Dr. Wiegman To Be Inaugurated Monday

The inauguration of Dr. Eugene W. Wiegman as the ninth president of Pacific Lutheran University will take place Monday, March 16, in PLU's Olson Auditorium.

Dr. Wiegman, 40, succeeded Dr. Robert Mortvedt as PLU president Aug. 1, 1969. He was formerly dean of community education at Federal City College in Washington, D.C.

Rites of inauguration will be performed by Dr. Fredrik Schioltz, president of the American Lutheran Church and Lutheran World Federation. Performance of Francis Poulenc's "Gloria" by the PLU Choir of the West and University Orchestra is the musical highlight of the inauguration program, which begins at 10 a.m.

The musical offering is under the direction of Jerry Kracht, director of the PLU Orchestra. "Gloria," Poulenc's last major work, was completed in 1960 and is based on the second section of the Mass.

Kracht will also conduct processional and recessional, played by the combined PLU Concert Band and Orchestra. Lawrence Meyer, PLU music professor, has composed a work for the occasion entitled "Procession of Joy."

Over 300 delegates from colleges, universities, learned societies and churches will form the inauguration processional and recessional.

Also taking part in the program are Rev. Theodore Brueckner, chairman of the PLU Board of Regents; Governor Daniel Evans; Dr. Curtis Huber, PLU professor of philosophy; Dr. M. Roy Schwarz, president of the PLU Alumni Association; Dr.

A. G. Fjellman, president of the Pacific Northwest Synod, Lutheran Church in America; Dr. Clarence Solberg, president of the North Pacific District, American Lutheran Church; and William Christenson, PLU student body president.

Events leading up to the inauguration begin Saturday. All public events will be held in Olson Auditorium.

A special faculty convocation honoring Swedish airline executive Tore Nilert will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. Nilert, president of the American Company of SAS (Scandinavian Airlines System), will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree for his contribution to education and international understanding.

Speaking at the convocation will be Karl Henrik Petersen, Swedish consul-general from San Francisco. The program also includes Swedish folk dances and a performance by the PLU University Chorale, under the direction of Edward Harmic.

Dr. Louis T. Almen, executive director of the board of college education and church vocations, LCA, will deliver the sermon at special campus Sunday morning services at 11 a.m. Trinity Lutheran Church congregation has been invited to attend the service.

The Oregon Symphony, under the direction of Jacques Singer, will appear in concert at 3 p.m. Sunday afternoon. The program is the last of four PLU Artist Series presentations this year.

An inauguration luncheon at 12 noon Monday in Columbia Center concludes inauguration activities.

Symphony At Olson

The Oregon Symphony Orchestra concludes its 1969-70 tour schedule in Tacoma, appearing in concert at Pacific Lutheran University's Olson Auditorium Sunday, March 15, at 8:00 p.m.

The last of four PLU Artist Series attractions this season, the symphony concert is one of a series of events at PLU next weekend culminating with the inauguration of Dr. Eugene Wiegman as the ninth president of the university.

Under the direction of Jacques Singer, the orchestra will feature works by Beethoven, Haydn and Shostakovich. Beethoven's "Edgmont Overture" will open the program, with Haydn's "The London" Symphony No. 104 preceding intermission.

"Symphony No. 1 in F Minor, Opus 10" by Shostakovich concludes the concert.

Singer, who has been musical director and conductor of the Oregon Symphony Orchestra since 1962, has formerly served as conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Dallas Symphony and the Vancouver, B.C. Symphony. His purpose has been to build an organization that can present high quality musical performances for the entire state of Oregon and the Northwest.

To continue to bring new inspiration to the podium, he makes guest appearances with major orchestras throughout the world annually. He believes his travels enable him to communicate with artists and composers internationally, offering him an edification that he passes on to his musicians as well as the audience.

Sales Tax Considered

Representatives of most cities and towns in Pierce County met with the Board of Commissioners Monday to agree on a one-half percent local sales tax as authorized by the 1970 special session of the Legislature.

Although all present expressed opposition to additional taxes, the Legislature mandated that state aid would be cut off to cities and towns that fail to implement the tax. This seemed to be the major motivating factor behind 17 out of the 18 municipipalities declaring they probably would impose a local sales tax. Only Orting sent word they did not plan to support the tax.

However, Board Chairman Pat Gallagher stated that when Orting leaders learn that the county tax will be imposed in their town if they do not implement it, he feels they will change their minds.

The County, in need of more revenue, will implement the tax, the Commissioners indicated.

Driver's Exams Automated

OLYMPIA — The Department of Motor Vehicles is installing push-button testing machines in all 35 of its driver license examining offices, Department Director Jack Nelson reports.

The automated tests, with questions based on color photographs of traffic scenes, will be given in place of the traditional written tests. The exams will be graded automatically.

The department purchased 200 testing machines from Gemco Inc. of Tulsa, Oklahoma, with a $278,000 grant from the National Highway Safety Bureau. The grant covers the cost of the machines, at $1,014 apiece, plus the cost of developing the new exams.

One hundred machines were delivered in February, and the rest are due to arrive this month. At least one machine will be installed in each of the department's offices, with as many as 15 in busy offices such as the ones in Tacoma, North Seattle, Spokane and White Center.

