Dr. Hanson To Direct Seattle Symphony

March 15 can truly be said to be "Howard Hanson Day" at Pacific Lutheran College. Dr. Hanson, who is director of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester University, will be on campus on March 15 and much has been planned for this day.

Dr. Hanson is the greatest individual contributor to American music in the United States and has been given an impressive number of honors. He has conducted most of the leading orchestras in this country as well as in Europe.

Dr. Hanson will begin the day by speaking in chapel, after which there will be a luncheon meeting of the Northwest Alumni of the Eastman School.

Special Program

At 3 p.m. a special musical program will be presented to which the public is invited free of charge. At this time Dr. H. Klyne Headley, director of the Cornish School of Arts, will play one of his own violin sonatas in addition to other compositions.

Walter Eichinger, who formerly was on the faculty at CPS, will play an organ sonata composed by George McKay, who is at present on the faculty of the music department at the University of Washington and also is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music. Also participating in this afternoon's program will be the PLC Band and Choir. The PLC Band will play a number composed especially for band by Dr. Hanson.

Mu Phi Hosts Tea

After the afternoon concert there will be an informal tea in South Hall with Mu Phi Epsilon, National Music Sorority, acting as hostesses. At the tea Dr. Hanson will discuss present music education problems.

The Seattle Symphony Concert, with Dr. Hanson conducting, will be at 8:30. The featured work will be Dr. Hanson's "Romantic" symphony, the second of his symphonies. He composed the symphony during the 50th anniversary of the Boston Symphony, and it was performed for the first time in 1930.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased at the College Book Store. It is hoped that the students will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing this great American composer and conductor.

Student Body Nominees Announced Next Week

Student Council nominations for the 1956-57 student body officers will be posted next Wednesday. New nominations may be made by petition (fifty signatures minimum) or nominees may be moved to new positions in the same manner.

Candidates for May Queen must be chosen during the weeks following the Saga Carnival and preceding the Easter recess.

Speech Team Takes Honors In Tournament of Champions

Once again the Pacific Lutheran College forensics team came home with a truckload of hardware. The last trip, to the Linfield "Tournament of Champions," saw our squad win the Grand Sweepstakes from a field of 40 colleges representing seven states.

The trophies now on display in the CUB are the three sweepstakes trophies, including senior and junior debate; the talent show trophy, for the comic opera; and woman's congress trophy. Stu Gilbreath walked off with the senior men's oratory award, Anita Schnell garnered the senior women's extemp prose, and Betty Lou Bronice acquired the women's interview goldware.

The winning record of our team was: DEBATE—Senior men, Stu Gilbreath and Tom Swindland, 2nd; Junior women—Connie Hustad and Anita Schnell, 2nd; Junior men—Tom Reeves and Deyrol Anderson, 2nd; Junior women—Janet Turman and Virginia Thomsen, Betty Lou Bronice and Bettelou MacDonald, tie for 2nd; Lincoln-Douglas Debate—Stu Gilbreath, 3rd; Women's Congress—Anita Schnell, 3rd.

Stu Gilbreath also took second place in Senior Men's Extemp. In Junior Women's Impromptu, Bettelou MacDonald tied for 2nd. Oratory for Senior Women found Ruth Heino in 3rd place, and Betty Lou Bronice tied for 2nd in the Junior Women's Division.

Deyrol Anderson took 2nd in Radio Speaking and a 3rd in Junior Men's Interp. Virginia Thomsen took second place in Junior Women's After Dinner Speaking, and Niel Munson tied for 3rd in Salesmanship.

Our school can be justly proud in that Stu Gilbreath and Tom Swindland received the first bid to attend national debate tournament at West Point. Representatives from CPS and Pacific University were also chosen.

Students Present Shaw's 'Arms and Man' Tonight

Arms and the Man, an outstanding comedy in three acts, will be presented to the public by an all-student cast this Friday and Saturday evening, March 9 and 10, at 8:30 p.m. in the CMS. Admission is 50 cents for students, and 75 cents for adults.

