Knights Take On Loggers Saturday In Final Season Conference Meet

Pacific Lutheran University closes out its 1962 Evergreen Conference season Saturday against cross-town rival University of Puget Sound. The 1:30 contest is slated for the Loggers' field.

The Knights presented Coach Roy Carlson with his first conference victory Saturday—a 20-6 triumph over Central Washington State—to boost PLU's record to 2-4-1. The Loggers are 5-2 and currently tied for the top of the Evergreen with Whitworth, both with 5-1 records. UPS claimed a 10-7 victory earlier in the season.

The Central game was a costly one for the Knights. Co-Captain and starting end George Vigeland suffered a simple fracture of the collarbone and will be sidelined for the remainder of the campaign. Freshman halfback Ray Gish (Franklin Pierce) suffered a broken nose and is a question mark.

The Lutheran's first homecoming victory since 1955 came on an offensive explosion in the second half that saw Carlson's newly discovered freshman backfield drive for two touchdowns. Bob Hoey (North Thurston) scored the equaling tally on a six yard sprint in the third quarter. Jerry Curtis' PAT put the Knights in front for keeps, 7-6. Linebacker Jim Cypert intercepted a Phil Fitterer pass and returned it 41 yards for the second touchdown. Quarterback Bob Batterman (Mead) closed out the scoring on a seven yard run late in the game.

In all, PLU rolled up 247 yards, its highest total of the season, while holding Central to 169, of which only 63 were on the ground. Hoey led the rushers with 79 yards in 10 carries, while frosh Jim Pederson (Franklin Pierce) followed with 64 in 10 trips.

Keith Shahan remains the Knight's leading rusher and total offense leader with 384 yards. Garry Nevers tops the passers with 202 yards (18 of 37).

Your Growing Garden

By Harriet Kennedy

A lot of the fun of gardening is in trying out experiments and new or different ideas. One of the projects I keep saying I'm going to try is to convert outdoor hanging baskets from summer to winter plants and let them stay up. It seems such a shame, in our mild climate, to do without this charming part of outdoor decor. After all we do have permanent plantings in outdoor planters and window boxes that weather through. There is no reason why the same principles can't be tried with the baskets.

Probably no hanging basket is completely safe during a high wind, so I would not like to use my good pottery baskets, but I wouldn't mind taking a chance on some wood slatted or wicker baskets. They could be placed in some what sheltered areas. If these locations could be viewed through a window from inside the house, all the better. Nor would it be advisable to use choice plants.

Native hardy evergreens and ivies would perhaps have the best chance of surviving. Even if they didn't, they would at least last in appearance until spring. A few crocus bulbs set in might work out too. Of course, the easy way out, would be to use the artificial plastic flowers and leaves that are so popularly used now. Although those that look "out of season" are rather a disturbing sight.

The baskets lining would begin with the usual moss or osmunda snugly covering the entire inside. Next a lining of sawdust, slightly moistened to insure a firm packing. Metal foil could then be put in place - it might act as an insulation - but it would have to have drainage holes in the bottom. An interlining of sawdust mixed with peat moss would go in next.

A special outdoor, winter potting mix should be used consisting of soil, compost, dried or composted manure, leaf mold, peat moss, some sand with a little charcoal added. The fertilizer should NOT have ANY nitrogen other than that which is in the manure and in bone meal which may be added to natural phosphate, potash and dolomite minerals. Kelp meal should also be added. Leave space at the top after planting for about two or three inches of the sawdust-peatmoss mixture to use as mulch.

Here again, after a freeze and before a thaw, the plants should be watered with a liquid seaweed solution.

Often the outdoor baskets are taken down, cleaned, repotted replacing the summer plants with house plants, then hung in the house. If the open work baskets are used, a layer of burlap should be placed inside the moss or Osmunda lining to prevent the potting mixture from sifting out. Caution should also be used to prevent excess dripping on floors or furnishings after watering. Other than this, the potting mixture, fertilizers, follow up feedings and watering is the same as any other house plant care.

Outdoor window boxes and planters should have the same treatment as the outdoor hanging baskets except that the metal lining should be placed against the boxes walls and floor. Adequate drainage should be provided for by setting in tubes or pipes to carry off excess water. Pieces of curved broken pots should cover the outlet holes to prevent them from becoming clogged. Cover the bottom with a layer of gravel, sprinkle with charcoal, fill with mix and plant, again using several inches of mulch. Then you can decide whether you're going to have some more fun adding color with a top dressing of rock aggregates, figurines and driftwood.

