"Man on the Street" Survey Conducted

By Sandy Ingram

ARNOLD J. HAGEN ". . .false economy"

In a "Man On The Street Survey" conducted by the Times Journal Thursday and Friday, in connection with the sewer controversy being aired in the Parkland area, the question posed to residents was: "What is your opinion on the sewers, as proposed by the South Suburban Sewer District?"

Answers ranged from a quick "no Comment" to "no other alternative."

"We approve of sewers and do not understand how anyone can be opposed to them when statistics prove that the situation is desperately unhealthy," said Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Govig of 904 So. 119th.

Mrs. Grace Plummer of 219 So. 131st said: "I think there should be sewers."

"They are something we are going to have to have, but what does trouble me, is the people on social security. If the line goes in front of their house and they do not want sewers, they shouldn't have to pay for them," thinks Mrs. R. W. Fagerness of 219 East 131st.

One woman, who wished to remain anonymous, said, "The sewer's cost will be an extra burden to people who already have plenty. I can't afford to lose my home through non-payment of sewers."

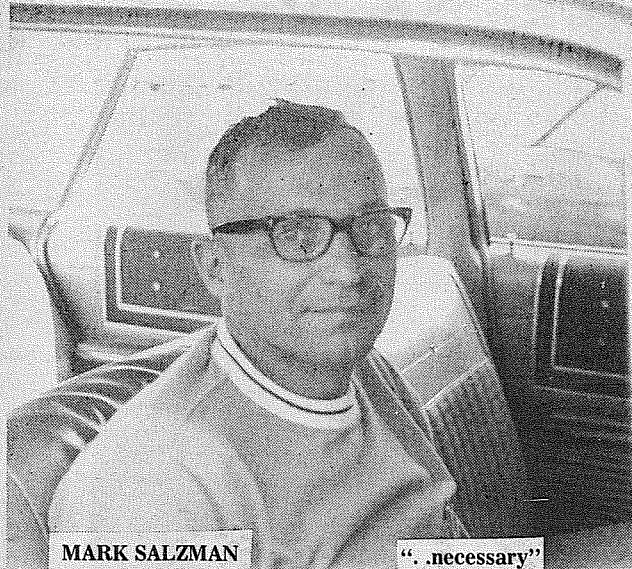

"We had better have sewers or there will be more polluted water than there has been. It is going to cost money no matter who does it and I think to wait would just be false economy," stated Arnold J. Hagen of 1102 So. 120th.

"I am for the sewers and for any way that will get them here," said H. O. Dale, who owns property bordering McKinley and Golden Given.

Joe Pentecost, 221 So. 125th commented, "The quicker they can get the sewer in the better off the town is going to be, maybe it will correct some of the pollution problems."

"I think we need to do something and do it fast, the problem is serious," replied another person.

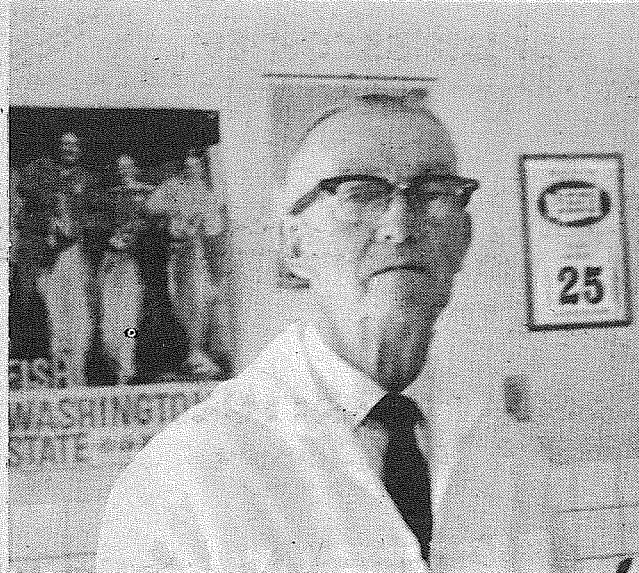

Another anonymous person had this to say, "Sewers have got to come sooner or later and anyone opposing them is just holding back progress."

MARK SALZMAN ". . .necessary"

JOE PENTECOST ". . .correct pollution"

H. O. DALE ". . . anyway to get them"

"I shouldn't comment as I am a former resident, but we are facing the same situation where I live now and I don't care what price it is. I do not think the price can even be considered, the sewers must be," Dr. Sam Gange, Wisconsin State University, said.

