Parkland Guilds Coin Count

Parkland and neighboring homes were called on Monday morning, May 4, by members of the three guilds of Tacoma Orthopedic Association, in the Parkland area, Judy Johnson Guild, Parkland Guild, and Sylvia Storaasli guild, in their quest for pin money in the third annual Coin Count campaign for funds for Mary Bridge Children's Hospital in Tacoma. Loose change, in the form of any size coins, were asked for to help with the operating costs of the hospital during the summer months when the guilds are inactive. The one hundred and one guilds working for the maintenance of the hospital supported it this past year on an average of $5,000 to $6,000 each month.

For nine months of the year the guilds have worked hard and consistently on their individual money making projects for the hospital but for the Coin Count the senior guilds join together for one final effort before the summer months, as the work must go on at the hospital for the full twelve months of the year.

Each guild member armed with yellow and blue Coin Count envelopes and wearing an "I Am an Orthopedic Member" identification tag asked the family in each home to put coins of any size in the envelope to help not only with the maintenance of the hospital but with the work done in the orthopedic, orthotic, Cleft Palate and Speech Therapy clinics.

Anyone who is not contacted during the Coin Count is asked to mail his contribution to "Coin Count," Mary Bridge Children's Hospital Box 40, Tacoma, Washington.

Mrs. Clarence Berger is Coin Count chairman for the Parkland guild; Mrs. M. A. Wutz of the Sylvia Storaasli guild, and Mrs. Wesley Harding of Judy Johnson Guild.

courses in farm management problems to money management, flower arranging, firearm safety, and recreation leadership. Each 4-H'er selects two from the list and attends the same two daily. Visualizing 4-H demonstrations is the one new class being offered this year.
Pheasant hens at the South Tacoma Game Farm are working overtime these days. They are busy laying eggs. Thirty-five hundred fertile pheasant eggs will be distributed to twenty-three Pierce County 4-H members on May 5th. This will be done at a 6:30 p. m. tour, May 5th, at the South Tacoma Game Farm near Lakewood. In addition to receiving the eggs the 4-H'ers will have an opportunity to see proper pheasant management practices. Keith Angerman, superintendent of the farm, will serve as guide and describe management systems used on the farm.
Nearly all the eggs will be custom-hatched in commercial incubators. The feathered little friends will then be placed under chicken brooders. During the next ten weeks the 4-H members will be busy caring for the pheasants.

Paul's Shoes in New Spanaway Location
EVERYONE INVITED—Paul's Shoes & Repair, well known in the Spanaway area for the past 13 years, is holding open house this Friday and Saturday to mark its opening in a new and larger location at 161st and Pacific avenue. There will be interesting and attractive events both days in connection with the opening, with valuable awards to visitors, also a preview of fresh spring shoe styles. Remodeled and brightened with fresh paint, the building now presents a greatly improved appearance. The large upstairs apartment, also put in first class condition, is the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chalk, owners of the business, and their young daughter Joanne. Pictured above, in front of the new store, are, left to right: Mr. and Mrs. Chalk and Donald Carpenter, manager of the shoe repair department. (Photo by McKewen.)

Daily feeding and watering will most of our 4-H pheasant raisers. take much time. A watchful eye is necessary to nip cannibalism in the bud. Dogs, cats and predators can be quite a problem.
Finally at the end of a ten week period the State Game Department will purchase the pheasants and release them in selected wood-land areas.

a-Wondering . . . and a-Wandering . . .
With JACK BROWN

I wonder what light sentences and the coddling of prisoners is doing to our society. Take the young hoodlum who walks out after a few days in jail to be greeted by his buddies. Questions fly as to "How was it?" "Was it tough?" "How did you take it?" etc etc., all leading up to the only answer that our modern methods could foster. "It was a breeze," says the young thug, "I could do twice that time standing on my head," he boasts. He would probably be sincere in his answers, for to many now days, jail is a place for a good rest. In the mind of every potential young hoodlum who hears this boasting a seed is planted. It's easy for him to think the risk slight, regardless of the caper he pulls, for hasn't he proof now that doing time is a cinch.

What of the grown man or woman who hoists one too many, staggers out to his or her car, roars off loaded to the gills and proceeds to run over a pedestrian. Killed, the father of three children. Funeral in 3 or 4 days. Arrest and released on bail in the a.m.; one lush, free for a few months until trial, then after a few months rest in the bastille, is released to resume life as though nothing had happened.

