Let Me Tell One Plan Now - Or Pay Later . . .

By NEIL McLEAN

At hand are the just released results of a survey conducted in the Parkland-Spanaway area among the business firms by the Pierce County Planning Department.

After reading the results and looking at the area, I am wondering just how the planners are going to go about applying the results of their survey to their plan. Being new in the community, I have no foreknowledge of any plan and must assume that there is one.

As a new member of the community, and I assure you that I intend to be an active person in this area, I was first struck by the development of Pacific Avenue business as it has apparently grown through the years.

My first thought was 'Here is another Aurora Avenue in the making.' As you may or may not know, Aurora Avenue going north from Seattle, grew into an ugly row of business establishments, with garish neon signs competing with each other for attention until none of them were distinguishable from the night-marish overall presentation. This is business display at its ugliest.

Assuming that the Pierce County Planning Department has a plan, which I intend to inform myself about as soon as possible, let us hope that it will contain safeguards which will not allow another 'Aurora Avenue' to just grow up among us before we are aware of the problem.

This is not to say that I consider the area ugly or overgrown with business. My intention in writing anything about it at all is to get my oar in before anything like what I have described does happen.

Taking what we have here at the present time, and building with an eye to the future, can give this area the proper and orderly growth which will make people want to come back to our places of business year after year.

Maybe this will be construed as putting the burden on the businesses and builders yet to come. I don't think so. When better buildings and well-kept places of business are built and operating, others will want to emulate their good sense, because by then it will become a matter of dollars and cents.

With the growth that is likely to come to this area if half the predictions about it are true, more and more the pressure will be on to make a 'strip' of Pacific Avenue. A strip may not be bad in itself, but the manner in which some of them have developed should give us a clue as to what could happen here without some vigilance and support of the Planners who undoubtedly are well aware of the possibilities.

Shopping centers are springing up, more are planned and the community is growing.

In ten years it will look just like you want it to-- because that's the way you will plan it.

"HANDLE EVERY GUN AS THOUGH IT WERE LOADED"

Handle every gun as though it were loaded. Loren Curry, county Extension agent, said this safety rule can save lives at home as well as in the hills on a hunting trip.

Bethel Takes Federal Survey

Questionnaires were sent home with students of the Bethel School District Tuesday to determine if either of the parents or guardians are employed on Federal Property. Parents must have been employed on Federal Property by Wednesday, October 18, the date of the survey, to be eligible.

About 24% of the enrollment of the Bethel District last year was accounted for by children whose parents were federally connected. Ft. Lewis, McChord Air Force Base, Mt. Rainier Ordnance Depot, Madigan Army Hospital, The Armed Forces and the Boeing Plants had the greatest number last year. Others were Veterans Administration Hospital, Puget Sound Navy Shipyard, Federal Buildings, Ft. Lawton, Gifford Pinchot National Forest and children of soldiers stationed overseas.

Any parents working for any private concern on federal property were also eligible.

Last year the Bethel District received $54,615.00 from this source, according to Superintendent John Milroy.

The meeting will be held at 1002 S. 96th.

a youngster palms his first toy pistol. The training starts with directing the youngster to point the muzzle in a safe direction-- never toward another person or toward a part of his own body.

Curry said this primary safety rule is basic behavior for all firearms' users. He urged all gun totes, young and old, to safeguard life and limb by observing these additional safety rules:

The first action in handling a gun is to make certain that the muzzle is pointed in a safe direction. Then examine the breech to make sure the gun and magazine are empty. Then look through the bore to see that it is open.

If the gun has a tubular magazine or clip for holding cartridges, withdraw the tube or clip and examine carefully to be sure that no cartridge is stuck in it. A deformed tube or clip, grease or grit, or a weak spring might cause or permit a cartridge to remain concealed only to be freed subsequently by a sudden jar. An unloaded gun cannot discharge.

When loading a gun, be sure the muzzle does not point to any part of the body. Also be sure it is not pointed at any other person or at a hard horizontal surface.

Much to our chagrin we made an error in last week's ad for SILER'S TV. Many readers were startled to see TV sets seemingly selling for $1.75. Actually Mr. Siler intended to say that a TV could be purchased for as little as $1.75 per week.