Back To School

It is back to school time, and although very few will admit it, it is the children who are secretly thankful. By this time of the summer recess, children are getting restless and running out of mischievous things to get into, and mothers are looking forward to getting back to their routine, without children running under their feet.

Franklin Pierce and Eatonville School Districts start school at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 5th. Franklin Pierce will have a full day, but Eatonville will close the classrooms at 2 p.m. with building meetings being held after recess.

Bethel School District will open classrooms Wednesday, and will have a full day of school.

Franklin Pierce School Teachers reported for their workshops on Wednesday. New teachers to the Bethel District will receive orientation on Thursday, Aug. 31st, and regular teachers will report on Sept. 5th.

All Eatonville Public School teachers will meet at 9:30 p.m. in the high school Home Economics Room on Friday, Sept. 1.

Projected enrollments for all three districts are up over last year's enrollment.

Franklin Pierce is shooting for 8,254 students for the 1967-68 school year. Last year's student body was 7,870.

Bethel School District's projection figure is 4,000, in comparison to 3,800 last year.

Projection for the Eatonville School District this year is 950. Last year 928 students enrolled at Eatonville.

Bus schedules for the school districts will be essentially the same as last year except for two new bus runs out of Bethel Schools.

The new bus runs will cover the following areas, and serve the junior and senior high school: 192nd Street, East F Street, East B Street, 168th East, 172nd East, 176th Street East to 22nd Ave.; Thiel Dudaleston Road to intersection of 208th and the George Brown Road to school.

In Lacamas arrangements will be made for transportation of the kindergarten, first and second grade students in the Lacamas area to the Lacamas school. Information relative to kindergarten students in the Roy area may be obtained from Charles McAvoy, principal of Roy School.

An additional morning run for Kapowsin Grade School will start at the intersection of Meridian and Kapowsin Highway at 8:20 a.m. It will go west on Kapowsin Highway to Benston Clear Lake Road, South Easterly on Benston Clear Lake Road to Meridian. North on Meridian to Carlson Road, East on Carlson Road to Thompson Turnaround, West on Carlson Road to Meridian and North on Meridian to Kapowsin School.

Two new buses were added to the Bethel Fleet and 123 single runs will be made by the new fleet of 73 buses.

Thirty of the 32 regular drivers will return this year with Archie Sjoberg, who left the district, and Ben Kuper, who retired, the only two not returning.

Looking Above — September Skies

By G. W. Harper, Director
Evans-Atkinson Observatory

While it is a thing of joy to young lovers, the astronomer is not too happy with the full moon. At this time all but the most brilliant stars are blotted out by the lunar light and observing almost ceases.

Over the long Labor Day weekend, however, we will have the new moon, so observing ought to be exceptionally good. Many deep space objects, such as the Great Galaxy in Andromeda, will be favorably located, and the whole of the local galaxy will be overhead.

So far as the planets are concerned, Jupiter, Mars and Venus are all close to the sun and cannot be observed, but the ringed planet Saturn will rise shortly after sunset and will be suitable for viewing about 10:00 p.m.

During the month of September we expect to have our 6 inch refractor finally mounted. Completion of this instrument was delayed almost four months by the theft of a number of special brass fittings, but these have now been replaced and final mounting is only a matter of days. Once the 6 inch is in operation we plan to dismount the 25 inch instrument in order to install the permanent drive and an open lattice tube. During the approximately 2 weeks required to complete the installation we will continue our regular schedule, but only the refractor and smaller instruments will be available.

We are currently making preparations to participate in the annual Lacamas Community Fair. A number of special lunar photographs will be on hand along with the Lacamas Solar telescope and several other items of interest. Weather permitting, we will also hold a coordinated open house for fair visitors.

During the month we will continue our regular program of Friday and Saturday evening open viewing sessions.

PLAYHOUSE FILLED with furniture caught the eye of Ann Marie Swenland during her first visit to the Parkland Elementary School Kindergarten classroom. Like most women, she decided to rearrange furniture.

THIS FULL LENGTH mirror caught the eye of Ann Marie during her tour of the classroom. School officials pointed out that it is made of metal and is shatterproof.

Wide-eyed 5-Year- Old Peeks At Classroom

By EM MATSON

There are many things that might excite the imagination of a 5-year-old child.

