be "To The Manger They Came" and is under the direction of Mrs. Wallea Carlson and Mrs. Audrey Betts, music teachers. Students from the first grade through the sixth will participate and all parents are encouraged to attend this outstanding program.

Often we are confronted by families making final arrangements who are undecided as to which fraternal group to select to take part in the service. Many times when the deceased has belonged to more than one group, all are excluded for fear of hurt feelings on part of the groups left out. All fraternal groups stand ready to take an active part in the final service of one of their members. Most groups will take charge and conduct the entire service or fulfill their part at the graveside, leaving the main service to the clergyman of the family's choice.

The choice of which group to select should be based upon which one the deceased was most active in during life. When a fraternal group is desired by the family, they should not exclude it for fear of hurt feelings, for all fraternal groups stand ready to take an active part but only when requested by the family.

a-Wondering... and a-Wandering...

Did you ever wonder where your dollar went? The one you gave for taxes that never got spent. I found out where an estimated 160 million of them are going that comes under the heading of damned foolishness as far as I am concerned. It seems that Congress without consulting the majority appropriated this sum to construct a new airport in Washington D. C. Why? Because they were overwhelmed by a small segment of aviation that convinced them it was necessary.

The present airport in Washington D. C. is more than adequate. The surroundings however seem to be a factor in blowing our money on a new airport. It's quite true that our nations capital should have good facilities but why should we the people pick up the tab. If the airlines want to land at a more impressive spot let them foot some of the bill.

For some reason the government can put up money to develop airports and connected facilities and no one puts up a howl. What if they started to put up a big new depot for the railroads in Tacoma to use or to construct a big central bus station costing a few million bucks for Greyhound and Trailways to use. You'd have the biggest stink raised ever known to man.

Now just to add the topping to this mess, in todays mail I received an announcement that the government was going even further on this Washington D. C. going to throw in another four and half million bucks of our money to purchase mobile lounges to be used at this new white elephant airport. The reason for this given is so that passengers won't have so far to walk to the planes and also won't have to smell exhaust fumes.

On one hand the government insists on physical education being compulsory in our schools to insure the physical fitness of our nation and on the other hand spends 4 1/2 million so that a few of our leading dough heads won't have to walk 100 ft. or so. This makes sense???

Next time I land there they'll probably keep me circling in the holding pattern for a week but I don't care. I say that what you smell at the Washington D. C. airport isn't jet exhaust, it's politics.

By the way the prototype of this new portable lounge only cost us $1,500,000. Isn't that a rip snorting bargain?

On the local level it seems there are those who stand for liberty and justice for all, yet using the Bible for a tool they are attempting to tamper with our liberty. Freedom of religion is one of our greatest heritages yet it is not freedom of religion when we would be forced to drop all but religious activities from our lives for one day of the week. There are many righteous persons who still believe, and rightfully so, that Sunday is not only a day of rest but a day to do ones own choosing.

You may choose to spend the entire day with the Good Book. Others like myself may choose to spend the day in some form of relaxation. Others may choose to spend a part of their day doing some shopping, and still other energetic individuals may elect to spend the day working to further their position in life. In any case it is our right under the constitution to be able to do so without interference from anyone. This is America, the land of the free. Is it free if some group is able to force antiquated blue laws on us that were made in bygone days and have long since served any useful purpose or been enforced?

The law is there I must admit. Let's get rid of it! I for one can't see where there can be a shadow of a doubt but what the best interests of our country would be served by so doing. If for one will fight enforcement of these laws. I refuse to be dictated to by a minority group being used by mercenaries to protect the almighty dollar.

If the local merchants want to serve me on Sunday that's their business and if I want to make a purchase from them on Sunday that's my business. On the other hand if you want to worship on Sunday, that's your business. Again I remind you. This is America. Let's keep our noses out of the other guys business