County Planning Commission Survey Indicates Favorable Results for Southern Pierce County Business Establishments

According to a majority of the businessmen responding to the recent Pierce County Planning Commission survey of the Parkland-Spanaway area, business is 'good' in the area.

Only 11 per cent of those responding said that business was 'poor'. Of 235 questionnaires sent out, more than 40 per cent were returned filled out.

The survey was conducted this summer by the Planning Department to provide information to assist in the development of a comprehensive development plan.

In an analysis of the answers received, the department reported that more than 90 per cent of the businessmen would like to remain in their present locations. Most indicated that certain conditions would have to be fulfilled before they would move to a planned commercial shopping area.

It appears from the tabulation of the responses that the most urgent problems in the area which need to be solved are sanitary sewers, public transit, sidewalks, with water and parking problems getting a mention.

Some of the reasons cited for unsatisfactory business were: lack of consumer goods variety, poor general appearance of the shopping facilities and the level of income of the local population.

Of the total responses, some 40 per cent would like to see the area grow.

FP Board Signs Deed To Widen E. 104th by 10 Ft.

The Franklin Pierce school board recently signed a dedication deed for a strip 10 feet wide along E. 104th by Ford Junior High School. This will widen 104th St. from Portland Ave. to Golden Given.

The board also accepted the State Highway Department's offer of $131,776.35 for damages and relocation of the high school athletic field. The Highway Department is planning to put a freeway bypass right through the middle of the football field. Thus, the field will be moved to a new site west of the gymnasium. Bids will be let for the rough grading of the field later this fall.

The board has made plans to purchase two portable class rooms to use at the District's most crowded schools.

A Drive Down Pacific Ave.

In last week's issue was a great amount of news regarding the "building boom."

I do not take umbrage with the conclusions of our last issue, but must confess myself puzzled by the exact meaning of the word "boom". At what point does it apply? At one million? At two? At three?

Within this area we have now under construction a super market, a couple of medical clinics, a floor covering business, a gutted theatre being rebuilt, and a sprinkling of private residences. Is this a boom?

What does an eye, new to the district, see upon first driving about? My eye saw many small businesses located at seemingly random spots along the highway. There was no particular plan visible to my eye. I did not see any special effort made to furnish a cohesive parking and shopping district for the local purchasers of goods and services. At best there are two or three groups of stores of varying types so located together as to give "one-stop service" --but is this enough? What else did my eye see? Driving down Pacific I am able to view some excellent pasture land abutting the highway. And bashfully peering out from amid the tall grass and weeds can be seen a unique bit of Americana, the rusted-out and unwanted carcasses of old, tired automobiles. Unwanted at any rate by those of us desiring some form of transportation.

Understand me if you will, that I have no particular wish to see a highly populated, densely traffic-patterned community. If I liked New York I'd move to New York. These questions are designed to raise these and other questions in your mind. And in my own as well since I am now a member of this community. —R. L. ANDERSON

Salmon Fishing Time Announced

Sports salmon fishermen in the Puget Sound area were reminded recently by the Department of Fisheries that all streams in the area open to sports salmon fishing are closed Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week until November 30.

The sports salmon fishing season in Lakes Washington and Sammamish opens Thursday, October 12, postponing usual opening date of October 10 because of the weekly three-day closure.

The Fisheries Department has received complaints of snagging or molesting salmon in streams, many of which are low and clear. The Department called attention to the regulation that makes it illegal "To club, gaff, shoot, snag, dip net, stone or otherwise molest food fish (including salmon)".

The Department is also concerned with advertisements of real estate promoters which promise good salmon fishing in areas that are closed to fishing.

Fishermen were urged to check sports fishing regulations for food fish in the 1961 Sports Regulations booklets, which are available at sporting goods stores or at Fisheries Department offices in Olympia or Seattle.

Here is my point: no matter how undeserving a person is, if he's economically "hungry" he is much more sympathetic to a communist propaganda that offers communal ownership than the man who takes pride in work well done, and realizes capital gain from it. It is no good to present a problem when one is not prepared to offer a solution. Though it's not my own, I have a solution. It can not be accomplished in a day, but it has no other alternative but to work if used.