In 1895 the Supreme Court ruled the income tax unconstitutional, as a direct tax not apportioned equally according to population, as the Constitution required. The 16th Amendment to the Constitution, effective Feb. 25th, 1913, gave Congress the power to tax income without apportionment among the states.

Five Hoop Vets Respond To Call As Lundgaard Opens Practice Session

Coach Gene Lundgaard welcomed 21 basket ball prospects to his opening call at Pacific Lutheran University this week. Among the opening turnout are five returning lettermen from last season's Evergreen Conference and NAIA District champions.

Shadowing the opening Jerry Odsather. A pair of junior college transfers—Tom Whalen and Gus Kravas—from Olympic Junior College are being counted on for major duty in Lundgaard's plans. Whalen, at 6-6, 210 pounds, was an all-state selection last season. Tom prepped at West Seattle High School. Kravas, twice an all-Olympic League pick at Port Angeles H.S., was the "take charge" man last year at Olympic.

High Schools have also sent top prospects to the Knight campus. Leading the crop is 6-6, 192 pound freshman Curt Gammell from Los Angeles Polytechnic High School. Gammell was named the first team all-city dream team his senior year and the second team his junior year. He led his team to third place in the city championships last year after playing on the championship team as a junior. The tall frosh is expected to fill in for Larry Poulsen—the lone Knight lost to graduation.

Other prep stars include: Sonny Bridges (6-2, 185), an all-Central League selection in 1961 and 62 from Raymond High School; Karl Cordes (6-5, 210) an all Puget Sound League forward from Puyallup High; and Bob Roberts, an all-Los Angeles City League (2nd team) selection; and Ron Nilson (6-2), all-leaguer from Morton High School's class B state champions.

Returning non-lettermen are juniors Al Perry and Al James, both guards. Other freshmen are: Gene Graham (Walnut Creek, Calif.), Gary Hagen (Clover Park, Tacoma), Kenneth Hartvigson (Ballard, Seattle), Larry Larson (Franklin Pierce, Tacoma), and John Nelson (Walla Walla) gathering is the fact that seven felt winners failed to make the opening call this winter. Missing are Little All-American center Hans Albertsson, who has returned to his native Sweden for a year, Rolf Olson, Mike Healy, Larry Stevens, Jon Malmin—all of whom have European travels in their plans-- and Bob Joacobson, who was forced to hang up the books to work this semester.

Leading the returning veterans is all-Evergreen Conference forward Marv Fredrickson. The sure-shooting junior is backed by floor-leader Jim Castleberry, Dick Nelson, John Stevens and

FAMOUS FIRSTS

FISHING

First recorded fly-fishing was done by a group of Macedonians who set out to capture a storied "spoiled fish" in 300 A.D. This big one didn't get away... was lured by a fly made of colored wool and feathers.

First fishing for recreation was a kingly sport. Nero, the Roman Emperor, cast for fish in the Tiber, with a net woven in thread of purple and gold—his royal colors.

First choice of anglers today is six-year-old Antique Bourbon—satisfying and relaxing as the sport of fishing itself!

First angling tribes of Northern Canada made camp where the fishing was best... roamed the countryside from lake to lake, catching their food with harpoons and two-pronged spears.

Local Mother Learns Son Ends School

Army Pvt. Phillip D. Gann, 23, son of Claud Gann, Okanogan, Wash., recently completed the four-week airborne course at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. Gann received instruction in parachuting and the techniques of air-dropping troops and cargo. He entered the Army last April and completed basic training at Fort Ord, Calif. The 1957 Okanogan High School graduate attended Bakersfield (Calif.) College. His mother, Mrs. Alean M. Gann, lives at 1209 S. 115th St. Tacoma.

a - Wondering and a - Wandering ....

Sorry about missing last week. I was two miles up, heading for California, when I remembered that I hadn't turned in a column. Due to a scarcity of mailboxes at that altitude I had to just keep going and forget about it for that week.

One thing I did learn on that trip however. I had the L/F radio on the broadcast band and happened to be listening to some windy politician expounding on the farm support program. One thing he mentioned kind of rankled me. It seems that you and I, thru taxes, have purchased enough butter to average 1 1/2 pounds for every adult in America. Now that's a lot of smear. The purpose of this purchase or purchases has been to support the farmers and keep butter prices up. Of course we taxpayers have also been paying a staggering figure for storage and refrigeration of this butter to keep it from spoiling. This continual expenditure seems to be bothering some of the politicians but none have come up with an answer to the problem except to give the butter to some other country to butter us up in the eyes of that particular citizenry.

Now I can think of a lot simpler solution and one that would save additional countless thousands of dollars in shipping. Why not just give all our margarine eating taxpayers the pound and half of butter we have already paid five prices for and let us get in on the receiving end of a tax dollar just once.

