tainers and fire permits are asked to burn in the early morning and late evening hours only.

A little old lady will avidly be "reading" every word of this story. I assured her that it would be a good story, and I hope she approves.

She'll be reading it with the aid of her cousin, Mrs. Oscar Storlie of Spanaway. Mrs. Storlie will be typing it on a braille typewriter. As she hits the keys, little knobs will protrude thru a hole in the back, making im-

Parkland Fire Department Loses "Sparky" Fire Prevention Mascot

"Patches" is a male Dalmatian about 2 1/2 years old and weighing 60 pounds. His boss is Chet Kirk, assistant chief of the Parkland Fire Department.

Chet has been training "Patches" for the role of "Sparky, the Fire Prevention Dog" in the school fire prevention program.

"Patches", like most canines, has an acute disliking for fire-works in any way, shape, or form. On the night of the Fourth, "Patches", no doubt unnerved by the great velocity of sound unleashed in observing our nation's independence, disappeared.

All efforts of the Humane Society, Fire Department, and others have so far failed to find a trace of him.

Anyone who thinks they have located "Patches" is urged to call the Parkland Fire Department. Any help at all will be greatly appreciated.

Ice Cream Sales Earn Troop's New Equipment

PROUDLY DISPLAYING their new camping equipment are the members of Scout Troop 300. The boys earned enough money through their greatly successful ice cream sales at this year's Rodeo to purchase four tents and a fly. Their first chance to use the new gear will come July 16 when they leave for a one week stay at Camp Hahobas. (McKewen Studio Photo)

FUTURE OLYMPIC CHAMPS?

YOUNGSTERS from the James Sales Playground are seen preparing for the tenth annual Pierce County A.A.U. Junior Olympics to be held next week at the Lincoln Bowl in Tacoma. Pierce County playground leader Ben Bassett is pointing out the finer points of starting technique to Wayne Shields, Carl Wagenblast, Tom Thompson and Jim Ulness.

Wednesday, July 19 marks the date for the tenth annual Pierce County A.A.U. Junior Olympics. This year's meet promises to be one of the biggest ever. Four age groupings for both boys and girls insures equal opportunities for all contestants. This track and field extravaganza will be held at Lincoln Bowl, and is expected to draw entries from all of Pierce County.

In the past the Franklin Pierce — Parkland area contestants have more than held their own with their city cousins and the representatives from the surrounding county districts of Peninsula, Orting, Puyallup Valley, and Lakewood.

The meet will begin at 5:00 p.m. with the midget and junior division and break at 6:30 p.m. for the grand entry parade of contestants. Shortly after 6:30 p.m. the meet will continue with the intermediate and senior divisions. Further information and entry blanks may be obtained from the playground leaders of Gonyea, Dawson and J. Sales playgrounds. Boys and girls not representing a playground may pick up entry blanks at the Pierce County Park Department offices in the County-City Building.

Local events coming up in the near future are a hopscotch tournament, checker tournament, Quick Draw McGraw contest, and still walking. Dawson and James Sales recently had very successful playground cook outs. No fingers were burned and every one actually ate their charcoal potatoes. Crafts are a big feature of the activities at Gonyea Park. Asbestos clay modeling is extremely popular and one of the most interesting works is the making of puppets.

It's The Law
Wills And Trusts

Barring a medical miracle, every single piece of property owned by billions of people on earth today will have passed on to a new set of owners in the next 50 or 100 years. Sometimes many times.

Nobody knows how much all this property amounts to. Perhaps trillions of dollars.

Yet the passage will be in the orderly manner of the court room, creating scarcely a ripple. For men by using wills and related legal tools have learned how to conserve and pass property on from one generation to the next.

But much of our property, unfortunately, will pass on helter skelter subject to unnecessary risks. For example, in Washington we have laws which tell how property should be passed where the owner

County Agents Corner
Act Now To Prevent Sleeping Sickness

Double-barrelled action to prevent an outbreak of equine sleeping sickness was recommended recently by George Purcell, County Extension Agent. He urged vaccination of horses against the disease and mosquito control.

Vaccinations should be given in the spring or summer as the disease is most prevalent in Washington in July and August.

The disease is transmitted by blood-sucking insects, especially certain mosquitoes, so early and continuous efforts to control these pests are indicated.

The county agent passes along the following information on equine encephalomyelitis in man and horses just received from Dr. Roy I. Hostetler, WSU's Extension Animal Health Specialist:

The disease occurs in humans as a highly fatal inflammation of the brain and spinal cord. It is characterized by high fever, convulsions, vomiting and drowsiness, followed by coma and death.

Horses of all ages are susceptible to sleeping sickness.

The disease is first evidenced by fever and mild depression. If the nervous system of the horse is not affected, the disease may pass without being noticed. At this stage, the virus is in the blood and could be spread by blood-sucking insects.

