Area Firemen At Special Training Class

Chief E. R. Larson and Capt. Virgil Aatro of the Parkland Fire Department are leaving March 31 for Yakima, to receive special training at the 5th annual Northwest Command School for fire department officers, April 1st through the 4th. They will be joined there by approximately two hundred fire service command officers from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, California, Hawaii and British Columbia.

Sponsored jointly by the Firemen's Training Section of the Washington State Board for Vocational Education and the Yakima Fire Department, the Command School is recognized internationally as one of the best in the country.

Experts in technical fire service fields from New York to San Francisco serve as the instructors. Emphasis at this year's session will be on two facets of the fire service, emergency communications and fire ground tactics. Ten topics will be presented, five of which will be classroom participation subjects with mock-ups for study, moderated by recognized leaders in their specific fields.

Chief E. R. Larson states that during his absence at Yakima, Chet Kirk, Assistant Chief, will take charge of the local fire forces.

Family Dinner At Spanaway Church Sat.

Spanaway Methodist Church will sponsor a family dinner Saturday, March 30th beginning at 6 p.m. Mrs. Elizabeth Waggoner, Director of the School of Occupational Therapy at UPS, will give an illustrated talk on rehabilitation practices taught by her department.

Recent activities at the church included a visit by the Woman's Society of Christian Service to Remann Hall, a talk by blind Dr. A. S. Arlton, on his career as a writer, former PLU professor and hobbyist to the Men's Club breakfast meeting, and a talk to the church congregation by Mrs. Ernest Rowland about the handicap of deafness.

Last Sunday the Church was filled to capacity for their evening Lenten service, with music being furnished by the Aldersgate Methodist Church choir. Reverend Arthur D. Campbell of the Parkland Methodist Church presented the sermon.

Van Orman Gets 3rd Award

Marcia Van Orman, business manager for the Franklin Pierce High School paper, the Cardinal, received her third certificate of meritorious achievement last week for having 500 inches of news-paper copy in the school paper.

Four other students, JoAnn Gohr, assistant editor; Marlene Glasser, associate editor; Sue McMechan and Kathy Sprinker, both reporters, received certificates for having 100 inches of news-paper copy published in the school paper.

The highest number of inches that a student has ever had published is 1000 inches and that was Judy McNickle. Judy completed this task last year while she was the editor-in-chief of the paper.

Grange Meet

Because of the Daffodil parade on April 6th, the Pierce County Pomona Grange meeting will be changed to one week later, April 13th at Elk Plain.

Puget Sound National Bank Opens Doors In New, Larger Quarters

New, modern quarters for the Parkland branch of The Puget Sound National Bank will be introduced to the public with a Western-style, swinging, all-day celebration this Saturday, March 30, according to Mel Eagan, manager of this office. In his best Western manner he says "Howdy! You all come!" The Parkland branch has been conducting business in a temporary location at 401 South Garfield for the past two years.

The new branch is located at 122nd and Pacific Avenue. There is easy access and exit to and from Pacific Avenue, and there is a large parking space for customers' cars.

The big Saturday "Open House Roundup" will last from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., and there'll be excitement, entertainment, fun, prizes, surprises and "chuck-wagon chow" for young and old alike.

Headlining the entertainment features will be the appearance of four riding groups which will give thrilling riding exhibitions. They are the Tacoma Lariettes, the Colts and Fillies, Parkland Juniors, and the Sheriff's Posse. Decorations inside and out will feature the Western theme, as will costumes of the bank's "meeters and greeters", according to Eagan.

Throughout the day, merchandise certificates will be awarded to 25 visitors. These certificates may be redeemed at any one of 44 Parkland business firms.

The building itself has been designed to take full advantage of native woods and native stone. Unique use has been made of rough sawn lumber, stained to blend harmoniously with a massive rock wall, rock planters and glass windows and doors. The interior is designed to create a restful, relaxing area which should help make banking a pleasure. The architect was Walter K. Johnson, and the general contractor was Peterson Building Company.

