In Our Opinion

Support For Amendment Needed To Prevent Local Library Disaster

A Federal move to abandon established priorities for the educational requirements of our nation would spell disaster to the educational and library programs in most of our local school districts.

The threat to education came in the form of a proposed slash of $455 million during the 1970 fiscal year in HEW education and library funds. Should the Congress accept the cuts, public libraries would also feel the bite.

The U.S. House of Representatives, while recognizing the need for fiscal responsibility, amended HR 13111 to restore educational and library appropriations. The House recommendation is now in the Senate Appropriations Committee, of which Senator Warren G. Magnuson is Chairman. A vote on the measure is expected in late October or early November.

If the Senate fails to concur with the House restored appropriations, Franklin Pierce and Bethel District library programs face a bleak future...that is unless the vacuum is filled by additional millage assessments on property owners.

Franklin Pierce libraries are involved in six of the areas that were slated to be cut. Last year Federal support for the district libraries was reduced from $16,000 to $6,400. Further reductions would: curtail Washington High School library program; transfer library personnel hired under Title I to local district funds; cancel district program to bring elementary school libraries to minimum standards; and adversely affect the district vocational educational program.

"Local funds keep poor libraries poor, but Federal funds give librarians a hope for our library programs," Dr. John Amend stated in describing how the cut could affect Bethel. Elaborating on the statement he said, "In an era when youngsters are being taught to look for additional sources outside of the classroom, it is tragic to cut off funds to supply library materials."

In addition to curtailment of procuring necessary library materials, he said the cost to Bethel Schools would be a remedial reading teacher.

It was pointed out that school libraries are particularly important to the Bethel District where there are few public libraries and bookmobile service is limited. At present the libraries are open to students throughout the school day.

If the appropriations which were restored in HR13111 are to be retained in the Senate appropriations bill, it now becomes imperative that our Senators be informed, and especially Senator Magnuson. His address is 127 Old Senate Office Bldg., Washington D.C. 20510.

Until the nation comes up with a meaningful program to support basic programs such as books for education, it is hard to conceive how the Federal powers can continue talking about financing trips to Mars or embarking on SST projects.

EARL WEST, Pierce County Refuse Driver, was named "1969 Man of the Year" for safe driving and his service to the public during a Harold LeMay Enterprises sponsored banquet held at the Firs Saturday. Admiring West's award are (l-r) Harold LeMay, County Commissioner George Sheridan, West, County Commissioner Wally Ramsdell, and State Senator John McCutcheon. Public officials representing cities and counties from all over Western Washington attended the annual banquet to honor "Man of the Year" trophy winners. Parkland-based mechanic Olaf Hammer was also honored. West is a Spanaway resident.

CARAVAN of fire equipment will visit area schools Friday October 3 to kick off Fire Prevention Week.

