

Debate Team Wins Opening Debate of Year From W.S.C.

Eric Hauke and Bob Reid Uplift Affirmative Against L. Stritmatter and D. Krauger; Mr. Simpson Critic Judge

A victory for the affirmative team marked the opening of the debate season at Pacific Lutheran College, on Monday, February 22. Robert Reid and Eric Hauke upheld the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved: That congress should adopt legislation providing for the centralized control of industry."

On the negative were L. Stritmatter and D. Krauger of Washington State College at Pullman. Mr. Simpson, debate coach and teacher of History and English at Stadium High School in Tacoma, was the critic judge. Fred Walter, president of the Debate Club was the chairman.

The points upheld by the winning side, the affirmative, were: Centralized control is necessary to escape economic ruin; centralized control is democratic; and centralized control is the solution for our economic problem. The negative, upheld by W. S. C. debaters, held: Centralized control is against the principles of American economics, it has been unsuccessful in all cases, and that it would stifle industry and initiative.

Mr. Simpson, the critic judge, said that the statements of neither side were very clear. The bases for the decision were close.

Pfueger of Seattle Shows Slides, Gives Lecture: Funds to Support Madagasgar Boy

At the Mission Society meeting on Thursday evening, February 18, Reverend E. R. Pfueger, pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, in Seattle, showed colored slides and gave a lecture on the mission work being carried on in New Guinea by the American Lutheran Church. The work on the island, which was started by the Iowa Synod and which was taken over by the A. L. C. when the synods merged, is similar to the mission work done by the Norwegian Lutheran Church.

The lecture was sponsored in order to help raise the funds necessary for the support of Benjamin Batavaso, a native boy of Madagasgar, who is being educated at the Christian school at Fort Dauphin. The cost of his education is being paid by the Mission Society of Pacific Lutheran College.

After the lecture the Mission Society served coffee, sandwiches, and cookies. The committee in charge was Alice Alvins and Jennie Iverson. Hulda Simonson, president, made arrangements, and Frederick Mau owned and operated the machine that was used.

Choir Sings at Home Missions Conference

Hear Speakers From Many Cities; Install Rev. Foss as Pacific District President

Home mission problems and activities were discussed at the conference held at Stanwood during the week of February 8 to 12. Reverend H. L. Foss, who was installed as president of the Pacific District on Tuesday, February 9, arranged for the conference and called together pastors and laymen.

Speakers from outside of Washington included: Rev. Jas. Berg, Pasadena, California, president of the Mission Board of the district; Rev. L. W. Field, Kallispell, Montana; Rev. N. M. Yivisaker, Minneapolis, executive secretary of the Y. P. L. L.; Dr. C. S. B. Hoel, of the Home Mission department of the N. L. C. A.; Rev. A. O. Aasen, Vancouver, B. C.; Dr. J. A. Aagaard, Minneapolis, president of the N. L. C. A.; Rev. A. M. Kraebel, Portland, Oregon, president of the Pacific District Y. P. L. L.; Rev. J. D. Runsvold, Portland, Oregon; and Rev. R. Bogstad, Eugene, Oregon.

Devotions were conducted by Rev. A. K. Vinje, conference chaplain. R. Rev. L. C. Post, of Seattle, introduced the conference theme on Tuesday morning. This theme was further developed by the guest speakers during the succeeding sessions, trying to bring out the many phases of Home Mission work.

The conference reached its climax on Friday evening when the Pacific Lutheran College Choir presented a concert. Rev. N. M. Yivisaker gave the closing address.

The choir members remained in Stanwood as guests of the Stanwood congregation until Saturday morning when they returned to Parkland.

The conference sessions were well attended and were characterized by a splendid forward looking spirit.

Pioneer Company Will Print Saga

To Decide Engraving Contract Later; Bardon, Beck Move to Give Office to Saga Staff

That the Pioneer Printing Company would print the Saga was decided by the staff at a meeting, Thursday, February 18. The Pioneer is the same firm which has printed the Saga for the last two years. It was also decided that the engraving contract would not be given until further information was received.