But for most 5-year-olds, excepting Birthday parties and Christmas, nothing is looked upon with greater anticipation than that first day in kindergarten. For him it marks life's first big achievement in the process of growing up.

To capture her first precious moments of becoming a kindergartner, the Times Journal visited Parkland School as Ann Marie Swenland registered for classes.

The camera caught her as she intently listened to her mother supply necessary information to the registrar, Mrs. Richard Simpson. (Page One). Then it followed her to the kindergarten classroom for a glimpse at all the special training aids and toys that would soon be available for her.

Overcoming momentary shyness, she soon warmed up to a doll house filled with miniature furniture waiting to be rearranged. She also seemed fascinated with a full-length mirror.

For Ann Marie, and thousands of other kindergartners, it will all start September 5, when she and her mother will attend class for a short session with the teacher. After a one-hour class September 6, regular classes will commence September 7.

Ann Marie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Swenland, 114 South 118th. Swenland is employed by Brad's Restaurant.

She will have plenty of company according to Parkland School Registrar Mrs. Simpson. Over 100 youngsters are expected September 5.

We hope they all anticipate returning to classes 6 years from now with the same enthusiasm they displayed for starting kindergarten.

Insect Stings

Most persons have forgotten about last summer's wasp and bee stings. Most, but not a 42-year-old man we can call Joe Williams, and not a group of scientists carrying on research with the support of a grant from the National Institute of General Medical Sciences.

Joe remembers well the wasp sting he got one Sunday afternoon last summer while working in his garden. Aside from the initial pain, his arm didn't hurt so he paid no more attention to it. In about ten minutes, however, he began to feel dizzy and by the time he got back to his house he had broken out in a cold sweat and felt faint. His wife called the doctor and then, when Joe passed out, drove him to the hospital.

By the next morning, Joe felt better but wondered what had really happened. The doctor explained that he had been the victim of a very dangerous shock reaction called anaphylaxis. Although he had no known allergies and had never had a serious reaction to an insect sting before, his previous encounters with wasp venom had sensitized his body. Triggered by the new "injection" of wasp venom, some of his cells over-reacted and produced antibodies which caused

Orientation Set For Co-op Mothers

The mothers' orientation meeting of the Parkland Cooperative Nursery School has been set for Thursday and Friday, September 28 and 29, at the Gonyea Park Fieldhouse, 133rd and South J Streets. Mock school sessions will be held with mothers attending at the same hours as their children will attend when school starts.

School will begin on Monday, October 2, for the four-year-olds, hours, 9 to 11:15 or 12:00 to 2:15 and Tuesday, October 3, for the three-year-olds, hours 9 to 11:00.

A few vacancies still remain open for 4 year old children. You are invited to inquire about Nursery School enrollment if you have a child this age.

For further information of the purposes, activities and expense of Nursery School, phone Mrs. Robert O'Neill, LE 7-4371 or Mrs. Larry Hoefler, LE 1-1058.

Mrs. Jerry Rankin To Head Fund Drive

Mrs. Jerry Rankin, 19305 Twinkle Drive East, Spanaway, has been selected as area district leader to assist in the September 11 fund drive for Cystic Fibrosis. Proceeds from the state and national campaign will be utilized for research.

A genetic disease, cystic fibrosis rivals cancer as a major killer of children under age 15. First identified in the 1930's, cystic fibrosis involves a defect in body mechanism.

Funds raised through the annual appeal help support a network of 38 Regional Cystic Fibrosis Care, Research and Teaching Centers throughout the United States. In Washington the center is located in Seattle.

Safety Patrol To Begin With Opening

The School Safety Patrol will be on the job beginning with the morning of the first day of school according to Jim Harrell, chairman of the School Patrol Committee.

The boys and girls on duty are from the upper grades of the elementary schools and received training last spring. A commissioning ceremony will be held in each school early in September. Also at that time the patrol members will receive additional training.

The operation of the School Safety Patrol is a joint effort of the local school district and the local law enforcement agencies. Assisting the school committee will be William Lane, Patrolman from the Puyallup Police Department, and Trooper F. Leaf of the Washington State Patrol. Other members of the school committee are Edgard Zeiger, principal of the Wildwood Elementary School and Richard Erskine, principal of the Stewart Elementary School.

Plenty Of Horses Scheduled For Fair

Horses by the truckload will be featured during the 64th edition of the Western Washington Fair to be held in Puyallup September 16 - 24.

