Troop 76 Camps Out

An over-night training camp-out for Troop 76 patrol leaders was held on January 21 and 22 at the Truman Dawn place on Canyon Road. Training included instruction in different types of lashings, boxing the compass, erecting trail tents, hunting a lost child, and treating and transporting an injured person. Instructors were Scoutmaster Jack Houtz and Assistant Scoutmaster Leonard Phernetton. Scouts attending were Lynn Dawn, Kenneth Houtz, James Hart, Rick Robbins, Tim Pruitt and Mark Nelson.

Scouts of Troop 76 went swimming at the Tacoma Boy's Club on January 20. The scouts were accompanied by Howard Pruitt, Perry Bartram and Leonard Phernetton.

Troop 76 distributed paper bags for the Goodwill Industries drive for repairable clothing, shoes and appliances on January 28, 1961. The scouts are helping the handicapped help themselves. Please fill your bags and have them on your doorstep by 9:00 a.m., Saturday February 4th.

Handsome Meringue Topping For Raisin Sour Cream Pie

A golden tipped fluffy meringue crowns this handsome pie filled with the taste surprise of flavorful California raisins. The elegant sour cream filling is also accented with chopped walnuts and fragrant spices. Cook the filling over low heat or hot water and stir constantly so it comes out satiny smooth.

Raisin Sour Cream Meringue Pie

- | | |
|--------------------------|------------------------------|
| 1 cup sugar | 1 cup sour cream |
| 2 tablespoons cornstarch | 1 cup dark or golden raisins |
| 3/4 teaspoon salt | 1 1/2 teaspoons lemon juice |
| 1 teaspoon cinnamon | 1/2 cup chopped walnuts |
| 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg | 1 baked 9-inch pastry shell |
| 1/4 teaspoon cloves | 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar |
| 2 eggs, separated | |

Combine 3/4 cup sugar, cornstarch, salt and spices. Blend in egg yolks. Add sour cream, raisins and lemon juice. Cook over hot water until thick stirring constantly. Cool. Add walnuts and pour into baked pastry shell. Top with meringue. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 15 to 18 minutes until delicately browned. To make meringue, beat egg whites until frothy. Add cream of tartar and continue beating until peaks begin to form. Gradually beat in remaining 1/4 cup sugar, beating until stiff and glossy. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Musical Band

At the last Pack meeting of Troop 76, parents were asked to demonstrate the South American instruments that the boys from the different dens have been making. Good rhythm was made and fun was had by all who participated. Refreshments were served by parents of Mrs. Earle's Den.

Camp Fire Mint Sale

The Camp Fire Mint Candy Sale will begin Saturday, February 4th, at 10:00 a.m. and lasts through Wednesday, February 22nd. It is an opportunity for the individual groups to raise money to finance—camping trips, train trips, field trips, or to buy group program supplies and equipment. Help our future homemakers when they come knocking with their sweet little smiles.

June Bug Garden Club

The June Bug Garden Club will hold an open meeting February 9th, in the Summit Youth Center at eight p.m. A very interesting program is being planned by Mr. Fred Kropp, from the Washington State Experimental Station, on "How to Detect and Prevent Poisonous Weeds". Slides will be shown with his lecture. So many requests were received for this type of program that the club members wanted the public to hear this marvelous speaker. There will be no charge. Refreshments will be served.

Rev. Darwin Secord, Eatonville, was elected chairman of the Rural-Suburban Council last week. He has been very active during the past year as chairman of the Youth Study Committee. Don Morgan, Fircrest, is Assistant Chairman. Other officers elected include Mrs. Anita Jordan, Midland, recording secretary, R. C. Miller, Firgrove, and David Matlock, Alderton, directors.

C. Melvin McKinney, Tacoma, was appointed chairman of the by-laws committee. He will be assisted by Mrs. Lyle Parker, Collins Rd., and R. C. Miller.

The executive group will meet 1:30 p.m., January 30, at the R. C. Miller home to plan future activities of the group. The Rural-Suburban Council is sponsored by the Pierce County Extension Service.