A. E. (Al) Saunders, president of The Puget Sound National Bank, and a resident of the Parkland area, had this to say about the new Parkland branch. "We feel that Parkland will continue to expand, and we are glad to be a part of this growth. We now have 12 full-service, fully staffed offices in the Greater Tacoma area, and we will soon open a new branch in the Thunderbird district in Lakewood. I join Mel Eagan in cordially inviting all readers of the Times-Journal to visit our new Parkland office."

MODERN BUILDING houses new office of Puget Sound National Bank — A clever blending of native woods, rock wall, glass, and decorative plantings combine to form a pleasing exterior of the new Parkland office of

The Puget Sound National Bank at 122nd and Pacific Avenue. A public "Open House Roundup" with Western style entertainment will be held there all day Saturday.

Enter Now For Round-Up Date In May

It isn't a bit too early, pointers, to be thinking about getting your entry lined up in the annual Parkland Round-Up Parade, scheduled this year for Saturday, May 25th.

According to Larry Armstrong, parade chairman, more musical entries are signed up now than last year, and Armstrong says he expects the biggest array of horses for the event in its history.

Especially needed are drill teams, rigs and wagons, but all types of entries will be welcome. "Just don't wait too long to sign up," advises Armstrong. Entrants may register by calling LE 7-5524.

Keep The Record Straight

Dear Editor:

On March 19th, the James Sales P-TA had a part of a regular meeting, a Dental Health program. A local dentist, J. W. Schnoor, D.M.D., was the resource speaker, presenting films, discussion and answers on his subject, "Care of the Young Mouth."

Publicity for this meeting was printed (as a public service to our community) in the March 13th edition of the Times Journal. The Tacoma News Tribune also printed the announcement on March 16th.

Since this time, some of our P-TA members have been receiving by telephone, mail and personal calls, inquiries and advice from misinformed individuals (often unidentified) as to the purpose(s) of our "Dental Health Program". I wish to state the following, on behalf of the James Sales P-TA:

1. The Washington Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc. has gone on record in favor of fluoridation thru public water supply.

2. The James Sales P-TA feels its members, and the members of our community have the right to decide on this or any other issue, as it would affect that individual, home, community and family.

3. The James Sales P-TA, provided a program of educational information, that was developed, and governed by those objects, policies and by-laws of the Washington Congress of Parents and Teachers.

4. The meetings of the 4 out of 5 homes need a wiring checkup!

It's a fact: the wiring system in most homes (even many newer homes) is out-of-date. You use electricity in many more ways than you did just a few years ago . . . and you may be overloading your wiring system. Here are some symptoms of overloading: fuses blow frequently . . . TV picture shrinks . . . lights dim when your refrigerator starts to run . . . you have to unplug one appliance to plug in another. If your home has these symptoms, it needs a wiring checkup. Your electrician can tell you whether you need more modern wiring — for safety, for convenience, for better living, electrically.

INCREASE YOUR HOUSEPOWER - SAVE $50

On City Light's Wiring Assistance Program you save $50 toward the cost of increasing your home's electric capacity, when you install a 150-ampere service entrance with 30-kilowatts capacity . . . using city-approved water heater. Offer applies to City Light customers only.

The new roof is all on now and the next project is painting the outside of the Hall. Ray Burkhardt is chairman of this project.

Lecturer Hour on March 17 consists of movies of the Daffodil parade, loggers jubilee and the Grange Christmas party.

We of the community wish to extend our heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Naomi Clark of Elk Plain. Her father, E. J. Ittner, passed away last week.

New PTA Officers
At the Elk Plain PTA meeting on March 20 election of officers was held. Those elected for the coming year are as follows: President, Mrs. Jean Nichols; Vice President, Mrs. Dee McDougall; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Verne Johnson; Secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Hollis; Treasurer, Mrs. Helen Hopkins. Congratulations and best wishes to the new officers. Also a gift of appreciation was presented to Mr. Ross Plumb (custodian) from the PTA.

Firemen's auxiliary
The Elk Plain Firemen's Auxiliary Board will meet April 1st at 9:30 a.m.