There'll be the always popular six-horse hitches of huge draft horses, thundering race horses, rodeo bucking and roping horses and the great Lippizan stallion, Sasha.

Fair officials were especially happy to secure Albert Ostermaier and his beautifully-trained high-school horse, Sasha, for the twice-daily grandstand shows. Last year one of the major attractions of the fair was the appearance of the Smaha Lippizan horses and an equal, if not better, act was especially wanted for this year's exposition.

The six-horse hitches will appear, as usual, both tooling around the race track and in a driving exhibition in the infield.

Two barns-full of racing Thoroughbreds will be on hand to fill the six daily horse races.

The largest collection of horses will appear during the world's championship rodeo performances. The Christensen Brothers will again provide the bucking horses as well as the cattle used for roping, bulldogging and bull-riding. Highly-trained roping horses, owned by competing cowboys, will also be on the grounds.

Another group of horses will be used by Kathy Crouse and her troupe of trick riders. Although not generally known, trick riding horses are very carefully trained to gallop swiftly and smoothly regardless of what antics are being done by the rider.

All horses appearing in the grandstand show, the races and the rodeo are stabled on the grounds of the nearly 50-acre fenced-in portion of the Western Washington Fair.

Say, Can You See?

BY THE DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT. Tacoma's industrial district pouring clouds of pollution into the blue, morning sky. Industrial smoke, fumes, automobile exhausts and other air pollutants ruined much of the glorious summer in parts of Northeast Tacoma, Brown's Point, Fife and the lower Valley. On several of the balmy days, when prevailing winds failed to diffuse waste material, smog reached serious proportions from the standpoint both of comfort and health. Insist on and support strong air pollution control legislation.

CONVERSATION PIECE
 Attorney General John J. O'Connell's proposed initiative to call a constitutional convention is serving two purposes, if it doesn't accomplish anything else. It has provided two avenues of conversation during the dull season when interest in state government usually lags. One avenue of conversation involves spirited argument among legal experts as to whether a constitutional convention actually can be called by initiative, as O'Connell contends in an 11-page brief accompanying his proposed initiative. This argument could continue clear into next summer, until it is settled in the courts. If Secretary of State Lud Kramer should refuse to accept the proposed initiative, it could reach the courts next January, but Kramer says he will accept it. In that case, it can't reach the courts until somebody tries to prevent it being certified to the ballot. Nobody doubts O'Connell's crew will get the 100,022 valid signatures to qualify the measure for the ballot.

Air Pollution Indexes To Be Posted Weekly

Two air pollution indexes — oxidant concentrations and visibility reduction — will be posted in the Puget Sound Air Pollution Control Agency office every weekday afternoon about 3:00 p.m., beginning Friday, August 18, according to Control Officer Arthur R. Dammkoehler.

He explained that both the oxidant and visibility data will show instantaneous peaks and the maximum hourly averages for the previous 24-hour period. This will include the morning traffic peaks (midnight to 2:00 p.m.) and the evening peaks from the previous day (2:00 p.m. to midnight).

"This is another step forward in our long-range program of improving and expanding our air monitoring network," Dammkoehler said.

The oxidants are important because they indicate the presence of the Los Angeles-type smog which causes eye irritation, damages vegetation and reduces visibility as a result of photochemical reaction. High concentrations of oxidants generally occur on warm days with low-speed winds, clear skies and intense sunshine. An oxidant reading of 1.00 parts per million is considered a health hazard; and .15 ppm is the threshold for eye irritation.

Oxidant monitors are located along the James Street side of the Seattle Municipal Building between Fourth and Fifth Avenues and on the roof of the Seattle Center Food Circus. The latter instrument was installed this week.

The visibility, or meteorological range as it is properly called, is the distance which can be seen if there are no variations in the atmosphere. Reported in terms of miles, the lower the reading, the lower the visibility and the higher the air pollution levels.

The instrument which provides the information on the quantity of particles in the air which reduce visibility, is a sophisticated adaptation of a World War II device called an integrating nephelometer. It was developed to determine and/or control wartime visual range.

Using the same principle and applying it to air pollution research, Dr. Robert J. Charlson, associate professor in the Air Resources Laboratory (Civil Engineering) at the University of Washington, developed the present instrument.

The nephelometer is extremely sensitive and can detect the difference between water vapor and solid particles in the air. There is a high correlation between data from samplers which measure suspended particulate material and the data from the nephelometer. The advantage of the latter is that it works continuously and the data can be read instantaneously.

