Mailbox Week Starts May 20

The Post Office Department has officially designated the week of May 20-25 as "Mailbox Improvement Week." This will be the 30th year that rural patrons have been asked to make suburban areas more attractive with painted mail boxes and supports, according to Postmaster Helen G. Young of Spanaway.

Mail boxes of the approved traditional or contemporary design are required. Where box numbers are assigned, the name of the owner and box number must be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where boxes are grouped.

Ruts in the approach to the mail box should be filled. A rural carrier is not required to leave his vehicle to serve a box. The boxes should be maintained for easy and safe accessibility, presenting a neat appearance and affording protection for the mail.

It is believed that where mail boxes are improved the mail service is likewise improved. Every rural patron will find the local post office employees anxious to give the best service at all times. The cooperation of all owners of rural mail boxes is asked in this drive.

removed from the lawn of Allen R. Guizzetti, 10203 Sales Road Sunday, Deputy John C. Killoran reported.

Guizzetti had been watching TV outside and noticed it missing shortly after an acquaintance left, Killoran stated. Loss was set at $150.

Sheriff's Detective Russ Harford is new treasurer of the Pension and Legislative Committee of the recently organized Washington Law Enforcement Association, Inc. Goal of the committee is obtaining a better pension plan for police officers.

Miss Teresa Mathis, a Bethel High School sophomore, will present a reading. Musical anthems are planned by Bethel High students.

Editorial

Every year at this time, when the crocuses have thrust their tender shoots through the soil and the pussy willows are waving gently in the first spring breezes, Pierce County suffers an infestation of two-legged insects known as siding worms.

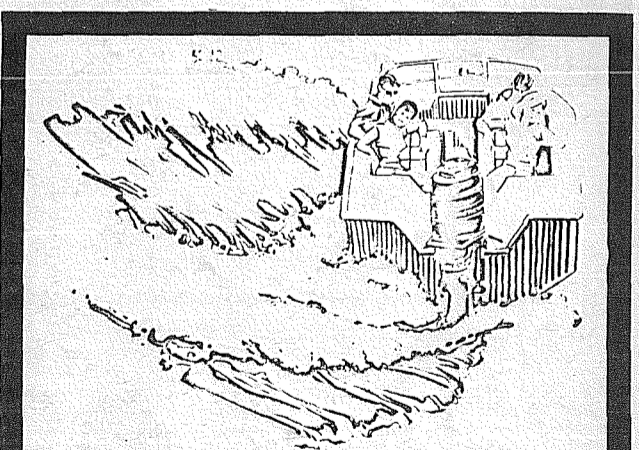

These parasites, which winter in nearby metropolitan areas, are easily recognizable. They have firm handshakes, sincere smiles and glib tongue, and each carries a brief case full of what they call "unbeatable deals".

Siding worms do not harm crocuses or pussy willows, but can reduce a gullible homeowner to a state of poverty in a matter of minutes. The record of such devastation was set in this state by a siding worm who sold an 82 year old widow $8,000 worth of siding for her $5,000 home.

According to the County Prosecutor, whose phone rings off the hook during each infestation, the siding worms have arrived here and are industriously scooting from door to door with their bags full of promises.

The best way to handle these insects is to slam the door on their beaks the minute you hear the word 'siding', be it aluminum, asphalt or shake.

If you don't squash them immediately, you're liable to end up getting nothing for something.

Summit Man Proves To Be Real Showman

Almost everybody in or out of show biz knows what a "rave notice" means. Out among the stump farms of Summit, however, the term connotes something entirely different.

Fact is, most Summiteers probably will tell you the phrase more aptly applies to a vigorous octogenarian named William C. Rave whose work with the youth of the community has earned him more rave notices than a Broadway headliner.

Rave is a one-man buzz saw; a perpetual motion machine who almost single-handedly built the $70,000 Summit Youth Center although it has taken him 13 years to get this far and he says he isn't thru yet.

"Got no time to sit around and relax," he says, and then he'll pull out the blueprints and point up the improvements yet to be made on the center.

