State Income Tax Blasted By AWI

A leading industry spokesman today blasted political interpretations of the recent wave of school levy defeats as a public demand for a state income tax.

In an editorial in "Washington Business," Association of Washington Industries president Luke Williams, Jr., of Spokane pointed out, "In these tumultuous times in Washington State politics it is perhaps, not surprising that so many of our political leaders have lost perspective in their evaluation of the people's desires. Or is it that they no longer believe the people should have the kind of government they want — only "what is best for them?

words," he said, "it is because I am increasingly alarmed at the tortured interpretations politicians of both parties, as well as school spokesmen, have placed on the recent past elections. One after another they would have us believe that the people voted down school levies because they want tax

"Not so! Particularly if the generally accepted definition of tax reform in this state is under-stood. When our politicians say tax reform they mean (1) an income tax (2) broader tax base, and (3) more tax revenues for the state to spend.

Williams said that what he believed the voters were telling their public officials was, "we are pay-ing more taxes, especially with the surtax on the federal income tax, than we like and we want some relief from the upward spiral in the overall tax load.

"They were not saying, "we don't want to support schools." It's just that school levies were the only available way to express their general dissatisfaction with the tax burden. Exceptions to this can be found, of course. Some legislators were defeated because they became known as apostles of "tax reform" or, as in the case of one legislator, advocated removing all Constitutional restrictions from the Legislature's capacity to islature's capacity tax." Such opportunities for voter expression were rare, however, and seldom clean-cut, he felt.

Another exception, Williams pointed out, was represented by those who voted no on school issues because they feel the schools are either well enough financed now, or, are not using their present resources to best advantage.

"The fact is the people of this state are not clamoring for an income tax," he said. "It is, at the least, doubtful that they would vote one in if a tax reform Constitutional Amendment were placed before them. What is far more certain is that they want a realistic 25% assessmentlevel lid put on the prop-erty tax and they, the silent citizens who some-times "speak" most eloquently with their vote, want less government spending . . not more.

1968 will always hold treasured memories for Puyallup Training Stables operator Dee Parham, who produced four state champions during the past year.

Joker B. Fleet, owned by Alden See, Enumclaw, and trained and shown by Parham, won the title of Washington State Champion Senior Appaloosa Cutting Horse for the second successive year. This entitled him to compete in the World's Finals Appaloosa Performance Show in Las Vegas last November where he placed in the top ten.

Okaya Joe, also owned by Alden See during the show season but recently purchased by an Oklahoma City man, was the 1968 Champion Junior Appaloosa Cutting Horse. Joe also earned the title of 1968 Northwest Reserve Champion, Junior Appaloosa Cutting Horse which included Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and British Columbia.

Spooks Commanche Bars owned by Bud Robison, Eatonville. was 1968 Washington State Champion (Open) Western Pleasure Horse A Division. This was a big accomplishment for Spooks, an Appaloosa who won this title in competition with all breeds Frauline, owned by Alden See, Enumclaw and shown by Mrs. Dee Parham, came close to the ultimate by earning the reserve position as 1968 Champion Trail Horse, Open A Division WSH. Frauline also placed 4th in the state in Western Pleasure Division, A Division, WSH.

For Dee Parham, 1968 was a very good year.

Kimberly Stecker will always have a warm spot in her heart for 1968. As high point youth, Colts and Fillies, for the year, Miss Stecker took home a custom made saddle created by Dean Vosburg. We're sure the past year will live in her memory for many years to come.

Electric Motor Burnouts Cold Weather Hazard

The first snowstorms of the winter can bring on a rash of burned out motors, Frank C. Jackson, county Extension agent, warned today

The grease in the gearbox gets stiff. Ice and snow can freeze up moving parts. And blowing snow melts and breaks down the insulation if it gets inside the motor.

Such burnouts can be prevented by the right kind of motor protection from the weather and from overloads. Jackson advised.

Knights Challenge Loggers

Unbeaten in nine games, the University of Puget Sound's nationally-ranked basketball team has taken a "break" for the holidays to resume play January 6 at home against Pacific Lutheran University.

The Loggers will play four home games in six days following their 15 day layoff and coach Don Zech describes the situation as "the lull before the storm.