In this light-hearted drama, George Bernard Shaw has woven a delightful "thread of laughter" into a quite serious theme, the need for a realistic outlook in life. The antithesis of this point of view and the object of Shaw's attack is embodied in the girl Raina Petkoff, the idealistic daughter in a wealthy Bulgarian family; she will be interpreted by Arlene Baker. As her fiance and ideal, the somewhat stuffy Major Saranoff will be presented by Wayne Olsen.

Jerry Slattum as Captain Bluntschli, the "chocolate soldier," promises a droll characterization of the solid realist. Joan Kittelson as the maid Louka will insert stringent comments from the author's point of view, and will also add romantic complications to the plot.

Henrietta Fikse and Alden McKechney will act in the supporting roles of Raina's parents and Nicola, the faithful family servant, will be acted by Duane Schayver.

Myrna Berg, assisted by Rod

Basehor, will direct the play, with Stan Elbertson as advisor. Alpha Psi Omega is the sponsoring group.

Committee heads are: house, Spurs; publicity, Lori Zellmer; programs, Bev Sveningen; stage manager, Jon Solne; electrician, Eric Jordahl; properties, Ray Mensch; costumes, Audrey Muhr; make-up, Mary Alice Drexel; and backdrop, Roberta Birkedahl.

Directories Here Soon

For the past few years there has been a general desire to have a faculty-student directory. This project has been undertaken by APO and is again nearing its completion. The directory is in the form of a small, attractive booklet which contains the names and addresses of the faculty and all students; non-resident as well as resident. Both home and school addresses are included. Much work has gone into its "make-up" by the members of APO in order that it may be as accurate as possible.

Since last year, the cost of printing has increased considerably and for a time, the thought of publishing a directory was almost abandoned. By soliciting advertisements, the price has been brought down to a level everyone can afford. The directories will sell at 40 cents per copy and will be sold in the CUB starting Monday, March 12.

The directory's good for many a thing. Like swatting flies and addressing. Not to mention names of teachers, Eligible gals, and future preacher. So don't delay, get in the buying, Or you'll be one, left out and crying. — P. H.

Saga Fete Next Week; Frosh Present Variety Show

The Saga Carnival has finally arrived. Fun, frolicking and foolishness will reach their peak on March 16 and 17, when this exciting event will get underway. The hum of activity can already be heard, thus assuring everyone that this year's carnival will be, as in previous years, entertaining, exciting and thoroughly enjoyable.

The candidates for Saga king and queen include Leslie Rosenquist (APO), Gordie Strom (Spurs), Sylvia Fyilling (Viking Club), and others.

Elections will be held on Tuesday, March 13. The couple polling the most votes will be crowned king and queen on Friday evening. The couple polling next highest in the voting will be the prince and princess of the Saga Carnival.

Friday evening, March 16, will feature several varied activities. At 8 p.m. the coronation program will begin, at which time the king and queen will be revealed. Following the coronation, popular Stan Boreson of station KING in Seattle will entertain. Afterwards all of the brave and the stalwart will head in the direction of the gym, for here, assembled under one roof, will be found remnants of "The greatest show on earth." It is certain that the king and queen, along with hilarity and laughter, will reign supreme.

Saturday evening, March 17, the freshman class will sponsor a show called "Footlight Varieties." Everything from musical numbers to pantomimes will be featured. Performers will include Mardel Soland, Gloria Stokely, Patti Ahern, Jean Willoughby.

After this show the spotlight will again focus on the gym. As on Friday night, script will be sold at the door so dirty money won't have to be handled during the activities.

Any donations for the prizes (up to $500) will be accepted, provided of course that the donor deliver them to the gym.

Any member of the student body who does not attend at least one evening of Saga entertainment will be tried for treason. Penalty if found guilty: forfeiture of one chapel period, or 3 lollipops, payable to the dean of men.

Professors who wish to attend must take the loyalty oath, thus assuring everyone that they are not, nor never were, members of the CPS faculty.

Schools Assume Double Role; Colleges Coddle Students

by Tore Nelson

There is no doubt that the American school system is inferior to the European with reference to the education of the gifted child. We wonder why we don't produce an Einstein or a Schweitzer when the fact is that we never offer the opportunity for such individuals to develop.

