With JACK BROWN

Well, the dust has hardly settled over the Parkland Rodeo Grounds and yet someone's darling little demons have undone a month's hard work by many to rebuild the grounds so that a rodeo could be held to raise funds to further improve the grounds for the recreational enoyment of our children. It's heartbreaking for the people who worked so hard to find that the very ones they are working for are tearing down as fast as they construct, onsidering the fact that many of these folks have no children of their own of the generation that could enjoy the facilities there.

Perhaps you'll criticise me for using the word "demons." Frankly I'd like to use stronger language. Let me describe a scene to you as of Wednesday night, three days after the Round-Up. I went down to the grounds to pick up a borrowed grill from the food booth to return it. When I got there I didn't have to open the door. It had been busted open. There are two sets of toilets within 75 ft. of the food booth, yet some youngster had elected to use the food booth doorway as a bathroom. Inside I found all porcelain light fixtures broken, apparently with a large rock which was lying on the floor. All wires were pulled loose and grease from a can left in the booth had been smeared over the floor and walls. The place was a

Perhaps you'll think I'm bitter about This. You're right. I am. I'm one of the many who have devoted hundreds of hours of work and a good many dollars to help build the rodeo grounds and park area. My only hope is that someone will read this, put two and two together and figure that it could have been their little dear and straighten him out with a willow stick — I hope.