The integrating nephelometer atop the Food Circus is the first to be used in any air pollution control program although the University is conducting research four other models

Parking Violations Can Be Expensive
 Parking or stopping in a "no parking" zone can be a lot more expensive than just the cost of a parking ticket.

The problem of parking on the street has become nearly impossible in the downtown areas in many towns and cities, making it very tempting to use "no parking" zones when you are in a hurry.

What if Sam Parker wants to stop at the drugstore to pick up a prescription on his way home from work? He has driven around the block twice already and the nearest parking lot is a good three blocks away. Sam figures it will only take a minute to run in and pick up his prescription, so he pulls up to the no parking zone on the corner in front of the store.

True, if he's fast enough, Sam might get back to his car before it is tagged, but he's still taking an awful chance. What if someone stopping for the arterial at that corner pulls out into the intersection and is hit by another car? He might well contend that he couldn't see the oncoming traffic because Sam's car blocked his view, and the chances are that Sam will be defending a suit in court. If the fact that Sam's car was parked illegally is found to have caused the accident, he will probably have to pay damages.

The same could happen if a pedestrian steps out into traffic and is struck because he couldn't see around Sam's car.

In certain instances, at night for example, the owner might be sued when an illegally parked vehicle itself is struck, if it has been stopped in an entirely unexpected spot.

Remember, usually there is a good reason why an area has restricted or no parking. It is better to take your time and walk a few blocks than to risk the consequences of blocking a zone which for safety reasons should be kept clear.

Football Practice Begins

Football season is on us again. With its arrival comes practice, and with practice forgotten muscles become sore and tired. But, with practice, games are won.

The Bethel Braves, coached by Ed Tingstad, started practice the 29th for their first game, at 8 p.m. Sept. 15th, with Tumwater, there. The Braves have 11 lettermen returning from last year and coach Tingstad said he hopes to improve last years record of 3 wins, 4 losses, and 1 tie.

Practice began Aug. 28th for the Franklin Pierce Cardinals. Coach Eldon Kylo, said he has no offensive or defensive men returning from last year, but will be ready for their first game, also Sept. 15, with Tyee at 7 p.m. in Highline Stadium at Burien.

The Cruisers, of Eatonville, under the coaching of Larry Hosley, kicked off their season with practice on August 24th. Their first game will be with Tenino at Eatonville, 8 p.m., Sept. 15th.

Another record year for Longacres during its 34th racing season!

The attendance is up about 6% and the handle is up about 9% (as of late August).

Many factors have contributed to this success. Good management and an increasing interest in Thoroughbred racing in Washington State have done their share. The weather has been superb. Not a drop of rain has fallen on Longacres since June 22. The track has been "fast" in 65 of the 68-day racing season. Much credit should go to the crew that takes care of the racing strip.

SOME OTHER FACTS: Mustadie, the $1,500 claiming race horse, has to be the Horse of the Meeting. He has won seven races as a plater (English term) and leads all of the rest of the Thoroughbreds.

Hannaford is the best Washington-bred and Quina Reigh takes the honors as the best two year-old filly. Incidentally, she was bought for $800 at the yearling sale from WSU Hilltop Stables.

Lak Nak takes the honors as the best sprinter and Ahead Tiger leads the rest of the best three-year olds. SubDeb winner Royal Sue shoes the winner Royal Sue shows the best possibilities for the future.

Training honors go to James Walsh. He heads the pack and is threatening the all-time record of 41 winners won by Wayne Branch in 1966.

Jockey Lennie Knowles, the Chelan flash, will take the Jockey Championship and the experts say he is the most improved rider at Longacres.

Over a million dollars in purses have been awarded to the trainers, owners and breeders. A real step forward was the increase of two-year old purses to a minimum of $2,000. These were the things that made the season a real success and record breaker.

The best race of the season? The Longacres Derby in which the two top horses finished less than a head apart.

THUN FIELD - The Labor Day weekend will be an exciting one for Northwest drag fans as 1966 champions and many more will be on hand for the eighth annual Labor Day drag racing championships.

Over $5,000 will be awarded in the 12 racing classifications. Last year over 11,000 drag fans attended the three-day program with over 520 race cars in action. Runs totaling 3,210 were made down the quarter-mile course.

Taking first place honors then in the unlimited AA/FD division and setting a track record at that time of 7.43 seconds was Jerry Ruth. He will be back again this year. (Ruth still holds the track record which stands at 7:17 seconds.)