The office formerly occupied by Professor Peter Jeremiah Bardon and Professor Alvar J. Beck is being used for the Saga office. Coach Clifford O. Olson is sharing his office with Mr. Bardon and Mr. Beck has moved in with Professor Nils J. Hong.

Gee! That One Is Keen

What! Senior Pictures

"Say, if you have any extra ones, remember me." "I like the 'smiley' one best, but don't suppose that devilish grin fits a would-be school marm."

"Save one for me."

Such are the cries heard everywhere in the halls of Pacific Lutheran College. The proofs for the senior's application pictures have arrived. Really, if the school boards which will gaze upon these photographs with an appraising and critical eye, know the worry they had caused, the board would better understand those queer little puckers between the eyebrows of the applicant.

Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation Give Silver Tea

In order to raise money to send to the Shismar Mission in Alaska, the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation gave a silver tea in the girls' reception room at the College on Tuesday, February 16. Amelia Holmquist and Dorothy Windsor poured. A committee of girls, with the aid of Mrs. Hinderlie, the cook, made the sandwiches and cookies that were served.

Luth. Leagues Hold Inspirational Rallies

Rally, Dinner at Central Lutheran; Rallies Also at Seattle, Cromwell; Yivisaker Speaks at All

A large representation from Parkland was present at the dinner rally at the Central Lutheran Church, of which E. N. Hegge is pastor, in Tacoma, Wednesday evening, February 17. Luther leaguers from six leagues brought the attendance up to nearly a hundred. This was the second of a series of three rallies held by the leaguers this week.

Rev. Hegge acted as toast master, with Rev. N. M. Yivisaker as speaker of the evening. Led by Mr. Campbell, the leaguers all joined in the singing of hymns. Miss Anna Mikkelsen sang a solo. Miss Rettha Hehr, president of the Central Luther League, gave a welcome on behalf of the League, and Miss Irene Dahl, president, spoke on behalf of the South Puget Sound Circuit. Greetings were given by representatives of every circuit present.

Rev. Yivisaker gave a well liked talk, pointing out the existence today of an anti-Christ movement, as is shown by the wars and serious social disturbances existing throughout the world. Rev. Yivisaker believes that a so-called "Youth's Movement" is counteracting the anti-Christ movement, however. Everyone can aid in combating this anti-Christ movement by loving Christ and the church a little more and by serving Christ a little more.

Dinner was served by the ladies of the Central Lutheran Guild in a room decorated in the patriotic colors—red, white, and blue.

The rally was held Tuesday evening in Seattle at Rev. M. L. Nesvig's church. Singing by the Immanuel Choir and the audience, and a violin duet by two sisters from the Phinney Church was excellent.

Rev. R. O. Overgaard's church at Cromwell was the scene of the third rally on Thursday evening. Music was furnished by the Cromwell Choir and male chorus and by a girls' trio from Tacoma. Miss Ida Hinderlie, '31, gave the welcoming address.

N. M. Yivisaker was an inspiring speaker at all three of the rallies.

Eric Hauke, president of the Student Body, was chosen to represent Pacific Lutheran College at the Lutheran Students' Union at Concordia College in Moorhead, Minnesota. Many prominent speakers as well as a number of the leading students of the colleges will take part in the conference. Student discussions and special musical numbers rendered by the hosts will compose part of the program.

A nominating committee comprised of the faculty and a student committee of three picked six eligible nominees which were subjected to the vote of the student body. The other eligible representatives were: Dagny Hjerstad, Pauline Schlerman, Hulda Simonson, Harold Berentson, and John Hopp.

A pioneer theme was carried out in planning the dinner, which was held in the College dining hall. The room was decorated in pioneer style, and the costumes of the waitresses, as well as the food served and the service, were in the same motif. The program began with a selection by the Pep Orchestra, under the direction of Frank Elliott, and a speech of welcome by the

APPLIED CHRISTIANITY

It was discouraging to a friend of missionary endeavor to see the poor showing of faculty and students at the lecture on New Guinea Missions, which was presented by the Reverend E. R. Pflueger last Thursday. The colored slides and the explanations by Reverend Pflueger were both of great interest to any Christian, and the offering, to which all given the opportunity to contribute, was for a most worthwhile cause. Moreover, Reverend Pflueger made the visit to Par land for the sole cause of helping missionary endeavor in showing these slides.

