APARTMENT FIRE. An early morning blaze that gutted the upper floor of the Bombardy Apartments, Route 1, Box 1081, Spanaway, Monday morning sent two occupants to St. Joseph's Hospital. Both were severely cut when they broke a window to escape the fire. The residents, who recently arrived from Italy, lost everything they owned in the flames. Exact cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

Clean-up Leaders Named By P.D.A.

Chairmen to head the various committees of the Seventh Annual Parkland Clean-up Drive have been announced by the Parkland Development Association, sponsor of the community event.

John Hartsell will take over the duties of general chairman, and will be assisted by Al McManis. Ray Mangus will coordinate operations, and heading the committee to solicit organizational support will be Joe Bisby. Recruiting committee chairman is Henry Hetle, and supervising block chairman will be Bud Larson. Rounding up equipment will be among the duties assigned Harold LeMay. Other chairmen include: Lawrence Armstrong, publicity; Gail Evans, junk cars; and Curt Roberts, County participation.

Parkland Development Association president Harold LeMay predicts the most successful clean-up ever due to a more environmental conscious public. The drive will be held April 25 through May 3.

Parkland Sewers Pending Negotiations With SSSD.

The legality of whether or not debts incurred by the South Suburban Sewer District should be borne by the county seems to be the "hang up" in proceeding with sewers in the Parkland area, County Commissioner Wallace Ramsdell told the Journal last week.

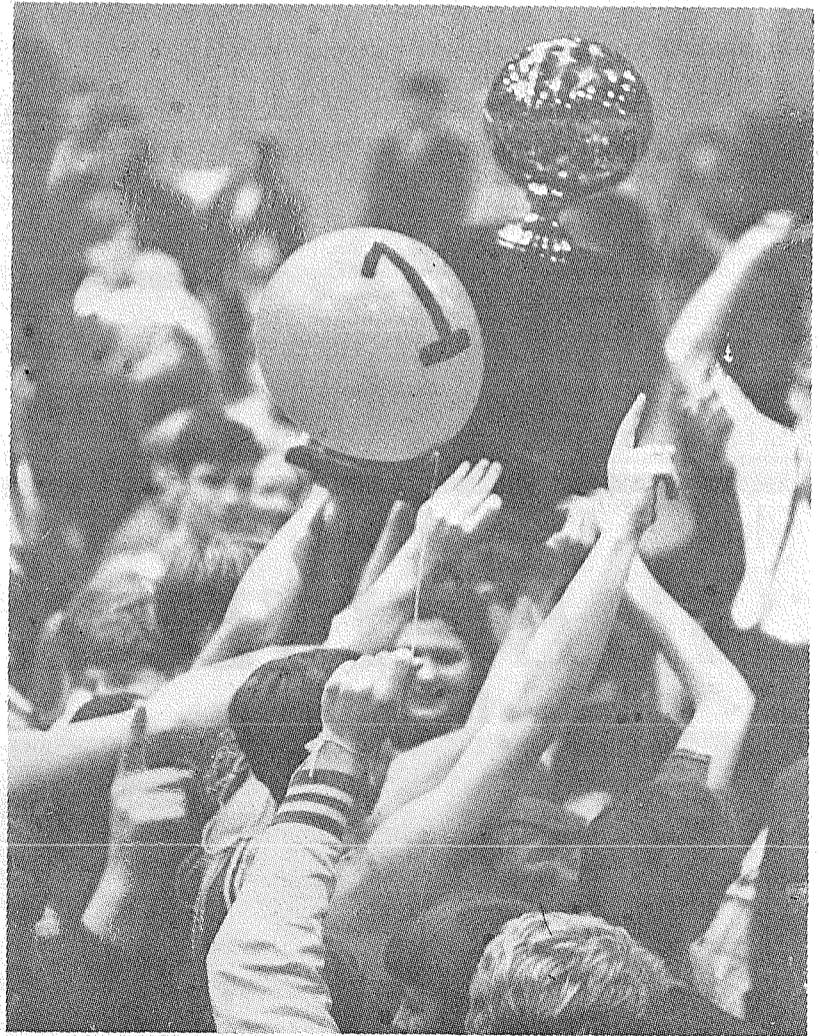

The agreement with the South Suburban Sewer District is still not completely resolved, the Commissioner stated, and pointed out that such an agreement is necessary to settle possible jurisdiction problems at a later date. If the issue was taken to court it could hold up sewer installation for some time, he said.

"Nothing in the law says that we have to pay the South Suburban Sewer District bills," Ramsdell said and revealed that most of the money owed was engineering fees due Harstad and Associates. In questioning Harstad's bill, the Commissioner said he was curious to know if the amount was limited only to the South Suburban Sewer District or if it included engineering work done earlier for the old Parkland Sewer District. Harstad did engineering for the Parkland Sewer District in 1960, and the Commissioner said he understood the work was done on the basis that if sewers were approved, Harstad would be paid. When the South Suburban Sewer District was formed, a different type of contract was drawn up, he said.

Some of Harstad's work was utilized by Kennedy Engineering, Ramsdell stated, cut said he didn't know just how much. He also added that he did not know if the information was given voluntarily to Kennedy, and if it is to be paid for, whether it should be Kennedy or the county.

Since the Parkland sewer program is held up until the problem is resolved, Ramsdell said, "I am available to meet any hour of the day or night to find an equitable solution." He stated that to the best of his knowledge there is nothing on the calendar for the next few weeks.

Daffodil Festival To Move?

Chairman Chris Anthemum of the National Flower Festival League today shocked Puyallup Valley Daffodil Festival fans with the announcement that Tacoma's streets would have to be widened if the city hopes to retain the grand floral parade.

"Tacoma streets are from eight to ten inches narrower than minimum league standards," Anthemum said. "We don't care how you do it ... dynamite, bulldozers, whatever ... but we fully expect a major league city like Tacoma to comply to our reasonable regulations."

Rumors have been flying that the Daffodil Festival, a fixture in Tacoma and the Puyallup Valley for 37 years, may be transferred to Milwaukee, Houston or Tukwila.

Festival President A. R. Wingard of Tacoma denied the rumors today as he was emerging from a day-long meeting with would-be festival backers from Milwaukee, Houston and Tukwila.

Festival Program Announced

A barbershop quartet, a military male chorus and a pretty accordionist will provide a variety of entertainment at the 1970 Daffodil Festival's Queen Coronation April 6 at Olson Auditorium on the Pacific Lutheran University campus.

Mary Smith, a sophomore music major at the University of Puget Sound, plays clarinet and piano, in addition to her principal instrument.

She has won top honors in the Northwest Accordion Competitions and has placed second nationally. She was chosen in 1967 by the Spokane Music Festival to represent the accordion in the final concert of young artists.

Miss Smith has appeared on TV commercials and has entertained on Spokane TV for five years.

The Fort Lewis Soldiers' Chorus was organized in September, 1969, for the purpose of promoting morale and troop entertainment.

This popular group has grown from 17 voices and a repertoire of three songs to 33 voices and 30 songs.

Musical selections sung by the soldiers include a generous portion of military and patriotic numbers, but popular tunes, show tunes and spirituals are also part of their offerings.

STARK REALITY

Students Applauded For Sportsmanship

By Herb Stark

The 1969-1970 high school basketball season ended last week with the AA and AAA tournaments held respectively at the University of Puget Sound and the University of Washington.

Basketball has always demanded great physical strength and stamina on the part of the athlete, but only in the last 10 years has the finesse of the game, brought on by rule changes, required greater skill on the part of the spectator to enjoy the fascinating triumphs.

The spectator, being challenged by the artistry of the game, is also harassed by opposition rooters. It all adds to the excitement, sheer noise, and tension of the competition.

Despite the high-level partisan enthusiasm that builds to an all-out emotional high with a school victory, or plummets to deep despair in defeat, an observer cannot help but admire the conduct of students both on the floor and in the stands.

The news media has tended to spotlight lawlessness of the few until youth as a group have been labeled with the image of being trouble-prone. However, close examination of the facts proves otherwise. Our authorities tell us that in Pierce County, only 1500 youngsters out of an estimated 100,000 warrant such a billing.

The rest of the young people? Well, they are busy participating in their school activities or sports without causing incidents or law enforcement problems, and apparently enjoying every minute of being young. You don't believe it? Then why not attend a high school basketball tournament and join the fun of seeing youth in action, and constructive action at that!

Spring Cleaning Need At University of Wash.

State Senator Charles Newschwander and Representative Helmut Juelling, both of Pierce County, offered some long overdue criticisms of higher education recently while commenting on the University of Washington campus violence.

Juelling pointed out that Washington State taxpayers will spend $143 million for support of the University of Washington alone during this biennium, and for that kind of money, they expect college administrators to keep order. The Pierce County legislator during a March 11 talk to the Republic Luncheon Club warned the University administration to display more backbone.

Then one week later before the same group, Senator Newschwander revealed that taxpayers subsidize each University of Washington student at cost of about $4,000 per year. Nothing that 32,000 students at the U of W campus are being taught by 2,500 professors and 10,000 other people on the payroll, he said, "We've spent nothing but money for education, and at the same time education has been failing us."

During his talk, the senator referred to a professor employed by the University who demonstrated in front of the federal courthouse earlier this month. This professor came from San Francisco State "and he was a trouble-maker there before we hired him," Newschwander said.