The 80 year-old widower, former carpenter, shipwright and later business representative of the carpenter's union, started on his project in 1955 when he asked and received permission to start building a Boy Scout meeting place on the Summit school grounds.

"They were meeting in a chicken coop and that didn't seem right and fitting," he said.

The project never stopped. He added and scrounged for material; he hectored neighborhood males for help in pouring concrete and getting a roof on. "I was probably a community pest, sometimes, but it was worth it, don't you think?"

You've gotta think so. There is a fine gym that converts into a ballroom; there are cozy seats along a big picture window, there's a fireplace, a snack bar and downstairs there are colorful classrooms which are just great for den meetings and things like that.

It's a busy place.

"I've had a lot of fun building," Rave said. He likes to relate how in 1964 he bought a "Nose Dock" from the Air Force at McChord Field for 50 cents.

"It took 30 men and six trucks and the Air Force threw in, for free, an attached tank which held 600 gallons of fuel oil. That took some moving but we had heat all winter," he chuckled.

The center is a busy place on any given day. Midweek and after school there are Brownies, Girl Scouts, Cubs, Boy Scouts, youth clubs, tumblers and gymnasts. The place bustles. Weekends there are dances, youth meetings, sing-fests.

One of the major participants is the youth activities group from ODI's Rural Economic Opportunity (REO) which services underprivileged families of rural Pierce County.

Jack Farrell, the youth director of REO, brings 'em in by the carloads and via an old surplus bus. They take over the place and in a jiffy there are a dozen activities going.

That's the sort of thing that brings a big smile to the face of Bill Rave.

Pizza Party
by Betty Crocker

Who says pizza is only for teenagers? Not my kind of pizza party. While serving refreshments, you start with a beautiful antipasto tray: pimiento olives, celery stalks, small green peppers, curls of cooked ham and smoked pork slices on a bed of watercress. Since your pizza dough and toppings are ready to go (you do them ahead) — now take orders for individual pizzas. Then toss an Italian salad and serve fresh fruit for dessert. Oh, and don't forget, light the candles. In pretty colored bottles, of course.

Pizza

- 1 package active dry yeast
- ¾ cup warm water (105 to 115°)
- 2½ cups Bisquick
- ¾ cup chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 can (15 ounces) or 2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
- About 1 cup chopped salami
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2½ cups shredded mozzarella cheese or 2 packages (6 ounces each) sliced mozzarella cheese, cut into thin strips
- 3 to 4 teaspoons crushed oregano leaves

Heat oven to 425°. Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add Bisquick and beat vigorously. Turn dough onto surface well dusted with flour. Knead until smooth, about 20 times. Allow dough to rest a few minutes. Divide dough into 4 pieces. Roll each piece very thin into a circle, about 10 inches in diameter.

Place on ungreased baking sheets or in shallow pie pans. Mix onion, garlic, tomato sauce, salami, salt and pepper; spread on dough. Sprinkle shredded cheese over all or place cheese strips on top. Sprinkle with oregano to desired amount. Bake 15 to 20 minutes, until crust is brown and filling hot and bubbly. Serve immediately.

Anchovy Pizza: Follow recipe for Pizza except — substitute 2 cans anchovies, chopped, for salami.

Hamburger Pizza: Follow recipe for Pizza except — prepare topping before making crust and substitute 1 pound cooked ground beef and ½ cup chopped green pepper for salami.

Pepperoni Pizza: Follow recipe for Pizza except — substitute 1 cup sliced pepperoni for salami.

Mushroom Pizza: Follow recipe for Pizza except — substitute 2 cans (4 ounces each) mushrooms, sauteed in butter, for salami.

To the Editor:

A few years ago, Tacoma citizens overwhelmingly repealed an open housing law passed by the city council.

In spite of this, the city council again ignored the wishes of the majority and passed an open housing law, this time adding an emergency clause which denied the people the initiative route to disapprove it.

With this type of encouragement the proponents of so-called housing laws will soon be going all out for a similar one in the rural districts. It is the duty of the property owners to inform their governing bodies of individual concern in matters such as this, otherwise they succumb to pressure groups.