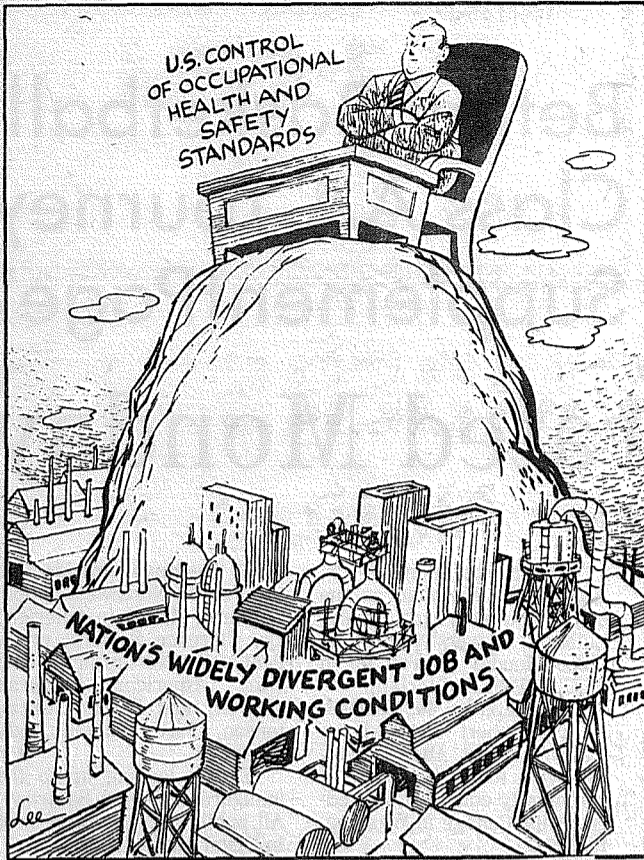

A picture screen and push-buttons are mounted in a 42-inch stand-up unit, with a walnut-like laminated finish. Each unit contains a carousel which holds 81 slides — enough for three different tests with 27 questions each.

Driver license applicants will take the machine tests by viewing the picture, selecting one of the multiple-choice answers, and pushing a button. A light on the machine flashes "right" or "wrong," and the correct answer is shown at the bottom of the viewing screen.

The new tests are designed to educate the driver as well as examine him. "The driver immediately sees whether his answer is correct and, if not, what the correct answer is," Nelson points out.

REMOTE CONTROL IS UNNECESSARY

FEDERAL STANDARDS—NOT THE ANSWER

Congress is considering legislation to federalize occupational health and safety standards. Centralized control in Washington could not take into account the widely divergent conditions, hazards, processes and environmental problems which vary from job to job.

Human error, a casual factor in most industrial accidents, can be minimized only through proper employee training and supervision and by motivating people to work safely. This requires effective communication between management and employee. Threats of civil or criminal sanctions against the employer, included in some legislative proposals, are not the answer.

If Congress insists on a federal approach, then the placing of standards-setting and "judicial" functions in a National Occupational Safety and Health Board, completely independent of the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare, would result in a more effective performance of both functions and would be a desirable separation of powers.

The appropriate standards-setting organization should be given the opportunity to modify standards, if the Board considers it necessary, and also permitted to review proposed standards prior to public hearings.

Should a stalemate occur, then a settlement should be made in the courts by due process of law.

The Editor
The Times Journal
Parkland, Wash. 98444
Dear Sir:

For about a year — it seems now — you have published periodically, editorials by Lewis Llewellyn. It is gratifying to know that someone is willing to take the time to write these comments and also that a local paper will carry them regularly. This is one part of your paper that I read from each issue.

In dealing with the various problems confronting our society today, Mr. Llewellyn discerningly points to principles for the Bible — without which, in the final analysis — there is no lasting cure or hope of improvement. Again I commend you for printing these editorials.

Sincerely,
W.T. Upton

A nine year old Clover Creek fourth grader was killed about 4 p.m. Tuesday in front of his home at 18211 Boettner Road, Spanaway, when he became entangled with the school bus that had discharged him.

Gregory K. Painter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith G. Painter, died instantly when his coat was caught by a small gas door and drug him under the rear wheels, investigating troopers reported.

In a second accident Tuesday, Carl A. Hess, 60, who was staying with friends at 20619 Meridian, was killed when struck from behind by a car at 161st and Meridian about 8:25 pm. Hess was walking with traffic and stepped onto Meridian in the path of a car driven by Bonnie J. Barker of Tacoma, Coroner Jack Davelaar's office reported.

Adult Classes At Pierce Open March 30

Eight new classes are being offered in the adult education program in the Franklin Pierce School District beginning March 30.

The classes include speed reading, Japanese flower arranging, propoganda and mass media, self-defense for women (karate), beginning archery, intermediate photography, fun with accessories for women and small outboard motor tune-up.

The speed reading class will meet in the new reading laboratory at Franklin Pierce High School, and students will use the controlled readers and programmed reading material to increase reading speed, improve vocabulary and comprehension skills.

The propoganda and mass media class deals with advertising for the consumer. It deals with the psychological techniques used to motivate people to believe, accept and buy without question. It is available for high school senior English credit.

The small outboard motor tune-up class is limited to 14 students. The class will cover

Easter Contata At Spanaway

Soloists will be Daphene Henn, Margaret Hodge, Carmelita Chalgren, Robert Hodge and Gene Chalgren. The Words will be narrated by Lee Eliason. Robert Hodge will direct the presentation with Janice Berntsen, accompanist.

The Contata is the story of the seven last words spoken by Jesus at the Crucifixion as told in words and music.

Registration for any of the new classes or the regular classes may be done at the adult education center at 11124 Portland Ave. during the day, or March 30-31 at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Is there a "generation gap"—an unbridgeable chasm between the young people of our country and those who are "over 30"?

Some would like us to believe that there is just no way by which anyone who has survived more than three decades on this planet can speak in such a way that he can be understood by young people of high school and college age — and that there is, conversely, no way by which young people can be understood when they speak to those who are older.

Is it true that young people do not listen to those who are older than they are? The fact is that they do listen — and sometimes they are given the wrong counsel.

A legislative committee investigating campus disorders in the state of Florida has reported that some university faculty members must be held accountable, along with the dissident students, for the disarray in the educational institutions.

Here is an excerpt from the report: "There is no doubt in the minds of university administrators, nor in ours, that most disruptive practices occurring on campus could not have reached the proportions they did without some faculty support."