Rep. Juelling questioned why the "administration feels it must knuckle under to demands made by a small group of hoodlums who are communist-oriented and aren't even related to education." He went on to explain that in California, administrators "took the rascals by the back of the neck and the seat of the pants and threw them out. Then they had peace," he said.

Maybe the administration at the University of Washington will heed the advice offered by these legislators. But if they failed to detect the message, perhaps a reduction in the state support would produce a little action.

The University of Washington, according to Juelling's figures, will receive more than one third of the entire state budget for higher education. Considering the number of State two and four year colleges, it would appear that the U of W is getting a "lion's share" of the funds. In his talk, Juelling noted that the state budget calls for more than $380 million for higher education.

We believe a legislative investigation into the University of Washington and its administrative problems is warranted. When one institution saps as much of the state higher education budget as does the U of W, we think the taxpayers should make their demands heard when the best interests of our state are compromised.

We would also urge the University's board of regents to exercise greater responsibility in working with the school's administration. The time has come Mr. Regent to stand up and be counted.

Times Journal Moves

The Times Journal moved into new offices today at 409 Garfield Street South in Parkland.

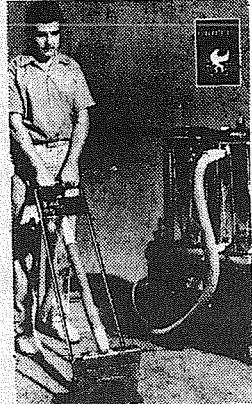

For years the Journal has operated at 146th and Pacific

Avenue, and at one time, was printed there. In recent years printing has been accomplished at an ultra-modern plant in King County.

During the past four years publishers of the paper have leased space in the old building, sharing offices with two other businesses. Recent growth of the paper has necessitated the move to larger quarters.

With the move comes a new telephone number. To place advertising or call in a news story the number will be LE 1-8885.

Rich Have Been Soaked

by Paul Harvey

Here comes a cry not heard in our streets since the 1930s: "Soak the rich, share the wealth."

The demonstrators' protestations heard lately in New York City included an obscenity but the message was the same: the have-nots want what the haves have and if they have it, they say, they'll seize it.

In our country they already have to. Last December, when the re-elected President Marcos of the Philippines was sworn into office, he made an announcement which caused a lot of world leaders to swallow their portable dentures.

At that ceremony, which was further spotlighted by the presence of our Vice President Agnew, President Marcos announced that he would "give away all his worldly possessions" to the Filipino people, thus to set an example of self-sacrifice.

He said he'd talked it over with his wife, Imelda, and she agreed — fully supported his decision — to give away all their worldly possessions "so that they may serve the greater needs of the greatest number of people."

Immediately upon hearing that utterance, you and I forecast the inevitability that the world's self-appointed Robin Hoods are likely to start demanding that all wealthy families give their money away to the poor "as reparations for years of deprivation," or some such. Sure enough, we've heard to that effect from at least a fraction of the New Left.

Do you know the background of President Marcos' dramatic gesture?

In the mostly poor Philippines there still are some rich so rich that they can keep agrarian armies in peonage. Recently there has been a rising chorus of prominent intellectuals in that country urging revolution — violent revolution, if necessary — to accomplish land reform to break up some of those vast plantations.

President Marcos was responding to and seeking to sidetrack this bloody exigency by giving away his own worldly goods and by suggesting that others of his wealthy countrymen do likewise.

The Marcos estate will be placed in a foundation, to be spent "to advance the cause of education, science, technology and the arts."

Today's demand that our country's family fortunes be broken up is 40 years outdated. Estate-tax laws have long since either dissolved most big-big private estates or forced those resources into foundations similar to that which President Marcos has prescribed for his own. Any North American today who demands what he "wants" instead of what he "deserves" is undeserving.

There are many nations in the world, however, notably in Latin America, where individuals and individual families have accumulated such vast resources that they are themselves virtually "above the law." If the Marcos gesture should start a chain reaction through Latin America it might afford a better reaction than the revolutions which so frequently plague those nations and inhibit their progress.

Insomnia Problem

Dear Miss Brookfield:
I never seem to get sleepy and can only fall asleep with the aid of pills, prescribed by the doctor. He will not, however, keep me supplied continuously. Have you any suggestions or remedies? I cannot take walks. I am 75.

D.A., Hawthorne, N.J.
Dear D.A.:

Many people seem to think that everyone requires eight hours of sleep nightly, but this isn't so. Some require more, others less. But as we grow older, more rest is necessary. An afternoon nap or, if you cannot sleep, an hour of complete physical inactivity will be beneficial.

Your doctor is the best source for help and advice because insomnia stems from different causes. Among the most common ones are anxiety, excitement, annoyance or excessive mental stimulation before bedtime. Also: drinking large quantities of fluids, coffee or other stimulants before retiring tends to retard sleep.

The atmosphere in the bedroom can also lead to insomnia, particularly if there is too much noise or if the temperature or humidity is improperly adjusted. Some air circulation is necessary. This does not mean that the windows have to be thrown wide open or that a direct flow of air is always essential. There are many ways of achieving indirect ventilation.

Once these stimulating and irritating conditions are eliminated, you might try a warm bath and a warm glass of milk, both of which are helpful in relieving insomnia.

A Job at 60

Dear Miss Brookfield:
Where can an intelligent, honest widow of 60 find a job? Although I look younger than my years, whenever I file an application I am never hired. If I lie about my age, the years I obtained degrees are questioned. (I am too old to renew my nursing degree, but a few years ago I became a chiropractor.) I have applied to the Teachers Corps and the Peace Corps but was placed on the waiting list. I would like to work with retarded children. I am active. I swim, play tennis, jog, bicycle, hike, camp, hunt, bowl, fish, roller skate, garden, travel, farm and read. I like boating. I also do carpentry work. I saw, hammer and build houses. I have a great zest for life. I would rather wear out than rust out. Any suggestions?

D.F., Covington, Ga.
Dear D.F.:

Yes, but give us time to catch our breath. We're worn out just reading your list of achievements and activities. We doubt that you'll ever "rust out." While we can't guarantee success, we do have a few suggestions.

Contact the National Association of Retarded Children (which may be listed under a different title in your state); talk to a senior counselor at the state employment office (perhaps with your experience you can find employment in an allied nursing or medical field); and also arrange an interview at the Department of Continuing Education for Women at the University of Georgia. Good luck!

Quiet Husband

Dear Miss Brookfield:

What can one do about a husband who hardly ever talks? If I try to start a conversation, he grunts a "yes" or "no" but that's about it. He is not a great conversationalist but he does talk when we're with friends. To them, not to me. I have no other complaints except this, but I certainly am not looking forward to the day when the children are married and we are alone. Can you advise me?

G.M., Cleveland, Tex.
Dear G.M.:

Undoubtedly, communications between you did not break down overnight. Why not try having a long talk with him — even if all you get are monosyllabic replies. Try to find out what's bothering him instead of airing your

The Spanaway Lady Lions will sponsor an Easter egg hunt again this year for children of the Spanaway area, pre-school through sixth grade. The hunt will begin at ten o'clock Saturday morning, March 28 at the playground area in Spanaway Park.

Children will hunt in groups — pre-schoolers in one group, grades one through three in another group, and grades four through six in another group.

Last year's hunt was a big success, and there will be even more eggs this year in anticipation of a bigger turnout. Men from the Spanaway Lions Club will again be assisting with supervision of the children, so that all will have a chance to find plenty of eggs. There will be prizes for winners in each group.

Signs will direct hunters to their areas. Each child should bring his own container, and remember that paper sacks tear when wet!

Open Space Land Act Explained

By Robert F. Bradley, County Extension Forester

In the final hours of the 1970 Special Session of our State Legislature, House Bill 26, dealing with "open space land," was passed by both Houses and became law. The details of this bill involve some eight legal-sized, double-spaced, type-written pages.

Briefly, its purpose is to conserve adequate open space lands for the production of food, fiber and forest crops and for the enjoyment of natural and scenic beauty for all of us. The intent of the bill is also to provide assessment practices which will permit the continued availability of open space lands for these purposes.

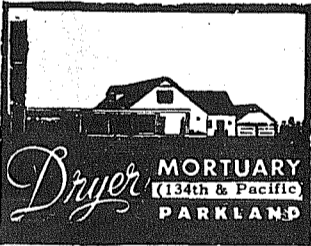

Who may qualify for these preferential assessment practices?

"Open space land" means any land so designated by an official comprehensive land use plan or certain other lands having specific aesthetic, recreational, conservation, or historic values described in the law.

"Farm and agricultural land" may qualify if (a) in contiguous ownership of twenty or more acres devoted primarily to agriculture; or (b) if five acres or more but less than twenty acres with an average agricultural gross income per acre per year of $100 or more; or (c) if less than five acres with an average agricultural gross income per acre per year of $1,000 or more. Agricultural lands also include farm woodlots of the size described under (b).

"Timber land" qualifications are essentially the same as (a) except that the primary purpose is for the growth and harvest of forest crops.