In the Tacoma council chambers when the bill was passed, the audience was comprised largely of what appeared to be "hippies" and motley appearing transients who were brought in early for no apparent reason but to occupy the available seats and perhaps create a fear psychology among council members.

The housing law does not do what it is claimed to, that is, it does not get housing for those who are in need. Those with money can buy in any part of the city or county and are doing it. This law can and will be used to harass realtors and property owners alike, and attempts to add strong amendments is certain.

Unless we exert some effort toward protecting our rights we may wake up to find we have none.

Young Readers Chose Book For "Choice Award"

The majority of more than 17,000 young readers in the Pacific Northwest have chosen "Mouse and the Motorcycle," by Beverly Cleary, to receive the Young Reader's Choice Award for 1968.

The vote for this award is taken each spring among school children of British Columbia, Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington by the Division of Work with Children and Young People of the Pacific Northwest Library Association. The author receives the award at the "Author's Breakfast" session of the annual PNLA meeting, to be held this year August 14-16 in Vancouver, B.C.

This year 818 children who borrow books from the Pierce County Library system cast ballots for their choice. They voted "Gentle Ben," by Walt Morey into first place, with "Mouse and the Motorcycle" second in line. In third position was "Ghost in the Noonday Sun," by Sid Fleischman, while regional votes placed "The Velvet Room," by Zilpha Snyder, which was fourth in Pierce County, in this place.

Given in the order that Pierce County's young readers chose them, the other runners-up were: "Drop Dead," by Julia Cunningham; "Empty Schoolhouse," by Natalie Carlson; "Bushbabies," by William Stevenson; "Soldier and Me," by David Line; "Durango Street," by Frank Bonham; "North to Freedom," by Anne Holm; "Matthew Looney's Invasion of Earth," by Jerome Beatty, Jr.; "Noonday Friends," by Mary Stolz; "Arm of the Starfish," by Madeleine L'Engle; and "The Black Cauldron," by Lloyd Alexander.

Fed Cattle Prices Dim

Price prospects for fed cattle will fade from bright to dim over the next six months, Pierce County cattle feeders were advised today. The short-term outlook is for continued good prices into summer with lower prices in prospect next fall and winter, cattlemen were told.

Frank C. Jackson, County Extension Agent, said the price forecast was issued by Karl Hobson, Washington State University Extension price specialist. Hobson based the price outlook on the April 1 report of cattle on feed issued by the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The WSU Extension price specialist provided this rundown on factors affecting fed-cattle prices:

Cattle on feed April 1 in the 32 major feeding states were up only 2 percent from a year earlier. Consumer buying power, however, is at an all-time high. The record consumer incomes indicate food shoppers will snap up the extra beef at prices near those they have been paying so far this spring.

Several other factors support the favorable price outlook for the next few months. The number of cattle on feed in the western states on April 1 was down 2 percent from a year earlier.

In the 32 major feeding states, an unusually high proportion of heifers were in feedlots. Since heifers do not get as big as steers, average weight of fat cattle slaughtered will continue moderate. This will hold down total pounds marketed.

Cattle numbers in the heavier weight groups are also down from a year ago. Cattle weighing 900 to 1100 pounds are down 4 per cent from the same time last year. This smaller number of cattle nearing market finish indicates moderate marketings for several weeks.

In addition, the number of cattle on feed longer than 3 months is down one percent from April 1, 1967. As for the unfavorable long-run price outlook, Hobson listed these price-depressing indicators: January to March placements of cattle on feed in the major feeding states were up 7 percent from a year earlier. As a result, the number of cattle on feed less than 3 months is up 5 percent. This indication of heavier marketing later this year is confirmed by a 4 percent increase in cattle weighing less than 900 pounds.