The first two-hour session of "Principles of Economics as applied to Pierce County Agriculture" will be held 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, January 31st, in the Western Washington Experiment Station Winter School Building. Dr. Bruce Brooks, Washington State University Economics professor, will teach the session devoted to basic economic concepts and modern economic systems.

Eight two-hour meetings will be devoted to the short course. Most meetings will be held on Tuesdays. Interested individuals are invited to attend.

It's the LAW

John and Grace, married five years, had two children when Grace sued for divorce.

She was awarded a divorce and custody of the two children. John was awarded the right to visit the children regularly and ordered to pay Grace $100 a month for support of the children, and alimony of $150 a month for 18 months. Grace got a job earning $325 a month. Since she felt that she was paying more than half of the money needed to support the two children living with her, she claimed both of the children as dependents on her income tax return. John also claimed the children as dependents.

These questions then arose: Did she have to pay income tax on her alimony, or on the support money for the children, and who could claim the children as dependents?

The answer is that she did have to pay income tax on her alimony. Her husband had to pay the income tax on the child support payments, however, as those payments were not deductible from his income, and were not income to Grace.

The Internal Revenue Bureau ruled that neither Grace nor John had proved that either she or he had paid more than half of the amount required to support the two children, so neither Grace nor John was allowed to claim either of the children as a dependent. Grace and John solved their problem of claiming the children as dependents the next year, however. By agreement, she claimed one child and he claimed the other, and that arrangement was found valid.

Pierce County 4-H Garden Club leaders and interested parents will have an opportunity to learn about the details in heading up Garden Club projects for 1961.

County Agent Morrill Delano will conduct this first of a series of leader training meetings this Thursday evening, January 26, at 7:30 in the Winter School Building, Western Washington Experiment Station, Puyallup.

Anyone not now participating in 4-H Club work and who would like to organize a 4-H Garden Club and become a leader is urged to attend Thursday night's meeting. People find it fun and rewarding to make grow up under the guidance of the

By Jack Crawford

Just off the press and available at the County Agents' Office is the revised seeding recommendations for grassland farming in Pierce County. This brochure describes recommended practices in preparing the seed bed, seeding, and handling the new crop. Varieties and seeding rates are given for irrigated and non-irrigated soils, poorly drained soils, and draughty soils.

The recommendations were developed by personnel from the Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, and Western Washington Experiment Station. The results of performance of varieties in experimental and field tests were used in preparing the recommendations.

Anyone desiring a copy can call the County Agents' Office in the County-City Building — FU 3-3311 Ext. 511.

Exotic Winter Dish

A savory hot dish that will satisfy the most demanding winter appetite is Curried Meat Balls. The American adaptation of Indian cookery has added Far Eastern atmosphere when served with parsleyed rice and spicy relishes. Curried Meat Balls are excellent for buffet entertaining or for adding variety to a family meal.

Curried Meat Balls
2 cups Kellogg's Corn Flakes
1-1/2 pounds ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1/2 teaspoon thyme
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups consomme
1/2 cup tomato paste
1-1/2 tablespoons curry powder
2 tablespoons hot water

Crush Corn Flakes slightly; combine with beef, salt, pepper, onions and thyme. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Shape into small balls, using 2 tablespoons for each. Heat butter in large frying pan; brown meat balls on all sides. Remove meat balls from skillet. Blend flour into drippings; gradually add consomme, tomato paste and curry powder dissolved in hot water, stirring constantly. Add meat balls to sauce; cover tightly. Simmer about 45 minutes. Serve at once with cooked rice.
Yield: 6 servings, about 4 meat balls each.

"COUNTRY PLAYERS"

Most LP's are now available in stereo or mono groovings for your convenience. However, you need not fear to play regular LP's on a stereo machine, and they will sound even better than on your older conventional outfit.