You and I and others read of this and after thinking it over, what conclusion can we possibly come to. Only one. If we get into a real jam and happen to kill someone on the highway, it's nothing to get excited about. A sad thing, true, but all corrected after a few formalities, so why hold in your secret inhibitions. Drink up! Gimme one for the road! Who Cares!

Mercy and reason must always govern the meting out of sentence, especially where the young are concerned, but if the theory that crime must be punished has any validity at all it will not be tested with a slap on the wrist sentence.

If the young hoodlum had emerged from the jail running to hide his tear streaked face, sick to his very soul to think of the weeks instead of days he had spent in jail, instead of stopping to boast, and if the drunken driver had spent years on a rock pile instead of a few months in a cell, then you and I and young and old who knew that justice was back with a strong hand would think twice before lending ourselves to any devious temptations. Those of us with a taste for a wee spot now and then would be more apt to confine our drinking to moderation, particularly if there were any driving anticipated.

County Agent
By George Purcell

Is part time farming for you? Many people ask us county agents what income, etc., can be expected from part time farming set-ups. To answer well all the pertinent questions, we have a new bulletin which relates details of advantages and disadvantages of part time farming. How to select the farm is discussed in detail. How many acres for different types of farming is indicated. What is the most practical combinations of farming is told briefly in a layman's language. Pertinent management ideas are pointed out; where to get help to get started is also explained along with how to plan your whole farm, home and family situation.

For you free copy please phone the County-City Building, phone number FU 3-3311, Extension 51, for Extension Circular No. 236, "Part Time Farming in Washington."

By Carol S. Mays

Washington fairs will provide a new kind of show case for 4-H'ers in action this fall.

Clothing Club members will have a chance to actually make a garment during county fairs and the State 4-H Fair.

Gary Poor, State 4-H Agent, announced the new fair feature April 15. He said the clothing activity contest is in line with the 4-H philosophy of showing by doing. The 4-H'ers will be judged in much the same manner as participants in other activity contests, such as baking, demonstration, judging, tractor driving and the like.

The new activity will give clothing club members a chance to show off their sewing skill by making a dirndl skirt or cobbler's apron. Each 4-H'er will have three hours to make and model the garment. Work methods as well as the workmanship of the finished garment will be judged.

The new activity is open to all club members enrolled in the 4-H clothing projects. Participation at the State 4-H Fair, however, will be limited to one 4-H'er per county. What's been happening on the farm in the past 5 years?

The Bureau of the Census will start getting the answer to this question in October through the 17th nationwide farm census, C. R. Doran, county Extension agent, announces.

The big count of crops, acres, equipment and the like will start right after harvest this fall. Every one of the nation's 4,600,000 farms, and ranches will be visited by one of the 30,000 census takers now being lined up for this job.

He explains that each enumerator will be a local resident and will be required to take a qualifying test for the job. He will also get 12 hours of special training and swear to keep all census information confidential.

An Act of Congress providing for the census prohibits making census information for an individual farmer or farm available to any tax or investigation agency.

It's the LAW
PRESERVED AS A PUBLIC SERVICE BY THE WASHINGTON STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

Teacher Won't Talk

John, a teacher for twenty years, was asked by the superintendent of education during an investigation whether it was true that he was associated with the Communist Political Association in 1944.

On advice of counsel, John refused to answer that question or any similar questions, though warned that the investigation was a serious matter and failure to answer might lead to his dismissal. The school board instituted dismissal proceedings against John under the laws of that state, alleging John was incompetent as a teacher. John was present at a formal hearing on the charge but did not testify. He was dismissed as incompetent.

John appealed his case, eventually to the U. S. Supreme Court, contending the U. S. Constitution would prohibit his discharge for incompetency merely because he refused to answer questions about suspected Communist connections.

The Supreme Court said: "By engaging in teaching in the public schools, petitioner did not give up his right to freedom of belief, speech or association. He did, however, undertake obligations of frankness, candor and cooperation in answering inquiries made of him by his employing Board examining into his fitness to serve it as a public school teacher."

The court held that school authorities have the right and duty to screen officials, teachers and employees as to their fitness to maintain the integrity of the schools as a part of ordered society. The questions asked John relevant to the issue of his fitness to teach, the court held, saying that the federal constitution does not require that a teacher's classroom conduct be the sole basis for determining his fitness.

John's dismissal for incompetnency was approved by the U. S. Supreme court.