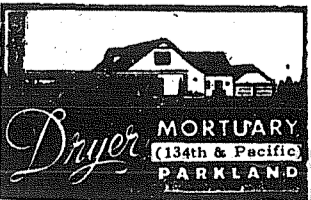

The law is set up to go into effect on January 1, 1971, with applications to be made through the County Assessor. In actuality, however, these things cannot logically take place until county governments have had a chance to work out policies, procedures and facilities necessary to handle this law. Look to this column and paper for future developments in this field.

Dean Named By FSCC Board

John Martinson was named Associated Dean of Guidance for Fort Steilacoom Community College by the College's Board of Trustees in Monday night meeting.

Martinson, who previously held the titles of Director of Counseling and Advising and Director of Guidance at the College, was awarded the associate dean status to make his administrative position and corresponding job description commensurate with similar dean positions throughout the College and the State.

Martinson came to Fort Steilacoom in July of 1968 after completion of his Master's program at California State College at Los Angeles. He was previously in a counseling position at Everett Community College and prior to that with Everett Public Schools.

In other Board of Trustee action, a package $10.00 graduation fee was authorized to consolidate separate fees for cap and gown rental, diploma costs, and other related graduation costs.

The Board also approved a contract with the Franklin Pierce School District authorizing the District to conduct adult education classes on behalf of Fort Steilacoom Community College.

Other Board action included the recognition of the Fort Steilacoom Community College Faculty Senate as a formal faculty organization in the College. They delayed action for calling an election for a group to represent the faculty in future negotiations until questions regarding who could vote in the election could be answered by the State Attorney General's Office.

The Board of Trustees also approved of a $1350 stipend to be awarded to the school's four Division Chariman for the year 1969-70.

The Board also heard reports regarding progress on the campus site lease, the budget, District 11 planning, and President Marion O. Oppel's recent attendance at the American Association for Junior Colleges Convention held in Hawaii recently.

Bethel School Board
March 17th the school board held two meetings - one at 2 p.m. at the office of the county treasurer, where we received bids and accepted the low bid on bonds for new schools and additions to schools, and our regular meeting which was held at 8 p.m. the same evening.

One highlight of our regular meeting was a report from Mr. Fossen, who is in charge of special education for the district, in which he stated that the state would be participating in a special pre-vocational work experience program at the high school. This sounds like it would be a welcome addition to our vocational program and we all hope that it will come to pass.

Another highlight was the hiring of Mr. Karl Bond as principal of the new junior-high school. Mr. Bond comes from Avondale, Arizona, is 39 years old, married and has three children. He was the most qualified of approximately eleven applicants for this position and should be a credit to the district.

We again discussed the growing pains that we are suffering in this area and I, for one, am awed by the magnitude of the projected growth rate. At times it is difficult for us, as individual citizens of the Bethel district, to divorce ourselves from the concept of dealing with individual schools and to look instead at the district as a whole, but it is our fervent prayer that we will be able to do this in the difficult period of growth facing us.

Daffodil Festival Future May Be Without Daffodils

A Puyallup Valley bulb grower answered criticism of the Puyallup Valley Daffodil Festival's future plans by saying that bulb growers will have moved out of the fertile valley "within the next decade."

"This does not mean we will vanish into smoke," said E.G. (Ozzie) Williams, bulb growers' representative on the festival's board of directors.

Williams pointed out that pressure on use of the valley land has already reduced the number of growers there to less than a dozen. He said that growers would be forced eventually to move to other areas of Western Washington but that "we will continue to support the festival."

When the festival was begun in the 1930's, one of the primary purposes was to promote the sale of bulbs. The festival and the bulb industry both have undergone dramatic changes since then. Development of the cut flower market has changed the economy of the industry and population pressures are having a continuing effect on the bulb industry and the festival.

"The changes we are looking forward to are a few years in the future," Williams said. "We do not really have a choice, but we are thinking about change in order to keep the festival alive."

Williams pointed out that the King Alfred variety of daffodil, beloved of field watchers and favorite of float builders, was vanishing faster than growers from the valley. In 1960, the entire production of King Alfreds was 20 million, while only 7 million were grown in 1969.

The entire population of the valley in 1969 was 15 million flowers. Each year more and more emphasis is put on the varieties, such as iris, that produce a higher income per acre. "It's like any other business," Williams said. "We produce what the customer wants, and we have to look at such aspects as return per acre."

With the change in emphasis of the festival, appeal to tourists has become more important. The tourist industry is a growing one in the Puget Sound area. And the growers have more problem finding suitable land for their product than in making sales.

The scope of the festival has gradually widened, Williams said, until it has grown from a small local festival into an event drawing national and even international attention.

"We just put the first shipment of daffodils on an airplane to Expo 70 in Japan," Williams said.

"The daffodil festival has grown up and we have to grow with it or be left behind."

Flower Art Class Forming

Japanese flower arranging is a new class being offered as part of the Franklin Pierce adult education program. The class begins April 1 and will run for 10 weeks, meeting each Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

The class will include the art of Sogetsu flower arranging, using flowers and greenery available in most home gardens. For example, students the first night are expected to bring three flowers, like daffodils or tulips, and three long branches of greens, like cedar, azalea or pussywillow.

Registration for the class, which will meet at Franklin Pierce High School, may be done at the adult education center at 11124 Portland Ave. or at the first class meeting.

Will Morality Be Benefited?

A church-sponsored seminar on morality will have as featured speakers such celebrated experts on the subject as Anson Mount, public affairs director of "Playboy" magazine; Julian Bond, leftist Georgia legislator; and Dr. Joseph Fletcher, advocate of situation ethics, the so-called "new morality."

This has been announced by "The Christian Index," Southern Baptist publication for the state of Georgia, referring to The National Seminar on Morality in Atlanta, March 16-18.

If the desire of the sponsoring group is to have a program which will get attention, it seems that they have achieved at least this part of their purpose.

Qualified Experts

However, to ask these men to speak on morality is akin to asking Adolf Hitler or Ho Chi Minh to speak on the subject of mass murder.

In the time of the apostle Paul, an interesting program on the subject of martyrdom would have been assured if the committee had been able to secure the Emperor Nero as a speaker.

Or, perhaps, bringing the matter down to the present day, for a seminar on illegitimacy one might ask Mia Farrow—who certainly knows something about the subject—to be a speaker.

What worthwhile views can one expect from "Playboy" on morality?

"Playboy's" contempt for Christian morality is well known.

The Bible says, "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them."

Here is what Dr. Fletcher says in his book, "Moral Responsibility": "The Bible clearly affirms sex as a high-order value. . . . There is nothing explicitly forbidding premarital acts."

He also says, "Sex is not always wrong outside marriage, even for Christians."

In another place in the same book, he says, "There are two distinct questions to ask ourselves. One is: Should we prohibit and condemn premarital sex? The other is: Should we approve of it? To the first one I promptly reply in the negative. To the second I propose an equivocal answer, 'Yes and no—depending on each particular situation.'"

"The radical psychic ambivalence of the old discredited antisexual tradition . . ." he declares, "is not gone yet but its cure is well on the way."

"False Teachers"

Dr. Fletcher is professor of Social Ethics at a seminary in Cambridge, Mass. Is he one of the people to whom Peter was referring when he wrote, "There shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies . . . and bring upon themselves swift destruction?"

Peter adds, "And many shall follow their pernicious ways, by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of . . . While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption, for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage."

The views of Mount and Fletcher are well known. Why should a Christian organization provide them an aura of respectability as they disseminate their vile propaganda aimed at destroying morality?

Dr. Hill Touring Far Eastern Cities

Dr. Edward Hill, superintendent of the Franklin Pierce School District, is touring the Far East and in a two week period will visit 5 cities under the State Department's Office of Overseas Schools grant.

He will be putting together a cooperative educational program with foreign schools for the purpose of an eventual exchange. Franklin Pierce teachers, and someday students, will be able to work and study in another part of the country.

Dr. Hill will visit American schools in Tokyo, Taipei, Hong Kong, Bangkok and Vientiane. The State Department's Office of Overseas Schools granted $5,000 to the American School of Vientiane for this program. Franklin Pierce was accepted for this program.

Dr. Hill's basic purpose for this pairing of schools is for the United States to aid the overseas school. Following his trip, Dr. Hill will offer recommendations about how Franklin Pierce can aid the school in improving administrative procedures.

Curriculum materials will be improved and teacher workshops will be conducted, he said. Teachers will be recruited and long-range plans will be made for managing the school by rotating Franklin Pierce personnel. A teacher-student exchange is also in the developing.

The Vientiane school will pay for most of the planning cost from the grant, Dr. Hill said.

Vientiane superintendent Mr. Stan Janowski has met twice with Dr. Hill to plan the program before Dr. Hill makes his trip. The superintendent of the American School in Taipei was also here, but that school is not eligible to receive funds for a future school-to-school program.

The Vientiane school has classes from kindergarten through the tenth grade, with a present enrollment of 480. It is located in the southern part of Laos, 300 miles south of Plain of Jars, the scene of recent Communist activities near the China and North Vietnam borders.

Janowski told Dr. Hill that this part of Laos is relatively safe. Air-America operates a fleet of planes in the area for immediate evacuation of students and teachers, should a problem arise, he said.

Interviews with some of the district personnel have already taken place, Dr. Hill. Students may also have the opportunity to go there to study for a year.

There are several benefits of this school-to-school program, he said. Culture exchanges with a developing country will aid the social studies program, most especially from the Far East.