LID Can't Finance Shelters

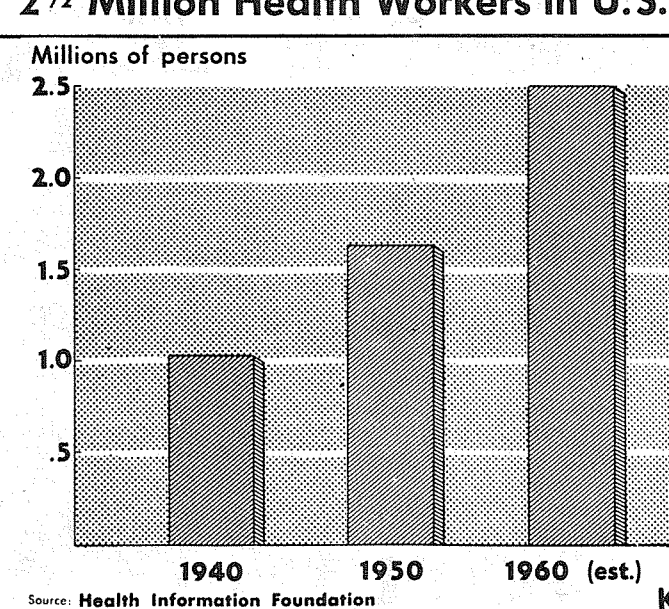

Cities and towns may not authorized under existing improvement districts laws to finance to finance community bomb such shelters through LIDS or fallout shelters which or by special assessments are approved in advance against the property beneficiary the state civil defense fund, he said.

Agency, Attorney General O'Connell noted that the John J. O'Connell said legislation has given cities and towns the authority "whenever the public interest or convenience may require" to construct a long list of public improvements. But the law also specifies that the improvements are "not restricted to those listed."

This law plus the state civil defense act, which directs cities and towns to undertake a wide range of emergency functions in event of enemy attack, provides "sufficient basic authority" for LID-financed shelters in cities and towns, the attorney general said.

another's life is taken—that's only normal. But it doesn't help the injured or dead, and it is little solace to those who have lost a loved one through someone else's carelessness. Also," he continued, "we believe them when they say they didn't mean to cause an accident. Of course they didn't—none of those accidents were caused deliberately."

HIF Reports 2 1/2 Million Health Workers in U.S.

The number of health workers in this country is growing rapidly in terms of the nation's total manpower. According to Health Information Foundation, "the 1960 Census may very well show that within the last decade the health field has risen from seventh to third place among major U.S. industries in numbers of persons employed."

The Foundation estimates that about 2.5 million people—one out of every 30 persons employed in this country—now work in "health service industries," as defined by the U.S. Bureau of the Census. As the chart indicates, this is an increase of about 150 per cent in the last two decades.

Currently about three-fifths of all persons who work in health service industries are connected with hospitals or related institutions, the Foundation reports. In recent years "there has been an increased diversification and specialization in health occupations, as well as growth in the number of persons college-educated or professionally-trained."

An example of this trend, the Foundation points out, is the fact that the medical profession has become much more specialized in recent years. In addition, many of the simpler duties once performed by physicians are now handled by professional nurses, technicians, and other members of the health team. This trend has increased the doctor's productivity and effectiveness.

However, comments Foundation President George Bugbee, new medical knowledge has also placed new demands on the physician. "If current physician-population ratios are to be maintained," he adds, "many more medical schools must be established, or physicians must turn over more duties to specially trained technical and professional workers."

Paradise vs Crystal Creek Is Meeting Subject

"Paradise vs Crystal Creek" is the program topic at our next regular meeting," announces Lloyd Sell, chairman of the Pierce County Rural-Suburban Council's Natural Resources Study Committee. Sell stated that this timely program on the controversy over site location of the new overnight accommodations for Mt. Rainier National Park will follow the regular business session of the study committee. He further stated that the business portion of the meeting will be brief in order to allow ample time for the program, which will be conducted as a panel location.

Cards Debut Roundball

December 12

Five returning Puyallup lettermen will try to thwart the Franklin Pierce Cardinal's Puget Sound League debut when the Cards meet the Vikings Dec. 12, here. Puyallup will be out to retain last year's championship and a victory over the highly rated Cards would certainly bolster squad morale.

Starters Tom Tommervik, Tim Sherry, Chuck Smith, Jim Shoe and Larry Larson will be out to equal the record of their grid predecessors and it is thought by many that a victory over the powerful Vikings would go a long way in accomplishing their task.

Letters to the Editor...

What does Christmas mean to you? Gay decorations; presents to open under the tree; a holiday dinner? Would it mean very much to you if we never had another Christmas? Don't think of it in terms of The Bomb. Even if they never drop The Bomb, they can still take away Christmas. And everything which makes life worth living. What can you do to keep that from happening? "I'm only one man," you say. "One man can't do anything."