There is an old Norwegian saying which states: "Den maa tidlig kroses som god krok skal bli." (He has to be early bent who is going to go a good fishhook).

This applies to education as well. The fruits of such training may not ripen until late, as was the case with Einstein, but it will never ripen if it isn't given the soil in which to grow.

However, it isn't only the gifted child who is neglected, even the average high school student is cheated out of a good education because he is coddled. He is given every opportunity to be lazy and irresponsible by teachers who are trained to maintain each student at a mediocre minimum. "Johnny isn't well adjusted," is a common saying.

If I remember correctly from Norway, there were fewer ill adjusted students back there, but many more conscientious and superior ones. They weren't "coddled"; if you didn't do your work well, you could just throw away your books and get a job at 14 years of age. I personally studied harder in my first year in gymnasium (eighth grade) than I have at times in college.

Why Is America Prosperous?

Now the question is raised: Why is America so prosperous, so far ahead of other nations, if the educational system is deficient? America enjoys superior living standards and mechanical equipment because of enormously rich resources and a comparatively small population, not because its people are well educated. It is a gross misunderstanding to confuse a high standard of living with good education. To rely upon our high standard of living as the basis for a status quo in education is a rationalization, and a capitulation to our "Coca-Cola culture."

The lowest ebb of the educational system, however, is reached when parents begin to rely entirely upon the schools to bring up their children as well as educate them. Maybe this is the reason why the schools can't quite do the job. They are assuming a double responsibility.

And when colleges, even our own, become institutions to take care of the upbringing of the "children" by seeing to it that they are in bed by

by Sallim Mitri

Read the description of the following man and guess who he was. He is a huge man and tries to appear more huge by over-eating. He tramples the floor forcibly when he walks as if he were an officer of the Middle Ages. In spite of all this, his head is small and delicate. He surprises you when he speaks to you in a soft voice as if it were the voice of a dull, careful man. His hands are slender; the hands of an artist. He shaves his face, except his mustache, but as beard becomes a model in Europe, he lets his beard grow.

He is sensitive as a woman, adapts himself quickly to the surrounding circumstances, and is able to lure the Kaisers, the queens and the revolutionary leaders through his cleverness and grace. He only gives orders and does not discuss, and when he was asked if he exchanges ideas with other men he said: "In me, there is the struggle of many persons who make a republic, and they have the full right to negotiate."

He is always restless and he once said that God is angry with him because he doesn't rest where he is.

No Conviction Nor Purpose

He has no conviction nor purpose, for his motto is: He goes faster who doesn't know where to go.

Sometimes he pretends to be the servant of God, and sometimes the servant of his country, and sometimes the servant of his king. But God, country and king mean nothing to him if they don't serve him.

His faith in God is a peculiar faith for he doesn't believe in Christianity and does not believe in Love and the humanitarian principles of Jesus. He has made himself God and has asserted that all his decisions are divine. He knows no love but the love of his family, but he destroyed the happiness of his own

by Jim Gies

Gracious and glamorous Miss Agnes Moorehead presented a program of dramatic interpretation in the Paul Gregory production, "That Fabulous Redhead," March 6 in the Chapel-Music-Speech auditorium.

A capacity crowd of PLC students, faculty, and friends applauded Miss Moorehead through a series of works by Brooke, Proust, Lardner, Thurber, the Bible, and her climactic "Sorry, Wrong Number."

Opening with a recipe from a 14th Century cookbook and other ancient household hints, Miss Moorehead moved with grace into excerpts from her childhood, with sketches of her parents and relatives and on into her adult dreams. At this point she included Thurber's "Lavender With a Difference," a chapter describing his mother, and Brooke's selection of "Things I Have Loved."

Recalling her childhood, she enacted the story of "Moses and the Bullrush," as told to her by her colored nurse, Dafney. This is a monologue written by Miss Moorehead adapted from an actual experience. Following this she read with simplicity and expression the story of Noah and the Ark as she remembered her father, a Presbyterian minister, reading it to his family.