Not Only Faculty

However, it is not only some faculty members who have led students in the wrong direction.

Prof. John W. Gilbaugh, of San Jose (Calif.) College, said recently, "Pseudo-saints and false prophets in the guise of religious leaders are often involved in campus social upheavals. Not only have some of these spiritual reformers become embroiled in campus controversies, but they have destroyed the confidence of many devout believers by removing the bounds of moral codes by which man has lived for centuries."

The professor quotes from an article written by Charles G. Robertson, Jr., campus minister for the Marin County (Calif.) Council of Churches. The article appeared in the "College of Marin Times," a student newspaper.

Here is what the campus minister said, in part: "A relationship between two people that is good and healthy and beneficial to both parties need not be condemned because it is happening without the benefit of a legal marriage. It may be truly a marital relationship; thus the term 'pre-marital' is truly irrelevant and should be dropped."

"Blind Leaders"

These false teachers seem to be willing to disregard such Biblical warnings as "Be not deceived. Neither fornicators . . . nor adulterers . . . nor abusers of themselves with mankind . . . shall inherit the kingdom of God."

Are they in the category of "blind leaders of the blind"? Are we seeing the proof of Jesus' saying, "Both shall fall into the ditch"?

Let's not blame young people exclusively. Let's put the blame where it really belongs — on those who have misled young people who have been entrusted to their care.

And let's not be gullible enough to accept the "generation gap" at face value.

There is a gap — but it is a gap between those who wish to adhere to sound moral and spiritual values and those who wish to discard them.

There are both young and old in each of these groups.

The "generation gap" is a myth.

Low Grades Should Be Abolished, Says Director

An educational institution should give only A's, B's and I's (Incomplete) and do away with the lower grade marks as C, D, and F.

The above thesis was one of many progressive steps which should be taken in education expressed by Don Stewart as he led a two day seminar for faculty and administrators of Fort Steilacoom Community College last week.

The two day seminar, entitled "The Learning Systems Approach to Instruction and the Changing Role of the Educator", was one of many seminars Stewart led as he travelled throughout the state expressing his unique approaches to education.

Stewart is the Director and represented SLATE Services (Systems for Learning by Application of Technology to Education).

According to Stewart, the only grade a student should receive would be an A, B, or I. His rationale for this unprecedented grading approach encompassed the theory that each course should have a fixed group of objectives or material to be learned. The student should achieve or learn this material and receive an A or B.

However, if the student does not fulfill the course work in a given academic period such as a single quarter, he should receive an I or incomplete until that time he does master the objectives. At that time the grade would be changed from the I to either an A or B.

Stewart further suggested in his presentation that the use of a final exam is backward. He explained that since these tests are given at the

SAS, President Honored

Tore H Nilert, president of the American Company of SAS (Scandinavian Airlines System), will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from Pacific Lutheran University during a special faculty convocation at PLU Saturday, March 14.

Nilert is being honored for his contributions to international friendship and understanding. He laid the foundation for the international people-to-people program through his campaign called "Visit the United States." The degree will be conferred by Dr. Eugene Wiegman, PLU president.

The convocation, which will be held in Olson Auditorium at 2:30 p.m., is the first of a series of special events at PLU that will culminate with the inauguration of Dr. Wiegman as the ninth president of the university. The rites of inauguration will be performed Monday, March 16, at 10 a.m. end of the quarter, and a student does not pass the test it is too late for him to achieve the course objectives in the given period.

As an alternative to the final exam approach, a student should be tested prior to his entrance into a course to identify what he must accomplish to fulfill the course objectives. At all times the student should be informed as to what exactly he must do to complete the course material and achieve an A or B in the course.

Stewart further explained that most educational institutions have forced "cumulative ignorance" upon the student. He pointed out that if a student in math had received C's over many years, each year he would go on to the next higher level of math without the knowledge necessary to complete the math.

The lack of knowledge would have resulted from the year before because he received a C and did not complete all the course objectives. Over many years, the accumulation of this lack of knowledge would greatly hamper the student Stewart explained.

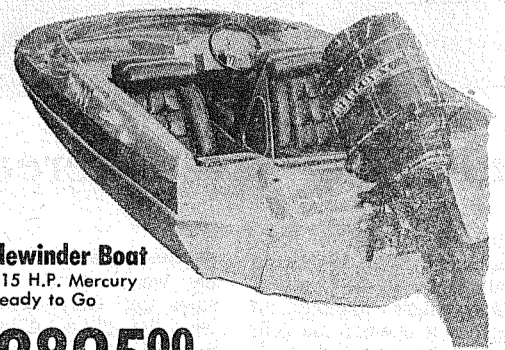

Stewart placed much of the blame for student's lack of learning on the teacher. He explained that each student is different and has more or less to learn than the next student if he is to achieve the objectives or requirements of a given course.

He pointed out that teachers are not giving the slower students a break by giving them a grade lower than a B and sending them off to the next year of school without the proper knowledge.

Speaking during Saturday's convocation will be Carl Henrik Petersen, Swedish consul-general from San Francisco. Petersen is planning to announce the newest in a series of friendship programs offered by the people of Sweden to visitors from other countries.

The current friendship programs are outgrowths of the original people-to-people concept, originated and encouraged by Nilert in the 1940's. At that time he urged American and Scandinavian citizens to exchange visits.

Rock Singer At PLU

Neil Diamond, rock singer and composer, brings his unique musical program to Pacific Lutheran University Monday, March 16, at 8:15 p.m. in Olson Auditorium. The concert is sponsored by the PLU student entertainment series.

Diamond is a rock singer whose performances are reminiscent of earlier basic rock and folk singers such as Elvis Presley, Buddy Holly and Conway Twitty. According to critics, he presents a flowing, unpretentious, driving sound that has been lost in much of today's sophisticated rock and poetic searching.

