DR. FRANCES L. ILG demonstrates Gesell Institute development testing techniques with 5-year-old Jim Dempsey. The demonstration was during a teacher's seminar at Thompson Elementary School.

TAXPAYERS overflowed to the porch of the Ohop Grange during a recent meeting sponsored by the Concerned Taxpayers of Southern Pierce County. Representatives of the various levels of state government were on hand to answer questions and listen to suggestions. Extra speakers in the kitchen helped keep the standing-room only crowd informed of what was happening in the meeting hall.

PRINCIPALS in Agatha Christie's "The Hollow" contemplate the fate of the victim; each among the murder suspects; each suspecting his associate of the crime. The mystery favorite will be performed by the Pacific Lutheran University summer drama workshop Aug. 19-21, 8:30 each evening in Eastvold Auditorium.

Tacoma Firm Makes Management Offer To Loveland Mutual

A Tacoma consulting engineering firm, experienced in the realm of utility operation, proposes to manage Loveland Mutual for the Board of Directors and membership on an interim basis or a continuing basis whichever would be in the best interest of the membership.

A spokesman for the firm has stated that among first considerations would be an analysis of the true net worth of Loveland Mutual assets today, and the projected future net worth. It was pointed out that the share value being offered to members should be independently verified by a party not connected with the sale and that the members should be informed of the potential worth of these shares at a future date.

With the growth that will take place in the next few years, the value should increase markedly in the future. Continuation of Loveland Mutual Company under professional management would insure the lowest cost power to each member and assure maximum appreciation of the value of each member's share in the company.

The firm spokesman requested that the company not be identified until after representatives had an opportunity to contact the Loveland Board of Trustees. He said that the trustees would be contacted in the next few days.

Loveland Calls Member Meeting

By the call of Loveland Mutual president Fred Erickson, a special meeting members will be held on Tuesday, August 19, 8 p.m. at Bethel High School Gymnasium.

Purpose of the meeting is to hear and present news concerning the proposed dissolution of Loveland Mutual Company, and sale of all of its assets to the City of Tacoma.

The notice mailed to members stated that dissolution, by law, is resolved by written request instead of voting. It indicated no vote would be taken at the meeting and the meeting was being held for discussion and informational purposes only.

Revealing a net sale price of $807,500 on the basis of 1900 members, the notice stated that all assets of the corporation as of December 31, 1968 were $535,519. It also disclosed that it would take an estimated $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 to bring the system up to required specifications and voltage.

However, it did not disclose over what period of time the expenditures would have to be made or who made the estimates.

Area Schools Pioneer Developmental Tests

A developmental testing program to place children in Kindergarten and grades according to developmental age rather than chronological age is being pioneered in the Northwest by five area elementary schools.

The program received a decided boost last week when Dr. Frances L. Ilg, researcher, author, and Director of the Gesell Institute of Child Development held a seminar for teachers at Chester Thompson Elementary School.

Dr. Ilg, a M.D. turned educator, told the Journal that as a pediatrician she could take care of 3 out of 10 sick children. Wanting to know about the other 7, she found Dr. Arnold Gesell doing the type of research that interested her most. A conference with Dr. Gesell in 1932 resulted in an internship for Dr. Ilg at the Yale clinic and an association that she says "has been and continues to be one of the richest experiences of my life."

The Gesell Placement Program is being used at Chester Thompson, Elmhurst Elementary, Clover Creek, Elk Plain, and Roy-Lacamas Schools. Teachers attending Dr. Ilg's classes represented School Districts from all parts of Pierce County who will initiate the program in the near future.

During her three-decade study of the natural history of the child, Dr. Ilg said one thing has become especially clear.

School children are too often overplaced she said. Although classroom trouble doesn't start showing up until the 3rd or 4th grade, she emphasized it really starts in Kindergarten, and often because the child is too young.

The cutoff date for kindergarten registration should require that a child be 5 years old by June 1 instead of September 10. Tests indicating children's level of maturity back up this theory, she stated.