The funny cars will be featured in open competition Sunday night. At the last appearance of these cars here on attendance record for the 1967 season was set with over 7,000 persons on hand.

Feature cars that will be on hand for the "big go" will be Parts Mart Camaro from San Jose, Hairy Canary, funny car from San Francisco, Baulkin Falcon from Los Angeles, Roy Dunn from Eureka, in his AA/FD, Stellings and Tapia, Laguna Beach, Larry Huff AA/FD the South Wind from San Diego, plus back again from the West Coast funny car championships ... the Nickey Chevrolet from Chicago.

SPANAWAY - A Labor Day double header, featuring 100 lap mains both Sunday and Monday, will be the bill of fare for race fans this holiday weekend at Spanaway Speedway.

Auto Racing Incorporated will trot out their full assortment of "A" and double "AA" super stocks, with an added incentive being double points in the feature races each day. A red hot point duel between Steve Kiser (1,028) and Ken Longley (1,016) could easily be decided when the two match wheels in the hundred lap main on Sunday. Kiser has managed to overtake the speedy Longley, and a victory this weekend could put him out of reach.

In the double "A" 100 Labor Day, Jackie Kuper will carry a slim 3 point advantage (821 to 818) over a very consistent Don Hall. Should either of the point leaders run into trouble, Bob Short (760) could step into contention.

With the season heading into the home stretch, Labor Day weekend promises to be one of the hottest races of the year at the Spanaway oval.

In action last week, the Powderpuff gals gave a large, shirt-sleeved crowd all the thrills they could ask for when no less than three cars shattered the peace of Gasolene Alley by driving right through the fence. After a hectic start, the west turn couldn't contain the number of gals trying to drive through at the same time. A restart proved just as disastrous as Rita Hunter scattered pitmen with an unscheduled appearance by ramming the fence on the west exit. She was followed by Eve Rohr and Esta Willard at approximately the same spot. Esta came back on the track to win the 15 lap feature. She was chased over the line by Dee Brunson and Eve Rohr.

Other action last week saw Kiser taking the 50 lap "A" main when Longley rolled on his side. Longley had previously grabbed the lead from Bob Short and was apparently home free until losing it in the turn.

Portland invader Paul Steinke captured the double "A" 35 lap feature, with Rick Brock and Don Hall chasing him over the finish line.

Sunday's "A" main will be a memorial race dedicated to popular Bob Tegtmeier, who succumbed to illness last year. The Labor Day feature will also be a memorial, being dedicated to the late Fred "Pop" Boness, father of Spanaway's promoter Dick Boness.

OLYMPIA — Fisheries interests, which lost a round a few years ago to electrical energy in a dispute over hydroelectric dams, apparently have lost another; this time to nuclear-power generation. The Washington-Water Pollution Control Commission, which recently adopted water-quality standards, has been requested by the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration to adopt a temperature standard in the lower Columbia River compatible with that approved for Oregon. The Washington commission had adopted 65.5 degrees Fahrenheit as the maximum allowable temperature in that river. Representatives of fisheries interests contend this is the maximum temperature for propagation of fish.

Too Warm For Fish

Oregon has adopted a standard temperature of 68 degrees Fahrenheit, which has been approved by the federal pollution-control agency. This comes closer to meeting the desires of power companies which plan to use the Columbia as a source of cooling water for nuclear-fired power-generating plants. The federal agency's regional office expects the Washington agency to conform.

Other Aspects Studied

Other aspects of water-quality standards which the Washington commission established for interstate and coastal waters are still under consideration, but appear close to meeting approval of the federal agency. Federal approval of the recently adopted water-quality standards for Puget Sound waters, however, is being withheld pending a conference scheduled for Seattle September 6 and 7.

Seven-Year-Battle

The September meetings in Seattle comprise the second session of a state-federal enforcement conference which is the outgrowth of cleanup orders issued by the state in 1960. The first session of the enforcement conference was held in 1962, and was followed by a four-year study to aid in developing an appropriate control program. At conclusion of the second session, conferees are expected to make recommendations, along with a time schedule for compliance, to the U.S. Secretary of the Interior. After approval at this level is obtained, failure to comply could eventually lead to civil action by the U. S. attorney general.