"Big Songs by 'Little' Jimmy Dickens" is a collection of all-time country favorites, which are enhanced by the warmth of

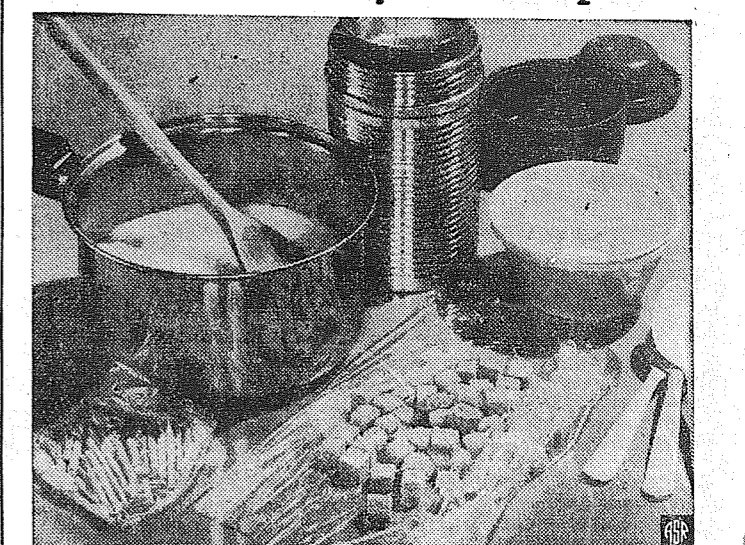

In "Encore, Robeson!" Paul Robeson sings a number of his favorites, including eight gospel songs, and the richness of his deep baritone voice adds immeasurably to their beauty (Monitor).

In the folk song field, "Little" Jimmy Dickens has a fine rendition of "John Henry," and for a neat modernized version of an oldie, you'll enjoy Johnny Western's "Darling Corey" (Both Columbia).

Three of the girl singers have fine singles: "I Want to Live Again" (Rose Maddox, Capitol); "My Last Date" (Skeeter Davis, RCA) and "When Do You Love Me" (Theresa Brewer, Coral).

Other fine singles are: "Don't Worry" (Marty Robbins, Columbia); "Rockin' Rollin' Ocean" (Hank Snow, RCA); "Take Time Out" (Carl Dobkins, Jr., Decca); "My Last Chance With You" (Tommy Collins, Capitol); "Girl From Saskatoon" (Johnny Cash, Columbia); "Bringin' in the Georgia Mail" (Reno & Smiley, King); "Cuzz Yore So Sweet" (Simon Crum, Capitol) and "Louisiana Man" (Rusty & Doug, Hickory).

What To Carry With Soup

Many folks who carry lunch to work or school each day, find that hot soup is especially welcome during the winter months. Soup in itself is so readily available and in such variety that anyone can carry his or her favorite in a thermos to keep it hot and good until lunchtime.

However, to get additional pleasure from soup with the carried meal, take something with it in the lunch box that will be crisp and add that certain something to the meal. Package some of the following in the clear, new economy lunch-box wrap to keep them protected. Then when lunch time is at hand, open the package of garnish to eat with or on the soup.

1. Bean Soup..... Croutons
2. Pea Soup..... Popcorn
3. Corn Chowder..... Crumbled, Crisp Cooked Bacon
4. Vegetable Soup..... Corn Chips
5. Mushroom Soup..... Pretzel Sticks
6. Clam Chowder..... Cheese Sticks

This list could go on but perhaps the ones given here will spark other ideas. Be sure, though, to wrap the garnishes. New lunch-box wrap does this job very well.

Crispy Weather Casserole

A quick and hearty casserole is the mainstay of many a winter meal. Here's a new one, "Crispy Weather Casserole", that's rich in flavor and nutrition, and very economical. Melted cheese, onions and frozen asparagus are the basis for this light, meatless main dish. Top and bottom layers of crispy, saline crackers give it a satisfying, crunchy texture. Simple, yet surprisingly tasty. Here's the recipe:

- | | |
|--|---|
| Crispy Weather Casserole | |
| 1 10 ounce package frozen asparagus | 2 tablespoons salad oil |
| 9 double, or 18 single, Krispy Saline Crackers | 2 cups grated process American cheese (1/2 lb.) |
| 1/2 cup minced onions | 1/4 teaspoon salt |
| | 1 1/2 cups milk |

Cook asparagus according to package directions; drain well. In greased 8"x8"x2" square pan, arrange 9 crackers. Place asparagus on top of crackers. In a saucepan, sauté onions in fat till golden. Add cheese and salt; cook, stirring, until cheese is melted; pour over asparagus. Pour milk over all. Top with remaining crackers. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 45 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Roy Library Blessed With Many New Books

Rain, as usual, accompanied the Pierce County Library to Roy on January 17 when a delivery of new books was made. Mrs. Ng, the local librarian, was delighted when she saw the stationwagon loaded to the window ledges with books.