Over years of testing, Dr. Ilg has found only 25 per cent of the children are ready for the grade they might be eligible for by age, and even with the June 1 cutoff date. Another 50 per cent need 6 months extra, while the remaining 25 per cent need 18 months to 2 years additional time.

Dr. Ilg emphasized that children requiring extra time might very well be the graduate school candidates when they reach the college level. She also frowns on "grade skipping" and says it is far better to place such a child with an enriched group of peers.

Mystery Favorite By Drama Workshop

An Agatha Christie mystery favorite will be performed by the Pacific Lutheran University summer drama workshop Aug. 19-21.

"The Hollow," with its setting in a country home near London in the early '60's, will be performed in Eastvold Auditorium beginning at 8:30 each evening.

Director is Theodore Karl, chairman of the PLU speech and drama department, who has added a new twist to "who-done-it" drama. In the middle of each performance the play will be stopped and a poll of the audience taken to guess the identity of the murderer.

There are not only two or three, but nine possible suspects, according to Karl.

Also attempting to solve the mystery are Sergeant Penning, played by John V. Elmer, and the inspector, portrayed by Richard Hyneman.

Michael J. Lawler and Nell Keithahn portray the hosts, Sir and Lady Angkatell. Also performing and among the suspects are Betty Mickey as Midge; Linda Hartman, Doris; David Lindblom, Edward; Marsha Williams and Catharyn Nelson, Gerda; and Marion Phillips, Henrietta.

J. Israel Baker portrays Veronica; Gudgeon, the butler, is played by John Cunningham, and Paul Hartman plays John.

The cast, most of whom are graduate students, are participating in every aspect of the production in addition to their acting parts to broaden their scope of experience.

Tickets are available at PLU.

Mathematician Joins PLU Staff

A research mathematician from Stanford Research Institute has been appointed to the Pacific Lutheran University faculty as an associate professor of mathematics, Dr. Eugene Wiegman, PLU president, announced Wednesday.

William L. Johnson, 32, a native of Hoquiam, Wash., has served at the Menlo Park, Calif., research center for the past two years. In 1966 he was an assistant professor of mathematics at the American University in Cairo, Egypt.

Johnson earned a bachelor's degree in mathematics from Reed College in Portland, Ore., in 1960. He attended UCLA from 1961-64 where he obtained his master's and doctor's degrees in mathematics.

From 1960-66 Johnson served as a statistician and research mathematician at the U.S. Naval Weapons Center in China Lake, Calif.

GOLDENE ROBINSON, Bethel Developmental Examiner, is pictured keeping an eye on Selmer Davenport as he completes the "draw the man" portion of the test. Selmer had taken the test previously and was showing the Journal photographer how it is done.

Daffodil Court Keeping Busy

Daffodil Queen Linda Michel of Puyallup and her court are keeping busy this summer in a variety of ways.

Puyallup's Queen Linda has taken part in some form of Daffodil Festival activity almost every weekend.

"I've been in nine parades since April" she said, "and there are many more to come."

Linda also works at a drive-in restaurant (Gary's Dairy Queen) on her few "free days."

She has also found that a Daffodil Queen is called on to do unusual things, such as feed an elephant three buckets of carrots in a picture-taking session.

Fife's Juli Vraves has been particularly busy. In addition to working for her father as a "kind of Girl Friday", Juli said she is trying to keep ahead of her housework.

In her spare time she water skis, swims, enjoys the company of boy friends and teaches a Sunday School class of children five years old and younger.

Princess Beverly Johnson of Stadium High School in Tacoma has been working this summer as a typist for the state at Pierce County Public Assistance. She is also taking a reading improvement course this summer, "not to improve my speed as much as my level of comprehension."

Beverly also attends meetings of her church youth usher board of which she is secretary, takes part in church choir rehearsals and teaches a Sunday School class of nine-year-olds.

Since her boy friend works nights, Bev said she has had very few dates this summer and has kept herself "away from mischief" by studying.

Along with the other princesses, Bev has official duties, too. She attended the Tacoma-Phoenix baseball game saluting the Daffodil Festival and will ride the traveling float along with Princess Rochelle Rysanek of Lincoln in Vancouver, B.C. August 16th.