Wearing an Empire Line gown of mauve chiffon, she commented on her love of the color and concluded the first portion of her production with a character sketch of Madame Swan, by Proust.

After intermission Miss Moorehead returned with Lardner's "Some Like 'em Cold," a collection of let-

Attends Reception

Following the performance Miss Moorehead greeted students and friends at a coffee hour in South Hall. Here she commented on the five films she has just completed, her friendship with Jerry Lewis, and her trip over the pass from Eastern Washington — "We glided all the way sideways." When a student presented a picture to be autographed she recalled "I was finding 'Lost Moments'" and the studio wanted some publicity pictures that would not make her look the 108-year-old woman she was portraying.

This, the third in the Artist Series, was enjoyed by all who attended and Miss Moorehead's congenial wit and sparkling personality left a lasting impression with Pacific Lutheran College.

Coach Harshman Taking Ten Men To National Tournament

Kansas City, home of stockyards and basketball tournaments. We're interested primarily in the latter right now, as our Evergreen Champion Lutherans are knocking on the door to nation-wide fame. Already rated by the NAIA as fifth in the nation for small colleges in defense, the versatile Lutes also boast a league leading scoring average this year. Kansas City offers a challenge and a chance for us to show the rest of the nation that not only are we growing in size and numbers, but also in abilities. I'm proud of our team, and am sure they will be a credit to PLC both on and off the court.

In talking to some of the players before they left, Lute Jerstad summed up the most frequent reply to my query about their reaction to the coming trip, by saying, "I'm excited." Jim Van Beek felt that the team had a good chance in the tourney and Rick Kevorgerman thought that a lot depends on the outcome of the drawing for first opponents, which is very true.

Coach Marv Harshman stated that this is a much better balanced team than the one he took to the tourney in 1951. "Then we just had one scorer, Gene Lundgaard," he said, "and we relied mostly on defense. This year we've got an evenly balanced offense; when one man is cold, there is another to take over the load."

Intramural sports are reaching a frenzied stage as basketball nears its season's end next Wednesday with a possible tie or two for first place in the offing. Director Mark Salzman mentioned that the free throw contest will start this afternoon and that the schedules are now posted on the bulletin boards.

Volleyball team registrations from the various districts should be in by next Thursday, March 15, as play will start the following week. Salzman announced that each district may have more than one team, and that each team should have at least nine men on the roster. Teams will use six men, and a minimum of three may start a game.

CHATTER—Manager Bob Marvonek has been with the varsity cagers three years now, plus one year with the Jayvees. As well as taking care of the equipment and players' ills, Bob is the official PLC scorer at all varsity games. Some interesting facts about players and teams appearing in the NAIA Tourney: Bob Reigel of McNeese State College boasts a healthy 34.5 point average per game this year. West Virginia Tech has scored an average of 102.7 counters per contest as a team while sporting a 13-5 record. Wonder who beat them? Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, Idaho, has the best team defensive record, limiting rivals to an average of 57.21 points per game.

Missouri bound. Coach Marv Harshman, his 10-man basketball team, and manager Bob Marvonek all hustled aboard a Milwaukee streamliner yesterday afternoon at 2 p.m., on their way to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (N.A.I.A.) Basketball Tournament held in Kansas City, Mo., March 12-17.

Arriving in Kansas City at 9:10 p.m. Saturday, the squad will stay at the State Hotel. A "Tip-off Banquet" at 7 p.m. Sunday will start off the many activities planned for the 32 participating teams. The actual play will take place in the Kansas City Municipal Auditorium, a modern sports palace seating 11,000 fans.

Eight games are scheduled for Monday and eight more for Tuesday. After each team has played once, 16 teams will be eliminated, as a single defeat puts the team out of the race.

Wednesday eight more games will be played to determine the final eight teams in the contest. Thursday the quarter finals between the remaining teams will be played, limiting the field to four teams which will play Friday evening. Saturday the finals are scheduled for 9:30 p.m.