The Elk Plain Firemen's dance will be held on April 27th at the Grange Hall. Tickets are available from any fireman or Auxiliary member.

Dick rented a building for use as a butcher shop and had a large built-in refrigerator built into the building and removed old light and installed costly fluorescent lighting fixtures.

Several years later he decided to move his shop. When he began to remove the walk-in refrigerator and fluorescent lights, the building owner objected. "I own this building and everything that is part of it, including that built-in refrigerator and lights," he claimed. "You must be crazy," Dick said. "I bought them and paid for their installation. How can they belong to you?" Does the building owner have a legal claim to the property? Unfortunately, for Dick, he does, and will most likely be able to keep the refrigerator and lighting fixtures. The improvements Dick made had become part of the building and he can't remove them. The law considers such items as fixtures.

Dick could have protected himself by getting the landlord to agree in writing in the lease of the building that the tenant could remove fixtures he added to the building. However, if there is no written agreement on who owns property added by the tenant, and the landlord and tenant disagree whether the tenant can remove articles he added, the court will settle the dispute by applying the law of fixtures. The court will consider a number of factors, including the intention of the person who attached the articles to the building, the method of attachment and the damage its removal will do to the building.

a - Wondering and a - Wandering ...

with Jack Brown
It seems to me it's time for a little serious thought this week and the thought foremost in my mind, from a national standpoint is . . . What next? in the railroad versus management hassel.

Some of you may be inclined to care less over the matter, but let me tell you . . . we all have a stake in the outcome. Let's take a looksee at how things are lined up. The Supreme Court has held, in effect, that the railroads have the right to eliminate featherbedding resulting from old work rules which are totally out of tune with modern railroad technology. The decision was unanimous—8 to 0, with one justice abstaining.

This is a decision of the highest importance, for featherbedding cost the railroads $592 million in 1961, all needless. The Court observed that the participating parties have exhausted federal procedures for settling the dispute and must now depend on "self-help". This means negotiation between labor and management. It was immediately announced that meetings would be resumed. But the unions have said that they would call a strike if management puts its plan into effect. This would be paralyzing to the nation. And there is no doubt that it would shake to the roots any respect the public may have for the unions concerned.

Let it be emphasized that the decision to end featherbedding was not an offhand act of railroad management. A distinguished commission appointed by President Eisenhower studied the matter exhaustively, and recommended sweeping work rules revision. It also recommended liberal, railroad-paid, financial benefits and other aids for displaced workers. The railroads accepted the recommendations in toto. The unions refused them.

Featherbedding is one of the two major railroad problems which threaten their existence as private enterprise, the other being excessive regulation. Both sorely weaken the railroad's ability to compete for business. The second can only be cured by Congress. The first is now up to the unions. The whole nation will be watching to see what happens, and public sentiment towards unions as a whole depends, I believe, largely on the outcome, so regardless of your occupation or walk in life you have a stake in this matter.

A very wise man once said that a smile is a curve that sets most things straight.

An ancient joke tells of the amateur poker player who fell in with a group of professionals, lost his shirt, and wired home: "It's a great game. Send more money!"

It seems that some elected officials are playing hard to put us taxpayers in the shoes of the recipient of the hapless victim's wire.

By the way, just in the way of an after dinner snort, how about this . . . Last year Uncle reached into our pockets and spent $14,030 looking into the "Oral Health of Icelandic Peoples"; $13,837 on an investigation of "Information Contained in Echoes"; $26,565 in studies of "Silent Thinking"; $9,775 for a "Stereostatic Atlas of the Beagle Brain"; and finally this little dilly: $19,965 for a study of "Red Tuna and Yellow Fat Diseases in the Cat."

This money could have been better spent studying the effect on the taxpayers caused by the vacuum between the ears of some lawmakers.

Planning Is Vital For Growing Garden

Many of us are currently giving some thought to having a vegetable garden the coming spring and summer. Jack Parsons, County Agent, suggests that the most important single factor that will determine whether or not we have a good garden is careful planning at this time of year. A good plan will group vegetables that mature at approximately the same time and permit the area to be used for additional vegetables later on. By working out such a plan, home gardeners can purchase the proper amount of seed and fertilizer prior to the growing season.