Franklin Pierce personnel will gain overseas experience without losing the benefits of the district. A greatly expanded interchange program of students is possible with the government paying the tuition for this program.

Studded Tires To Be Forbidden

Studded tires may not be used on motor vehicles driven on Washington state highways between April 1 and November 1 of each year, according to the Washington State Department of Highways.

Studded tires, regardless of the number of metal studs remaining in the tire, cannot be used after April 1, 1970.

The regulations forbidding the use of studded tires apply to all types of vehicles. There are no exceptions.

Motorists throughout the state are asked to cooperate in removing studded tires during the dry season to help prevent damage to the roadway surface of the highway system of the state.

Curbing Highway Vandalism Needs Citizen Support

There was an unwritten law in the Old West that no one damage or destroy a water hole. Those caught were branded as the most despicable of characters and punishment often was severe.

Today's modern rest might be compared to the water hole of yesteryear. They exist along Washington's highways solely for the safety and convenience of travelers.

The modern-day vandals of Washington highway rest areas are no less deplorable or destructive than their earlier counterparts. Litter and vandalism on state highways cost Washington State taxpayers more than $1 million during 1969.

To help curb this expensive destruction, the Washington State Highway Commission, in 1962, authorized a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of vandals guilty of destroying state highway property. In order to encourage more citizens to accept personal responsibility in reporting vandalism, the Automobile Club of Washington and the Inland Automobile Association recently announced a matching $100 reward. Anyone observing incidents involving damage to state property are urged to contact the nearest law enforcement agency or nearest state highway facility to claim the reward.

The staggering cost of vandalism to Washington rest areas is only a part of the story. The inconvenience to normal users of the facilities is a factor that cannot be measured. Occasionally, sections of a rest area must be kept out of service until stolen or damaged parts can be replaced.

With active citizen participation, the State Highways Department can greatly reduce the staggering total now paid out for damage to highway property.

Pulp Makers Observe New Schedules

All eight kraft pulp manufacturers in Washington State have agreed to comply with state air pollution control deadlines ahead of schedule.

The mills thus will observe new and accelerated schedules of compliance with State Air Pollution Control Board orders to reduce their discharge of odorous gases and dust particles into the atmosphere.

Dr. Wallace Lane, State Director of Health and Chairman of the Board, said rulings completed today for each mill will speed up emission controls in almost every category before the 1972 and 1975 deadlines set by the Board last June. The eight mills had presented proposed target dates at a public hearing February 20, and the following week the Board acted on five of them. Today's action completed the compliance schedule for the industry.

Dr. Lane praised the "forward-looking, cooperative attitude" of the state's pulp and paper companies in arriving at the stepped-up timetables, which he said would result in the most advanced air quality control program in the nation for the kraft pulp industry.

He said the industry would spend up to $60 million for new facilities and equipment to control air pollutants within the rigid limits now established, not counting substantial sums spent for recent improvement programs.

"The approved compliance schedules will result in significant advances in the time schedule adopted by the State Board last June," Dr. Lane said. "The 97 per cent reduction from present emissions of gaseous compounds the Board ordered to be effective by July, 1975 will be achieved ahead of schedule by every mill. So will the requirements for 88 per cent cut-backs from the present rate of gas emissions by July, 1972, and a 65 per cent decrease in discharge of particulates by mid-1975. The latter will require design efficiencies exceeding 99 per cent."

Robert L. Stockman, the State Board's Executive Director, whose technical staff worked with the pulp mills to speed up their individual control programs, said the Board had approved the following discharge compliance schedules:

St. Regis Paper Co., Tacoma; odorous gases, Partial in 1971, Complete Oct. 1974; particulates, Complete Oct. 1974.

Longview Fibre Co., Longview; odorous gases, Complete Jan. 1972; particulates, Complete Jan. 1974.

Crown Zellerbach Corp., Port Townsend; odorous gases, Complete April 1970; particulates, Complete April 1970, (New Lime Kilns, June 1975).

Crown Zellerbach Corp., Camas, odorous gases, Partial in 1971, Complete in 1975; particulates, New Furnace 1975, All Others April 1974.

Boise Cascade Papers, Wallula, odorous gases, Partial June 1972, Complete March 1975; particulates, New Furnace 1975, All Others April 1974.

Weyerhaeuser Company, Everett; odorous gases Complete May 1974; particulates, Now Complete.

Weyerhaeuser Company, Longview; odorous gases Partial April 1971, Complete in 1975; particulates, New Furnace 1975, All Others July 1974.

Simpson Lee Paper Co., Everett; odorous gases, Partial Jan. 1971, Complete May 1974; particulates, Complete May 1974.

DHIA Will Establish Testing Lab

PUYALLUP - A decision to re-vamp the Washington Dairy Herd Improvement Association was announced this week by the state directors following a meeting.

Changes proposed by the board and accepted by delegates from local units will include a state testing laboratory, the hiring of a manager and an accountant, and the purchase of a $20,000 automatic milk-o-tester. The tester will check 180 samples per hour and give precise butterfat readings on each. Directors feel it will be a big improvement in checking the 50,000 cows now involved in the Washington DHIA program.

Coop Nursery Has Openings

Registration for the fall classes of the Spanaway Coop Nursery School are now being accepted, Mrs. Sheila Yager, president, announced earlier this week.

Children must be 3 or 4 years old by September 10, 1970 and reside in the Bethel School District. Classes are held at Spanaway Methodist Church 3 days a week for 4 year olds and 2 days a week for the 3 year olds.

Mothers are asked to assist with classes two or three times monthly, and must be able to drive and participate in a carpool. For additional information, contact Mrs. Donna McArthur VI 7-7928 about four year old classes or Mrs. Nancy Pignotti, VI 7-7200 on three year old classes.

Recreation Events Added To Daffodil Activities

Four new recreation events have been added to the list of activities offered by the Pierce County Park Department and the Metropolitan Park District for the 1970 Daffodil Festival.

Three of the events — kite flying, paddle ball and tennis — will be held for the first time. The fourth, the Daffodil Marathon, will be reinserted in the program after several years' absence.

Dave Inveen, summer track and field supervisor for the County Park Department, will direct the ninth annual Marathon on April 11 at Fort Steilacoom Park near Western State Hospital.

A five-mile course has laid out for men and a special two-mile route is ready for women contestants. The event is open to all college and AAU participants and will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. at the Fort Steilacoom Park office, 8714 Elwood Drive.

Women will begin the event at 9 a.m. and men at 9:30.

Entries for the marathon will close on Thursday, April 9, at the County Park office, 735 County-City Building.

The three first-time events are scheduled for different dates and locations. The kite flying contest will be held April 5 at 1:30 p.m. at Fort Steilacoom Park. The tennis tournament is scheduled for April 11-19 at the Harry Sprinker Recreation Center courts in Spanaway and the paddle ball tournament on April 4-5 at Pacific Lutheran University's Olson Auditorium complex.

Three divisions are scheduled for the kite flying event — elementary, junior-senior

One Man Agency Helps Divergent Group Discussions

Years ago, before the direct dialing system was developed, persons needing to communicate consulted a switchboard operator who connected them with the proper party.

Today the switchboard concept is returning to vogue, as special interest groups and concerned individuals seek one another to deal with current issues but often don't know where to turn.

Recognizing the need for this type of "catalytic agent," the American Lutheran Church last year provided funds for CHOICE (Center for Human Organization in Changing Environments), headquarters at Pacific Lutheran University.

CHOICE is basically a one-man agency, but as a result of its unique role its influence has been felt by hundreds since it began operations last February. Its chief role, under the direction of Robert K. Menzel, has been to arrange circumstances where divergent groups can come together to discuss and seek solutions to common problems.

Menzel has formerly served as a Lutheran parish minister, college professor and community action agency head.

"One of the reasons for the urban crisis has been the breakdown of single-track institutions in terms of their failure to deal with new situations rapidly enough," Menzel asserts, referring to government, business, labor unions, schools and churches.

The CHOICE director pointed to the basic reason for the creation of the Center, the need to structure frameworks for wider community dialogue, basically in the Tacoma area but influencing action at the regional and national levels as well.

The Center role is repeatedly described by Menzel as a "plugging in" to situations and needs as the opportunities present themselves "Providing the connection between parties concerned is often all that is needed to initiate social action and involvement," he maintains.

Church, university, community and civic groups have been affected, and an increasing number of faculty and students have become involved, leading ultimately to greater relevance in the classroom. The Center's function is also helping the church evolve from a self-contained system into a force for social change. Government and private business leaders are being encouraged to expand their efforts and reevaluate their priorities.

One of Menzel's first responsibilities as CHOICE director was to represent PLU on the Tacoma Area Urban Coalition, which PLU played a major role in organizing two years ago. Dr. Lowell Culber, urban affairs representative, and Dr. Thomas Langevin, formerly academic vice-president and now president of Capital University in Ohio, were among the leaders in the organizational effort.

Menzel became involved as the Coalition was suffering through a change in leadership.

FSCC Registration Deadline Nears

The final two days for open registration for Fort Steilacoom Community College will be held March 30 and 31, according to Thomas H. Sobotka, Registrar and Admissions Officer at the College.

The initial days of registration ended yesterday and will be closed until the Monday and Tuesday mentioned above.