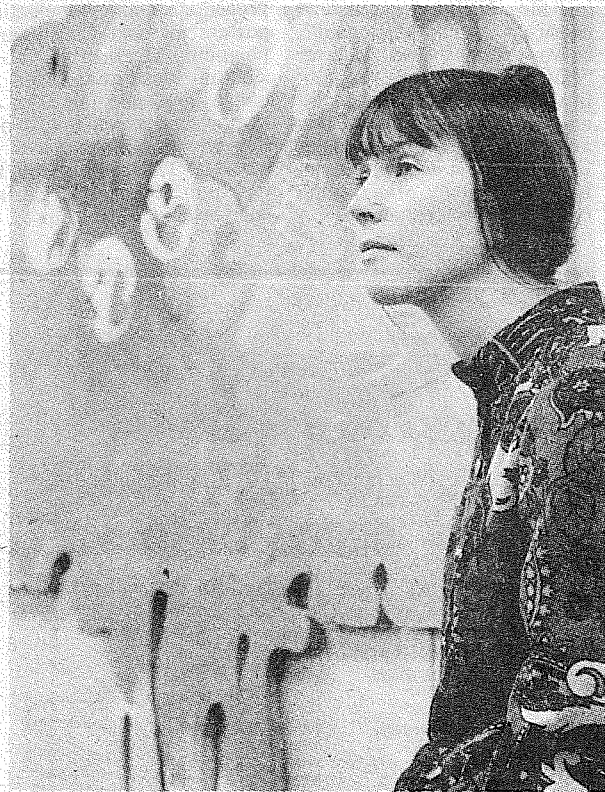

Fire Prevention Week To Start

With the danger of brush fires largely past, Pierce County Fire Chiefs are concerned with a new threat as colder weather arrives to the area. The incidence of home fires increases at this time of year as residents begin to use furnaces and home heaters. Tragically, much of the damage and injury caused by such fires can be avoided by proper maintenance of heating equipment and the elimination of potential fire dangers in the home.

Educating people to possible fire hazards is the goal of Fire Prevention Week. This year the week will begin with a parade of fire trucks through the area. The shiny red and white vehicles from local fire districts will drive through neighborhoods and visit schools this Friday, October 3. Fire Chiefs Verne Blauvelt of Midland, Ray Hixon of Parkland, Fred Fletcher of McChord and John Farren of Spanaway-Elk Plain have organized the procession for the community. The Firemen and their equipment may be seen passing the various schools according to the schedule below. A similar cavalcade is to be held by the Fire Departments of University Place, Fircrest, and Lakewood for the schools in those areas.

Midland Fire Station 10:00 a.m.; Harvard School, 10:05 a.m.; Midland School, 10:10 a.m.; Ford Junior High School, 10:15 a.m.; Parkland area, 10:20 a.m.; Christenson School, 10:23 a.m.; James Sales School, 10:27 a.m.

Parkland School, 10:30 a.m.; Brookdale School, 10:32 a.m.; Elmhurst School, 10:35 a.m.; Spanaway area, 10:38 a.m.; Chester Thompson School, 10:40 a.m.; Spanaway School, 10:43 a.m.; McChord housing area, 10:53 a.m.

ELEPHANT-SHAPED canvasses and a "turbulent" style highlight an exhibition of prints and paintings by Marilyn Crockett at the Pacific Lutheran University Gallery through October 15. Mrs. Crockett, one of 3 new art faculty members at PLU this fall, has included 21 works in her exhibition, most of them completed in the past two years.

Committee Mobilizes For Lower Taxes

Future plans formulated at a recent meeting of the "Concerned Taxpayers of South Pierce County" were made public Monday in a release received by The Times Journal.

Representatives are being requested as to what "Measures" they have taken or intend to take in reducing Real Estate Taxes, and the Committee spokesman said "We want their answers now." Action is being taken to have the State, County, and School officials give the taxpayers an accounting of expenditures. Delegations are being contacted on a state-wide basis to get the "ball rolling."

The release stated that "Committees have been appointed to meet with other groups to accomplish our goal: Lower Taxes."

Hagestad To Head County Utility Sewer Program

First steps were taken to start the process of forming a County Utility Department this week with the hiring of Civil Engineer Harold A. Hagestad to develop the Interim County Sewer Program, Project Coordinator Leonard Sawyer announced Monday.

Hagestad, who will take office effective November 1, will hire personnel for the department as they are needed to assist in the development of an overall County Sewer project.

The new department will be officed in the building across from the Tacoma Library with the County Domestic Relations Bureau. Sawyer said because there is a critical shortage of available office space in the courthouse, that office site was selected.

The new appointee brings to Pierce County an impressive record of accomplishment. He was City Engineer in Auburn during the period that city made extensive extensions of water and sewer service, has been on the staff of Sewer and Water Design (an engineering firm), and since January 1967 has served as Senior Supervising Engineer in the area of planning facilities for the Boeing Aircraft Company.

Hagestad is not new to the Tacoma area. He was formerly with the Tacoma Utility Department (1947-57) and served as Principal Civil Engineer with the Tacoma Department of Public Works (1957-1964). He is a graduate of the University of Washington and is a specialist in sanitation engineering.