Bethel

School Board

By E.W. (Doc) Webster
Chairman
Bethel School Board

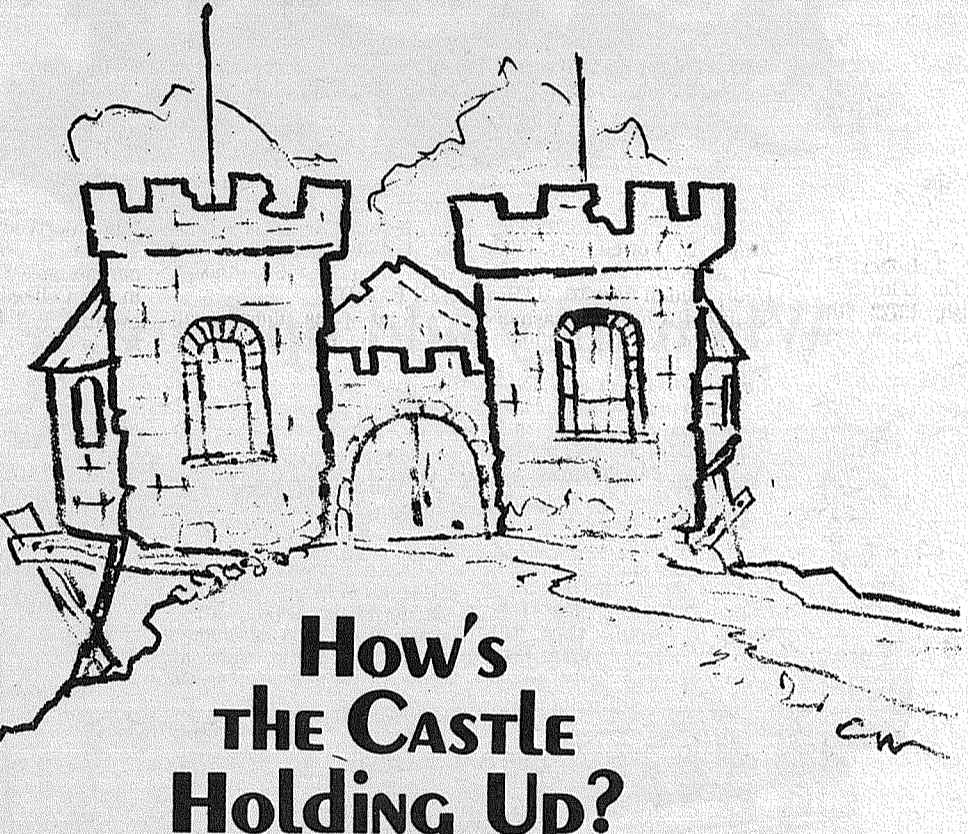

Another long meeting Monday night, lasting until 12:15 a.m. and once again all board members were present.

We were pleased to hear from Dr. Gramann that the Thompson Elementary School is ahead of schedule and that the three-room addition at Spanaway is well on the way to completion. With the increase in students the Bethel District is noticing, this is indeed good news.

Superintendent Gramann gave a thorough report on the preliminary budget. Next year the general fund budget will be approximately $3,011,272 — a raise of $612,988 over last year. Pay raises and the additional staff for the new school all help to add to the costs.

We were presented with the resignations of Miss Leota Larson, English and journalism teacher at the High School, and Mrs. Esther Smith, an elementary teacher at Clover Creek. We accepted both resignations with deep regret. Five contracts for new additions in teachers in the district were approved by the board.

Due to a conflict of dates, the first June Board meeting has been postponed until Wednesday, June 5th. It originally was set for the 3rd — graduation day.

Maybe you don't need a new home after all. Let us, here at Citizens, re-do your old castle for you.

THERE THEY GO!

By BEN MITCHELL

Longacres will swing open its gates at about 3 p.m. on Friday, May 24th, to begin its 35th year. The season will close after 72 days of racing on September 9th. This will be the largest and longest racing season in history of Longacres.

Through last year 17,141 races had been run at the Renton oval and this year could see the total swelled to 17,861 if all goes well and there are no cancellations.

Nineteen sixty-seven was a year of records for Longacres. Attendance was up 5.08 per cent and the mutual handle was boosted 8.8 per cent. Percentage of winning favorites was 35 per cent (238 wins for 680 races). This is a little bit over the previous record.

Some new "BESTS" for the '68 racing season will appear in the record books. The only horse with a chance to repeat is Hannaford, the best Washington-bred. He will campaign again this year and has a chance. He won the Governor's and British Columbia Handicaps in "open" competition and finished second in three other stakes.