Diane Billett, princess from Franklin Pierce, got her summer off to a good start with a four-day outing at Twin Harbors with friends. She swam every day in the ocean and managed to catch a severe cold, but said it was worth it.

Diane found her experience as a Daffodil Princess helped her in her parttime sales experience in a Tacoma department store. She is working as much as possible this summer in order to build up her bank account for the coming year at college.

Princess Karen Larsgaard of Sumner began her summer with a trip to Portland, Seaside and Eugene, Ore., to visit friends and relatives in each of these cities.

She returned just in time to be a bridesmaid in her cousin's wedding. Two days after this she reported for work in the kitchen at Paradise Inn at Mt. Rainier. She took part in the Seafair Parade in Seattle July 26th and then returned to Paradise for the balance of the summer.

Princess Sandee Webster of Orting has had a "very unexciting" summer. She has been working a long shift in a cannery but did have one enjoyable trip to the ocean.

Charry Nylander, Bethel's contribution to the Daffodil Court, found she had a few days of leisure at her family's cabin in Shelton after her school's graduation party. After a one-day trip to Bellingham and a short trip to the ocean, Charry went back to work for the summer.

Barbara Hallingstad from Mount Tahoma High in Tacoma took a trip to Pullman, Wash. to look over Washington State University where she will be enrolled this fall.

She participated in the Rose Festival in Portland before going to work for the summer. Barbara works at two jobs—as lifeguard in Tacoma's South End swimming pool mornings and at a department store in the afternoon.

Attending a Swiss picnic in Centralis, being a bridesmaid, attending the hydroplane races in Seattle, and "getting a fabulous tan" round out her

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Is Ours a Bad Moral Code?

Commenting on the Kennedy-Koepchne tragedy, in the Washington Post recently, writer Nicholas Von Hoffman reviewed certain aspects of the careers of some other men in politics—men whose names had been linked with allegations of immoral conduct.

Of these individuals, he said, "They were not bad men, but they lived under a bad moral code. They lived under a code that forces them and millions of less conspicuous people to lie, dissemble and scratch false names on hotel registers."

Is it true that it is bad to live under a code which prohibits stealing, lying, killing, and adultery?

Are we wrong in requiring our national leaders to adhere to a code of conduct based on sound ethical principles?

Or has the nation sunk to the level that we must expect our leaders to disregard the laws God and the laws of the land?

Or should our laws be made more lax?

Changing Code

Is the state of Connecticut right in recognizing the looseness of moral behavior in this generation by radically altering its laws against immoral conduct?

A special commission of the Connecticut general assembly studied the state's laws in this area and recommended that sexual activity between two consenting adults of normal mental competency be considered "no business of the criminal law."

The revised, relaxed law—signed by Gov. John Dempsey last month—will go into effect in October, 1971.

But the question is: Is this progress—or is it a sign of deterioration?

Serious Questions

In the Kennedy case, not only the question of possible immoral conduct between the senator and the secretary persists, but also the question of whether the truth has been told, along with the admission that a girl was killed and that her body was allowed to lie in the wrecked, partially submerged car for hours—while the senator went away and slept.

His defense is that he was in a state of shock. But what about his two companions—Gargan and Markham? Were they in a state of shock, too? Or what explanation do they have for their failure to notify the authorities that a fatal accident had occurred and that the body of the victim was still lying in the wrecked car, hours later?

Have we now come to the place in this country that this kind of conduct can be condoned?

As the moral level of the nation sinks lower and lower, it is probably to be expected that actions that were thought incredible in other times will be considered acceptable—or, at least, excusable.

But the Bible says that there is a time coming when "there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known."

Our standards of permissible conduct may have changed.

But have God's?

Individuals and nations rise or fall as they obey or disobey the commands of the Supreme Ruler.

Princess Laura Bennoeville of Tacoma's Wilson High has managed a lot of recreation along with a parttime job in a department store. She rode in the July 4th Yakima Sunfair parade along with Juli Vraves and Queen Linda. The following day all three of the girls rode in another parade in Port Orchard.