Those wishing to register for classes at the College after these days will be charged a late registration fee of $5.00. Late registration will be held April 1 and 2 from 1-4 p.m. in the Administration Building and 6-9 p.m. in Clover Park High School North Building.

Students will also be able to drop and add courses on these days and will be charged a $3.00 fee for adding a course.

The Registrar explained that although many popular classes are full, there are ample interesting classes still open for both the day and night classes at the College.

NEW PRODUCT. It looks like carpet . . . feels like carpet, but it's actually a new seamless cushioned vinyl floor called "Easy Street." Described as a soft floor covering for kitchens, Easy Street features a tough, non-porous vinyl wear surface that prevents spilled foods and liquids from penetrating and being absorbed into the material. Dropped dishes actually bounce off the thickly cushioned surface.

Business Class Has Openings

Potential office workers can receive a complete business education through night classes being offered at the Franklin Pierce extension center of Ft. Steilacoom Community College.

Beginning March 30, the classes include accounting and bookkeeping, typing, shorthand, business machines and office practice.

Registration is now open for all the classes at the Franklin Pierce adult education center, 11124 Portland Ave. Registration may also be accomplished the evening that classes begin. All classes meet both Monday and Wednesday evenings for 10 weeks.

College credit is available for those who want it in typing and business machines, according to Howard Motte, adult education director.

Both beginning and advanced typing accounting and bookkeeping are being offered. The shorthand class is a continuation of the beginning shorthand started in January.

The business machine class offers the student individual help with the Monroe Educator, printing calculator full bank, 10-key adding machine and rotary calculator. The office practice class includes instruction in filing, the preparation of stencils and business letters, the use of office and transcribing machines and a review of typing skills.

Heart Patient Course Offered

Washington State Heart Association will offer a free two-day course in care of the heart patient child for nurses of this area April 3 and 4 in Jackson Hall of Tacoma General Hospital.

Sixteen physician specialist in pediatric cardiology, X-ray diagnosis, emergency resuscitation, nursery management and post operative care of the infant after heart surgery will be instructors.

Washington State Heart Association has helped to fund research which makes possible heart surgery for newborn infants. Most congenital malformations now may be corrected surgically. This course is intended to prepare more nurses to assist in the care of these children.

Applications for enrollment may be directed to the Pierce County Division of Washington State Heart Association, 120 North Tacoma Ave., Tacoma 98403.

Middle-Class Housewives Seek Facelifts

NEW(ER) FACES FOR THE AGING

By Alison Goddard

New York (MW) — Plastic surgeons, once almost exclusively patronized by film stars and the wives of wealthy men, now find that their average patient is a middle-class housewife between the ages of 40 and 60, according to a prominent plastic surgeon here.

Dr. Edgar P. Berry, chief of plastic surgery at Lenox Hill Hospital, said that most of these women seek facelifts to remove or diminish some of the tell-tale signs of aging: wrinkles, creases, and sagging jowls and eyelids. The typical patient, Dr. Berry said, is a housewife, a widow who must return to work and has to compete with younger people, or a woman active in committee work and community programs.

Aside from the facelift, others undergo plastic surgery — a technique refined and developed following World Wars I and II to repair the disfigurement of veterans — for reasons as varied as the patients themselves. They can range from the removal of pockmarks or loose-hanging skin on the upper arms to the correction of misshapen noses, Dumbo-like ears, turkey-gobbler necks, and large or small breasts.

Common Questions

The woman seeking plastic surgery will find that, in addition to a thorough physical examination, the doctor will spend a good deal of time talking to her. (He wants to guard against the neurotic surgery-seeker who expects a facelift to resolve deep-seated psychological problems.) At the same time, the would-be patient goes to the surgeon with many questions. Some of the most frequently asked were put to Dr. Berry:

Q. Just what does a facelift do for a woman?

A. If you look at yourself in the mirror and then take your hands and lift the sagging skin, you are, in effect, reproducing what the operation accomplishes. The facelift eliminates the unpleasant lines, lifts the sagging skin around the eyes, jowls and neck.

Q. Someone once said that plastic surgeons make fine seamstresses look like amateurs. Doesn't a facelift leave any scars?

A. No operation can be carried out without leaving some scar, but the trick is to place the scar where nobody can see it. In a facial operation, the scars are behind the hairline, hidden in the natural crease-line in front of the ear, and also behind the ear. If anyone wanted to see the scars he would have to look awfully close to spot them.

Q. Is there any pain?

A. The pain is minimal and can be controlled with medication.

Q. After the operation, how long does it take for the bruises and scars to disappear?

A. I would say within two weeks for the great majority of patients. But, for a small minority, occasionally between three and four weeks.

Q. Is it possible for a woman to undergo a facelift and not tell her friends?

A. Most women leave town to have the operation. The change is not drastic, but they return looking better. The usual comment from friends is: "My, you're looking well. Have you been south, basking in the sun?" No doubt some friends are going to be suspicious, but plastic surgery is acceptable — particularly in this day and age.

Q. How long do the effects of a facelift last, assuming that the patient takes care of herself and does not unduly expose herself to sun and wind?

A. Assuming all these factors, in all probability she will have the benefit of the operation for five, six or seven years, and maybe even longer. Don't forget that after five years she has aged another five years since her operation. However, she will be that much ahead of the woman who didn't have the facelift.

Q. How does a woman go about finding a good plastic surgeon? By asking her physician?

A. You can find well-trained, capable plastic surgeons in small communities as well as in the large cities. Yes, we always advise them to ask their own doctor for suggestions. Or they can check with the county medical society or a hospital in their vicinity.

Watch Stone Fruit For Brown Rot

Sclerotinia fruiticola and sclerotinia laxa are not a couple of new diet drinks. They are two closely related fungi that bring on brown rot in stone fruit and the time for them to start working their brown magic is soon, according to William Scheer, Area Extension Agent, in Horticulture.

Brown rot affects all stone fruits, including those grown for ornamental purposes. The disease occurs throughout Washington but is more serious in the cooler, wetter regions of Western Washington.

The disease destroys blossoms, fruit and stems. It develops rapidly and, in the case of the blossoms, appears as a sudden wilting and browning of the flower parts. If conditions are moist, the dead flowers are soon covered by a grayish-brown powder consisting of fungus spore masses.

Brown rot is most serious on peaches, plums, and cherries but also affects apricots. Although apples and pears have also been reported susceptible, the disease is of minor importance on these crops in Washington.

The fungus spores which originate the brown rot disease may come from the following sources: (1) Affected fruits which fell to the ground the previous year. (2) Affected fruits — "mummies" — which overwinter in the tree and produce spores in the spring. Eliminating the source of spore production is one method of control.

Improving air circulation through trees will do much to eliminate the moist conditions favorable to brown rot. Pruning to provide more open crowns will permit better air circulation within the individual tree and will also provide better spray coverage.

Several fungicidal sprays applied during the blossom period, and just after harvest, will reduce fruit infection.

In the pre-pink stage a spray of Captan 50 percent wettable powder or Phygon XL, same mix, can be used. Captan should be used at a rate of four teaspoons per gallon of water. Phygon mixes at the rate of a half teaspoon per gallon. Sprays at blossom and petal fall time are exactly the same as in the pre-pink stage.

The summer spray program calls for Captan 50 percent wettable powder at the rate of four teaspoons in a gallon of water.

In all cases, a word of caution to follow the directions on spray materials is one of the more essential steps, the experts say.

IT'S THE LAW

What About Bankruptcy?

When a person reads in the paper that someone owing him money has gone into bankruptcy, the usual reaction is to sigh deeply and charge the debt up to "experience."

But the mere fact that a debtor goes into bankruptcy does not indicate that his debt to you is uncollectible. The bankruptcy act lists a number of debts which are not discharged by bankruptcy proceedings.

Among the debts not wiped out by bankruptcy are taxes, debts incurred by obtaining money or property by false pretenses or representations, debts growing out of willful and malicious injuries to others or to their property, alimony, debts created by fraud or embezzlement, wages owed to workmen, servants, clerk,s etc., and earned within three months of the start of the bankruptcy proceedings, and a number of other miscellaneous categories.

If the debt owed you is in one of the categories which cannot be discharged by bankruptcy, you can wait until the bankruptcy is over and still collect the debt. Therefore, you needn't be completely discouraged when someone who owes you money goes into bankruptcy. You should investigate to find out whether you can collect the debt, either in the bankruptcy proceedings or afterwards if your debt is one of those not discharged by bankruptcy.

(This column is written to inform, not advise. Facts may change the application of the law.)

Area Youth Win Design Competition

DICK PLATT, Bethel hoop star, demonstrated his talents extend beyond the basketball court by being named first place winner of the Greater Tacoma Home Builders' Award March 12. Platt's entry, plans for a three bedroom home featuring laminated beams, will be on display next week at the Greater Tacoma Home Builders Show. His award came in the form of a scholarship. He is pictured with Robert Sparks, drafting instructor. The winner topped a field of entries from the Puyallup and Tacoma area.

TACOMA - Winning designs in the Sixth Annual Residential Design Competition have been selected, Chairman Robert J. Sproul announced today. The Residential Design Competition is sponsored annually by the Home Builders Association of Greater Tacoma with financial scholarships awarded to the top three designs entered. The competition is open only to senior high school students attending a high school within Pierce County and enrolled in an architectural drawing class at his high school.