Diamond's tunes are largely his own, including such hits as "Sweet Caroline," "Cherry, Cherry," "I Lost the Feeling," and "Solitary Man." His sound is basic rock, touched with country western and gospel.

FSCC Registration Data

Registration for Spring Quarter classes at Fort Steilacoom Community College will be through March 13 and 16-17 according to Thomas H. Sobottka, FSCC Registrar and Admissions Officer.

Sobottka explained that two series of dates have been scheduled. Returning students will register through the 13th while new students and those who missed the first dates will register the 16th and 17th or on the first two days of classes in the Spring quarter. Classes will begin March 30th.

The Registrar said that currently enrolled students will enroll according to their last name initials. These students can register at the administration building from 1-4 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. except on March 13th when registration will be open from 1-6 p.m.

Listed here are the reasons why you should attend the March 17 Annual Loveland Mutual Membership Meeting IN PERSON. DO NOT SIGN THE PROXY! A business meeting will be held at 6:45 p.m. followed by the Annual Membership Meeting at 7:30 p.m. at Bethel Junior High School.

Utility Purchase Up to Council

By AL GIBBS

Tacoma's Utility Board Wednesday formally expressed its intent to buy Loveland Mutual Co., after explaining why to members of the City Council, which must ratify the decision.

The board unanimously passed a resolution approving the plan by which City Light would purchase the 1,800-subscriber private electric utility for about $750,000.

The sale already has been approved by an overwhelming majority of Loveland users-owners and has court sanction.

The City Council still must give its blessing to the plan in the form of an ordinance authorizing the purchase.

Loveland's service area lies generally east and south of Ft. Lewis and includes the Port of Tacoma's proposed industrial development area near Frederickson. City Light has been the utility's wholesale power supplier for more than 40 years.

Growth Potential

The land area involved is nearly as large as the area in which City Light now serves residential customers, Utilities Director C. A. Erdahl told members of the board and council during a dinner study session.

The number of subscribers is only about 3 per cent of City Light's total, but the area has large growth potential as a residential area, Erdahl said.

Because it will increase the number of City Light's residential users, Loveland is a good buy, Erdahl told the group.

Rates to current Loveland users will remain at the present level — about 25 per cent higher than Tacoma's — for the next five years, the time needed to amortize Tacoma's investment.

The acquisition will also help City Light maintain a higher number of residential users which has a direct bearing on electrical rates.

May Prevent Hike

"This (purchase) may not prevent a rate increase," Erdahl said, "but it will certainly minimize it."

In five years, Assistant Utilities Director A. J. Benedetti said, City Light will make some $2.5 million more by selling directly to Loveland subscribers than it would selling the power to the company at current wholesale rates.

The extra income, he said, translates to more than $250,000 to the city's general fund from gross earnings taxes.

City Light will have to invest some cash in the system, Benedetti said, but primarily to increase the capacity of power lines, a project similar to ones now going on in the city.

A few Loveland owner-users opposed the purchase, Utilities Attorney Paul Nolan said. They lost their legal battles, however, and the sale has been approved by courts.

"The only question now is whether the city should buy Loveland," Nolan said.

Mayor Gordon Johnston and Councilmen A. M. Zatkovich, Fred Dean and John Jarstad attended the dinner study session.

The Utility Board passed the resolution approving the purchase at its regular meeting, which followed the board-council get-together.

Reprinted from the Tacoma News Tribune Mar. 4, 1970

Mrs. Joyce Emery, of Graham, challenged the validity of two shareholder votes approving the sale, claiming that Loveland officials had purposefully confused the issues.

She also charged that City Light had offered to pay the cost of a campaign to gain shareholder approval and that there were irregularities in some proxies used in voting on the proposal.

Erdahl denied the money charge, explaining that a $10,000 payment referred to in a letter from his office to the Loveland board of directors involved sharing the administrative costs of transferring the ownership, a common business practice.

"We're not here to settle Loveland's problems or hold their hearings for them," Councilman Maurice Finnigan contended. "Our only concern is whether this would be good for the City of Tacoma."

If you have already mailed your proxy Your presence at the meeting will cancel the proxy. Ask for your proxy to be returned if you have already voted.

New Evidence Revealed!

Have We Been Misled?

The adjacent article by Al Gibbs was published in the Market Edition of the Tacoma News Tribune on February 26, 1970.

1. After reading the article, it becomes apparent that the five (5) year rate guarantee by Tacoma City Light, that was supposed to be a great favor to us, will actually buy our company for Tacoma.

2. Our company will produce $2 1/2 million for Tacoma in five (5) years.

3. It will put $250,000 in Tacoma's general tax fund.

4. Rates to current Loveland users will remain at the present level — about 25% higher than Tacoma's — for the next five years, the time needed to amortize Tacoma's investment.

Is Loveland Really In Bad Shape?

"I want to impress upon this council we are not buying a hunk of junk," Utilities Director C. A. Erdahl stated to the Tacoma City Council March 3.

Mrs. Clarice Daines and Frank Dworsky, members of the Committee to Save Loveland Mutual, visited the president of Loveland's Board of Directors Saturday evening, March 8. During the conversation, he expressed the opinion that the company should NOT be sold. With proper management, he said Loveland could pay its own way and the lines did not have to be rebuilt all at once. He told the members that if the Committee could generate sufficient membership interest, he and his wife would back the committee all the way not to sell the company.

NEW BOARD MEMBERS ARE NEEDED!

The directors must work for the best interests of the members, especially during the critical period that lies ahead. We believe in the checks and balance system and urge fellow members to protect their interests by electing these write-in candidates.

MR. LES DICKENS, a long time resident of Roy is running for office opposing Henry Amundsen.

MR. JERRY WOODS, a capable Graham resident, is running for office against Art Harpel.

YOU DO HAVE A CHOICE!