Opponents for the first round of play are not chosen until a Sunday night meeting between all participating coaches. Running concurrently with the tourney will be a clinic sponsored by the NAIA for football coaches plus many meetings of the NAIA groups.

One of the tournament highlights will be the "Parade of Champions," a parade of the 32 teams in colorful uniforms Monday evening after the first day's play, before the sports fans.

The 10-man squad includes Chuck Curtis, Al Gubrud, Jack Hoover, Roger Iverson, Lute Jerstad, Nick Kelderman, Phil Nordquist, Dennis Ross, Jack Sinderson, and Jim Van Beek.

The game will be recreated over radio by station KTAC, time to be announced in the papers.

Missionaries Lead Intramural Cagers

Battling for the top spot in the "A" League, the Missionaries, Eastern and Tacoma still are nifty and tuck in the struggle for first place. The Missionaries now have the inside track, sporting a 10-3 record, while Eastern and Tacoma have 9-4 and 10-3 records, respectively.

In the "B" League competition, the Faculty continued on their winning ways by routing the Monks 78-30 last Tuesday. The Faculty, who not long ago were in the league cellar, now back in the sunlight of first place with a 11-4 record. The second place Villains are following closely with a 10-4 record, placing them a half game behind the league leaders.

In the Tacoma-North Hall (8) contest played Tuesday, Tacoma had a five-point bulge in the fourth quarter, but an attempted stall backfired and North Hall (8) went ahead to win 54-50. Merle Hanson led the winners with 20 points, followed by

Lute Quintet Trounces Gonzaga Twice To Sweep Playoff Series

Overpowering the Gonzaga Bulldogs 76-61 and 80-72, in a two-out-of-three series here last weekend, the Pacific Lutheran basketball team climaxed their most successful season in recent years by winning a berth in the NAIA Tournament, to be held in Kansas City this coming week.

In sweeping the first two games from the Bulldogs, the Lutes left no doubts in spectators' minds as to which teams should represent District 1 in the annual tourney. In Friday night's contest the Zags were never a serious threat as the Gladiators jumped to an early lead which they never lost.

Saturday night saw a much closer ball game, with the lead changing hands throughout the first half of play. The second half was more one-sided, with the PLC squad maintaining a small lead during the last 20 minutes of play.

Freshman center Chuck Curtis set a new school record Friday evening as he grabbed 23 rebounds to top his previous best effort of 22 he set earlier in the year. Lute Captain Phil Nordquist also gathered in 16 rebounds to give PLC complete control over both baskets. Curtis also had time to pump in 32 points to lead all scorers.

PLC's accuracy from the field played a big part in the final outcome as the Lutes hit 27 out of 62 attempts for a hot 42.2% completed. The Zags meanwhile hit 24 out of 69 shots for a 34.8% average.

Saturday night saw a closer and more exciting battle as Gonzaga lived up to their name as the "hunching on like bulldogs, not letting PLC get a safe lead at any time. Neither team was able to get a substantial lead in the first half with PLC gaining a 39-38 edge at the intermission. The second stanza saw the Lutes get a five-point lead which they protected with outstanding defensive play by guard Jack Sinderson. In the final 15 minutes of play the Glads netted 30 counters, while holding Gonzaga to 18 points.

PLC again controlled the boards and Curtis garnered 27 points for high point honors. Center Harry Watson led the Bulldogs with 18 points, and proved to be the outstanding performer for Gonzaga on both nights.

Coach Marv Harshman's crew again proved themselves excellent marksmen, hitting 42.8% from the floor, and Gonzaga sank 38.2% of their attempts.

Something to Say . . .

(Continued from page 2, col. 3) son when he was discovered to be engaging in a love relationship with a young girl; at the same time, he is dishonest to his own wife. He is a drunkard, and continually in debt, nervous and reactionary in his thinking.

Who Was it?

Do you know who it was? And do these qualifications apply to a great leader?

These were the qualifications of the strongest man of the nineteenth century Europe, who unified Germany and molded the greatness of the modern German state. It was Bismarck.