First Place was awarded to Richard G. Platt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Platt of Spanaway and a student at Bethel Senior High School. Richard Platt will receive a $300 scholarship.

Second Place was awarded to Thomas L. McCauley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. McCauley of 9506 118th St. East, Puyallup and a student at Puyallup High School. Tom McCauley will receive a $200 scholarship.

Third Place was won by Dennis C. Ridgway, son of William Ridgway, Jr. of 2107 Inter Avenue, Puyallup, also a student at Puyallup High School. Dennis Ridgway will receive a $150 scholarship.

In addition to the first three top awards, Honor Certificates are awarded to two additional designs deserving of Honorable Mention. The two recipients of this year's Honor Certificates are also of Puyallup High School: Terry C. Morey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willson Morey, 14721 - 80th St. E., Puyallup; and Kenneth E. Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Porter, 12010 - 107th Ave. Ct. E., Puyallup.

Students entering the Residential Design Competition must submit plans of a single-family residence no larger than 1700 sq. ft. of living space designed for a family of four; husband, wife, and two children; one boy and one girl. Basic areas that must be included in their plans are living room, kitchen with eating space, master bedroom with bathroom, bedrooms for each child, main bathroom, utility room, storage room and double garage or carport. The home must be designed to be built on a typical suburban lot in the Pacific Northwest that is 85' x 120'.

Criteria used in judging the design entries are design approach and solution of the specified problem. Presentation of the design and drafting technique are considered but are not determining factors. Judging for the 1970 Competition was done by a panel of nine members of the Home Builders Association of Greater Tacoma. Represented on the panel were builders, subcontractors, architects and mortgage lenders.

First Place winner Richard Platt maintains a 3.0 grade point average at Bethel High School majoring in architecture and plays on the school basketball team. Richard is also active in the Lettermen's Club. He plans to attend Washington State University next fall where his major will again be architecture.

Second Place winner Tom McCauley has a 2.3 grade point average at Puyallup High School and is a member of the track team and German Club. Tom plans to go on to college at Green River Community College where he will major in engineering.

Third Place winner Dennis Ridgway has a 2.6 grade point average at Puyallup High School and plays on the school football team and belongs to the Lettermen's Club. Dennis is a student pilot outside of his school activities. He plans to go on to college at Yakima or Big Bend and major in aviation.

Scholarships and Honor Certificates will be presented to all winning students at the yearly Awards Assembly at Bethel and Puyallup High Schools.

Indicator Left On

Though not always the case, a turn indicator left on after a turn is completed can be a warning that the driver might be intoxicated.

16 Counties To Levy Local Tax

Sixteen of the state's 39 counties including Pierce, and 151 of its 266 cities and towns have notified the Department of Revenue that they will begin collecting an additional half per cent retain sales tax April 1. In all, 77 per cent of the state population will be covered.

George Kinnear, director of revenue, said that the first revenues from the new tax will be remitted to the participating cities and counties about July 1, a month earlier than previously announced. They will receive returns from seven months' business this year. The first will cover April only; thereafter payments will be bi-monthly. Other disbursements in 1970 will be made at the end of August, October and December.

The Department of Revenue estimates $400 million as the amount that the 16 counties and 151 cities could share in a 12-month period. However, these January 1, 1970 projections do not take into consideration changes which have occurred in the state's economy during the first quarter, or may occur during the year.

The 16 counties comprise 2.5 million or 73.3 per cent of the state's population (3,417,000 April 1, 1969). Towns in counties which did not adopt the tax account for another 137,000, or 4 per cent.

The April 1 group of participants will be fixed at least until July 1, since additions are limited to the start of a calendar quarter.

EX-Redskin Now At Ft. Lewis Praises Lombardi As Coach

FORT LEWIS, WASH. — Drill sergeants shouldn't pose any new problems for Private Jeff Anderson, a National Guardsman from Cincinnati, Ohio, now taking basic at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Anderson has already served under one of the toughest non-drill sergeant teachers in the country, Coach Vince Lombardi of the Washington Redskins.

Anderson, who played full-back for the University of Virginia, was a fifth round choice of Lombardi's first Redskin team.

"Coach Lombardi has to be the most exciting personality and strategist in professional sports today," Anderson said. "He has that charisma — that undefinable something — that separates him from other coaches."

"Coach Lombardi runs the whole show," he said. "His assistants only echo what he says. One word from Lombardi can get more out of a player than long pep talks from other coaches."

Anderson was one of 30 rookies who tried out for the Redskins. Over 100 veterans also joined the camp. They all got the famous Lombardi physical conditioning course.

"Actually, I didn't think it was any tougher than a college football practice," Anderson said. "Maybe that was because I was still in good shape from college ball. But it was pretty tough on the veterans, who hadn't exercised for months."

Anderson began playing football in the seventh grade. By the time he reached high school, he was one of the most sought after football players in Cincinnati.

I guess I had offers from 60 to 70 colleges," he said. "During my senior year, I was talking to recruiters and coaches every day. I was getting tired of it, because I wanted to see my girl friend once in a while."

He says he chose the University of Virginia just to stop the offers.

"George Blackburn, the coach, invited me to come down and look over the campus," he explained. When I got there, I decided that Virginia was as good a school as any."

In his junior year, he gained over 800 yards rushing and was ranked 19th in the nation. He rushed for 780 yards his senior year while blocking for halfback Frank Quayle, who gained 1000 yards that year. Quayle now plays for the Denver Broncos.

Anderson graduated in 1969 with a degree in economics and public speaking. He went to the Redskins' summer training camp. After a month, he quit.

"I had been playing football for ten years," he said, "and the fun was beginning to go out of it. I got tired of hearing the same thing every night."

"It was touch and go whether I would have made the team," he continued. "I was worried whether I had enough speed. The pros want backs who are fast enough to break all the way, men who run the 100 in 9.6 or better. I could block pretty well, but I can only do the 100 in 10.1."

Anderson felt he would have made the taxi squad if not the 40-man team. But that meant playing in the minor leagues at a reduced salary.

"The Redskins had a working agreement with a Continental Football League team in Virginia," he said. "But I couldn't see playing in some of the facilities they used."

So Anderson ended his football career but is still what you might call a ground gainer. He went into the real estate business in Cincinnati.

Pioneer Recalls Area History

FORT LEWIS, WASH. — When Camp Lewis was founded in 1917, it was on the grounds of what had been widely spaced farms, mostly devoted to dairy products. The fruit orchards that still dot Ft. Lewis are part of that era's legacy.

One part of the inheritance that has disappeared is the town of Hillhurst. It existed along railroad tracks about three miles east of where Madigan General Hospital is now located.

Mrs. Olive George, nee Kennedy, a Tacoma resident now, lived there until 1902, when she was five years old. She says, "It was only a wide place in the road. The woods started right on the edge of town."

The Kennedy family ran the general store in Hillhurst. It was a large wooden building that stocked everything a farmer needed. The family lived in the back, and upstairs was a dance hall.

The rest of the "town" consisted of a large house where the Hartmans lived, and a boarding house run by the Frosts. A school house was located a short distance away, and a mile down the railroad tracks was a place where section hands lived.

The section hands were mostly Italians. They build a large brick oven to bake bread, and the children from town would walk there and buy it.

The children got rides to school. The 50 children in the area rode on the unmechanized version of the school bus, a horse and buggy with a top. Mrs. George was so small and skinner that she always got pushed to the back and was sometimes pushed off into puddles.

The store was the center of activities in the area. Farmers were its mainstay but section hands, Nisqually Indians, and soldiers also used it. A dance was held at the store every Saturday night.

"That's when we had the fun," Mrs. George remembers. "Everyone would come into the store right after milking and bring lots of food. We'd dance until midnight and then have a big feed. It was too late to go home then so they just danced till it was time to go back and milk."

Indians were occasional visitors to the store. One day an Indian came to the store and found Mr. Kennedy slicing a large round cheese. He asked him for a slice but was so disappointed at its small size that he held it up, squinted at it, and said, "Hmmm, almost missed it."

Soldiers wandered in sometimes. During the yearly bivouac training exercises for the Washington National Guard, Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Hartman put up tents near the soldiers, and their wives made pies and coffee and sold them to the guardsmen.

In that more relaxed era, soldiers who were deserting made the store one of their stops on the way over the hill. Mrs. George remembers them setting her on a grain sack and then handing her their medals and ribbons to play with as they cut them off.

The settlers led a simple life at the turn of the century. The children played jump rope, tag, and ring-around-a-rosy. Mrs. George wore gingham dresses like the other girls.

It was simple, but in recompense the rivers were unpolluted. Mr. Kennedy used a bent pin for a fish hook but Mrs. George remembers, "It wasn't fun to catch them; it was too easy. They were really big ones, too."

Another who remembers Hillhurst is Mrs. Norman S. Harris, now a Tillicum resident.

Mrs. Harris was born in DuPont and was one of the "Templeton Tots" who sang at camp shows presented to the post's doughboys in 1918 and 1919 from flat-bed trucks.

She remembers visiting a great-aunt and her grandmother, who lives on ranches near Hillhurst.

"We went to Hillhurst through Greendale — another little settlement on what is now the reservation — to shop or visit the community hall. There was a store, a post office, and a hall where the Literary Society and the Hillhurst McKinley Club met."