Simply stated, this is it. Our government (you and I and the man next door) spends many millions to support non-working people while there is useful, honorable and very necessary work to be done. I understand that there are six million (plus) jobs that are filled with no properly trained people to fill them. Such jobs as those in the electronic field, for example, require special training, but not necessarily an academic education. Rather than support a population of people with no plan for helping themselves, why not educate them (at government expense) and then place them where they are needed in society, in jobs which will re-establish their pride in themselves? I cannot believe that many living on government support actually like it.

Once they have established themselves there is no reason why they could not re-imburse the government for their training if expense were a factor against such a scheme. For such a plan of course, we would need a central coordinating agency as intricate as the New York Stock Exchange with feelers in every city and village of the country, so that at a moment's notice one could determine the job need in the specific area under consideration. This is not a moment's notice.

As I understand it, the reason we have an unemployment problem at all is because we are in a flux of discoordination with no master plan for employment. Today, the job we take is a hap-hazard collision of fate at best for most of us, with little thought of where it will lead us. No factory ever hired workers willy-nilly with no plan. The manager knows exactly how many workers of each type he needs, and hires accordingly. If a hundred machinists are standing in line for employment and twenty-five are needed, the rest will go jobless regardless of how well trained they may be. This situation is multiplied in actuality a thousand times over; but with a central agency to feel out the job needs in relation to the national needs, this could never happen.

Facts force us to realize there is a certain percent who just plain don't want to work, but they should not be included in that part of our thousands who sincerely desire to work, but are not properly prepared to fill jobs needed, or are in over-crowded fields of work.

It is not enough to urge high school students to stay in school in order to solve the problem of lack of preparation. Adults, now unemployed, should be educated for a specific job field. A man working toward a definite end applies himself far more seriously than a youngster who is still undecided about his future. In a relatively short time such an adult could be back at work, gainfully employed, his pride restored, and his obligation to society more nearly filled.

A man unemployed is not only a problem to himself, he is a cancer in the face of our nation. But pointing the finger of condemnation will solve nothing, determine nothing, alleviate nothing.

I have never written to an editor, nor would I have written in this one if I didn't follow your column with the interest and enthusiasm which I do.

Yours very sincerely,
Mrs. Nedelko N. Vulchev

Each week when I write this column and take a poke at some one or something that I think needs rectifying I make a vow to myself that next week for sure I'll find something to write about that will be a pat on the back instead of a kick in the slats.

Last week was no exception. I made the vow but man am I going to break it.

Several times since moving to this area I have had the opportunity to sell out and leave, but I've always stayed because I liked the people and felt it was a good wholesome area to live in and raise a family. Could be that I was wrong.

A few years ago a colored Army Sgt. who had served his country through the last war and the Korean conflict was assigned to Fort Lewis. He bought a home in this area, sent for his wife and stepson who are Caucasians and his other son who was born colored. The family lived in this area and were respected. The boys attended school here and were accepted and well liked by their classmates. They set an enviable record with high grades. The father spent his spare time studying to become a lawyer. He took all the correspondence courses the Army had to offer. He was an outstanding soldier and citizen.

A couple of years ago he was assigned to Germany again. He sold his home in this area and took his family with him. Finally last May after serving his country for 21 years he retired. At that point in his life he could have chosen any spot in America to make his home since his family ties held him to one spot. He could have moved to Virginia where his stepson is now serving in the Army but his other son remembered his friends he had made here and the family remembered as well. The father decided that the University of Washington would be the place to finish his law school so the family had been enroute, bag and baggage, heading for our area all the way from Germany for weeks.

They remembered the Times Journal and headed for our office to get a paper and look at the 'for rent' column when they arrived. A few days they stopped again to look at the new issue. This time there was not quite the sparkle and excitement at getting home that was so evident the first time they walked in. Too many landlords had turned them down because the father and children were colored. Here at the T J Office we began to take an interest in the problem of the family. We were all generally happy when the father stopped by to tell us they had found a place and were moving in. Two days later a dejected colored man stopped by to tell us that the people had refused to let them move in. What a hell of a welcome for this returning veteran!

He's been good enough to fight for us through two wars and 5 major battles, was awarded the bronze star yet apparently sour people feel he's not good enough to live among us. This is Americanism?

If we can't live with and get along with our fellow Americans then tell me how in hell are we going to get along with the rest of the world? Any way I am glad to say the family has found a place to live. The morning that the father came in to tell us he was out in the street again the people in my rental house next door to mine gave me notice that they were moving. I'm happy to be the one that was able to help this man and his family out. They are to be my neighbors after the first of November. Any body with any objection tell me to my face, then stoop over and pick up your teeth.