Tax Credit Airing

Meanwhile, the State Department of Revenue will adopt ground rules at a public hearing here September 12 under which it will allow tax credits to industries which install new pollution-control facilities. The tax credits, authorized by the 1967 Legislature, will be granted for installation of air pollution control, as well as water pollution-control facilities. The proposed rules were formulated following several meetings with representatives of industries. They include, among other things, provisions for reducing credits by the net commercial value of any materials recovered through use of the new facility.

No Wholesale Hiring

The program instituted by Gov. Dan Evans' administration to expand job opportunities for minorities in state government doesn't mean that a lot of new jobs will be created. All state agencies are limited as to the number of persons they may hire by the central budget control act. Numerous agencies, however, haven't filled all the positions authorized and appropriated for by the last Legislature. The administration hopes to make it easier for members of minority races to qualify for some of these

Flying Pet An Oddity

HEY! THAT AIN'T NO PUDDY TAT!—The Schlotterbecks, of Shady Acres Airport, Graham, Wn., are having a ball with their family pet, now that he's big enough to make the aerial scene. "Spunky", as he's called, is a real honest to goodness skunk, now minus his powers that be, and is fast developing into a lovable cuddly pet with a yen for the back seat of the family Cherokee. He was captured by Mrs. Schlotterbeck when he was just a baby, but still managed to raise an indignant stink over the whole idea of being domesticated before they got him to the vet.—NWF Staff Photo posts, while still complying with state civil service laws. The State Personnel Board consequently has established two trainee classifications where persons may be employed and receive on-the-job training for satisfactory performance and later promotional advancement. Each state agency has been studying its available positions to determine which may be adapted to the new trainee classifications.

Conversation Piece

Attorney-Gen. John J. O'Connell's proposed initiative to call a constitutional convention is serving two purposes, if it doesn't accomplish anything else. It has provided two avenues of conversation during the dull season when interest in state government usually lags. One avenue of conversation involves spirited argument among legal experts as to whether a constitutional convention actually can be called by initiative, as O'Connell contends in an 11-page brief accompanying his proposed initiative. This argument could continue into next summer, until it is settled in the courts. If Secretary of State Lud Kramer should refuse to accept the proposed initiative, it could reach the courts next January, but Kramer says he will accept it. In that case, it can't reach the courts until somebody tries to prevent its being certified to the ballot. Nobody doubts O'Connell's crew will get the 100,022 valid signatures to qualify the measure for the ballot.

Sacred Cow Gets Break

The other avenue of conversation is hot-stove-league stuff for the long winter months, and is one in which any layman can participate, without benefit of legal training. It involves the presumption that the courts will uphold O'Connell's theory and let the initiative go on the ballot. What would the voters do with it? O'Connell believes the voters would approve it, but he isn't as sure as he was two years ago. At that time he said he was opposed to providing safeguards for any "sacred cows" in the present constitution. The preliminary draft of his proposed initiative, however, provides an alternative for preserving Article VIII, the taxation article which includes the 40-mill limit on property taxes and language which bars a graduated net income tax. There aren't any provisions for preserving such other "sacred cows" as the anti-lottery clause, or the one which restricts use of gasoline-tax revenue to highway purposes. This would assure considerable organized opposition, especially from highway groups, in view of recent agitation for rapid transit.

War On Pollution

Port Of Tacoma Complex Chosen For Monitoring

The Port of Tacoma industrial complex has been selected as the site of the first of several new air monitoring instruments to be installed in the Tacoma area, according to Arthur R. Dammkoehler, Control Officer for the Puget Sound Air Pollution Control Agency.

A high volume of air sampler has been installed on the roof of Mann-Russell Electronics at 1401 Thorne Road.

The "hi-vol", as it is more generally called, collects suspended particulates from the air, operating somewhat like a vacuum cleaner. In each 24-hour operating period the instrument pulls about 75,000 cubic feet of air through an 8x10 - inch glass fiber filter. Only those particles larger than 0.03 microns (a micron is about 1/25,000 of an inch) are removed from the air. Every three days the filter is removed and taken to the laboratory to be weighed and analyzed. This data together with dustfall distribution and gas monitoring data will eventually provide comprehensive information about the amounts and kinds of contaminants in the air.

Other high-volume air samplers will be installed in the Tacoma area, but these locations have not yet been determined. In addition, a continuous air monitoring station is planned for the Tacoma area which will include monitors for oxidant, carbon monoxide, nitrogen oxide and visibility reduction. Installation of these instruments is a primary objective in the Agency's air monitoring program.