Of Pierce County's new sewer administrator Boeing Aircraft wrote the County Commissioners, The Boeing Company regrets losing an engineer of Harold Hagestad's ability, but realizing the need for sewers in Pierce County area we (Boeing) feel he will be a great asset to the county.

Although Hagestad is now in the process of hiring people to help administer the project, Sawyer emphasized personnel would be placed on the payroll only as they are needed.

The funds will be administered over a five-year curriculum revision and improvement within the baccalaureate program at PLU.

Dr. Anderson Resigns

Dr. Charles D. Anderson

Dr. Charles D. Anderson, dean of the college of arts and sciences at Pacific Lutheran University since 1965, has resigned his position effective next August, Dr. Eugene Wiegman, university president, announced Thursday.

Upon his resignation, Dr. Anderson indicated his desire to return to research and teaching in the field of chemistry, and requested a sabbatical leave for the 1970-71 school year.

Dr. Wiegman accepted the resignation with regret and assured the dean of a position on the PLU chemistry faculty, which had also been requested.

"On behalf of the university, I want to express our thanks to you for your conscientious and wise administration as dean," Dr. Wiegman added.

Sex Education Losing Friends

Sex education is losing some of its most influential friends.

In North Carolina, to cite one example, sex education in the public schools was endorsed four years ago by the Medical Society of North Carolina, but some doctors in that state are now strongly opposed to the program.

Recently, the Edgecombe-Nash Medical Society, in Rocky Mount, N. C., voted to end their endorsement of this program.

The resolution passed by the medical society said, in part: "The Medical Society of the State of North Carolina endorsed the Family Life Education program in our schools in 1965. It appears this was innocently done with good intentions.

"Undesirable"

"It has now become quite clear that the Family Life program encompasses many subjects which are undesirable . . . Furthermore, sex education, perversion, permissiveness, and sexual experimentation are being encouraged . . .

"It now appears that the prestige of our organization has been intentionally sought and used in a way which can only discredit us and bring shame and embarrassment to us."

The resolution goes on to "condemn the further use of SIECUS-type sex education in our schools at any grade level."

Also the medical society "takes the position that there can be no proper sex education which is not heavily influenced and tempered in morality."

Schools have had—and still have—a very important role to play in our nation's growth and progress.

Shall we now allow them to be captured by the enemies of the Bible, of God, and of our nation's moral health?

Evidently there were, even in St. Peter's time, some people like those who are now at the head of the movement to force sex education on every school child—with morality left out.

Beguiling the Unstable

Peter referred to them as "having eyes full of adultery . . . beguiling unstable souls . . . which have forsaken the right way and are gone astray . . . While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption."

You don't believe that this fits the sex education promoters? "Look" magazine has quoted Dr. Mary Calderone, director of the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, as saying, in response to a question about God's commandment regarding sexual morality: "Nobody from on high determines this. You determine it . . . I don't believe . . . the old 'Thou shalt not's' apply any more."

Is this what you want your children to be taught?

Is it what they are being taught?

Don't you think that parents have some responsibility in this area—and that they ought to be able to make decisions as to the kind of teaching that their children receive?

Football Results County League

Mark Robinson scored four touchdowns and intercepted two passes to lead Fircrest to a 20-0 win over the Fort Lewis Chargers in County Small Fry League action yesterday at Sprinker Recreation Center.

40-0 victory over the Summit Vandals in Rookie League action. Baron Johnston led the Chargers, scoring four touchdowns. The Fort Lewis Rams crushed the Bethel Braves in county Pee Wee action by a 42-0 margin. Mike Rarick scored three times for the Rams.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

Extra -Marital Affair
Dear Miss Brookfield:

I am 46 and in love with my husband's best friend, who is also married. We have been having an affair for the last six months. My husband has no inkling of what is going on. I have talked to this man about our getting divorced so we can marry. He keeps putting me off, saying his wife has been a good mother to his children. One child is still at home but will be going off to college next year. I hope to marry this man eventually. But right now I feel very guilty about this affair and would like to tell my husband, even if it leads to divorce. What do you advise?
C.K., Corpus Christi, Tex.
Dear C.K.:

Perhaps you think that telling your husband will force his best friend into taking action that will make it possible for you two to legitimize this messy situation. But as your lover seems reluctant to divorce his wife, this plan may boomerang. Furthermore, there is always the possibility that his mate is not only a good mother but also a forgiving wife. If so, you may be left without husband number one and sans prospects for husband number two. What you are looking for is assurance that the moment of truth with your husband will produce the magical result. But since the other man seems disinclined to divorce his wife, no one can give you that assurance.