Larua joined four of the other princesses to welcome soldiers home from Viet Nam on July 8th. Then she was off again to take part in the Olympia Lakefair parade. A "little tennis" and making plans for college rounded out her summer.

Eight court members and their dates had a picnic at Owens Beach in Tacoma and the girls have planned a few other get-togethers before they go their separate ways in the fall.

WOMEN'S WORLD

the Second Forty

by Margaret Brookfield

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

Sex at Fifty

Dear Miss Brookfield:
My husband is over 60 and I am 53. Would you believe that, at my age, I have a sex problem? Well, I do. Even the thought of sex gives me hot flashes and a throbbing headache. My husband enjoys sex as much as ever. He is retired and around the house. He is driving me out of my mind. What can I do?

A.E., Oklahoma City.

Dear A.E.:
If your attitude toward sex is of recent origin, we would suggest you discuss the problem with your physician. Before and after the menopause, many women complain that they are not "in the mood" for sex. There are a variety of reasons for this. But for many women, a deficiency of the hormone, estrogen, with the onset of menopause, cause physical discomfort during sexual relations. And this affects a woman's attitude toward sex. If estrogen deficiency is the cause of your problem, your physician can correct the hormonal imbalance with estrogen replacement therapy.

Pen Pals

Dear Miss Brookfield:
I read the letter from the lady seeking pen pals. I believe she would enjoy the magazines published by Tower Press, Inc., P.O. Box 412, Danvers, Mass. These magazines publish letters from all over the world, from busy working women and lonely ladies with time on their hands. There are even letters from men. Some of the magazines are on sale at newsstands and include: Popular Needlework, Aunt Jane's Sewing Circle, Stitch 'n Sew, Good Old Days, and Woman's Comfort. Just reading all the letters in these publications is enough to keep you busy. One letter can get as many as 800 replies — at least, that's what some of the women say. Every issue has women asking that mail be withheld for awhile, as they are swamped. This should keep your reader busy and help her to make new friends. I really enjoy your column and read it every time it is published.

V.R., Elkhart, Ind.

Dear V.F.:

Thank you for passing on the suggestion for acquiring pen pals. Eight hundred letters should keep even the loneliest woman busy for quite a while.

Troubled Marriage

Dear Miss Brookfield:

I am 19 and have been married a year. My husband works days and I work nights. But when we are both free, he takes off and leaves me alone. If I ask him where he goes or whom he was with, we start an argument. Is a wife just supposed to sit home and wait for her husband and not ask questions? I've lost trust in him. Please tell me what to do.

M.J., Cleveland, Tex.

Dear M.J.:

No, it is not usual for a wife to sit home while her husband constantly leaves her behind without any explanation. If attempts to discuss this problem reasonably with your husband have failed, as you say, then we would suggest that you talk to someone who can not only advise you but can discuss the problem with your husband, too. You might contact your Family Service Association or your clergyman.

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Generation Conflicts

By Alison Goddard

New York (MW) — What is a mature woman?

Ask the experts and they see her generation as a mid-20th Century phenomenon because she enjoys a longer life, much better health and more leisure time than her mother or grandmother did. Others call her a pioneer because she is searching — often successfully — for solutions to problems no generation of women ever faced before.

Ask a mature woman the same question, however, and she is apt to seem confused about herself or her domestic, social and economic world.

The mature woman enters what one social scientist calls "The Stormy Forties" — a period of crises, some old and clouded by old wives' tales, but many new. Her world has changed drastically since her mother's day: changes in her family and home life, work life, sex life and changes in attitudes and behavior.

The Individual Woman

The mature woman is neither young nor old; she's usually in her forties or fifties. But she is admonished, on the one hand, to: "Act your age," and on the other, to slim down, color her gray hairs and erase her wrinkles. Her middle years are the start of a new life pattern, but she is inclined to view them as an end. She has been conditioned to think that these years mark the end of her femininity and sexuality and her role as a parent. Even biologically her reason for being seems to be at an end — for the menopause, marking the close of her era of fertility, is casting its passing shadow.