If the soil has not been tested in the past two or three years, you might want to have a test run to determine to take a soil sample and the fertility level and possible need for lime. Most of us have very little choice as to the soil we will use for vegetable production, as we have only small residential lots. However, it is well to use the best soil available in your vegetable gardening efforts. Well drained soil is one of the first essentials for successful vegetable culture. The garden should also receive direct rays of the sun all day. Some crops can stand a small amount of shade, but no amount of fertilizer, water or care can take the place of needed sunshine.

Dear Editor:
Your kind words in the Times Journal surely helped to carry our message to the people. Some 20,000 pounds of old license plates have been turned in and sold to date. Our first check in payment is for $1675.50. This sum is all clear, without any deductions whatsoever, for the operation and maintenance of Mary Bridge Children's Hospital.

We feel that you and your readers will be as happy as we are to have been a part of such a successful effort. Accept our sincere thanks to you and your readers for your help.

Fire Stations will be emptied of late plates this week. Henceforth, old license plates will be accepted on the receiving platform at the rear of Mary Bridge Children's Hospital.

Once again we say thank you for your part in our drive.

Sincerely,
Dr. Edward A. Rich,

Air Show On TV Sunday, Here In August

Like the American Indian and buffalo the old fashioned bi-plane of yesteryear, with its colorful helmet and goggles pilot, is vanishing from America's skies.

The old time piston-propeller driven open cockpit bi-planes are now rapidly and sadly passing out of the aviation picture. Today there are but a handful of the two-wing ships remaining, and no company is manufacturing this type aircraft any longer.

A majority of the people watching the 90 minute National Air Show spectacular on CBS TV Sunday, March 31st will be viewing for their first time an "old time" air show.

This is the thing you'll applaud and admire on TV and again at Thun Field.

Every complicated roll, every shuddery spin, every moment of inverted flying appears effortless and easy—but each maneuver represents total respect for plane and engine, plus untold hours of instruction and monotonous practice.

Your Federal Government recognizes this fully, else it wouldn't sanction such flight nor risk accident to either pilots or spectators. Every second of the air show has been inspected, studied, and then approved by the Federal Aviation Agency inspectors.

Now, just who are these "accomplished" pilots?

You may be sure that they are tops in the field, else they wouldn't be associated with the National Air Shows.

Harold Krier, for example, is America's premier precision aerobatic flying expert. He holds championships in this country and abroad, among them the "Sky Champion—USA" title for 1958-'59-'60-'61-'62; a three time winner of the International Precision aerobatic contests, flying against the toughest competition that the world of aviation could produce; and most important, he is the 1959-'60-'61-'62 winner of the coveted Colonel Joe Mackey Trophy, highest award for precision airmanship.

At the Thun Field National Air Show Harold Krier will reveal the entire routine of precision flight and aerobatics, just as was performed by him for the impressed judges when he captured the International Precision Aerobatics Trophy.