Second Honeymoon

Dear Miss Brookfield:

My husband came home with what should have been a wonderful suggestion, and we have been arguing ever since. He wants to take a trip as a sort of a second honeymoon. I just don't feel up to it, considering the preparations and shopping involved. In August, our second and last daughter married. She is now some distance away as her husband is in graduate school. The preparations for the wedding really exhausted me. But at the same time I am also going through the changes. How can I make my husband understand that I am too tired and too blue to make this trip? Please answer in the column, since he reads it.
G.P., Tacoma, Wash.

Dear G.P.:

True, the father of the bride pays the bills but the mother of the bride carries the burden of the work involved in preparing for a lavish wedding. But a trip, taken as a second honeymoon, would do you both some good.

Instead of throwing cold water on the suggestion, we advise you, first, to visit your doctor for a checkup. Your complaint may well be the so-called "menopausal blues," aggravated by the "loss" of your youngest child, leaving you "unemployed." Many of the accompanying symptoms of the menopause, both physical and emotional, are caused by a glandular, hormone deficiency, common at this time of life. Many doctors now prescribe estrogen hormone supplements to relieve these symptoms.

After a health checkup, try to understand that at the same time your daughter is beginning a new life, you are too. Both you and your husband can now look forward to sharing pleasures and activities together that were once not feasible because you were tied down to the responsibilities of raising a family. Think of these wonderful years ahead — and do try to enjoy them.

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

CLEAR FIELD AHEAD. Patriot Steve Butts is pictured crossing the 30 yard line on his 57 yard touchdown run early in the first quarter against Rogers High School, last Friday. Washington won 27-0.

Braves Bite Bulldogs 14-6

By Bill Hallman

Led by the running of Dale Failey and Skip Thiel plus the pass receiving of Tom Bullion the Bethel Braves edged the Foster Bulldogs 14-6.

Bullion had probably the best game of his career, hauling in three passes for 24 yards. Tom also made a diving catch in the corner of the end zone for a two-point play.

Senior offensive and defensive end Steve Dawson picked up a Foster fumble and rambled 76 yards for a touchdown. This was the longest fumble return in Bethel history.

"We felt our kids played extremely well. Our defense was extremely tough most of the time and our offense performed better than expected," commented head coach Ed Tingstad.

The Braves played the entire game without two of their key backs. Jody Miller and Chuck Bullion were suited for the game but injuries kept them from playing their normal positions. Bullion punted for the Braves when needed and Miller never made it off the sidelines. Both will be ready to see action in tomorrow night's Sumner contest.

The Braves want the win over the Spartans and know they must do it to keep in contention for the league crown.

"This weeks Sumner game is a must for us, the kids know it and are eager to get at them. We have been beaten soundly by them for the past two years and we believe that turnabout is fair play. They have some key kids that we will have to stop and we will have to move the ball against one of the strongest defenses in the league. They have only given up one touchdown in three games. We are due to put together a big ball game both offensively and defensively and we would like nothing better than to do it against Sumner," stated Tingstad.

If the Braves can knock Sumner from the unbeaten ranks it will leave Enumclaw as the main contender. Last week the Hornets had a little scare against the Vikings, barely managing to pull the game out. With seven games left against some stiff competition maybe the Hornets too will be knocked off their high horse.

Tomorrow's game with Sumner is to be played at Art Crate Field with kickoff time at 8:00 p.m.