One Man did, 2000 years ago. That's why we have Christmas.

Today it is a new battle front, and "new tactics." The last is important. Your country, your freedom, your Christmas-to-come can be taken from you before you ever pick up a gun. Do you know what their greatest weapon is? It is the A-bomb; the H-bomb; nor the 50 megaton bomb. It is our apathy, our lack of interest, our preoccupation with fun, ease of living, and letting George do it.

They will walk our streets; tell us where and how long to work; mold the minds of American children their way, unless we CARE - care enough to be for our way of life. It comfort, security, and what isn't enough to be against the government could do them. You have to be for something. We must self-reliance and the will-care enough to lay aside responsibility. (Reader's Digest, March 1959.) America has already started down the same road. Krushchev said: "Your children will live under Communism." He did not mean that a victorious Russian army would force it upon us. He meant that we would wish it on ourselves! By accepting "government-help" measures and the idea that only the government can solve our problems for us, we are taking the first steps toward making good his boast. Each time we relinquish to the government the right to decide the direction of our lives, our freedom of choice and our willpower are eroded away a little more. This is skillfully done, so you hardly notice it.

Communism's tactics vary in each of the countries it takes over, matching them cold-bloodedly to what the people want most. They believe they have found America's weak spot, the "back door" to enter while we are keeping our attentions on their bombs and war threats. They believe we will want comfort and security so much that for this we will gradually give up our right to govern ourselves, just as that other civilization did 2365 years ago.

Their first step is to accustom us to accept the principle of "from each according to his ability; to each according to his need." This accomplishes not only the outlook that the government must solve all our problems, but it also weakens our moral fiber, and more and more places in the hands of the state the means of production (and isn't that, after all, the goal of Communism?).

This is what Krushchev means when he says: "We will bury you."

5. Today, nobody is a hermit. You belong to the PTA, a labor union, a club. Don't sit back in this group and let the wrong element step in and run it. Gather a few friends together and practice leadership, public speaking, exchanging ideas. Ineffective public speaking alone holds back many whose ideas are worthwhile.

6. Give more attention and study to what your government is doing. Don't leave it for "George to do." Write for the voting records of your Congressmen; ask yourself whether their votes further the aims of the international Communist conspiracy or the welfare of America. Study and understand the implications of legislation under consideration. After it is passed, it may be too late. Study other countries and their problems and ask if the direction of our foreign policy is in good hands. On this may depend our survival and the number of Christmases you have yet to enjoy.

Perennially weak Auburn looms as a dark horse in the southern division this year as they have eight of ten returning lettermen back from last year's squad. One of the eight is Bob Pavalunas, a 6'2" forward. Pavalunas is considered to be a very capable performer and should prove a thorn in the side of every team the Trojans meet. The Cards meet the Trojans Dec. 15.

Despite modern scientific progress, TB still takes a life somewhere in this country every 50 minutes. But more than nine million lives have been saved from tuberculosis since the first Christmas Seal was issued.

Mail Rules Help Carriers

Postmaster John P. Monagle is pleased with the immediate response to his announcement of the 1961 "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign. The postmaster said today: "It is not a bit too early to start following these three simple rules to insure the safety of your gifts before Christmas: 1. Wrap them securely, 2. address them correctly, and 3. mail them early. Also," he continues, "that to see folks take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages and those for Tacoma and break open in transit and too often we have to puzzle over names and addresses which are incomplete or simply cannot be read at all."

He also reminds us that size and weight limitations for parcel post packages vary according to place of mailing. Check on these limitations before mailing your packages and while you are at the post office stock up on stamps for your Christmas mailing needs. If you buy your stamps early you help us to avoid a last minute rush and enable us to give you better service.

Remember, only Christmas cards carrying first-class postage may include a personal message. Always include your name and address on Christmas card envelopes. This helps both you and your friends to keep mailing lists up to date.

Keep in mind that early mailing of all Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting everything delivered before Christmas. Try to mail both cards and gifts before December 10th; the earlier, the better. Cards and packages mailed by December 15th will be sent by December 17th.

Thirty years ago the theme of the 1931 Christmas Seal Campaign was "Tuberculosis-- The Enemy of Youth." Today, half of all cases found are over 45 years of age.