By the time nervous symptoms develop, the virus has spread to the brain and spinal cord, but the fever has passed and the blood is no longer infective.

Common symptoms are of re-ranged consciousness. The victim may show restlessness and mild excitement. The animal may walk in circles, crash through fences, walk aimlessly into obstacles of any kind, shy at doorsills, and jump high in clearing them. The horse often refuses food and water.

Later the horse develops a sleepy attitude; it may rest against a manger or fence with its head hanging. It can be aroused, but quickly relapses into the sleepy posture. Standing with legs crossed or in other unnatural posture is common.

Finally, evidence of paralysis becomes evident. The lower lip hangs, the tongue protrudes, and swallowing is difficult. Difficulty in walking occurs because of lack of full control of the hind legs. Death usually occurs in a few days after nervous symptoms are first noticed.

Horses that recover may show permanent brain damage. Such animals are often referred to as "dummies" by horsemen. Vaccination affords good protection against the disease in horses. Consult your local veterinarian about whether or not this vaccination is needed in your area.

Information and bulletins on mosquito control are available at the County Agricultural Extension Office.

The Mulino, Oregon Chicken Barbeque Fly-In was taken in by Gen and Orv McGoy with Neil and Edna Everett as their guests. Bob and Sophia McCullough also attended the Fly-In. Briefly on Beauty

The teen-ager who likes to wear a ponytail (and only teen-agers ought to wear them) should be careful that she doesn't wear it on the same line as her nose, especially if she's afraid that feature is somewhat large or long.

Summit Couple Tours Canada

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson, 10913 East Bingham, recently spent five days seeing the Canadian scenery. They drove through Hope, B.C., Vernon, B.C., and Camloops and returned home by way of Chelan. It was reported to have been a most pleasant trip, with restaurants and motels being the very best around.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Morton and family; Mariann, Joyce, Connie, and Anita all of 4020 East King street just returned from a three week vacation trip. They saw Brice Canyon, Grand Canyon, Yosemite Park, Salt Lake City, Disneyland, Marineland and returned home via the coastal highway. They camped most of the way and had good weather.

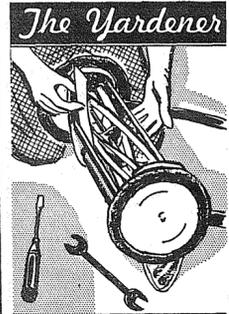

Wheelin' Squares

Rave Hall behind Central Avenue School, July 15 at 8:30 p.m. An interesting evening has been planned by the president of the club, so come one and all and help us roll back the rug. Ed Hendricks will call the squares. Hosts and hostesses for the evening are Mr. and Mrs. Earle Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Leavens. Congratulations

We wish to extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Larry E. Gohr (the former Miss Judith Ann Monk) upon their recent marriage. The bride is the daughter of Leland W. Monk of Tacoma and niece of Mrs. Rose Long of Aberdeen. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Elmer Bergman of Summit. The couple will make the new home in Yakima where Mr. Monk is assistant manager of a chain store. Larry was a former graduate of Franklin Pierce High School.

"Believe In The Holy Trinity" Advises Blind - Deaf Woman

enced after working underneath a car. Vera, sitting in the front room, could smell the oil. She can walk around the outside of the house with her cousin and recognize all the various flowers by smell.

She also has another sense, one which cannot be readily explained. In the grocery store recently she was waiting at the counter while the clerk rang up "35¢" on the till. Immediately she tapped out "35" on her cousin's hand.

She operates an ordinary typewriter skillfully. When asked for advice she might give to other blind persons, she replied via the typewriter: "Oh! My advice could be to ALL handicapped people, not just to the blind. All I say is, 'Have the deepest faith in the Holy Trinity,'" and let that guide your lives. I have had my full share of Life's ups and downs, but have absolutely refused, with God's help, to allow them to embitter me. God never promised His children a bed of roses without thorns, but He did and still does give us many wonderful promises in The Bible. Do you know the Bible contains a promise for each day of the year? With 365 such pledges, why should we worry? And there is the lovely rainbow to remind us God has never yet broken a single one of His Words."

She'd be willing to bet that neither has Vera.

Each of us seek a means of explaining to fellow man the thing for which we work and for which we believe in. In my case this paper is the focal point of my life. I have made a few feeble attempts to create a closer understanding between you and I, but never have I been satisfied with the finished product.

When I returned to my desk this week I found amongst the high pile of letter, etc., an article written by Ruth Turner of the Tucker, Georgia Tribune that expressed clearly the very points I have long been trying to bring out. I quote from her article as if it were in effect a reading of my own mind:

"On a recent dark night of sleeplessness, a question loomed into my mind: What is a weekly newspaper?"