What a contrast, this, to the crowds at basketball and football games, which are usually very well attended by both faculty members and students. When we consider the tremendous preponderance of importance of missions as compared to any form of athletics, we wonder how any Christian could be guilty of such neglect. Christ said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." And the psalmist says, "The mightiest not in the strength of the horse; his strength not in the legs of a man." The Lord taketh pleasure in them that fear Him, in those that hope in His mercy.

USEFUL ALUMNI

It was a pleasure to see so many old friends and acquaintances back at school again for the alumni reunion. We hope that they enjoyed their stay here as much as we did their company. Alumni are one of the biggest assets that a college can have, when they are well organized and take an active interest in the affairs of the institution. We hope that our alumni will also be able to help make Pacific Lutheran College a real force in Lutheran circles in this part of the country.

WILL FEMINISM EVER RETURN TO STAY?

Will extreme feminism ever return to stay? It's doubtful if it will. Two years, or possibly three years ago the women's dresses were simple things to produce, as very little material was needed. Then the hems began to migrate nearer to the floor. The hair also began to be arranged as befitting feminine heads of fifty or sixty years ago. Now it seems that these human beings in question have had a reverse change of mind and many bobbed tresses are replacing the long hair. Maybe an alibi can be found in the fact that warm weather is on its way here, or that the depression puts a strain on buying hair pins.

 Gerhard Lane, '29, led in group singing, after which the Class of 1932 was officially welcomed. The Reverend B. A. Hirstad, founder of Pacific Lutheran College spoke a greeting. Members of the classes graduated "decades ago" spoke. Albert Thompson, '22, Mrs. Edwin Thngelstad, '12, and Dr. O. A. Thngelstad, '02, spoke.

Ted Evinth sang a solo, accompanied by Ruth Howard. Professor A. J. Hong spoke for Pacific Lutheran Academy. Professor C. O. Olson read the greetings of Columbia Lutheran College and Spokane College for the Reverend R. Hognstad, who could not attend. Professor Phillip E. Hauge spoke for Pacific Lutheran College. After the banquet the election of officers and the transaction of business took place.

On Sunday, February 21, the sermon was preached by the Reverend L. Rasmussen, '05, of Burlington, who spoke about our final great reunion in heaven, and exhorted his hearers to show the fruits of their faith in their lives. The Pacific Lutheran College Choir sang.

At 3:00 o'clock a choir of sixty-four voices, composed of present and former members of the Choir, under Professor Edwards, gave a concert. Following this, (by from the Mt. Vernon home of George Washington was planned by Millard Quale and Evelyn Arneson, with C. S. Roe, '17, principal of the Parkland Grade School, as the speaker. At 7:30 the Trinity Luthar League gave a social hour in honor of the Alumni. The "College Knights Quartette" sang, Walter Rehnackenberg, of Tacoma, played piano solos, Stanley Berentson gave some novelty numbers, and Art Spencer played several violin solos, accompanied by Grace Holte. After the program came refreshments and games.

The following telegrams were received and read at the banquet:
 "I regret that I cannot be with you, this evening. Best wishes for a happy reunion. Albert Samuelson."

"Greetings and best wishes for a happy and successful reunion. Warner Quale and Carroll Swain."

"May the reunion be one of inspiration and gladness. Special greetings to the Class of '28. Esther A. Tove."

"Depression has just hit here so we are joining forces in sending this greeting to the alumni banquet. While you are enjoying soup and nuts, we shall be enjoying macmahine and skiing. Special greetings to the Classes of '23 and '28. Hannah Anderson and Bertha Lero" (This was from Petersburg, Alaska).

A letter from Martha and Signe Hjermstad said, "Hello everybody! We'll be thinking of you."