Don't Mar Shopping With Faulty Stopping

One of the delights of December is to become a part of the hustle and bustle of Christmas shopping, but delight can turn into danger when motorists or pedestrians act without thinking, warns R. L. Clevenger Jr., Chairman of the Washington State Safety Council Executive Board. "Tinkling bells and Christmas music must give way to the sirens of police cars and ambulances when unthinking drivers skid through stop signs into approaching vehicles, or strike an errant pedestrian, or plow into the rear of the vehicle ahead on slippery pavement," he warned. "The three greatest and added traffic hazards of this season are inadequate traction, reduced visibility, and temperature changes," Clevenger continued. "Drivers must see, and be seen," he cautioned. "This means maintaining good lights, good windshield wipers, good defroster, and properly-functioning rear and front turn signals. Because stopping distances are lengthened on even spotty ice and snow, drivers must stop sooner. During severe snow or icy conditions, or in hilly areas, tire chains may be needed. Always carry a pair of reinforced chains in the trunk, ready for really bad conditions. Don't cause a traffic blockade or be a skid-wreck victim.

Pre-college Conference At FP This Week

Representatives from 16 Pacific Northwest colleges and universities will journey to the Cardinal campus tomorrow to take part in the annual pre-college conference.
 Some 130 pre-college seniors will participate in the confab, which is under the direction of girls' guidance counselor Miss Patricia O'Connell, by attending two sessions to hear representatives from the two colleges of their choice.
 This conference is a climax to three weeks of preparations which began when a series of four speeches on college problems was launched by Mr. Walter Kunschak, FP English Department head, who spoke on "Why Go to College?". Miss AnnaMarn Neilson of PLU, Mr. Larry Sterberg of UPS, and Mr. Del Schaffer, of the FP guidance department, also addressed the seniors.
 Homecoming activities got underway today as first period classes elected the royalty for the 1961 Homecoming court.
 With senior Ina Christensen at the helm of the activities, committees have been at work for the last month in preparation for the two-day celebration slated for late December.
 An alumni assembly will be held Friday, Dec. 22 in the school gymnasium. All alumni are cordially invited to attend and watch their fellow graduates perform.
 Preceding the Homecoming game with Lincoln on Dec. 28 will be a reception for all FP alumni and faculty. Presentation of the royalty will highlight the half-time activities of the Abe-Cardinal tilt, which will be followed by an alumni-student dance in the cafeteria.
 "The Diary of Anne Frank," which was presented last Thursday and Friday, topped all attendance records for a dramatic production at Franklin Pierce.
 Gleeful Drama Coach Mr. Larry Roshau commented, "We played to I'm just real happy about the whole production."

Letter to the Editor

To The Editor
 Just "a-Wondering" if the rest of the "well-padded" readers get the same message when the Editor tries to fit the culprit to the crime.
 On several occasions now, the message I get is "Nuts!". The "blubber-gut" and the "lard butted" guy is guilty.
 Now come on Jack, you know we "fatso's" still have a heart just like the others, and even though our hides may be somewhat thicker, we aren't exactly insensitive. Can't you be a little more open-minded and lay off the name calling?
 Mrs. V.
 P.S. I can remember some of the name calling during my childhood days. Many of us who were the children of immigrant parents were subject to calls of "Ah, you old Polack, or you dirty Wop, or you stupid Slav, etc." Education thank heaven, has taught that each person has their own little niche here in our wonderful country. Name calling, such as it used to be, is now very seldom heard, and we accept each other for what we are.

Letter to the Editor
 To The Editor
 Just "a-Wondering" if the rest of the "well-padded" readers get the same message when the Editor tries to fit the culprit to the crime.
 On several occasions now, the message I get is "Nuts!". The "blubber-gut" and the "lard butted" guy is guilty.
 Now come on Jack, you know we "fatso's" still have a heart just like the others, and even though our hides may be somewhat thicker, we aren't exactly insensitive. Can't you be a little more open-minded and lay off the name calling?
 Mrs. V.
 P.S. I can remember some of the name calling during my childhood days. Many of us who were the children of immigrant parents were subject to calls of "Ah, you old Polack, or you dirty Wop, or you stupid Slav, etc." Education thank heaven, has taught that each person has their own little niche here in our wonderful country. Name calling, such as it used to be, is now very seldom heard, and we accept each other for what we are.