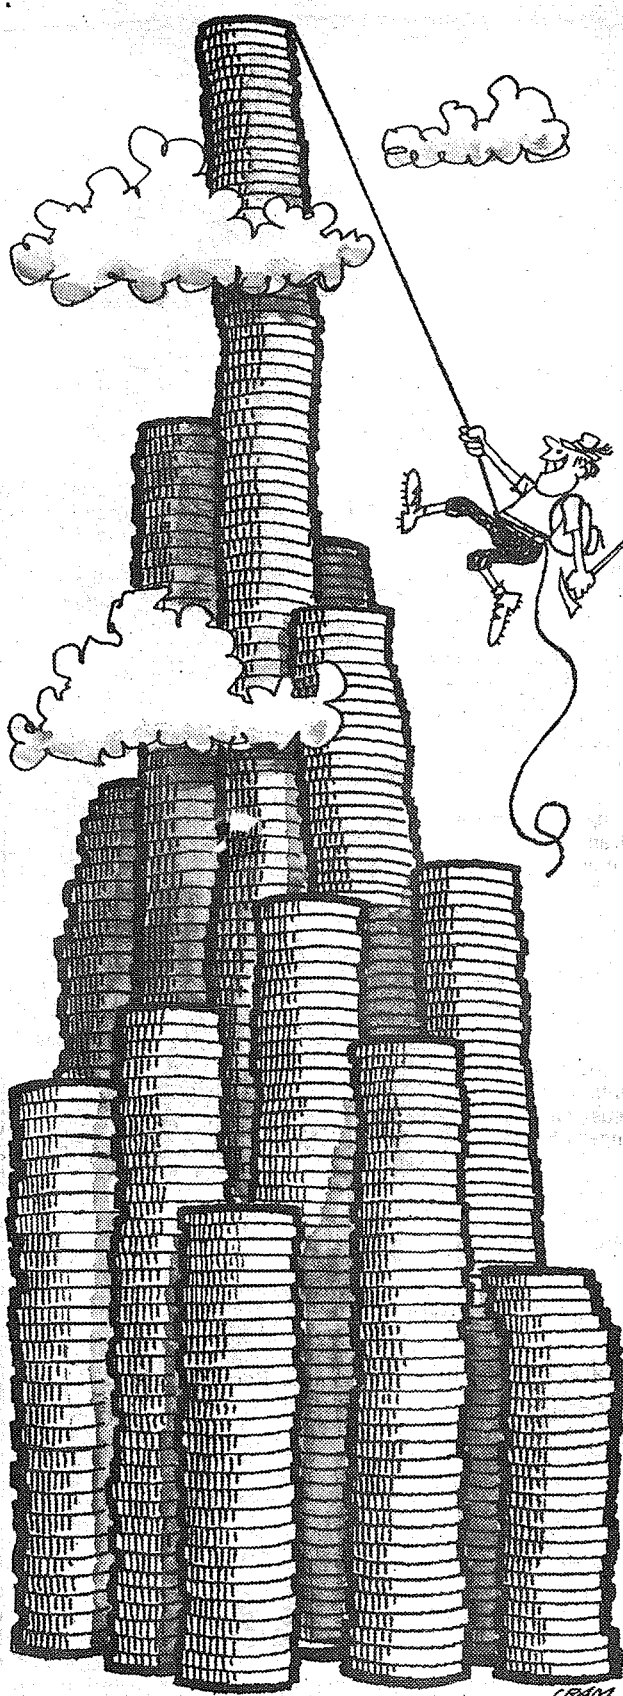

Franklin Pierce Edges Puyallup

The Franklin Pierce Cardinals travel to Auburn Friday looking for their fourth victory of the season against no defeats in South Puget Sound League play.

The Trojans had their record blemished last week when Lakes came out with 24-6 win, to put a damper on the Trojans hopes of contending for the title.

The Cardinals claimed a hard-fought win over Puyallup last week, edging the Vikings 7-6. Puyallup opened the scoring in the second quarter with a drive that finished in a 2 yard touchdown plunge by Terry Lupine. But the conversion failed.