In the fiction were a number of new titles, as well as some older ones, which will bring a lot of enjoyment to library users. A new book, The Chess Players, by Frances Keyes, deals with a wealthy Creole family during the time of the Civil War. This book was the Literary Guild selection for January, 1961.

Another book about the Civil War is Don Robertson's By Antietam Creek. This book is the second of a proposed trilogy of which the first was The Three Days, a story of Gettysburg. Seldom have the horrors of war been so graphically described as in these two books. This is hard, realistic fare recommended for those of stout heart and strong stomach.

To lighten the load after the above is a delightful comedy by Eric Linklater called The Merry Muse. The story revolves around the discovery of some very bawdy poems by Robert Burns. Here is a book whose humor is handled beautifully—a humor which depends upon character and situation.

Among older titles which demand attention is the new translation of Ignazio Silone's Fontamara. It tells of an Italian peasant of the Mezzogiorno who finds in his own death a hope for his people's suffering and finally comes to understand not only the meaning of suffering, but also of its responsibility.

Another older book of some curiosity and considerable interest is the now famous Lawrence Durrell's White Eagles Over Serbia. It is a suspense story with a mountainous Serbian setting and quite different from the wonderful "Alexandria Quarter."

Along with the above are some fine standbys for the serious reader—Marquand's Sincerely, Wyllis Wayde, Boris Pasternak's Doctor Zivago, and Franz Werfel's splendid and appealing Song of Bernadette.

Among the non-fiction are some very good things. A new revised edition by Litchfield and Dembo of Your Child's Care covers a comprehensive range of pediatric subjects. The question and answer format will facilitate use by harried mothers.

Puerto Rico: Island of Promise by Gruber brings new information about this lovely Caribbean paradise. Over 100 photographs enliven the interest of this book.

Other titles are Designs for Living, a fine interior decoration book, by Ford and the popular Jean Kerr's The Snake Has All the Lines.

In addition to adult fiction and non-fiction there were a lot of new children's books delivered to Roy. Also, there was the usual group of new westerns, mysteries, and science fiction.

Cards Out For "Bear" Friday

Franklin Pierce is looking for league win number four against the winless Glacier Grizzlies on the Parkland court Friday night.

Tom Tommervik and Tim Sherry continue to lead the offense in the Cardinals' attack, and are expected to carry the brunt of the load against the Grizzlies. Tommervik was held to one of his lowest outputs of the season last week in Renton, getting only nine points. Sherry was credited with 12.

The Grizzlies are an inexperienced team, this being the first year they've played a full schedule in the Puget Sound League. They have a 0-8 record to date, most of their losses having been decisive. Forward Horner is a potential threat near the hoop, and is good for 10 to 15 points a game for Glacier.

The Cardinals travel to Clover Park next Tuesday to meet the Warriors in a second game of the season. Two weeks ago, the Warriors lost a tough one on the Card floor when the FP team slowed down to a crawl and held the ball for a 25-26 win. Clover Park is presently riding in second place in the League.

ROGER LUNDE AUXILIARY

Rodger Lunde Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert Surplus tonight at 8. Plans will be made for a card party at the home of Mrs. Eniar Thorsen Feb. 14 at 8 pm.

With JACK BROWN

It's easy for the pessimist to say that the days of opportunity in America are over. But opportunity is still very much around for the individual with a good product or idea and the enterprise and intestinal fortitude to follow it up. Sometimes the results can nearly bowl you over, as demonstrated by one American housewife in a story told in the Carlsbad, New Mexico, Current-Argus.