Both write-in candidates are honest and hard-working. They know the value of our company and will work for the best interests of the members, not the best interests of the City of Tacoma.

LET'S ELECT LES DICKENS AND JERRY WOODS!

WHAT ABOUT LOW VOLTAGE?

The low voltage problem is the fault of Tacoma City Light. Our contract with City Light requires them to furnish us with adequate substations. We need board members who will insist on the city fulfilling its contractual obligation.

When the portable substation went in, there was a noticeable increase in voltage. Now that new opposition is generating, it appears that the voltage has dropped. Could these factors be related?

What We Believe

We believe if the company were to be sold, it should be completely audited, so the sale could be handled in a business-like manner. All potential purchasers should be contacted so that a fair and equitable purchase price can be determined. Your share may be worth $1500 instead of $425.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

Borrowing Neighbor

Dear Miss Brookfield:

What do you do about a good neighbor who "borrows" things but never returns them? I don't mind her borrowing a bottle of milk or a pair of stockings occasionally, but now she has gone too far. A week ago she misplaced her reading glasses. As she needs them for work, I loaned her my extra pair. She promised to visit the optometrist during her lunch hour and get a new pair. Yesterday, however, she called with a box of candy to "thank" me for the glasses. I was too embarrassed to explain they were never intended as a gift. She does this quite frequently. Is there any way I can break this "borrowing" habit?

A.C., Los Angeles, Calif.
Dear A.C.:

First of all, no one should wear anyone else's reading glasses. A person should have her own spectacles prescribed for her own particular eye condition. Second, you'll never break this "borrowing" habit until you overcome your timidity about hurting this neighbor's feelings. Do you offer her these items or does she ask for them? Either way, in the future be sure to impress on her that the item is only loaned on a temporary basis.

You can still get your glasses back at this late date. Tell her she should only wear her own glasses, as any doctor will confirm, and that anyway you misplaced or lost your regular pair and need the extra one during this emergency. If you feel guilty about this "ploy" — particularly in view of the gift of candy — just remind yourself of all the times she borrowed in the past. In the future, try to be explicit, when this neighbor borrows something, about when and why you will need to have it returned. You seem to be carrying the "good neighbor" policy a bit too far.

Time of Change

Dear Miss Brookfield:

Some of the girls — women in their forties and fifties — got together the other day, and when one of them began to complain about her insomnia and exhaustion, one woman insisted these are symptoms of the menopause. Others said this gal has just been burdened with too much work and too many problems. Is insomnia a symptom of the menopause?

It could be, but only her doctor can answer that question. Women in their middle years should have regular checkups, even when symptoms are absent. It's good preventive medicine.

Menopausal symptoms can vary from woman to woman. But there are some common or classic symptoms caused by a deficiency of the female hormone, estrogen, at this time of change in a woman's life. These symptoms, according to Dr. Sherwin Kaufman, a noted New York gynecologist and author of the book, "The Ageless Woman," are hot flashes, night sweats, and painful sexual relations due to the thinning and drying of the vaginal tissues. "All are amenable to estrogen replacement therapy," he said in a recent interview. With the restoration of the hormonal balance, these symptoms "will be eliminated — cured really — in well-nigh 100 percent of the cases."

There are other symptoms that may or may not be due to a hormonal imbalance, Dr. Kaufman explained. There are depression, headaches, fatigue and insomnia. Estrogen will relieve these complaints — if that is the root of their cause. Again, however, only your doctor will be able to check this out.

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help, write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Airlines Need Stewardesses

SEATTLE (March 4) — What should a pretty single girl with a high school diploma, two years of college or equivalent business experience do for excitement?

"Join an airline and see the world," says Virginia Randall, regional employment representative for Western Air Lines at Seattle-Tacoma Airport.

The anticipated growth in air travel is increasing airline demands for more stewardesses, Mrs. Randall says, pointing out that Western needs 35 new stewardesses a week during March alone.

"We are increasing our schedules on March 20 to 70 flights a week between the mainland and Hawaii, and with the summer traffic buildup, we are going to need all the girls we can get."

According to Mrs. Randall, stewardesses have the best fringe benefits of any job for young girls. "Pay is excellent, working hours considerably less than eight-to-five jobs, and free and reduced travel can afford the experience of a lifetime."

"Our stewardesses often fly around the world on their vacations," Mrs. Randall said, "and it only costs them a fraction of the regular fare."

Free travel is available on Western and parents and other members of the immediate family are also entitled to most travel privileges.

Western's stewardess training program lasts 5½ weeks and is conducted at the company's headquarters in Los Angeles.

The girls learn customer relations, meal and beverage service, hair styling, grooming, make-up and fashion, personal charm and figure control, in-flight cabin safety procedures and first aid.

A foreign language is a bonus for applicants looking for a stewardess job, especially Spanish, as Western flies to Mexico and Acapulco. Japanese and Chinese are useful on Hawaii flights.

Applicants must be at least 19½ to apply, with training to start at 20 or older. Height must be 5 ft. 2 inches to 5 ft. 9 inches and weight 100 lbs. to 140 lbs., proportionate to height.

They may be single, widowed or divorced. Stewardesses may get married, however, after they are flying. More than 200 of Western's stewardess corps of 1,000 are married.

Girls are required to be neat, natural and well-groomed with clean complexion. Contact lenses are acceptable but glasses may not be worn during flight.

Miss Teenage America Takes Stand On Smoking

Miss Teenage America of 1970 — Debbie Patton from Odessa, Texas — joins more than 70 PTA leaders from across the nation in Biloxi, Mississippi, this week to reaffirm the organization's extensive campaign against smoking among young people.

Appearing with Miss Patton as a feature speaker at the first general assembly of the national meeting on smoking and health is Roy L. Davis, chief, Community Program Development Section of the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, U.S. Public Health Service.