Pierce came back later in the quarter spurred by Rick Tripp's recovery of a Viking fumble on the Puyallup 46. Cardinal Quarterback Woody Harris hit Mark Conrad for a 27 yard pass completion, and three plays later uncorked one to Martin Rogers for a first down on the Puyallup 6 yard line. Harris ran the final 6 yards to pay dirt on the second down play to tie the score. Then the talented toe of Mark Conrad booted the extra point that made the difference in the final score.

Patriots

Down Rams

Washington Patriots will face Jefferson High Friday night at the Franklin Pierce District field after flexing their muscles last week to crush Rogers 27-0.

It looked like Rogers was in for a long evening early in the contest when Washington turned nearly every opportunity into a scoring play. After 9 minutes of play, the Patriots had chalked up four touchdowns to lead 27-0.

Steve Butt dampened Rogers spirits with a 57 yard run on his first carry, then after a blocked punt and a penalty, he scored again on a plunge. Hans Woldseth ran back a Rogers punt 42 yards to pay-dirt, and Mark Ballman sprinted 51 yards for the final Washington tally.

Near the end of the first quarter Coach Tom Gilmer dipped into the Washington reserves who managed to hold the Rams scoreless the balance of the contest.

In the Matter of the Estate of KARL HIRIS, Deceased.
 COMES NOW the Personal Representative in the above referred estate and respectfully shows the Court as follows:

That in compliance with the Order of the Court heretofore entered, the subject hereinafter described real property was listed for sale with Collison Realty, Inc., a real estate broker licensed to do business in Pierce County. An earnest money offer has been received and the Personal Representative having examined the said offer, finds that the said offer is for 100% of the appraised value of the property, subject to the normal FHA discount rate and costs of sale. That the property is described as follows:

The East ½ of Tract 3, of SCHMIDS FIVE ACRE TRACTS; Except the South 198 feet, subject to Easements of Record;

Said bid was submitted through Collison Realty, Inc., who will be entitled to a commission of $630.00 upon closing of the sale and that an FHA discount rate not to exceed 7% is the normal and existing discount rate, and would be estimated at $735.00. That the subject property is without a water share, and that the earnest money increases the offering price to $10,500.00, but requires the Personal Representative to pay the cost of a water share, which will not exceed $500.00.

The Personal Representative has accepted the bid, sold the property subject to the approval of the Court, and recommends that this be approved and the sale confirmed on or after the 13th day of October, 1969, and that the Court direct the execution of the necessary instruments of conveyance to consummate the sale.

TCC Campus Guards To Stay Unarmed

Tacoma Community College trustees reaffirmed their policy of not arming campus security guards at their monthly board meeting Thursday evening.

The 4-0 decision was made despite the opposition of two students and two adults who attended the meeting, and student body president John DeVore.

John Binns, a fifth board member who in the past has opposed arming security officers, was absent. It was the first official meeting for the Rev. Robert Yamashita, appointed to the board ten days ago by Gov. Dan Evans.

The cause of the discussion was final consideration of a one-year contract for security services. In describing the duties of campus guards the contract says that "under normal circumstances" guards "shall not carry firearms" "during daylight hours" or 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

During the day the college president may order the arming of guards whenever he deems it necessary.

When asked what would happen should he be off campus, Dr. Thornton M. Ford, TCC president, said: "There are people here empowered to act for me when I'm gone."

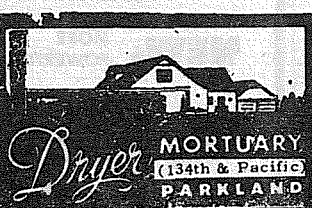

Mrs. Maxine Myers, board chairman, answered objections to the policy, saying: "I don't see why all the questions when the guards can be armed in a matter of seconds."

Board member Charles Edmunds stated that he wanted to go on record "as being violently opposed to the carrying of arms on campus."

Dr. Ford stressed the college's dependence upon the Tacoma Police Department for serious matters. "I think we're fortunate being located practically in the middle of town near the police," he said.