On the domestic and social scene, she is caught in the middle between the burgeoning population of senior citizens and the rebellious young who monopolize headlines, fashions and fads. If she has surviving parents, she is further confused by finding herself in a reversal of the roles of parents and child.

The Past

The world of the modern mature woman — whether married, widowed, divorced or single — has changed radically over the past fifty years. At the turn of the century a woman in her middle forties was moving toward the end of her life. In those days of stronger family units she lived surrounded by the security of uncles, aunts and cousins residing close by. Everyone's role, duties, rights and privileges were clear-cut: the husband was the breadwinner, the wife a mother and homemaker, the children were "seen but not heard." Women were taught that "good women are sexless" and, if they lived long enough, they approached the menopause with forebodings.

The "Transition"

Because today's women are conditioned by these attitudes, Dr. Jessie Bernard, sociologist and author, calls this group "The transitional generation." No longer does the woman live near relatives. Her children, too, are likely to leave home sooner. Her role has changed: she can be a mother, a working mother, or a mature woman starting a second career with the help of adult education programs. She is better educated and in better health: at 40 she can look forward to almost another forty years of life; if she is married, half of her married life is still ahead. She approaches the menopause knowing that medical science can provide her body with hormonal balance to ease menopausal complaints. And she also knows that studies of her age group show that it contains some of the most sexually active females.

The Future

Social scientists have long ignored mature women as a subject for study. Lately, however, her body, personality, family, social and economic life are being investigated. The findings are many and include: personality changes in the middle years, menopausal sal problems, the downward trend in marital unhappiness, the rise in divorces, the contribution of women to the labor market, the "empty nest syndrome."

One authority has called these years "The Stormy Forties" but points out that if women can weather the crises of this period they can look forward to entering "The Serene Fifties."

to Senators Warren G. Magnusen and Henry M. Jackson to attend. Congressman Floyd Hicks is acting as Honorary Picnic chairman.

Special honors will also be presented this year to retired County Commissioner Harry Sprinker and to Hulda Ramser of the 27th District. Both will receive Life Memberships in the Democratic Party.

A 50 cent ticket entitles those present to participate in all games, drawings and contests for young and old. It also entitles the holder to a "free" Spaghetti Dinner, free pop, popcorn and coffee. Tickets are now available at District and County Party Headquarters or from your Democratic precinct committee men and women.

All picnic areas at Spanaway Park together with the baseball fields have been secured for this event.

Bethel Cheerleaders Earn Recognition

Fall and the opening of school will begin only after much preparation by many different groups. Athletes have been turning out for many days by now. Conditioning programs have begun already to harden summer-soft muscles and hone decision-making to a fine edge. The teams will be built later by the coaches, but the foundation work is under way in semi-official programs in most districts across the state.

At least one group of high school participants has been hard at work all summer. The cheerleaders from all over the state have already been engaged in two major workshops; one at UPS and one at CWSC at Ellensburg. At both conferences a local yell staff earned statewide recognition for their precision and teamwork.

Bethel's cheerleaders have collected both first and second place ribbons and a Grand Championship. The Grand Championship comes as a week of hard fought competition at the University of Puget Sound evaluated uniformity, technique, cooperation, general appearance, dedication to practice, pride in school, personality, poise and spirit.

The first and second place scores came at Ellensburg in competition similar to that at the University of Puget Sound but with 600 competitors.

The competitions were organized and managed by the International Cheerleading Foundations and the National Cheerleading Association. Both groups are composed of members interested in promoting the position of pep staffs within the school process as vital and significant parts of forming school spirit and cooperation.

The Bethel Staff for the 1969-70 school year consists of: 15 year old Jill Doyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doyle of Spanaway; 15 year old Joan Enslow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Enslow of Spanaway; 16 year old Shelley Asplund, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pavlich of Spanaway; 17 year old Karen O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woodward of Spanaway; 17 year old Wendy Staab, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Staab of Spanaway.