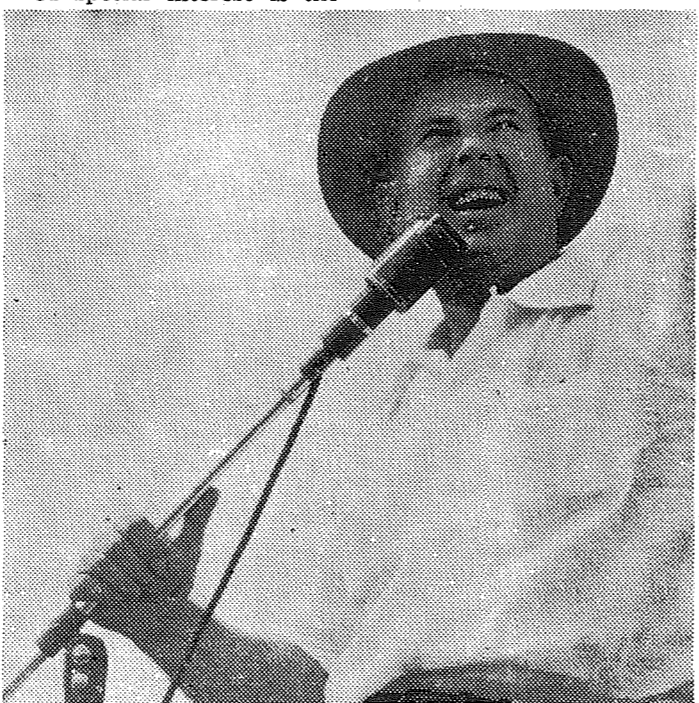

Krier's Great Lakes 2T-1A Special is his baby. It is powered with a 200 horsepower radial air-cooled engine that sends it through any maneuver he commands from the upright and inverted position. In many maneuvers he uses filmy white smoke trails so that the fans may follow the figure patterns more readily, and his "Rhapsody in Smoke" specialty employs colored smoke pouring from his wing tips to enhance the patriotic effect. In this, he spins an intricate, colorful, and fantastic web of brightly hued smoke, climaxing with the breath-taking "Yankee Doodle Loop."

In one hair-raising event Krier swoops to grass shaving inverted flight, snares a tiny red ribbon from two cane poles several broom sticks high off the airport turf, flying at 140 miles an hour.

Charles Hillard is a Champion in his own right—AAA Light Plane Champion, as a matter of record, and what he can wring out of a tiny little clipped-wing Cub Special and its modest 85 horsepower engine is astounding. He, too, can whip his underpowered plane through every known aerobatic number—and he does it, too.

Hillard's fame as the nation's No. 1 "dead" engine aerobatic ace is known to every airman in the U.S.A. In this, "It can't be done," event the youthful 22-year-old Texan cuts his four cylinder engine off cold, propeller is stopped; he then whips the 620-pound sky craft into a deadly "Cobra Roll" at the 4500 foot mark, stalling out, and falling over a mile in an 18-turn "tail spin." Recovering from the spin, and with the engine still cut dead, he zips into a series of loops, Cuban Eights, Barber Pole Rolls, and climaxes with a dead stick, one wheel landing, rolling to a spot in front of the announcer's stand.

This is flying. Precision flying, all the way. Of special interest is the dual formation team, precision aerobatic flying of Hillard and Krier in their total-

BILL SWEET, famed announcer-director of the TV National Air Shows, has narrated and directed most of the nation's major aviation classic's over the years including the great Cleveland, National Air Races, Miami, Florida All-American Air Maneuvers and the Columbus, Ohio National Air Show. He also appears in Zack Mosley's comic strip "Smilin Jack" as "Sill Sweet".

ly different aircraft. You wouldn't think it possible for a giant and a pygmy (comparing power plants) could perform this—but, somehow they do.

These two champion airman team up in something else totally different—one pilot flying the light plane at 100 miles an hour, the other guiding an automobile on the runway. Complete synchronization and absolute timing is the secret to enable steel-nerved Red Didget to transfer from automobile to the speeding plane by means of a swaying 12-foot ladder.

That Red Didget is another master of his art, and make no mistake about it, his "stunting" is an art. In one event he snatches a small handkerchief from the hand of a ground assistane while dangling from the rope ladder below a speeding plane, and he doubles, also, as the Human Comet. As an expert chutist in this number, he leaps free from the plane two miles high in the sky, falls free for a few feet before opening his arms and legs. He then can "fly" and maneuver about the heavens like a huge bird, right down to the 1500 foot level, before opening his chute for a landing directly in front of the gasping spectators.

everywhere as America's No. 1 aviation announcer-director, the colorful "Voice of the Skyways."

Bill Sweet has long been a familiar figure to aviation fans—with his casual sport clothes and identifying sports cap, for years on end now, because he has announced every major aviation classic in this country over the years.

Watch it on TV, Sunday, March 31. See it live at Thun Field, August 3rd & 4th.