Back in 1937, in Fairfield, Connecticut, Mrs. Maggie Rudkin, 40, decided home-made bread would help her asthmatic son. Although she had never baked bread before she remembered the way her grandmother used to make it when she was a kid. Proceeding accordingly, she used whole wheat flour, sweet creamery butter, fresh whole milk, salt, honey, cane syrup and other ingredients. Her son's doctor liked the bread and asked her to make some for his other patients. A local grocery store took some extra loaves, sold them quickly and wanted more. Other nearby stores and bakeries became interested and then her husband, a New York broker, began taking loaves to the city for sale to an outlet there.

Within a year she was baking 4,000 loaves a week. And here's the cap to the story. This backyard business grew into Pepperidge Farm, Inc., and was sold recently to Campbell Soup Co. for 357,413 shares of Campbell stock, worth approximately $28 million. In the words of the Current-Argus: "It still can be done in America!"

We need more people like Mrs. Rudkin. In fact we must have more to hold back the tide of federal operated business, else we end up like New Zealand.

After a 28,000-mile tour of many foreign lands, Tom Anderson, Editor of Farm and Ranch Magazine, Nashville, Tennessee, says this about socialized New Zealand: " . . . nobody goes to bed hungry . . . The average wage . . . is around $25 a week. Butter and other foods are government-subsidized—sold below cost. Medicine and doctors are 'free'. Few people have cars. Government owns and rent-controls a big portion of housing. There is no unemployment. Except for the old, the sick and the goldbrickers on government relief, everybody works—but not very hard . . . Everybody's 'equal', by government regulation . . . One New Zealander bragged to me, 'We look at people like a sow looks at her litter—12 pigs all get the same treatment!'

The United States is headed down the welfare state road (socialism) with federal power, federal housing, federal money loaning, federal wage-fixing and other federal activities limiting private opportunity. And coming up for consideration is compulsory federal medical aid, more compulsory wage and hour provisions, more compulsory taxation for so-called depressed areas, more federal support of education, plus many other political proposals to limit and restrict the field of private enterprise.

Of course, all these gifts, or services at cost, will in the long run be paid for by the recipients and the rest of us through taxation.

As Mr. Anderson says, in concluding his article, "We're being spent, planned, maneuvered, cheated and 'neutralized' out of our freedoms . . . (those) who refuse to take a stand . . . remind me of Dante's classic indictment: 'The hottest fires of hell are reserved for those who, in a period of moral crisis, maintain neutrality.'"

In other words, Mr. and Mrs. America, it's time you got up off your dead ends and started to show some of that good old Yankee initiative that made this country what it is today or else we all may end up in the same class as one of the old sow's litter of 12.

The other day while at Olympia I came to the conclusion that kids are kids no matter where they are or what they are doing. On the other hand there is the remote possibility that all pages were born hollow. At any rate it's quite amusing to see one running through the halls paging Rep. Whozit while holding a bottle of coke in one hand and a candy bar in the other.

It's The Law . . .

A listed his house for sale with B, a real estate broker, giving B an exclusive listing on the property for 60 days. The listing contract provided that B would be entitled to a five per cent commission on the sale price when B produced a buyer who was ready, willing and able to purchase the property.

B advertised the property for sale. C answered B's ad and was taken to the house by B. C liked the house, had cash and was able to pay the $20,000 purchase price A was asking.

The day after the broker showed C the house, C came back and asked A how long it would be before the exclusive listing with B would end. A told C the listing would expire in a week. C then said he would buy the house as soon as the listing expired if A would reduce the price by $500, or half of the amount of the $1,000 commission that A would save by selling the house after the listing expired. A agreed to sell on those terms.

After the listing expired, A sold the house to C for $19,500 and told B nothing about it. Later B found out about the sale and sued A for the 5 per cent commission. Do you think B can win the suit for his commission?

The answer is that B can collect his commission. He earned it when he produced C, who was ready, willing and able to buy A's house. A and C could not cheat B out of his commission merely by waiting until the listing on the house expired. The court would require A to pay B the commission, and the fact that A reduced the purchase price by half of the amount of the commission would not change the result.

DIVORCE AND CHILDREN
John and Jane were divorced in 1956. The court gave Jane custody of their only child, a son Bobby, and ordered John to pay $100 a month to Jane for education and support of the boy.

The divorce decree provided that John would have a right to visit his son at reasonable times and places.

