The Wheelin' Squares will be dancing June 17th, Saturday evening at the Rave Hall directly behind Central Avenue School, located on Knapp Road with the address of the following 4505 East 104th. Ed Hendricks will do the calling, and Dad's Night will be celebrated. Fun and surprises will be had by all who attend. Local Girl Weds

Miss Kay Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Smith of Summit and Carl N. Jonsson, son of Carl U. Jonsson Sr. of Murrita, California, were married recently in the Evesgreen Baptist Church. Bridesmaid was Edith Dilman and best man was Tom Thompson. Mr. Iverson performed the ceremonies. The couple will make their new home in California as soon as Mr. Jonsson completes his service duties. The bride was a 1960 graduate of Franklin Pierce.

Family united
The entire month of June will be a happy one for Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Austin along with daughter Janis, who has flown here from Alaska to meet her family. She is a laboratory technician in an Anchorage hospital. She flew from Anchorage to make the trip up the Alcan Highway with her family. Together they will enjoy fishing in the Yukon. Lucky for Janis that she could persuade her boss not to send her to a field laboratory at Point Barrow or she would have missed the family entirely.

Last but not the least a special thank you to the community for its fine cooperation and support.

Stockraisers
Several members of the Summit Stockraisers entered the district demonstration contests at Franklin Pierce. They were Eddie Irish, Carolyn Godfrey, Dean Wilson, Greg Haaland, Paul Douthett, Sharon Anderson, Gary Wilson, Trudy Haaland, John Fuller, Mike Waldrop and Glenna Haaland. They received

red and blue ribbons. Those with blue ribbons went on to a second contest with all blue ribbon winners from the county. This was held at Summit High School on May 13, with John Fuller, Trudy Haaland, Carolyn Godfrey, Glenna Haaland, Paul Douthett, and Greg Haaland competing there. From this elimination contest all received red ribbons except Trudy Haaland, who won a blue. This means he is to go on to further contests at the fall fairs. He has an illustrated talk on the "History of the Polled Short-horn Beef Breed of Cattle."

One of the Dairy members, Gary Wilson, whose project is Guernsey heifers, was chosen from Pierce County by the Guernsey Association for a tour and trip of 3 days to Everett, Wash. and reported on his experiences. Gary also entered the contest for a dairy calf given by the Puyallup Kiwanis Club and has been notified that he was the winner of the next available heifer.

Four of the dairy members entered the Enumclaw Dairy Show on May 20th. The Junior Leader, Pat McFarland, took his prize Jersey and came back with two blue ribbons. Glenna Haaland took two of her Jerseys and returned with three blue ribbons and a traveling kit. Dean Wilson took his Brown Swiss receiving two blue ribbons, a championship ribbon, a trophy for Junior Showmanship, a wrist watch plus a flashlight. Another top showman with his Guernsey was Gary Wilson who carried home a trophy, two blue ribbons, a championship ribbon, and a wristwatch and flashlight.

It's The Law

A Child Is Crippled
Ida, 13, was in the post office to buy some stamps when she tripped over an empty mail sack a postal employee had carelessly left in the aisle. She fell and was seriously hurt. Her accident happened on June 12, 1955. About two and a half years later, in December, 1957, her mother, as Ida's guardian, filed a suit against the United States under the federal tort claims act, asking damages for the injuries Ida suffered.

The federal tort claims act provides that claims for damages against the United States must be filed within two years of the time of the injury or the claim will be barred. Ida's mother said she had a right to sue for her daughter after two years had passed because a statute of limitations barring the claims of minors does not expire until the child is of age.

Do you think Ida's mother is right. Can she successfully sue the United States for the negligence of a postman more than two years after she was injured?

In such a lawsuit the court said Ida's claim was filed too late. The United States cannot be sued at all except with the government's consent. The federal tort claims act, which gives permission for persons to sue the government, provides that such suits must be filed within two years.

There are no special provisions for minors to wait longer than two years before suing the United States, even though as a general rule a statute of limitations does not bar a minor from bringing a suit against others. In a suit against the government, a minor has no more rights than a person of age, as far as a statute of limitations is concerned.

(This column is written to inform, not to advise. Facts may change the application of the law.)

Martin Company tests on manual simulated human control of space vehicles indicate that the human brain in full control might pay for its space weight against complex automatic machinery. These tests also indicate that women may turn out to have more precision as space drivers than men.

a-Wondering... and a-Wandering...

with JACK BROWN

For the past couple of weeks I have been thinking over one subject, trying to determine if my thoughts were guided strictly by illiteracy on my part, or could there be foundation for my thinking? It all started a couple of weeks or so ago when Jerry Hedlund and I got hungry. We were on our way back from L.A. and decided to land at a well known place near Frisco Cal., since they have a landing strip near the restaurant and cater to flyers. Along with a large assortment of wares on sale to the visitors, they have an art gallery.