QUESTION: IS IT BETTER
TO BE A PROPHET OR TO EARN ONE?

It probably depends on what kind of a person you are.

Some people get quite a kick out of trying to "outguess" the market.

Countless others, however, have found it much easier to save the safe way here at Citizens. They've found they like earning as much.....if not more.....than most blue chip stocks.

And with complete safety. They also enjoy having their money right here at home. Helping to build a bigger and better community. And close at hand when they need it most. Why don't you begin doing the same.

Rural Fires Expensive

Fires on farms cause three to six times more damage per fire than city fires, the Insurance Information Institute reports.

Isolation, lack of fire-fighting equipment, less rigid wiring and construction standards and, sometimes, poor heating facilities, were listed as the major reasons why a rural fire usually results in greater loss than an urban fire.

Based on United States Department of Agriculture statistics, annual farm fire losses have increased from $82 million in 1943 to well over $200 million in recent years. Fire or lightning strikes 2 out of every 100 farms in the United States each year.

Bethel Issues Football Gear

Coach Ed Tingstad announces that equipment will be issued to the Bethel High School football team August 26 from 8:00 a.m. to 12 noon.

To draw equipment, those turning out should have the following: completed his physical, insurance and parent's permission, $1.00 for mouth protector, a lock for his locker. The first turnout will be August 27 beginning at 7:30 a.m.

Christmas Tree Directory Inked

Robert F. Bradley Just off the press is the new "1969 Christmas Tree Directory" which lists nearly all of the growers, wholesalers and retailers in Oregon and Washington involved with this yuletide harvest. If you are part of this great seasonal activity, you will want copy of this free-for-the asking bulletin.

Some 1,421,000 trees in the two-state area are listed for sale by growers, 75 percent of which come from our own state of Washington. Consult this bulletin for a detailed list of growers and buyers and Xor species available by county and city.

It is interesting to note that 83 percent of the trees sold are Douglas-fir, 7 percent true firs, 8 percent pines and 2 percent other coniferous species. Another interesting fact is that almost 40 percent—37 percent to be exact—of the trees are of high quality resulting from various cultural practices, such as pruning and shearing. This was not true a few years ago.

If you are interested in either buying or selling Christmas trees this bulletin will tell you where to go as (from title) it lists nearly every person or company involved in some phase of the business. Furthermore, if you would like personal advice on how to establish a plantation, or how to develop high quality trees, in either a plantation or natural situation, contact me at your County Extension Office, 742 County-City Building, Tacoma, Washington 98402.

Nile Circus Coming To Seattle Center Coliseum

If you've been experiencing an unusually strong craving for hot dogs, cotton candy and pink lemonade, take heart! The Circus will be here soon! The all-new, super spectacular 1969 edition of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus is heading for Seattle! The Greatest Show on Earth, presented by Nile Temple, will play 12 thrilling performances at the Seattle Center Coliseum . . . Wednesday, September 10 through Monday, September 15.

More than 20 smashing new acts make their American debuts this year—the most first-time-in-America performers since 1934. This 1969 mammoth Circus is staged and directed by Richard Barstow, with the entire production under the personal supervision of Circus president Irvin Feld.

Featured in the 1969 edition of The Greatest Show On Earth is a gathering of the world's outstanding circus performers, including: the world's famous tiger trainer, the intrepid Charly Baumann, presenting the largest group of performing tigers in the world today; the internationally acclaimed horseback-riding tiger, presented by beautiful, blonde Evy Althoff, from Germany's famed Circus Althoff; from Ireland, the greatest performing dogs in the circus world, presented by the famous Stephenson family.

A host of international circus performers make their American debuts in the 99th edition of The Greatest Show on Earth. Among them: Naidenov, Europe's famed hand-balancing wonder; Hungary's exciting Donnert bareback riding family; the Koleks and their sensational acrobatics on horseback; the Flying Oslers, South Africa's delightful comedy flying trapeze performers.

Also, Europe's most acclaimed juggler, the dynamic Bela Kremos; the famed Bumbach balancing family; and two teams of terrific teeterboard terrors, the Hortobagyi and Malevolti.