In 1957 Jane moved to Arizona, taking Bobby with her, and married again. John stopped paying the $100 a month as soon as he found out his ex-wife did not intend to return to this state with the child.

Jane then started a lawsuit in this state to force John to continue paying the monthly support money. John told the court that he felt that since his ex-wife had taken the child out of the state making it impossible for John to visit his son, she had forfeited the right to support money for the boy.

Can John be forced to continue to support his son, under these circumstances?

The answer is that John can be forced to keep paying the $100 a month support payments. Since the divorce decree did not provide that Jane could not take the child out of the state, she had a right to take the boy when she moved to another state.

The court is primarily concerned with protecting the rights of the child, and not the rights of the parents. John's obligation to contribute to the support of his child is of greater importance, in the eyes of the law, than the right he claimed of being able to visit the boy in this state.

A father's obligation to contribute toward the support of his child is not ended simply because he can no longer conveniently visit the child.

Local Supervisor Will Speak On Rehabilitation

Walter L. Corwin, Supervisor of state juvenile parole services in the parkland area, is among the experts on youth and delinquency who are presenting a state-wide review of juvenile rehabilitation procedures February 2-3 in Seattle Olympic Hotel.

The remaining session will span the entire range of the complicated process of rehabilitating youngsters in trouble. The most recent procedures will be examined — from the time a youth is placed on probation or ordered committed to an institution, to the time he is discharged or paroled.

Corwin is among 36 experts — representing a cross-section of juvenile authorities in the state — who will contribute to the program. The meeting is primarily a training and refresher course for professionals, but is open to the public. An estimated 200 persons who deal with juvenile delinquency are expected to attend.

This is the fifth — and most ambitious — annual training institute sponsored by the Bureau of Juvenile Rehabilitation of the Department of Institutions. "We consider this the most comprehensive survey of the subject ever attempted."

in relationship to yield and hardiness in the heavier soils.
Now our problem is the source of these pure strains of raspberries, and their freedom from disease and insect infestation or damage.
Strawberry growers can be sure of what they are buying through certified plants. The strawberry tonnage improvement is primarily due to the certification program. Ten years ago the average strawberry yield was less than two tons per acre—now it is five, with many fields making eight tons.
The Horticultural Committee's report, given by Chuck Bond of Puyallup, feels keenly about the immediate need for the raspberry industry see to it that a raspberry certification program be established before the identity of raspberry varieties is lost. If certified plants have improved the strawberry industry, it certainly could do the same thing for raspberries.

"Where do we go from here?" is the topic confronting members of the Pierce County Natural Resource Study Committee, at their first meeting of the year on Monday afternoon, February 6th. The meeting place is in Room 741, County-City Building from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.
The Natural Resources Study Committee is one of five study committees comprising the Rural-Suburban Council. Others are Youth, Family Life, Public Affairs and Agriculture.
Having developed a preliminary report on their activities of 1960, which pertained to problems relating to forest, grasslands, croplands, fish and wildlife, and minerals in the county, the Natural Resources Study Committee is now ready to pursue further and more detailed study as well as to initiate possible action programs on the existing problems.

Don Morgan, Chairman of the committee, announces that the State-wide Pilot Forest Management Program will be discussed and evaluated at this meeting for possible action by the committee. He further stated that copies of the study report completed by the committee in 1960 will be available at the meeting for all members and others attending.
All persons interested in furthering county natural resource development are urged to attend.

Success Stories
Two Pierce County tree farmers at least, have attained the upper hand in establishing plantations in old fields.
According to Les Goelyer intense growing of trees must be treated as any other agricultural crop, when growing the mon agricultural lands. This attitude has achieved him 100% success on his two planting jobs involving around 20 acres during the past two planting seasons. Les goes all the way—first the field was prepared to the same degree as if he were planting bulbs or some other crop. Second he hired regular strawberry transplanting equipment and trained operators—third he walked each row to be sure each seedling was properly seated and packed. Fourth he treated each row with a pre-emergence weed control chemical—fifth, he accomplished several cultivations each year—each involving between the row cultivation with standard equipment—in the row cultivation with a wiggle hoe five steps have added up to nothing and some follow up by hand. The but success for Les—tree mortality in his plantation is practically non-existent. Note that much of Les's work involved follow-up treatment after planting—this is important.