This is probably far too simple a solution for any politician to accept, but who knows. Maybe there will be some changes made in thinking on the hill after the results of this election are fully known.

****

I for one am sure glad the Cuban situation has eased off. For one thing I can now get by without saying too much about it and showing my ignorance for, I for one, am completely surprised at the ease with which we got out of the mess. Having spent some time with the Russians in the last war I felt we were in for a real showdown, and although I am not one to usually look a gift horse in the mouth I think this one, presented by the paunchy Mr. K, should be checked over for "Thrush Foot" just to be on the safe side.

I had an interesting experience this past week that I can't help but tell you about. This was a dip into the past, where good old Western Hospitality was not just a dream.

I took off from Klamath Falls, late in the evening, just a week ago today, heading for Christmas Valley, Oregon. About twenty minutes out the sun fell off behind the cascades and I know now what they mean by saying, "when it gets dark out on the desert it does it fast and thorough." All my chances of ever landing at CV on an unlighted runway went down with the sun. Since I didn't have much else to do and couldn't quite make up my mind whether to return to K Falls or take off for Reno I kept on course until I was over Christmas Valley. It was so dark I couldn't begin to see the ground but finally I caught a flash of light and decided to drop down a few thousand feet just for kicks and fly over this new infant desert town at night.

As I started down I caught sight of a car on the road blinking its lights. Soon another followed and then another. As I dropped down into the inky well I gathered that the cars were heading for the airport. Soon I was low enough to dimly see the desert floor below and noted that one car seemed to have turned around and was shining his lights towards the west, while the other two had stopped with their lights shining to the east. By this time my eyes really bugged out for car after car was now heading for where I knew the airport to be. I peeled off and went down for a look see. Sure enough the runway was

NW Bell Pays $2,528,184 In Property Taxes

Checks totaling $2,528,184.47 were received by 38 of Washington State's 39 County Treasurers Wednesday (10-31) as Pacific Northwest Bell paid its second-half 1962 real and personal property tax. Only Island County (Whidbey Island) failed to participate in the financial windfall.

Pierce County Treasurer L. R. Johnson received a check for $318,538.53 to complete PNB's 1962 property tax assessment of $637,087.93 in the county.

Telephone manager David Williams said the company retained its title of "largest property taxpayer" in Washington State. Pacific Northwest Bell's 1962 state-wide property tax was up almost two hundred thousand dollars ($195,380.83) over 1961, reflecting the added investment by the company in telephone facilities throughout the state, he said.

lit up like Sea Tac with eleven sets of tail lights to guide me in. By the time I lined up on final, still two more cars were shining their lights on the runway threshold from my left. Now a total of fourteen cars were on the runway to light my way in. Even a lost UAL pilot could have landed a DC-8 on the strip.

Once I'd landed and all the cars pulled up I was amazed to see people in every form of dress from cowboy clothes to a bartender's apron pour out of the cars to welcome me.

Men, women and children had all dropped everything they were doing to rush to the airport to light it up for me, not knowing whether I was low on gas, lost, or just wanted a tall cool one. In reality I had been met by the entire town.

It also turned out that a town party was soon to get underway, to honor one of the local citizenry leaving for other parts. I found myself whisked off to a motel to clean up and then escorted to the party where I was wine and dined until I felt like some sort of VIP. Talk about hospitality. In a matter of minutes I felt like I knew everyone there. Townspeople, nearby ranchers, cowboys off the range and a couple of other drifters, like myself, spent a terrifically enjoyable evening in the Christmas Valley Lodge which acts as the Community Center. This was one community event and one roast turkey that I wouldn't have wanted to miss for anything. Just what urge kept me going that night, after I was sure I would be wasting my time I'll never know, but even though it wasn't Thanksgiving I sure gave mine over that turkey.

If you're ever down in Eastern Oregon don't miss a visit to Christmas Valley. You just can't beat the old time hospitality that still exists out there in the desert.

Speakers Named For Vet's Day

Three seniors will tell what democracy means to them at the annual Franklin Pierce High School Veterans' Day assembly to be held Friday at 10 a.m. in the school gymnasium.

The assembly is an annual affair sponsored by the school's social studies and music departments. Mrs. Eleanor Ervin, head of the social studies department, is the general chairman for the event.

Finalists in the "I Speak for Democracy" contest were selected last week from a total of 19 contestants. Speaking in the finals Friday at the assembly will be Judy Brammer, Debi Firgens and Robert Gunter. Musical numbers appropriate to the occasion will be presented at the assembly by the choir and orchestra under the direction of Ron Smith and Eugene Ahrendt, vocal and instrumental teachers, respectively.