No visit there is complete without a squint at the work of the masters, or so I'm told. At any rate, not wanting to miss anything, and having plenty of time, we decided to have a look-see. Right at this point I stopped seeing eye to eye with a lot of people. I have never in my life seen such utter junk. I stood beside those who oohed and aahed, and all it did for me was to create some doubts in my mind at to the sanity of those nearby. Just to keep the record clear, Jerry wasn't receiving the stuff either. His eyes bugged out like a bullfrog choking on a tennis ball when he saw some of it.

It would be impossible to create for you with words a mental picture of this modern art. I will say this without fear of contradiction. There is a large piece of heavy wallpaper in my garage whereupon many people over the years have cleaned their paint brushes, and I am sure, were I to remove it, place it among the work of these so called artists with a 3 or 4 hundred dollar price tag, one of the oohers and aahers would eventually buy it, so long as I signed it Putridisky or some such name.

One $200 gem for sale there was dobed on just such a piece of wallpaper and little bits of paper torn from a Japanese publication were stuck here and there on it to create the illusion of what, I know not.

Personally I think it should give us all pause to worry that we are becoming a nation of imbeciles. Art is art, and more power to those who truly appreciate it, but some of this stuff is an insult to the intelligence of all Americans.

So now the phone will start to ring; but this has been bothering me no end.

For months now the nation has been regaled with comment on recession, depressed areas and unemployment. We are told that the government must move aggressively to encourage economic growth. But the remedies proposed, in many instances, would require more taxes and would offer none of the inducements that would stimulate investment in American enterprise, create jobs, and increase our national productivity and income.

For example, we see the powers that be in Washington urging stiffer taxation of millions of investors who are already penalized with double taxation. The way this works is simple: Profits made by a corporation are first taxed at the corporation rate of 52 per cent, and then any dividends paid to individuals are taxed at the personal income rates ranging from 20 to 91 per cent.

In 1954 Congress took notice of this injustice, and provided a bit of relief whereby the first $50 of dividend income received by an individual is not taxed, and a 4 per cent tax credit is allowed on any additional dividend income. That, certainly, is little enough. But it is now proposed that the dividend exclusion and credit allowances be repealed.

It would be a strange way to encourage economic growth to tell 15,000,000 shareowners in American industry that their tax on dividend income is to be increased by the small amount they are now allowed as credit. This would discourage savings and investment in productive enterprise. Virtually every one of the free world's major industrial powers, growing faster than we are, has so liberalized its treatment of dividends, that investors receive, at the very least, twice the tax credit American shareowners experience.

It is inconceivable that Congress will resort to this type of pocketbook picking if it is serious in its avowed desire to encourage economic expansion.

It should be remembered that a large share of U.S. stockholders are housewives, and they are a thrifty lot. Snap their collective purses shut and expansion would come to a screeching halt.

The other day I was on the way to Darrington, a little community nestled back in the foothills of the Cascades. For once I was on the ground, due to an early morning overcast. As I rounded a corner on the narrow road leading towards this town I saw a sign that caused me to pull over to the side of the road and get out of the car. A small sign announced that I was entering Hazel. There wasn't anything outstanding about Hazel that made me stop, except it was obviously a long abandoned logging town. It looked as though only three or four of the town's buildings had been kept up over the years and were still occupied. All the rest were in some acute state of disrepair. Some had long since collapsed, to become covered with underbrush.

Standing there looking over these shacks that once caused a town to be named for the spot, made me realize how far we have advanced in the last 40 years. I walked over to one nearby shanty and took a look inside. No plumbing, no indoor toilets, no electric lights and no running water served this home when once it was inhabited.

It made me wonder what fate had dealt the inhabitants of this town since they had left so many years ago. There's one thing for sure. Every child born in one of these shake shacks was given the right start in life. There was only one way he could go and that was up. I ought to know, for I was born under one of those shake roofs in Hazel.

Spanaway Guild Meets

The Belle King Guild for Retarded Children had a delightful meeting at the Spanaway Lake home of Mrs. Frank Stroneck last Thursday evening.

Mrs. Stroneck was made an honorary member of the Guild in April.

The evening was spent at the beach patio by the following members: Mesdames Howard E. Miller, Kenneth Crawford, Lloyd Larson, Richard Clemons, Kenneth Lampitt, Donald Reed, Christina Peterson and Miss Virginia Ann Miller.

Visit Mrs. William Walin just returned from a two weeks visit with her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Billy Walsh at Monmouth, Oregon.

Get Well Get well wishes go to little Gregory Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomas who is ill in the hospital with pneumonia.

Low Prices Popular

The Bungalow reports the response to the NEW LOW PRICE on their exclusive TENDERET was far beyond their expectations. Hundreds of people tried TENDERETS for the first time, and were delighted to discover a taste treat they didn't know existed — and at pre-war prices.

The all beef burgers at only 18c kept the griddles hot and the cooks hopping. Roy and Al are grateful that the people recognize a real food bargain and want to thank them for the wonderful acceptance of their "GOOD FOOD AT THE RIGHT PRICE" program. Watch for other SPECIAL FOOD BARGAINS at the Bungalow.

The Hermie Hildreth Combo still packs them in the Cabaret six nights a week. Come out and have fun. Lots of parking in the rear.—Adv.