Seems to me I've heard it said that under God's law all men were created equal. Apparently we have a lot of non-Christian landlords in this area.

Personally I'm getting a bellyful of hypocrites who haven't the guts to practice what they preach just because they're afraid of what the joker across the street may think.

If America is to remain a world leader it's time we abolished such actions as have taken place here in our own area this past week and stand up for what we know to be right regardless of what Joe Blow has to say.

BRAVE SPORTS

Tomorrow night the Bethel Braves will play host to the Shelton Highclimbers on the Bethel field, beginning at 8 p.m., in a regular Seamount League game. Both the Braves and the Highclimbers will be out to get back on the win trail after losing and tying games last weekend in Seamount action.

The visiting Shelton eleven brings a 1-win, 1-loss, 1-tie Seamount League record into tomorrow night's game. So far this season, the Shelton club has beaten White River, 33 to 12; lost to Curtiss, 40 to 12; and last week tied a strong Five team, 0 to 0. The Highclimbers have been rapidly improving after their season opener loss to Curtiss and will be a strong foe for the Braves.

Coach Ed Niehl's Braves will enter the game tomorrow with a 1-win, 1-loss record. The Braves opened the season two weeks ago by dumping the Peninsula team, 26 to 0. Last Friday the Bethel squad could not find the answer to stopping the Rams from North Thurston and dropped a 20 to 6 decision to them. In last Friday's game the Braves could not contain the North Thurston Team's strong ground game, but became the first Seamount League team to score on the league leading team.

A number of Shelton backs have led their team so far this year. If the Braves are to win this game they will have to stop the passing of Quarterback Bill Smith and the running of Joe Walters and Gary Combs, Shelton halfbacks. The Braves, meanwhile,

The Harvard Preschool meeting will be held on Thursday, October 19th, at 8:00 p.m., in the Kindergarten room of Harvard School, with Mrs. James Smith presiding. Mrs. Arlo Peterson will provide musical entertainment. Mr. Edwin Nelson will speak on the coming school election.

CARDINAL SPORTS

The Auburn Trojans will be trying to knock off the fifth-ranked Cardinals and record does not necessarily indicate their real strength.

Pierce gridders Friday night on the Trojan field. The Cardinals beat the Trojans last year 20-13, as School in southwest Washington. The class A eleven piled up 131 yards rushing, and ranked one of the first wide margin, with Franklin Pierce having scored 97 points in five contests, while the Trojans have managed only 20.

Auburn accomplished a mild upset as they held the heavily favored Puyallup will count on Quarterback Jerry Brodigan, the team's passer who has completed 5 out of 29 tosses; Doug Hudson, defensive end who has chalked up 35 tackles this season; Mike Connelly, line backer who has 34 tackles; and Bill Miles, line backer who has 28 tackles to his credit.

It is the hope of the Bethel fans that their team can revenge last year's loss to the Shelton team. Last year the game ended with the Braves on the Shelton 2-yard line.

SENIOR TOM TOMMERVIK will call the signals again Friday night when the high-riding Franklin Pierce Cardinals travel to Auburn to meet the winless Trojans. Tommervik's passing and generalship at the quarterback post is expected to bring the local eleven its sixth straight win for the year.

BRAVE VOICE

School work at Bethel Senior High School has now settled down into a routine following the normal confusion of opening the school. With five weeks of school having been completed, warning slips were sent home this past week to inform parents of the progress of students who were failing, or in danger of failing, their classes. The nine weeks of school will end on November 8 and the first report cards will be issued on November 13.

Attendance for the first attendance period showed the school was holding its normal percent of attendance with a 96.7 percent of attendance. Th attendance records also revealed 406 students in attendance at school this fall, slightly lower than last year at this time. Main cause of illness, according to Vice Principal C.J. Knaggs, was a combination of flu and common colds.

Bethel's Debate Squad, directed by Mr. Herbert Dempsey, has rapidly begun to prepare for its debate season. The debate topic for this year's high school debates will be "Federal Aid to Education" and the members of the Debate Squad have been visiting the libraries in the school and throughout the communities to research the topic. The squad recently attended a league clinic for debate held at the University of Puget Sound.