Mrs. Harris says her great-aunt moved here in 1884, coming from Nebraska. Among her memories are her grandmother guarding the provision shed where vegetables and meat were stored.

"Once during a heavy snow she sat up all night with a rifle to chase away coyotes," she said.

She tells about Frank Kimball, who had discovered a method of preserving fir seed cones and shipped thousands of them to eastern markets. Kimball, who had a ranch near Hillhurst, was visited regularly by a "friend" who was always willing to help with the work.

After several seasons of helping Kimball, the man disappeared. Next thing Kimball heard, his secret process for preserving the cones had been patented in the other man's name.

Today, the site of what was once Hillhurst is a tree stump-studded glade, empty of any sign of its former buildings. Sunlight shimmers off the white moss on the barks of what may once have been fruit trees.

Wary cows plod through the sylvan quiet, seemingly the only inhabitants in the past 50 years. But then you step over a C-ration can.

It's a reminder that, come maneuver time, there's life in Hillhurst yet.

Teacher Aide Interviews At Clover Park

Instructor interviews are being scheduled now to determine the enrollment for the 1970-71 Teacher Aide classes, according to Mrs. Mary Beth Henning, instructor. She said this year for the first time, a one-month orientation class will be held in May to prepare the new enrollees for their cooperative training duties in the fall.

All trainees in the course attend classes at Education Center for half a day, and work as teacher aides in classrooms and nursery schools the other half day from September to June. Since this procedure begins when school opens, the 4-week orientation in May will prepare them for the cooperative training in advance.

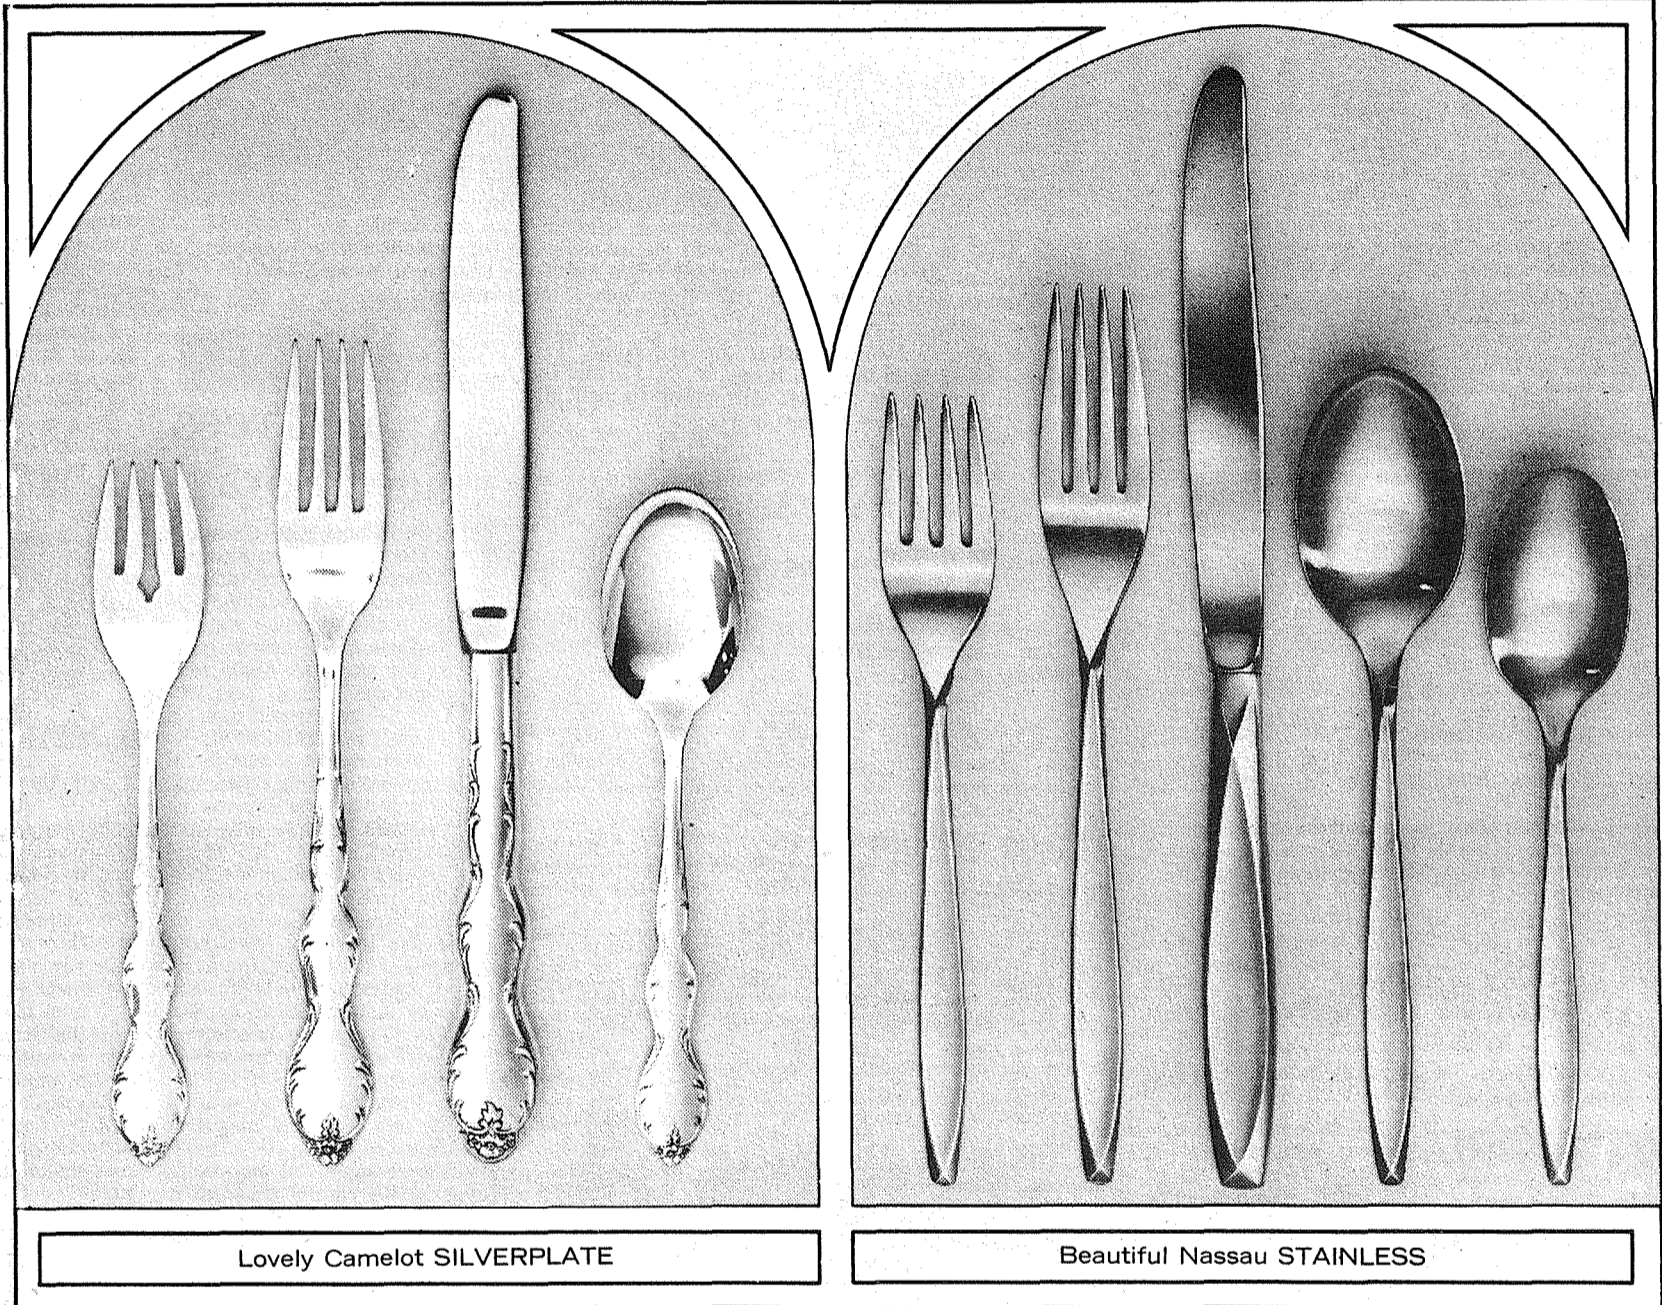

Day care centers, nursery schools, kindergartens, grade schools, secondary schools and special education classes are using many teachers aides each year. Mrs. Henning said previous employees of Education Center graduates are pleased with the results of the training, and have asked for additional graduates.

Requests for interview appointments may be made to Mrs. Henning or Mrs. Carol Mooney at the school, in writing or by calling JU 4-7611.

Apple Trees Need Spray

By William P. A. Scheer, County Extension Agent Commercial Horticulture Washington wouldn't be the nation's apple state if production was concentrated on the westside. Apple scab would see to that, says William Scheer, Area Extension Agent in Horticulture.

Fortunately, much of commercial apple production is in dry areas where the apple scab fungus does not often become severe. In wetter western Washington, however, scab is prevalent. It first appears on the underside of new leaves as olive-green spots. These progressively change from olive to brown in color and velvety in appearance. Fruit may become infected at any time in its development.