The pert, non-smoking Miss Patton discusses a favorite subject, "To Smoke or Not To Smoke." Davis reviews the results of national anti-smoking efforts in his talk, "Are We Doing Any Good?"

"Now in its fourth year, the National PTA Smoking and Health Program, which is supported by U.S. Public Health Service funds, continues to involve parents of pre-teens in the campaign to produce America's first smokeless generation," explains National PTA President Mrs. Leon S. Price, who presides at the conference.

Mrs. Price says that in addition to taking "stock of past efforts," the conference will add a new dimension to the organization's smoking and health program. "We want to give young people the opportunity to work more closely with adults in achieving the goals of this important national effort," she adds.

Since the inception of the program in 1966, PTA's across the nation have distributed more than 8 million brochures in both English and Spanish versions, conducted numerous conferences to inform and educate as many youngsters as possible about the dangers of smoking, and have helped to form inter-agency councils on smoking and health.

Kicking off the second general assembly of the conference is Dr. Ian Newman, assistant professor of health education, The University of Tennessee. Mrs. Gloria Zigner, recently commended by President Richard Nixon for her outstanding work as director of the Bakersfield, California, Youth "Smoke-Out" Project, follows Dr. Newman in a symposium, "Where the Action Can Be."

cation Association; Gary Jeffrey, participant of the Bakersfield "Smoke-Out"; and Penny Hair, Marion County (Georgia) High School junior.

Also participating are Mrs. Milton B. E. Hill, president of the Mississippi PTA; Mrs. Farris Vaden, National PTA Health chairman; Mrs. A. L. Hendrick, program coordinator for the National PTA Project on Smoking and Health and former Mississippi PTA president; and Mrs. Lovelace Hair, editor, Georgia Parent-Teacher Bulletin.

Other participants include the smoking and health chairmen from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and the European Congress of American Parents and Teachers, and certain members of the National PTA Board of Managers.

Ft. Steilacoom Outlines Educational Structure

(Editor's Note: The following article is the second and last of two to appear in "On Campus" attempting to familiarize our readers with the educational structure of Fort Steilacoom Community College and at the same time point out some of the courses within these divisions which will be offered in the soon to begin Spring Quarter. This week the column will discuss the makeup and courses found in the Social Science and Humanities Divisions).

SOCIAL SCIENCE DIVISION

The Social Science Division, headed by History Instructor Dick Mogg, encompasses seven departments — offering both occupational and transfer course. At present the major disciplines of study in the Division are Anthropology, Early Childhood Education, History, Law Enforcement, Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology.

Grace Koopmans coordinates and teaches — the Early Childhood Program While Dick Mogg and Heath Cobb teach History. Cobb along with Les McCallum are the instructors in political science while Jim Mullen instructs psychology related courses.

The Social Science Division will feature many interesting courses this Spring including some of the following:

- SURVEY OF ANTHROPOLOGY - Mrs. Britz will teach FSCC's Survey of Anthropology course this Spring quarter. The course is primarily designed for transfer student and those with special interest and will cover the study of anthropological subfields of archaeology, physical anthropology, and sociocultural anthropology.

- SURVEY OF CHILDREN'S CENTERS - Survey of Children's Centers will be taught in Puyallup by Early Childhood Education Coordinator Grace Koopmans. The course will consist of a study of the care and educational programs available for children. The student will have the opportunity to observe a variety of centers for children, including day care centers, private nursery schools, cooperative nursery schools, Head Start, Follow Through, kindergartens, primary grades, and programs for children with special needs.

- MARRIAGE AND THE HOME - Marriage and the Home is a FSCC sociology course scheduled Tuesday and Thursday nights. The course is designed to direct the student toward a mature understanding of himself, the marriage relationship, and the adjustments required in the various phases of family life.

- DRUGS, NARCOTICS, AND SOCIETY - Mr. Galinkin, and expert from the Tacoma Narcotics Center will be the instructor for Drugs, Narcotics, and Society this Spring. Mr. Galinkin believes that "drug use is a symptom of the overall problem in our society, e.g. the breakdown of institutions such as the family, church, etc." The course will include a study of social disorganization, with emphasis upon drug abuse as one of the serious emerging social problems in our society.

• HUMANITIES DIVISION

SION - The Division of Humanities, headed Marion Warner, is concerned with those aspects of learning which constitute the product of man's creativity, his non-cumulative learning. Humanities includes the studies of English, art, music, philosophy, foreign language, speech and journalism.

At FSCC the Division has attempted to offer something in each of these fields, though at the present, because of obvious limitations of size and space, some of the offerings have been small.

Music is a department which is being enlarged. FSCC is acquiring a full time music instructor who will start next fall and will conduct a variety of courses, both academic and practical.

The Division's art courses are popular will all ages, for they offer courses in introduction to are, design, oil painting for persons of varied abilities, and craft classes.

The Division of Humanities is also proud of its many course for transfer from the two year college to a four year college of university.

Many people are hesitant to come to the Community College because it has been so long since they have attended school that they feel embarrassed at the thought of competing with younger students.

Likewise many younger students feel they need additional education before they can compete with FSCC college students. And still others are seeking those final credits for a high school diploma.

Park Sports Programs Get Underway

Two events associated with the annual Daffodil Festival will get underway this week under the joint sponsorship of the Pierce County Park Department and the Metropolitan Park District.

The second annual girls basketball tournament for teams in Senior and Junior divisions is scheduled to open Saturday, March 14, at Lincoln High School.

Monday is the scheduled starting date for the 16th annual Tacoma-Pierce County Handball Championships and the third annual 3-On-3 adult basketball tournament will begin March 21 at Keithley Junior High and Washington High School in Parkland.

Nineteen teams, 10 in the senior division and nine in the junior section, are entered in the girls tournament. The two-day event, both single elimination, will wrap up the girls hoop season in recreation competition. Most of the entries are from the city and county leagues.