Mustedie, the 1967 $1500 claim and the "best player" in winning 7 races is not likely to repeat. In fact he may not even campaign this year.

Ahead Tiger, best three-old and Longacres Derby winner, will be replaced as will Pataha Prince, best two-year old Washington bred. He was the Washington Futurity winner in '67 and the payoff was large in this $35,600 race.

Quina Reigh, bred by Washington State University Hilltop Stables and best Washington bred two-year old filly will be replaced as she graduates to the three-year old class. Royal Sue, the best two-year old filly of the meet, will have to fight it out with the older horses.

Lennie Knowles and Paul Frey are both riding at other tracks but will be back and these two, leading riders for several years, could stage their usual ding-dong battle for top honors.

FOR AN OPENING HAND, try these for the first weekend of racing.

Seafair Queen Stakes on Friday, May 24th, at five and one-half furlongs for three-year old fillies for $5,000 added. William E. Boeing Stakes for three-year old colts and geldings at five and one-half furlongs for $7,500 added and The Memorial Handicap for three-year olds and upward on May 25th at five and one-half furlongs for $7,500 added.

Powderpuff Returns To Spanaway Oval

SPANAWAY - Neither rain nor wind, or lack of sunshine could keep 900 die-hard racing fans from watching Spanaway's super stocks put on a full slate of racing last Sunday at the popular oval. And they raced because the fans voted for it ... an overwhelming roar of approval.

Jackie Kuper finally stopped a 4 week winning streak by Don Hall, although he did it the easy way. Hall, after looking over the slippery surface and thinking of the long season yet to be raced, decided to trailer his hot number 2 car in favor of better conditions. He was not alone, as the "A" class point leader Steve Kiser followed suit.

Kuper played hide and seek with Bob Bull for 20 laps, then pulled ahead to stay. Bob Short also caught Bull early in the 30th lap and took the checker for 2nd place.

In the "A" 50 lap go-round, Ken Longley overcame a huge lead built up by Bruce Liner, passing the pacesetter in the 23rd lap and finished well in front. Dave Rogers had a much tougher time in order to finish 2nd, nipping Liner with only a quarter lap to go.

Fred Carlborn, a darkhorse in the Disc Jockey's 15 lap affair, walked away with the win with Jim Rogers (KTVW) and Charley Burd (KMO) capturing 2nd and 3rd. Carlborn was carrying the KMO silks in his victory ride.

Promoter Dick Boness put out the call for Destruction Derby cars for their Spanaway debut Memorial Day. The only requirements ... outside of the premise they run ... is for roll bars and safety harness. If you have an entry, contact Boness at the track during this Sunday's races.

The A.R.I. slate will be complimented by the season's 2nd Powderpuff Derby, sort of a female Russian Roulette on wheels. The gals promise to keep the cars somewhere near the track during the race, which will be an improvement over previous attempts. Rule of thumb during a Powderpuff race is to grab a seat high in the stands ... the higher the better.

Camp Film Now Available

A brief film explaining the activities and purpose of the County-City Sports-Fitness camps at Spanaway and Wapato parks this summer is now available through the Metropolitan Park District and Pierce County Park Department offices in the County-City Building.

Jack Johnson, fitness activities summer coordinator, has announced the film is available for showing to all interested groups. Johnson and Ed Armstrong will explain the fitness program in conjunction with the film.

Johnson has also revealed that the University of Puget Sound will again offer academic credit to teachers and undergraduates who enroll at UPS for work with youngsters at the two fitness camps this summer. Information on the class is available from Russ Wilkerson at the University of Puget Sound's athletic department.

The camps will begin June 17 and will continue through four two-week sessions until Aug. 9.

Registrations for all sessions are now being accepted by the County Park Department office, 735 County-City Building. A $6 fee will be required.

Johnson announced one change from past years for the Wapato Park camp. The public transportation will not be available this year and youngsters will be required to provide their own transportation to the camp.