Many answers immediately came to mind. For the casual reader, it is simply something that happened to be at hand when they sought reading diversion. For the shut-in, it is perhaps their hold on the outside world. For some, it is a means of keeping up with their neighbors and friends.

For the advertiser, it is a way to sell his merchandise to those who need and want it.

For the correspondent, it is a small outside interest, a service to her community, and it is perhaps sometimes a chore that takes time she would like to use for some other purpose.

But what about the owners? What is a weekly newspaper to them?

A means of livelihood? Of course it is that—but it is much more.

It is a dream—a dream that is never quite fulfilled. It is hope—that some days seems to die but always rises again. It is honor—an invisible armor that withstands many blows.

It is work—sometimes work that is back breaking and seemingly endless. It is work—detailed work to clog the brain and strain the eyes. Sometimes it is work that is rewarding and gives a sense of fulfillment. Sometimes it is work that is heartbreaking and frustrating.

Some days the weekly newspaper is a telephone. It is a telephone that rings incessantly and demandingly. A faceless voice may bring joy or pain.

A weekly newspaper is the voice of its owners. Others communicate their views to a few people or sometimes to a group of people. But the owners of a newspaper communicate their views to its many readers. They communicate without the warmth of an inflection in the voice, a gesture of the hand, or a facial expression of compassion. What's said is said—in black and white.

In a vocal conversation both sides are usually heard to the last sentence. But in a newspaper the reader may stop at any point. Even a simple news story of unadulterated facts may be misunderstood if not read in its entirety.

To the owners then, a weekly newspaper becomes a willingness to bear the blame for every printed word . . . a willingness to bear the criticism of the just and the unjust.

To a man and wife, although they may have divergent opinions before publication, it is a standing together, a willingness to share in whatever results from the printed word.

Some days the newspaper is a joy, pure and simple. A day when the world is bright and full of happy people—people who like us and whom we like. A day that we have pleased others and made friends . . . sometimes near . . . sometimes far.

Other days a newspaper is bitter gall. It is to have done your best—to have brought the news as it happened, to have expressed opinions as you felt them, to have laid out the ads with care—but to have fallen short.

On a day when the sun shines brightly, the wind blows softly, and the whole of nature beckons one to come outside and breathe deeply and contemplate the universe, then the newspaper is a harsh unrelenting taskmaster that holds one with a grip of iron and steel and grinding gears.

What is a weekly newspaper? It is many things. It is our life."

Want to have a great summer and a grand vacation? . . . You'll be a star-spangled success if you vote for THE ELECTED LOOK, a freedom-loving new-frontier in fashion with a long term of popularity ahead . . . Speaking of popularity, did you know that boys the world over like American girls because they show friendliness—not snobbery—think creatively, make jokes, and like to dance cheek-to-cheek? On the other hand, according to the July SEVENTEEN, they dislike U.S.A. lassies who wear too much make-up, like to go steady, are not adventurous, and make boys pay for everything! . . . Another reason for liking America was given by a teen member of Russia's Moiseyev dancers who said, "Going to Disneyland was one of the things I most liked" . . . We can all really be proud of an "undistinguished but real likable" teen-ager who grew up to be a national hero, COMMANDER ALAN B. SHEPARD, JR., America's first man in space . . . England hasn't launched a capsule yet, but they claim another distinction, the first "Man in the Moon," actor KEN-

Moon Man NETH MORE, who stars in a new comedy of that title . . . DICK CLARK leaves his world, too, when he abandons music for medicine in his second film "The Young Doctors" . . . More movie news: although TONY RANDALL doesn't get the girl, he, DORIS DAY and ROCK HUDSON in "Lover Come Back" reach the heights of hilarious comedy . . . Another height is reached by 14-year-old B.D. Merrill, daughter of BETTE DAVIS, who likes being 5'9" because it enables her to move in adult situations, such as meeting President Kennedy at a party in New York . . . You won't meet the President, but you will have a great party . . . Just "GO FLY A KITE" and have a picnic. Kite-flying is a fun summer sport—all you need is a breeze. Now you're off to a flying start.

Service Aboard USS Greenfish

Pear Harbor (FHTNC)—When ships become obsolete they can't be discarded like an infant's bathtub sailboat, so the Navy has devised a way of revitalizing them—the Fleet Rehabilitation and Modernization (FRAM) Program.

Serving aboard the Pearl Harbor-based submarine USS Greenfish, undergoing a nine-month FRAM facelift is Curtis D. Docken, midgetinist's mate second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Docken of 1212 So. 121st St., Parkland.

Rather than build new ships when the old ones become older, FRAM accomplishes the modernization with the newest, machinery and innovations, giving the Navy several more years of good use from them.