In the Roy area another tree farmer has achieved good results with his tree planting program. Mr. E. T. Reese, who is planting all of his crop land to forest tree species, has been planting at the rate of 15 to 17 acres per year. He now has two thirds of his job done with only one planting season left, barring unforeseen events. His approach although much the same as Les Goelyer's involved the use of a regular tree planting machine. This year Mr. Reese built his own machine, constructing into it several improvements over the commercial machine he used last year. For example, larger packing wheels, more room for the operator's hand in placing the seedling and a more comfortable seating arrangement for the operator. Mr. Reese also conquered the problem of cross cultivation by pre-marking the field before planting. This allowed the operator to place the seedling in near perfect alignment by setting a tree at each intersection. The practice has paid off from the standpoint that the operator can cross cultivate with standard farm cultivation equipment. Here too, the operator has emphasized cultivation and follow-up treatment.

You sure see a lot of interest in sheep here nowadays. Although most sheep here are in small flocks, we have 1500 head in the county. Enthusiastic owners of small flocks include two new Dorset producers: Paul Housel of Edgewood and Whitney Roberts of Alderton. Dorsets are new to our area. They breed often and produce many lambs. Most of the Roberts' flock of ewes has been dropping twins and triplets during the last week or two. Whitney and his good wife Edna have two happy, busy sons Dean and Ronnie, in 4-H with these sheep projects.

Speaking of sheep, folks, here is some interesting news from Rudy Setzler our Extension Livestock Specialist. He says recent research proves that suckling lambs have a special liking for a pelleted feed of 60% corn, 30% soybean oil meal, and 10% wheat bran. They like this even better if 10% dehydrated alfalfa meal is substituted for the 10% wheat bran. Lambs on this mixture gained 20% faster than, for example, those on shelled corn and actual daily gain was one-tenth lb. greater. Before buying this mixture, comparisons should be made in costs of this ration, and rations including barley and oats.

If you are entertaining ideas of building a new stock pond you should see the new one of Carl Aamoldt, just south of Puyallup. He has it securely fenced to keep out stock. Cattle drink from a discarded home bath tub automatically filled with water from the pond. He has the pond banks sown to stock it with trout. The Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices at Puyallup helped him in planning of the pond which is 100' x 200' in size and more than takes care of all his needs for stock and irrigation water.

You may wonder, what are the objectives of all the various fairs in our county and state? Here are the ideas of the State Fair Association as shown in their 1957 report. In this report, they stated what they thought the purposes should be:

1. To encourage trade.
2. To offer recreation and amusement.
3. To present the products of farm, home, and factory.
4. To provide wholesome competition of various types and through such competition should result better livestock, crops, etc.
5. To provide social contacts.
6. To educate youth and adults.
7. To improve relations between rural and urban people.
8. To build character through participation by competition, cooperation, and accomplishment.
9. To help build community pride not only in its products, but in its youth.

Considerable planning is now being done for the next fall fair season and perhaps some of those stated purposes may help the planners when they write their plans.

By Morrill Delano
County Agent Morrill Delano has set up a strawberry information meeting at the Winter School Building, Western Washington Experiment Station, Puyallup, starting at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, February 2.
Strawberries, their diseases and insects, along with fertilizer practices will be discussed by WSU Extension specialists, Dave Bran-mon, Marion Harris, and John Dodge.

Delano will explain the procedure set up by Washington State University and the certified plant growers in determining the allocation of the two new strawberry varieties, Cascade and Columbia. Pierce County's share of these new varieties is very limited—800 plants of each.

Everett Wolford, director of USDA Research Fruit Processing Laboratory at the Experiment Station, will have a display of these new strawberries, as well as raspberries. He will have comments to make about their processing and eating qualities.

You need not be a berry grower to attend this meeting as the backyard berry grower, along with the people just "buying" with the idea of growing berries, is encouraged to attend just as much as the commercial grower.
The 1961 strawberry and raspberry spray recommendations will be available for distribution at the meeting, so come and get yours.