Because of the nature of the program and its significance, parents and friends are invited to attend the assembly, Mrs. Ervin said.

Summit News

Again this week, Mr. Bill Rave has written an article about the Summit Youth Center. "Well folks, the Youth Center calendars have arrived. They came by fast freight. It took nine days from Cincinnati. There are 320 of them packed in three cartons. They have on them a picture of 123 Central Avenue Little Leaguers who played baseball for fame and glory last summer.

The fifteen or more workers who sold calendars, typed names and dates and did other odd chores to put over the Youth Center's biggest calendar sale will be invited to a luncheon at the Youth Center, Monday evening November 12th. They will receive their allotment of calendars for distribution and be awarded small tokens of appreciation by the Youth Center Board.

Therefore, if during the next few weeks a small boy shows up at your door with a calendar in hand -- remember, you bought one."

The Wood Bee's Garden Club will meet in the home of Mrs. Roy Maritvold on Thursday, November 8th at 10:00 a.m. Mrs. Don Harte will show dried arrangements and cone plaque making. Members are asked to bring a sack lunch and coffee and dessert will be served by the hostess.

The Summit Methodist Church announces its Potluck dinner to be held November 11th, at the church. Serving begins at 6:00 p.m. and everyone is welcome. The film "A New Kind of Building" will be presented.

The Summit Cooperative Nursery School mother's meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wallace Madsen on Tuesday, November 20th at 8:00 p.m. Co-hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Ronald Pearson and Mrs. Leo Zeiler. Mrs. Reed Hansen will demonstrate holiday suggestions.

At the October 25th meeting of the Youth Center Board the following people were re-elected and appointed to the offices of the organization. President; William C. Rave, Vice-President; Serle Hart, Secretary; Gladys Fellows, Treasurer; Maurice Barrackman, and Ken Fuller was re-elected to the Trustees and is joined by the new members Mary Hart and Toby Torbet.

Five new members have been added to the Borad, they are, George Lind, Bob Adler, Corky Moore, Fran Torbet and Dorothy Olmstead.

These people are working hard to better the Youth activities and facilities, so lets all get behind them!

Dave Hammar, coach of the Summit Junior Boys Baseball team, would like to thank the many teenagers who came out for the dance on Hallowe'en night. Special thanks are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Olmstead and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Almont, chaperones, also to George Spandel, Bill Hammar and Bruce Olmstead who worked in the kitchen and to Eugene Gustafson who watched at the door.

The proceeds have made a nice start in the buying of uniforms which were in need and everyone is urged to watch for further benefits in the near future being sponsored by these ball players.

Big green boxes scattered about, are put there so you can help scout. Gather your magazines. Gather your papers. Tie them and put them in the box for a Scouter. The colors are green and yellow too. The Girl Scouts are urging all to take part - And this means you!

We give advice by the bucket, but take it by the grain.

Greek Festival Opens At PLU

Three thousand years of the glory that was Greece spring vividly to life again in the songs, dances and music of Panhellenion, the Festival of Greek folks arts that will perform at Pacific Lutheran University Friday evening, Nov. 8. Making its first appearance in this country, the Greek company will be sponsored here by the PLU Students Artist Series. The program will start at 8:15 p. m. in the university gymnasium.

Eleni Tsauli, founder, director and choreographer of Panhellenion, has arranged this production to give American audiences a panorama of Greek life and culture. From her home company of 50, she has chosen 16 of the most talented and attractive dancers. They will be accompanied by four virtuous musicians playing a variety of strange native instruments. Demotic songs (songs of the people) will be presented by one of Greece's outstanding vocalists.

Some of the dances to be presented go back to the Golden Age of Theseus and Odysseus and dramatize in thrilling movement great deeds in the legends of these heroes. Tradition holds that many of the dances were created by the heroes themselves. Others are of more recent origin, such as "The Sailor's Dance" from the waterfront of Pirceus which scored a hit in the film, "Never on Sunday." The dances have been collected from every part of Greece—from Macedonia in the north to Crete in the south, from Rhodes in the east to Corfu in the west. They represent the people of the mountains, the plains, and the islands; and depict scenes from life in remote rural villages and bustling modern cities.

Authentic in every detail, the dances will be performed in appropriate regional costumes which add a dazzling splash of color to the spectacle of movement and sound. Some of the women's dresses, with accessories, weigh as much as 20 pounds.