Handball play will be offered in four classes, including novice. Singles and doubles are planned. An entry fee of $1.50 for singles and $1.50 per person for doubles will be due at the Pierce County Park Department by March 11, according to tournament director Jack Johnson.

The tournament committee for the 3-On-3 Tournament has set March 16 as the final entry date for teams in the Senior High, Junior High and Collegiate-Open divisions. Fees are $3 per team and $3 for officials in each set of three games. Each team must submit a roster with its entry blank and required fees.

Entry deadlines for other Daffodil Festival-associated events will be on the dates of competition. The events include the junior wrestling, table tennis, paddle ball and badminton tournaments on April 3-4 at the Olson Auditorium at Pacific Lutheran University, the Daffodil Marathon April 11 at Fort Steilacoom Park and the tennis tournament April 4 at the Harry Sprinker Recreation Center in Spanaway.

Information on all Daffodil Festival recreation events is available at the Pierce County Park Department office, 735 County-City Building or by telephoning FU 3-3311, Extension 386.

State Herd Has Winner

Western Washington Experiment Station, Puyallup, Washington, has been notified by Holstein-Friesian Association of America that a Registered Holstein cow in the herd has received an "E" designation for body type conformation.

On the basis of her again being classified "Excellent," Nisqually Intriger Aletta 5903045 has been awarded 2E designation.

This phase of the Holstein Association's herd improvement service provides special recognition for "Excellent" cows that continue to score "Excellent" as they grow older. A cow may be designated 2, 3, or 4E according to her history of previous "Excellent" classifications within specified age brackets.

Among the 87,200 Registered Holsteins scored for body type last year, less than two per cent attained "Excellent" status. Thus, the achievement of multiple "E" designation makes the individual cow a more valuable asset for herd improvement purposes in the dairyman's breeding program.

Tree Growers To Meet

If you are a Christmas tree grower, or intend to be, you'll want to attend the Christmas tree growers Short Course on March 27 and 28, at the Alderbrook Inn, Union, Washington. It is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, Washington State University in cooperation with the Northwest Christmas Tree Growers Association.

Just about everything will be covered from seedlings to selling.

In addition, a large portion of this phase will be devoted to genetic studies underway for the purpose of discovering and developing superior strains of various species.

The first day will consist of field trips to Mason County production areas; the second day will be devoted to indoor sessions. If you would like a free brochure, detailing the entire program, which is offered for a $5.00 fee, including your wife, contact Robert F. TIPS AND TALES

SOMETIMES when you're working in one of those lines of steelheaders you find in the popular spots, there is very little conversation, except among those who know each other.

I enjoy striking up a conversation with strangers in one of those situations, and sometimes you can pick up good information.

The other day, for example, one man in the middle of one of those lines stuck a steelhead and finally worked it up onto the bank. I took some pictures of the battle for possible future use in a magazine article, and when it was all over, admired his fish. We chatted for a brief while.

During the conversation he said he had caught the fish quite close to where he was standing, and not clear across the river where most of the fishermen were casting.

In fact, he said, "They ought to be fishing about where they're standing. The steelhead hang in close to this shore along here."

His was only one of two fish caught in that drift that afternoon, and the other successful fisherman said the same thing, that he had caught his in close.

IF YOUR'RE trying predator calling, concealment is probably just as important as using the call properly.

You have to blend in with your surroundings, but it's really more than that. It's actually becoming part of the surroundings. Spotted, camouflage clothing is good when there is no snow.

An ordinary bed sheet can be good when there's snow on the ground. It's amazing how well a sheet can make you blend in. On a duck hunting trip this past season, three of us draped ourselves in sheets and sat out in a cornfield at dusk.

Once, we found ourselves looking practically eyeball to eyeball with a hawk that came soaring along, looking for a mouse for his evening meal. Even the hawk's sharp eyes didn't pick us out until we spoke at the last moment, and then he flared up in surprise and flew away.

Predator calling not only is fun, but the experience of being able to hide, the observing you have to do, the feel you get for the woods and nature, can't help but make you a better hunter when deer and elk season roll around.

THREE hands are almost needed when you're out in a river and have to change gear, either to replace something you lost or to a change lures.

You can give yourself this third hand by sewing a snap onto your fishing jacket to put your rod in. Then both hands are free.

This is handy on the bank too. It keeps your rod up out of the way where no one will step on it and keeps your reel out of the sand.

ELK PLAIN fourth graders in the class of Mrs. Steve Kanton sold 120 tickets to the Lee Reeves Benefit Game last week. More than $1,000 was donated by the community to the fund.

Faculty Benefit Big Success

Last Thursday night, the Bethel Sr. High faculty dumped the Bethel Jr. High faculty by a score of 72-65 with a thrilling, come from behind effort in a basketball game played at Bethel High School to raise money for the Lee Reeves family of Elk Plain.

The Sr. High faculty shot out to a 21-13 1st quarter lead, but dropped off badly as the Jr. High outscored them 25-12 in the 2nd quarter to take a 38-33 halftime lead. The 3rd quarter was fairly close with the Jr. High scoring 17 to the Sr. High's 15 points. The Sr. High trailed by 7 going into the 4th quarter but they quickly took over the lead with Don Ash scoring 9 of his game high 18 points in the 4th quarter and Ty Davis adding 6 of his total of 8 in the same period, all in all the Sr. High outscored the Jr. High 24 to 10 in the 4th quarter.

The leading scorer in the game was Don Ash of the Sr. High with 18 points. Also in double figures for the winners were Joe Parker with 14 and Ed Tingstad with 12. For the Jr. High, Dave Roller had 16, Bob Kain and Mike McDonald had 13 apiece and Terry Leifson added 10.

The purpose of the game was to raise money for the Lee Reeves family. Mr. Reeves and his daughter Kathy were both seriously injured in an automobile accident shortly after Thanksgiving. Both Mr. Reeves and Kathy are still in the hospital.