Rev. R. Hognstad, who was unable to attend but who sent this message, wrote: "I am sorry I cannot be with you tonight in person, but the flu has gotten the best of me for a few days and I must resist the temptation of being with you. Yours for the Lutheran Church in general, for the Pacific Coast in particular, and the Pacific Lutheran College and its future success."

MY MOUNTAIN

There are those who call it Mount Tacoma,
There are those who call it Mount Rainier.
What do I call it?
What do I call that majestic peak of snow-capped glory,
Which lifts its soul into the sky
Taking my soul along into the heavens
To revel with the stars?
What do I call that dazzling golden promise
That greets me in the dawning of a new-born day
New life, new love, new work to do?
What do I call that immovable bulwark of rock, heights, chasms
Which stands an ever inspiring presence
Through many threesome hours?
What do I call that aged veteran—
That king of forest and stream and living souls,
Who rules my heart, and comforts me at eventide,
Whose snowy locks are garlanded with a rhye wreath at sunset,
And who gives me a tiny, pink rose of peace and contentment
To wear on my breast while I sleep?
What do I call it?
There are those who call it Mount Tacoma,
There are those who call it Mount Rainier,
But I call it My Mountain.

MRS. LOUISE TAYLOR

She may look like a student, but Mrs. Louise Taylor has been at Pacific Lutheran College for four years as Assistant Registrar and a teacher of English. Before that, she was principal of a high school in southern Washington. In 1924 Mrs. Taylor graduated from the University of Washington where she was interested in dramatics, a work that she still enjoys, as she is adviser of the P. L. C. Drama Club.

Incidentally, she was the guiding hand behind the service at the Alumni banquet. And though she insists that no credit is due for her work, trying to teach those waiters and waitresses the proper way to pour coffee was no light task.

Mrs. Taylor is interested in music and poetry as well as dramatics. But her "pet hobby," while she declares is much more fascinating, is her three and a half year old daughter, Joyce.

Chapel Gleanings

By Agnes Berge

Loyalty to God is above all things. Allow the light of the cross of Jesus Christ to illumine life's pages. The more your knowledge increases the more your sorrows increase. Surrender yourself to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Let us seek His guidance. Jesus Christ is the Master of us all. Paul said, "For me to live is Christ." There are many paradoxes in our Christian religion.

He is the very servant of men. There is a sorrow that works unto repentance; there is another sorrow that leads unto death.

No one escapes the sorrow of sin. God has laid upon sin a terrible curse. A Christian suffers because of the effect of sin.

Jesus Christ is the friend of sinners. Let us abide in the Lord Jesus Christ. God revealed to us the true nature of sin.

Weary Waiters Pale and Pained After Banquet

Twenty-two members of the freshman class of P. L. C. are well on their way to death's door. Pale and wan, they can barely drag their weary feet around campus. For at Saturday night's banquet, while returning graduates of former years and mighty graduates of '32 were enjoying their turkey, these poor individuals were dashing madly about providing food and pioneer atmosphere.

The looks of pain on the faces of the waitresses were caused by the dreadful fear of falling over their billowing skirts, and landing, with the gravy, in the lap of some important guest. And their blue-shirted partners were feeling the same way whenever they glanced at the dishes the girls were so calmly piling upon their trays.

Of the steady hum of conversation they got only snatches—"and there was Esther in the cutest"—"green pajamas, hanging out of Alice's"—"fifteen-cent store special, but really, Fred"—"couldn't find the girl he was looking for, because"—"it was in Johnnie's pocket all the time, and Marie"—"was boiling over in the kitchen, and you could smell"—"the class I had in practice teaching two years ago."

The conversation did sound fascinating, but the poor waiters could not pause and join in it. Instead they had to flee to the kitchen for more water. Reward did come at last, in the form of large plates of food which did not have to be handed on to someone else. But none of the overworked members of the waiters' union had any appetite left, and Jenny Lee had to stop after her sixteenth pickle. And what little meritment there was, was quickly smothered when one individual suddenly gasped, "I can't remember if there was any salt and pepper on one of my tables!" The poor youth was so overcome by this dreadful thought that he was unable to finish his third piece of mince pie.