Panhellenion was founded nine years ago by Miss Tsauli to preserve in their original form the traditional dances she has discovered in her searching throughout her country and to present them on stage so that Greeks and other alive might enjoy the richness of their art. The group has performed at religious and national festivals in many regions of Greece and has enchanted audiences throughout Europe.

Tickets for Friday evening's performance of Panhellenion are available at Ted Brown Music Co., Sherman, Clay & Co., Lakewood Record and Book Shop and the Public Relations office at the University.

By George Purcell
Here is a letter from the first IFYE to an Iron Curtain country.
Dear Friends at Home:
May God be with you!

I arrived in Poland through the port at Gdynia. This is one of the two major ports of Poland, the other being Gdassk which is about 18 miles from Gdynia. Both of these towns were destroyed during the war - however much rebuilding has been done. I am not sure that we in America could rebuild as fast as these people, but then we haven't been "tried" either. And for that matter God help us, let's hope we don't have to be. Poland is about the size of the state of New Mexico, with about 30 million people crammed in its streets and fields. It lies between East Germany and Russia and has no natural barriers to help defend itself from these countries. This is a

Research Group Headed By Hilton Lysons

In a reversal of the old saw "out of the woods," a prominent research engineer, formerly with the Boeing missile division, is taking charge of a new U. S. Forest Service engineering research program for Oregon and Washington. This program will eventually involve establishing a Forest Engineering Laboratory in Seattle, according to R. W. Cowlin, Director of the Pacific Northwest Forest and Range Experiment Station in Portland.

Named as head of the new program is Hilton H. Lysons who has had 18 years experience in logging equipment design, 3 years of research and development experience in the U. S. Navy, and 3 years in "systems engineering" as research engineer with Boeing Co., where he has been in charge of advanced mechanical ground system studies for the Minuteman missile.

In his 18 years in logging equipment design, Lysons held responsible and leading positions as research and development engineer with three major logging and wood products machinery companies in the Pacific Northwest—12 years with Pacific Car and Foundry Co., 3 years with Berger Engineering Co., and 3 years with Halladie Machinery Co.

While an officer with the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance Research and Development Branch, he originated a radically new depth charge release which was adopted for fleet use.

In his assignment as head of the new Forest Engineering Research program, Lysons will develop engineering systems needed to economically meet the forestry objections in West Coast timber and similar areas in the United States and Alaska. These systems will apply to methods of harvesting and transportation, reestablishment of forests, timber and watershed protection and improvement, providing access for multiple use of the forest, and special structural requirements for National Forest buildings, fire towers, and bridges.

real problem to all Poles and after just the few days I have been here I can see why.

The public relations person for the Z.M.W., Mr. Sosnowski, met us at Gdynia and stayed with us until we started to our host families. The A.M.W. is similar to our 4-H Clubs, and it has a sister organization for the town and cities.

The people in Poland are friendly and they try hard to make up for the language difficulty. With their help and mine, I find that in the towns I do not have too hard a time. The "Voice of America" broadcast and the "America" magazine are two things which are readily looked for by the Polish. The newstands can not keep enough of the magazine "America" in its display, even though it sells at a high price for Polish workers. Books and papers as well as magazines, are highly treasured materials by the people. It is important to the families to have at least one book regardless of how poor they are.

In Warsaw I was invited to spend an evening with a family. There was a boy, about 15, and two girls, 19 and 14. All were studying English so with that, and a friend of mine who was in Warsaw at the time, we got along fine. They were interested in learning the Twist, so we "twisted" for about two hours. Their home was two rooms, very clean, and on the third floor of about a six floor apartment house. Outside you could see where bullets had pocked it during the war. Probably the most important item in the house was the radio which was on the "Voice of America" program and later tuned in to a Luxembourg station which spoke English. They did not do this just for us, this is common practice. The people like songs like "Sweet Baby", "Moody River", etc. and want to listen to them in English. The second most important thing was the collection of books they had gathered. When they found out I was a teacher we went through several of them. The one girl had read "The Prince and the Pauper" and "Little Women" in English.

If there is any store most frequently seen it is a book store - both old and new, and it seems they are always doing business, even though the prices are high for Polish wages.

This lets you know where your IFYE is and that she is all right. Very soon you will hear about the agriculture on my first host family's farm. I hope this finds you well and your crops in good condition. Have you succeeded in having any good weather? I hope so, for we needed it badly when I left. May all go well with you, Your Polish IFYE, Mary McGreevy

Our latest communication is a very brief note from Mary. She says in the part: "Yes, language is a problem but we are progressing, I am sure. My host family speaks no English. Mary McGreevy (of Colton, Washington) (Whitman County) is spending from June to November living and working with farm families in Poland."