It is impossible to predict or prophecy about a leader beforehand. You cannot point to a child and say: "This child will become a leader," in spite of your observation and careful study of his qualifications, character and capabilities. The characteristics of leadership are unique, personal and individualistic and it is hard to define them until the leader is in his office of leadership.

The question of what constitutes a leader is one that requires analysis, thought and reflection. While writing this article, the question came to my mind as to why rulers such as Nero, Hitler, Napoleon and Bismarck, and many others like them, who ruled by blood and iron, should decide the destinies of many nations; while Socrates had to drink the hemlock and John Huss was burned at the stake.

Intramural Cagers

Giving the Missionaries a close scare before bowing 57-54, the Campus Trotters nearly upset the league leaders Monday. David Knutzen paced the winners with 19 tallies and Duane Moe also garnered 19 points to lead the losers.

In another Monday contest, the Faculty ran away with the first half in their clash with the Villains, and coasted to a 50-41 victory. Mark Salzman and Marv Harshman did the scoring for the Profs, and Jim Gardner was high for the Villains with 17 counters.

The Cotton Pickers edged North Hall (3) in a see-saw battle, 40-38. Jerry Larson, North Hall, and Les Wigen, Cotton Pickers, each garnered 19 points to lead the scoring.

In the crucial Tacoma-Eastern (A) tilt March 2, the Tacoma outfit prevailed! 47-31. Gerry Redburg paced Tacoma with 17 points.

In other March 5 games, North Hall (3) whipped DeJardines 65-38; the Campus Trotters lost to the Cotton Pickers, 38-31; and Western outscored Johnson Annex 41-23.

Dr. Kuethe Attends Confab At Decorah

The E.L.C. colleges are holding their annual meeting at Luther College in Decorah, Iowa, where Dr. John G. Kuethe is representing PLC. The Lutheran Student Union, a two-day conference of student delegations from ELC colleges, is being held today and tomorrow. Approximately 300 students are attending the meeting.

"To Believe Is To . . ." is the theme of this year's meeting. The main purpose of this meeting is to promote religious inspiration and mutual acquaintances of Lutheran students. Phillip Skattum is student body president of Luther college.

To Believe Is To Grow

Three of the speakers will be Dr. Kuethe, who will speak on "To Believe Is to Grow"; Dr. Alvin Rogness, president of St. Paul Seminary, "To Believe"; and Dr. Orville Dahl, director of higher education of ELC, "To Believe Is to Build."

An inspirational meeting and discussions will be the activities for today and to conclude the meeting a banquet will be held on Saturday night.

AWS Presents Etiquette Series

Does the name of Emily Post make you shudder? A.W.S. has the answer for your social hesitations and public uncertainties.

Beginning in Chapel this Tuesday, A.W.S. offers their annual co-etiquette series for all loyal Lutes. A sound masculine point of view will be presented by our own Mr. Karl. Many of our basic social questions will be answered at this time.

To make this more helpful, students may place their own questions in boxes which will be provided in the dorms. The following Tuesday, Mr. Karl will present the solutions. You have everything to gain and nothing short of those social blues to lose.

Women Outnumber Men, 887 to 806

Final enrollment statistics for the 1955-56 school year have just been released from the registrar's office, courtesy of Mrs. Linka Johnson.

The grand total 1693, shows that men outnumber women slightly during the school year, but summer session gives the females a slight edge, 887 to 806. In only the special, extension, and part time categories do the women outnumber men.

Graduate students and the four classes include a larger number of men than women. The Freshmen have the closest race, with 214 men as compared to 213 women, for a total of 427.

Men have the advantage of number in the following: senior class—97 to 82 (179); junior class—112 to 93 (205); sophomore class—164 to 101 (265); grade—72 to 61 (133).

Trustees Meet to Discuss Problems

On March 15, the Board of Trustees will hold their regular spring semi-annual meeting. They will meet in Dr. S. C. Eastvold's office to discuss the various matters of administering college affairs and later will meet the student body for chapel services.

There are 18 members in the Board of Trustees representing the various districts of the three supporting synods (ALC, ELC, and Augustana) along with the Alumni Association. Dr. H. L. Foss will call the meeting to order.