Yes, pity the poor waiters!

RAVINGS BY RATTLEBRAINS

Ah, my dear public, here comes the first of my wonderful installments which are to become more renowned.

Only this morning Major Pisknucles called from Scotland Yard to beg me on bended knee to accept the honorable position as superintendent of the "Canine Licensure" Department. Such popularity is indeed deserved! But I wisely declined the well-meant offer, saying that the good old United States would be in a terrible condition without me, Professor Rattlebrain, as head of the "Babes' Wise Sayings" Bureau.

One of the first wise infant sayings we—or rather I—heard this week was Margaret Hilmo trying to proclaim herself as the only librarian present at that time. And there behind a 'book sat Avalon Wlojhn.

Sure, Alice Alvins trains for basket ball. No sweets for her. Don't let one tell you differently. Some one tried to say that she had been seen eating candy just before a game this year. Preposterous. Of course it isn't for me to say that she doesn't eat a few candy bars now and then—and she is fond of chocolate, cake too! But sweets? Never. There's a real athlete for you!

Clarence Munson loves so well to referee a girl's basket ball game that he is looking around hopeful of finding an opponent to whom he can give his envied position.

Here's one from an unknown admirer of Prof. Rattlebrain—Dear Professor: I have a boy friend whom I care for very deeply, but the feeling isn't mutual. What shall I do? Signed, Ruth Pochter.

You forget, Ruth, that this is the "Babes' Wise Sayings" Bureau and not a Dorothy Dix column. I'll advise you privately.

Adios until I make a few more discoveries—Prof. Rattlebrain.

Bellingham Normal Defeats Gladiators

A strong Bellingham Normal five repeated their early season win over the Gladiators by taking them to the cleaners on the Parkland floor by a score of 35-28.

Time and time again, a determined Lutheran rally would tie the score, after the visitors had gone on a scoring spree, but as luck would have it, one of the Lutheran attempts was cut short by the final whistle with the invaders 4 counters in the lead.

Moe, small but mighty, again got the high scoring honors when his sharp-shooting annexed 15 pointers for the locals, and in addition he ran one or two of the visitors ragged trailing him around the floor. Carlson, with 8 tallies, was next in the scoring game, besides playing a bang-up game at the guard performance. Hauke, at the other guard post, turned in a stellar game on the defensive end, holding McBeath, Normal ace, to a low scoring game.

Columbia Wins 22-16

Over-Sized Portland Floor Draw-back to Gladiators

Playing on what to them was an over-sized floor, the Gladiators lost their return game with Columbia University of Portland on the latter's floor by a score of 22-16. The strong defense shown by the Gladiators on the local floor was not displayed on the large Columbia floor, although the score indicates that close-checking was in order.

The Columbians got off to a good start and before the game had progressed very long, they managed to snatch a lead of eight points. McCarthey, forward, accounted for most of Columbia's points during the first half. Although the Lutherans were trying desperately to overcome the lead, they were still behind at half time with the score at 15-6 in favor of the Irish.

The beginning of the second half looked as though the Lutherans had finally accustomed themselves to the large floor, and during this period amassed 10 points to their opponents' 7. The scoring was divided quite evenly among the players of both teams. Mitton, center, led the Gladiators with 5 points, while Carlson was allowed but 4. McCarthey was high point for the winners with 6 points to his credit.

Sport Slants

For the third and last time, I hope, I shall endeavor to make public apologies to the girls for two grievous errors in their publicity that has kept me on the spot for a day or two, (for two weeks now the S. S. have found their way elsewhere than the paper—you know these heartless editors.) In the first place the girls did not lose to Sumner on the home floor last season as quoted an issue or two ago. In the second place I forgot to mention enough players having the favored spot in Coach Ramie's eyes, since both Miss Monson and Miss Gardlin share the side center spot with neither getting the regular call every time. That's that.