Protective sprays provide the only practical means of controlling apple scab, Scheer says. The key to an effective control program is to spray at the right time. The critical period for scab control is in early season from the time bud growth begins until the apples are about half-an-inch in diameter.

Several fungicides such as lime-sulfur, captan, dodine and dichlone, can be used to control apple scab. In western Washington, spray should be applied in early spring before the buds open. In both

Roundup Queen Entries Sought

Princess candidates for the title of 1970 Parkland Roundup Queen are invited to submit applications, Sallie Wilson, Queen Advisor, announced last week.

To be selected from the field of entries will be a royal court consisting of a queen and three princesses. In addition, a Miss Congeniality will be elected by a vote of the candidates.

Members of the royal court will be outfitted with a suit, blouse, and hat. The queen and her court will be selected on the basis of horsemanship with poise and personality to be considered. Judging will be three Northwest Rodeo Association members.

To qualify for queen competition, candidates must sell 100 rodeo buttons. Each girl is paid $15 for each 100 buttons sold, and there will be special button sales awards. Other qualifications include that the candidate provide her own horse and transportation. Entries must be received by the Roundup Queen Committee by April 6. Proper western attire must be worn at the horsemanship judging.

The queen and her court must agree to participating in the Parkland Roundup parade and both performances of the Parkland Rodeo. In addition they will be expected to make appearances at the Rainier, Enumclaw, and Roy rodeos.

Those interested in additional information should contact Sallie Wilson at VI 7-7545.

Lawn Moss Growing Strong

Western Washington lawns are beginning to grow and so is lawn moss, according to Dr. Roy Goss, WSU Turf Specialist. But lawn moss is one of those problems that responds well to proper treatment.

"Most likely," says Goss, "the problem is low nutrition, poor watering practices, shade, and/or mowing the grass too high."

Good fertilizer with a ratio of three parts nitrogen, one part phosphorus and two parts potassium will take care of the lack of nutrition.

sides of the state, a spray should go on at the pre-pink, pink, petal-fall stages and two weeks after petal-fall as well as in late summer.

The subject is covered more completely in E.M. 2651 available from the county Extension office, says Agent Scheer. In Pierce County call FU 3-3311, Ext. 511.

New 4-H Club Organized

The Curry Comb 4-H Club was organized to recently to satisfy the need for a new 4-H club in Spanaway.

Tedine Bottiger was elected president. Other officers elected were: Beverly Wilson, vice president; Kim Wilson, secretary; and Melony Gilbert, treasurer. Horse demonstrations by the members were a success because of the expert coaching by the leaders, Mrs. Carol Freize and Mrs. Sally Wilson.

Curry Comb, Reporter.

4-H Members Now Travel

For the past three years, groups of 4-H members from Idaho and Oregon have had an opportunity to visit European families, cities, and historical sights as part of the People to People Citizen Ambassador travel program.

The beauty of Scandinavia; the history of England and the Rhineland; the politics and conflicts of East and West Berlin and Germany; the proud, but oppressed people of communist Czechoslovakia; the enchanting Swiss and Austrian Alps; and the artistic treasures of the Louvre of Paris are among the many fond memories which these 4-H'ers will have of their summer abroad.

There is no better way to really learn and know the European people - both the old and young - than by living among them, tasting their favorite foods, and seeing where they work, worship, and play. Four-H members have the opportunity to meet and join their counterparts in several European countries while in camps and other activities.

During the summer of 1970, Citizen Ambassadors will follow in the footsteps of former President Eisenhower's plan for People to People contact between our countries. Four-H youth, through a knowledge of urban and rural cooperation and a deep and sincere enjoyment of meeting others and achieving new goods, are enthusiastic about this opportunity to broaden their outlooks and horizons.

The People to People Program and Washington State University are presently coordinating programs in several states which will depart in June for a seven-week look at that portion of the world which has been so much a part of our American heritage and history. The experiences gained by students will aid in broadening their outlook on service to others as they enter college, complete work on advanced degrees, enter public and private service, or continue to serve as Citizen Ambassadors in programs such as the International Farm Youth Exchange, Peace Corps, IVS, or any of the fine programs helping people abroad.

Interested current and former 4-H members, who are between 17 and 22 years of age and single, are invited to contact their local county extension agent or Mr. Wim Dijkman, P.O. Box 2238, College Station, Pullman, Washington 99163, for further information.

Sunrise Service At Bethel High

Dr. Douglas Stave, Director of Federal Projects for Pierce County Schools, will be the featured speaker for the Easter Sunrise Service at Bethel High School in Spanaway at 6:30 a.m.

The event has been sponsored by the Bethel Ministerial Association for eleven years and is followed by a nominally priced breakfast prepared by the Bethel Booster Club.

This year's offering will be given to the Lee Reeves family, Spanaway residents. ### Dragboat Race At Spanaway

Spanaway Lake south of Tacoma will become the scene of the largest sporting event added to the Puyallup Valley Daffodil Festival in years when speedy motorboats compete April 12 in the First Annual Daffodil Festival Dragboat Championships.

Co-sponsored by Tahoma Drag and Ski Club Inc. and the festival, the races will offer as many as 12 classes of entries. The American Powerboat Association has officially sanctioned the new event, which is expected to draw entrants from five states.

Races will be in two basic categories — drag races in which boats follow a straight course for one-quarter mile from a standing start and circle races, which require an ability to "corner" as the racers turn laps around the lake.

Speed and variety will be watchwords for spectators who are expected to crowd Spanaway Park for the races, which start at 1:15 p.m. Sunday with time trials beginning at noon.

The drag boats represent considerable investments, in some cases up to $9000 and averaging perhaps $5000-6000 per boat. With at least 40 boats expected to enter, racing fans will be watching almost a quarter of a million dollars afloat on the lake.

The fastest boats will approach speeds of 190 miles per hour. These are the drag boats, which are specially designed for drag racing, which requires tremendous power and acceleration to achieve top speeds quickly on a straight course.

Most of the drag boats are powered with 1500 h.p. Chrysler engines.

A number of well known racers are expected to enter

Braves Drop Meet

Bethel lost a practice track meet to Mt. Tahoma March 23 at Sprinker Field, 52-93.

Parkland Youth Gym Winner

Rex Smith, 8 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Smith, 515 South 132, brought home a number of honors from the Junior Olympic Gymnastic meet held March 21 at Issaquah High School.

Representing the Tacoma Y.M.C.A., Rex won first place in the 10 through 12 year old age tumbling and rope climb events. He placed second in floor exercises and trampoline. The young gymnast is a second grade student at Brookdale School and a former pupil of Keller Dance Studio.

their boats in the events. Church Wirth, spokesman for Tahoma Drag and Ski Club Inc. said announcements would be made regarding these as soon as official entries are completed.

Spectators will be able to go into the pit areas and examine boats closely as well as talk with the drivers and owners, Wirth said.

Outdoor TIPS AND TALES

By Herb Williams
IF YOU have any steelhead or salmon eggs left over from steelheading, you can make good use of them for trout fishing.

The big push of the April opening of hundreds of lakes for trout is almost here, so you don't have to worry about carrying those eggs over to next season. If the eggs are solid enough, you can use them in the same way you use the eggs you buy in the little jars. If they are too soft to hang on a hook, use them for feed eggs.

Just carry a big tablespoon along and mash them up good before tossing them over the side. Then use the tablespoon to put them in the water. By doing it a spoonful at a time, you won't put out too many. One of the commonest mistakes in using feed eggs is to use too many.

Nature raises stream temperatures in late summer and early fall, and fish have these conditions naturally. Most years they can live through this lean time when their energy output is greater than their intake. But if man-made heat raises the water temperature above this critical point for a longer time, it can kill fish just as effectively as if a load of poison were dumped into the stream.

There always has been a strong correlation between the survival of silver salmon and stream temperatures in August and September. This energy intake-output ratio could be one of the big reasons.

Another, of course, is the size of the streams. When streams shrink in size because of warm, dry weather, there's less living room and some of the fish die in the competition for food.

Steelhead and cutthroat are especially susceptible to this because naturally-spawned fish of these species stay in a stream two years before going to sea. Coho salmon stay a year, while king salmon go out the first year.

With 20 thermal power plants scheduled throughout the Northwest during the next 20 to 25 years, we must insist that safeguards for water temperature and fish be built into them.

Council Opposes South Korean Steelhead Take

Seattle: The Washington State Sportsmen's Council meeting over the weekend passed three resolutions. One supports regulations of off-road use of motorized vehicles where the usage is harmful to game or land resources. This support applies to private, state and federal land. The South Korean fishery was hit by asking the Secretary of State to make Council position known that there be no fishing east of 175 degree west longitude.

The Council asked that the indoor gallery shooting facility at the U.S. Naval Air Station be retained for recreational and instructional shooting.

Resolutions that were withdrawn, voted down, or referred to sponsors pertained to: National Timber Act; the proposed Forest Service Road from Icicle through Jack Creek and across Van Epps Pass into Salmon La-Sac; asked the Fisheries Department to transfer funds to the Game Department for streambank access purposes; asked the Fisheries and Game Department to not plant fish in any stream which ran through or tributary to any Indian Reservation.

The Leo Weisfield Award for the outstanding sportsman for 1969 was won by Mr. S.E. (Joe) Martin of Bremerton.