In order to facilitate advance ticket sales, a ticket selling contest was held among all the grade school classrooms in the Bethel School District. The winner by a wide margin was Mrs. Steve Kanton's 4th grade class at Elk Plain Elementary School. The class of 32 students sold 120 tickets; far more than their nearest competitor by a margin of at least 80 tickets.

The sponsors of the game, the Bethel High School Key Club and the Bethel Booster Club, would like to thank all the people who attended and contributed to the game.

Wildlife Week Starts Sunday

By Robert F. Bradley

"Seen Any Wildlife Lately?"

That's the theme for National Wildlife Week, to be observed March 15 through 21, Bob Bradley, county Extension Forester, said today.

If you live in a rural area, chances are you can check off a fairly good list of birds and small mammals.

But, if you live in the crowded environment that's "Home" to most Americans, your answer may be confined to "pigeons, sparrows, or — maybe — rats."

"The question is an important one," David Baumgartner, Washington State University Extension wildland resources specialist, contends, "because it asks each one of us to reflect on our nation's vanishing wildlife heritage and ponder the effect on our own lives."

Wildlife is a sensitive yardstick for measuring the quality of our environment, he suggests. Increasing air and water pollution, persistent pesticides, unplanned highways, and urban sprawl are steadily gnawing away the nation's wildlife resources. Some 89 American wildlife species are on the brink of extinction.

Vanishing wildlife is a warning signal, conservationists tell us — fewer birds as air gets foul, fewer squirrels as greenery gets paved over, and fewer fish able to survive in polluted waters.

PANA PAGE, son of Page Lee and Zella Hep, will be shown at the Tacoma Unit No. 1 Spring Quarter Horse Show March 14 and 15.

FOR EXPERT SERVICE

Campus Firm Owner Ends Tenure

Most successful businessmen have been able to recognize the need for a service and have fearlessly stepped forward to fill that need.

Richard Straub, a senior at Pacific Lutheran University, fits the mold. A year ago he saw the need for a service which would bring together persons needing temporary labor help and students desiring such labor.

The result was College Manpower.

A business administration major from Anchorage, Alaska, Straub is nearing the end of his tenure as owner of the campus firm, which has offices now in Memorial Gymnasium. But he sees College Manpower as a continuing vital organization with rising college costs creating an increasing need for student jobs.

"We're working out the necessary details to create a non-profit student corporation," he said. A local attorney has already volunteered his services for drawing up the necessary articles and bylaws if the university gives the business official recognition and takes steps toward its continuance.

Straub hires his students at $2 an hour, "higher than any rate they can get on campus," he pointed out, and places them on part-time or temporary jobs with a clientele of Tacoma firms at a flat-rate schedule starting at $2.80 an hour for cleanup and maintenance work.

He also fills orders for domestic jobs, which to date have consisted mostly of U-Haul customers desiring moving help.

Straub pays all employment expenses such as industrial and medical aid insurance, Federal Insurance Contributions Act employer matching, and state unemployment insurance out of the flat rate price employers pay College Manpower. The difference is his profit and whatever administrative and advertising costs are incurred.

Among Straub's customers are two Tacoma firms that use PLU students regularly, Nalley's Fine Foods Division and Western Boat Building Corp.

"We use College Manpower students almost daily if they're available," Mrs. James Pirie, employment and benefits manager at Nalleys, explained. "We use anywhere from two to eight, usually for eight-hour shifts.

"They're an excellent source," she added. "It has worked out ideally. The students are very dependable."

Douglas Firth, plant superintendent at Western Boat, had similar remarks. "They serve as night watchmen and do janitorial work," he said. "It is a very satisfactory arrangement."

There are certain problems, Straub asserts, but none have become serious. A few students resent the profits the business realizes from their work, and not all are completely satisfied with the jobs they are assigned.

The biggest problem, how-

The Pierce County Cowbelles as a part of their state organization are again sponsoring the 4-H beef demonstration program. 4-H'ers who are currently enrolled in foods or livestock projects are eligible to participate. They may talk about any subject relating to the selection, utilization, or preparation of economy cuts of beef. Pictured are Susan and Karen Auty with Mrs. Howard Erb, president of the local Cowbelles group. They were the 1969 winners and are wearing the leather ribbons with Mrs. Gail Kuhn of Keller made for all the county winners.

ever, has been the discrepancy between Straub's payroll dates and the dates he is compensated by his customers. To overcome this hurdle he has established credit with a local bank, and borrows regularly to meet his payroll.

During the 1968-69 school year the firm generated over $5,000 in student earnings. "You would need a $100,000 endowment to provide those funds at five per cent interest," Straub observed.

This year the firm is just getting a good start again after suspending operations during the fall semester. During that time Straub used his firm as an independent study under Prof. Dwight Zulauf, professor of business administration at PLU.

Voc Students Enter Contest

Students of Fashion Design and Custom Sewing at the Clover Park Vocational Technical Institute will compete in the state's first annual fashion trades contest to be held April 23, 1970. The contest, part of the annual state conference of VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America), will be held in the Tacoma Mall Theater.

Mrs. Judy Alsos, instructor at Clover Park who initiated the planning for the contest, has obtained the cooperation of Larry Beagle, advertising manager of the Tacoma Mall Merchants Association, Jorma Koivisto and Cynthia Althuser (the latter a former student of Mrs. Alsos), designers for Days Manufacturing, and Mrs. Alice Bilyeu of Bests Apparel and Mrs. Joyce Smith, custom dressmaker. These persons are assisting with advertising and contest rules. Mrs. Margaret Wood and Miss Joann Beckingham of the Bon Marche will assist the girls in developing modeling poise.

Judges will be announced at a later date. In addition to the contest, there will also be a non-contestant showing of local designers and past graduates of the Clover Park Fashion Design department.

The event will be complimentary to the public but