Baseball, Softball Entries Needed At Parks Department

County-wide boys baseball and girls softball league teams will be required to submit entry fees, insurance money and team rosters for league play to the County Park Department office, 735 County-City Building, by Tuesday, May 28, at 5 p.m.

All teams will be required to submit $15 entry fees, insurance fees of $1 per player and a team roster typed or printed in alphabetical order to the County Park Department office by the deadline date to be included in league competition.

Any player waivers for summer athletic teams will be required from the player's parents to the Commissioner of Athletics by June 1 to be considered.

Longacres Opens May 24

Summer starts May 24, this Friday, at 4:15 p.m., regardless of what the man who writes the calendar says. That's the time the first horses go to the starting gate at Longacres as the track opens its 35th season.

For 72 days the Thoroughbreds will compete at the 170 acres on the outskirts of Renton that has often been called one of the prettiest race tracks in the world. There will be 10 races each racing day until the season closes September 9.

Morrie Alhadeff, Longacres general manager, believes this 35th anniversary year should be the greatest in the history of the track. Over $1.25-million will be awarded horse owners in purses, including the $245-thousand added monies offered for the 23 stakes races.

For the racing fan, Longacres will be bigger and prettier, the result of a $250,000 renovation and rebuilding program that has been underway since last fall. The Club House has been redone and an all-new Pavilion for cocktails and food has been constructed for the Grandstand patron.

The Constitution says the accused may remain silent. At his trial he need not testify against himself. No prosecuting attorney can call him to the stand and question him.

There are many reasons besides guilt for a person not to testify. He may be very nervous. He may have a hard time explaining suspicious, but really innocent facts. He may speak poorly. He may be a poor witness. The court, therefore, has said that no judge could comment on a person's failure to testify. He may not translate an accused's silence into evidence. This would violate the defendant's constitutional right.

Under our law the prosecution must prove its case against the accused beyond a reasonable doubt and to a moral certainty. If the district attorney cannot present such a case, the defendant may go free. The defendant has no duty to prove the case against himself by testifying.

Some special laws call upon you to keep records. For example, taxpayers must keep business records which the government can examine even though they are incriminating.

Those caught with narcotics face conviction unless they can explain that they are rightfully in possession of such items. In some cases, possession alone is a crime.

In another recent case Zeke Moonshine was caught at the site of an illegal liquor still. A federal law says that the court can convict a person in Zeke's position unless he explains his presence. Zeke failed to do this and was convicted. The Supreme Court upheld his conviction.

The law protects one's right to remain silent when the police question him as well as at his trial. The police must warn suspects that they can remain silent, and also that they can have an attorney present to advise them. Failure to inform the accused of these things can block the use of confessions or incriminating statements at the trial. (This column is written to inform, not advise. Facts may change the application of the law.)

The Stolen Money

Sam, a safecracker, had just burglarized the local drugstore and was on his way home with the money. Just as he was parking his car, a crook named Louie stuck a gun in Sam's ribs and robbed him of the cash.

The police soon captured Louie, and in no time he found himself standing trial for the crime of robbing Sam.

"What are you talking about," said Louie. "How can I be guilty of robbing Sam? Sam stole that money. It didn't belong to him anymore than it belonged to me."

Can Louie be guilty of robbery in this case?