Two of the world's most sensational high-wire acts are spotlighted in the Circus: Doval the Great, America's unbelievably dauntless and daring mid-air performer, and Monique and Guzman, sending chills down the spines of the audience with their dangerous and dazzling high-wire acrobatics — on a motorcycle!

Making his Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey debut this season is young Elvin Bale, just back from a sensational Russian tour. Bale presents one of the most exciting high-trapeze acts in circus history. Sharing the mid-air spotlight is lovely Chrys Holt, the young lady who juggles while suspended from the ceiling by her hair! (Yes, a hair-raising sensation!)

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey's famed tradition for outstanding spectacular production numbers is continued and enhanced this season as five brand new spectacles unfold for Children of All Ages. Among them is a brilliant aerial spectacle, "Winter Wonderland" and a mad, mod romp with elephants and pretty girls called "Carnaby Street."

More excitement in the 99th edition: the acclaimed dressage riding of Franz Althoff and Lillemor Moller; the sensational flying trapeze stars, the Gibsons; Nagana's internationally acclaimed canine revue; the camels, llamas and ponies of Ethel Joyce; three rings of aristocratic liberty horses in precision drill; the lovely Sara Chapman, high priestess of the high trapeze; the fantastic Sitkiewicz and his death-de-

Child Rearing Ideas Vary

New York (NAPS)—Ways of rearing children vary widely over the world, and the experiences of their childhood effect greatly the kind of people children grow up to be.

For instance, the girl children of the Mundugumor tribe in New Guinea are not treated with the care and tenderness which we feel is every small child's right. Instead, as infants they are placed in crude straw baskets that scratch their skin; when hungry they are left to howl until tired before their mothers feed them; and in many other ways they are systematically frustrated throughout their young lives, until by the time a Mundugumorian girl reaches the age of marriage she has become a mean-tempered shrew, the ideal bride of the bachelor of the tribe.

Only a few miles away, parents of the Arapesh tribe treat their children quite differently. The tribe deems it a tragedy when a child cries. Here children are never punished, and they are denied nothing, except freedom to hurt other children. Relatives and other members of the tribe join in the pampering, and all through their childhood these boys and girls are loved and "spoiled." What kind of people do they grow up to be? Not mean-tempered like the Mundugumorian girls, but gentle and easy-going like their own kindly parents.

Interestingly, when a baby is born, the Ashanti village in Ghana remains quiet. For two weeks there is no flurry, no indication that anything at all unusual has taken place. But on the 14th day, if all has gone well, a proud father may be seen walking from house-to-house in the village carrying lying dive for life; the amusing monkey-shines of the Kon-yot and Antanucci chimpanzees and three herds of performing elephants, under the direction of the famed trainer, Hugo Schmitt.

There's more: 25 of world's funniest clowns; the Chari Vari, a rollicking cavalcade of acrobats and tumblers; and a preshow concert on The Greatest Show on Earth's concert callope.

GI Education Checks

The Veterans Administration is as anxious as the veteran to have G.I. education checks arrive on time this fall. John B. Kirsch, Manager of the Seattle VA Regional Office, said today.

Judging from experience going back a quarter of a century through three G.I. Bills, Kirsch says the number of delays would be reduced drastically if veterans and schools did their part of the required paperwork...and did it on time.

If the veteran who was in college last semester followed instructions and returned his Certification of Attendance at the end of the last term, he has nothing more to do before his checks start arriving this fall, assuming the college registrar follows through and promptly returns the completed enrollment certifications to the VA.

If the veteran did not return his Certification of Attendance, he should do so immediately to reduce the period of delay. If the certification is lost, the veteran should contact the VA office that issued it to him.

Veterans enrolling for the first time — or who have chaged college or program — must be certain:

1. They have obtained a proper Certificate of Eligibility from the Veterans Administration.

2. They have submitted this Certificate to the college registrar.

3. The College registrar returned the completed certificate to the VA.

Normally, payment for September and October is combined in the first check mailed to veterans in November.