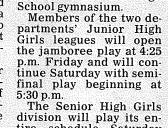

PLU, Hastings College of Nebraska, and the University of British Columbia will supply the opposition during the "storm." Hastings is the "storm." Hastings is scheduled to visit Tacoma January 8 and UBC will engage Puget Sound in a twogame series January 10 and

The Puget Sound cagers were rated 11th among the nation's college division teams according to the latest UPI (United Press International) poll. Included in the nine-game win streak are tournament championships in both the Daffodil Classic in Tacoma and the Cal Aggies Invitational at Davis, California.

"We're going to play them one at a time," Zech commented on the upcoming UPS schedule. That places Pacific Lutheran first on the Logger List. The Knights always have been tough on UPS teams, holding a 55-33 edge in the all-time series.

Hastings will bring a tall and talented team west, led by 6-11 Jack Kramer and 6-7 All-America candidate Glenn Mays, and British Columbia has one of the best teams in its nistory. Sweet Spanish Onions—The Big Ones

There are onions and Onions, but none that can approach the versatility of the Idaho-Oregon grown Sweet Spanish Onions now so plentiful in our markets. These are the striking king-size onions with paper-crisp skins of golden-bronze, sometimes least, turning slices once or creamy-white.

Known for their size and mild manners by way of flavor, they may be used in so many they may be used in so many ways—as meat accompaniment (so good creamed, scalloped, baked, broiled, fried), as entree in themselves when filled with a savory stuffing (meat, rice and cheese, baked beans), to say nothing of the famous French Onion Soup, lacy French-fried Onion Rings, relishes and garnishes, and the zest they give to salads and sandwiches. No ordinary onions these, yet so inexpensive. Salad Valencia is a beautiful salad for a buffet table, a de-salad for a buffet table, a de-lightful example of flavor and texture contrasts for embroidery.

In the early morning, thin-slice 3 or 4 small peeled navel oranges and 3 large Sweet Spanish onions (easiest done by slicing through the unpeel-ed onion, then removing the ed onion, then removing the skin from each slice). Arrange the slices in a shallow dish. Cover with a good tomato-free French dressing or a garlic-y Italian dressing. Let stand in the refrigerator 6 hours at twice.

Tear into bite-size pieces

Tear into bite-size pieces salad greens of your choice. A mixture is good. Put to crisp in the refrigerator. Cut French bread into ³/₄-inch cubes, to make a cup or more. Brown in heavy skillet in butter melted with a cut clove of garlic.

When ready to serve the salad, put greens into chilled bowl. Separate onion slices into rings and place along with orange slices atop greens. If desired, add sliced peeled avocado brushed with orange juice or dressing. Pour the leftover dressing over the salad. Sprinkle top with the garlic-buttered browned bread cubes.

Makes 6 to 8 servings or more buttered browned bread cubes. Makes 6 to 8 servings or more if you like. The orange and onion flavors blended with the dressing make for a most unusual and well-liked result.

You may like to serve this salad with two dressings along-side, one being additional oil dressing used for the salad marinating and the other a creamy Roquefort or Blue cheese salad dressing—an excellent partner for any sort of Sweet Spanish onion salads.

Winter Facilities Open At Paradise

Mount Rainier National Park-Superintendent John A. Townsley announced today that winter use facilities at Paradise are now in opera-tion on weekends and holi-days. Four rope tows offer skiers a variety of slopes and there is now over eleven feet of snow and ample area for snow play with platters and tubes.

The Paradise Visitor Center is open until 5:30 P.M. with a large observation deck, food service and a ski shop with rental equipment available. Food service will close at 5:00 P.M. Visitor services include museum, movie and slide programs and information about the park and Paradise area. Ski instruction will again be offered under the direction of Dick Vanderflute.

Superintendent Townsley advised that visitors to the park should carry chains and be prepared to use them when the chains sign is displayed. Chains may be rented at the service station in Longmire.

Overnight accommodations are not available in the park during the winter, however, motel type faciltites and food service are to be found along the road near the Nisqually Entrance to the park.

Sunshine Point Camp-ground, near Nisqually Entrance, will remain open throughout the winter.

Private owned oversnow vehicles are permitted on designated roads which are closed to normal vehicular travel for the winter. Permits and information may be obtained at Ranger Sta-