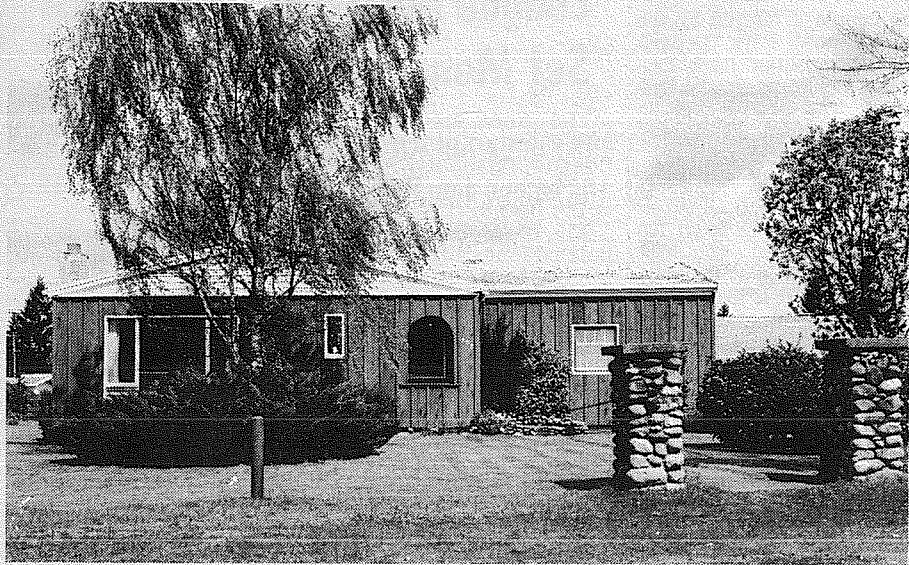

Yes, said the Supreme Court of Hawaii in such a case. Stolen money can be the subject of robbery. One who steals money, which itself has been stolen by another, may be prosecuted notwithstanding the illegality of the possession of his victim.

One thief may be convicted of stealing from another thief. If the taking was wrongful, it does not matter who owned the property.

For the purpose of prosecution, a thief in possession may be described as the owner when the goods have been stolen from him by a second thief. One who has the right of possession as against a thief is, so far as the thief is concerned, the owner.

In this case Louie had broken the law by robbing Sam. This is still a crime even though Sam did not own the money. Louie lost the case (This column is written to inform, not advise. Facts may change the application of the law.)

Good Samaritan Sets Rehabilitation

The Heart Association announced today that an additional course in Rehabilitation Nursing has been scheduled at Good Samaritan Hospital June 10 to 21.

Last fall the Washington State Heart Association granted $10,000 for four two-week courses to train registered nurses in prevention of disability from stroke. The scheduled series of four classes will be completed this week and a fifth has been added because of additional requests.

Information on the course is available at the office of Pierce County Heart Association or at Good Samaritan Hospital. No tuition is charged. The program is one of the professional education services of the Heart Association.

Circus Slated At Central Ave.

If the mountain won't come to Mahomet, Mahomet must march out to climb it, and so if a circus does not come to town, the town must come out to the Central Avenue School Auditorium, 4505 1/2 East 104th St., Tacoma, Friday May 24, at 8 p.m. to see Farrell's Tumblers and Hoofers presenting a musical and variety extravaganza or a hoedown with nimble acrobats, to the tootling of the big Rock Band "The Sides of Us."

This is a benefit performance with proceeds going to the Summit Youth Center to buy athletic equipment and building materials.

Jack Farrell, now Youth Director of Rural Economic Opportunity in Parkland, well-known in entertainment and Youth program circles, has trained his crews of youngsters to a fine professional quality, and he says adults will surely get a dollar's worth, and children and teens to 18, a quarter's worth of entertainment out of it. Buy your tickets at the door. No reservations! Come early for a good seat frontside center. See you-all at the "ticket-van!"

Waller Road

Waller Road and Collins Grange ladies will unite to present a "Free Luncheon" at noon May 28th at the Waller Road Grange Hall. It is in keeping with the — serve Washington products — idea instigated by the Home Economics department of the state grange.

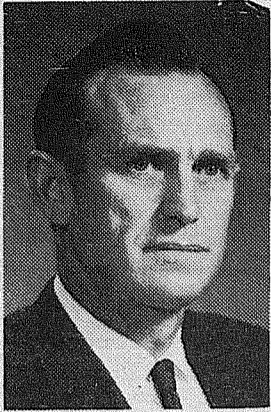

Also planned as a friendship meeting, Grange ladies will be required to bring a dish using strictly Washington grown products and invite a non-grange member to be your guest.

Bernice Belshaw of the County Extension Office will be on hand to present a demonstration on color harmony.

Fruitland grangers chartered a bus to take their third and fourth degree team to Northside Grange in Seattle, where they initiated 32 candidates into grange membership.

The 1968 Puyallup Summer School dates have been established. Classes will commence on June 14 and conclude July 26. The six-week session will offer classes for students enrolled in grades one through twelve.