S. S.
A source of great pleasure it was to me when the powerful C. P. S. five dropped some 8 encounters in a row. The best however came when it was announced that the Tacomas took some bitter medicine at the hands of the Albany team. Remember what Coach Olson's men did to the Albany outfit even after the wreck on the trip, when they battled the hometowners to a 40-27 victory. What ho—nice news hey?

S. S.
Personal beliefs that none has heard. Lately Hauke, star guard, on Coach Olson's five has been getting some tough assignments in the last few games. Against the Aberdeen five, he was given Berg, ace forward, and against the Teachers he was given McBeath for his evening work. In both of the games Eric was at hard work against his opponents but in both games he turned in stellar performances. Mr. Dutch Moe is getting better and better—no one seems to be able to keep track of him in the game. Tough luck has been sitting on Fadness's doorstep, with many of his attempts at the basket refusing to drop through the hoop. Old times again. From past the center of the floor a certain Mr. Palo poses then pots the basket for another of his special shots.

S. S.
What ho—the battle of the century is slated for the week, Wednesday to be exact, when the Famous Croquet Five meets the seconds in a play off for the school championship—if any. The rivalry is intense, and according to many close followers of the game, should provide plenty of some kind of action which liberally, may be termed basketball. Mr. Cronquist, star and captain of his outfit, is certain that his well trained five can set any team on its ear.

S. S.
Those that would golf and would be interested in a school tournament might hand in their names to me or to Mr. Stuen so that one might be arranged as soon as the weather becomes suitable.

Gladiator Reserves Win Trio of Games

Showing complete reversals in form over early season starts the Gladiator Reserves chalked up a trio of wins in as many starts for the past two weeks' work. The first to fall to the Lutheran seconds was Ray by a score of 18-12, followed by a win over the Aberdeen seconds, 40-31 and dimaxed by a win over their ancient rivals Spanaway, 20-15.

The Aberdeen win was one of the most satisfying to the Reserves when it is considered that some of the visiting first teams took part in the fray when the regulars did not appear on time—notably Mr. Berg who annexed high point honors in both contests with 12 markers. By winning over the Spanaway Athletic club the Seconds were finally successful in taking the measure of the Lakers after a very large number of unsuccessful tries.

Hudson, sharp eyed forward, did a great deal of the Lutheran scoring in the three games to total 26 pointers. Score, forward and center, took second spot with 12 tallies and Spencer, forward in third spot with 10 pointers. In most of the games the scoring has been fairly evenly distributed among the squad.

The enrollment at Luther College for the second semester is 261. Of this number 14 are new students.—College Chips

Lose to Mt. Vernon Gladiators Win Over Aberdeen Jaysees

Played on Jaysee Floor: Final Score 26-20

On the afternoon of February 12, an unaggressive Lutheran quietest was handed a 26-20 defeat by the Mt. Vernon Jr. College, on the latter's home court. The victory avenged Mt. Vernon for the defeat they received from the Lutherans earlier in the season.

Despite the loss of Tavener, star forward, who sprained his ankle early in the game, Mt. Vernon was able to play the Gladiators on even terms until the end of the first half. The half ended with the Gladiators in the lead by the scant margin of one point—12-11.

However, the second-half found the Lutherans far from their usual form, led a desperate attempt to overcome a 6 point lead in the last few minutes, the rally fell short and at the same time the Jaysees added to their count. Moe, Lutheran forward, again led his teammates in the scoring by accounting for 7 points, while Neff, elongated Jaysee center, was high scorer of the game with 12 points to his credit.

A most satisfying revenge was completed when the Gladiators thoroughly trounced the Aberdeen Jaysees by a score of 37-24 of the Harbor floor. This was a two year jinx broken by a fighting Lutheran squad.

Although the invaders started slowly, there was no doubt after they did get into motion as to who would have the most of the score. Fadness and Moe ran the hometowners off their feet the last half while Carlson and Hauke built a high wall of defense around the Lutheran basket. Moe did most of the work under the basket, while "Red" stormed the hoop from the center of the floor to tie the diminutive forward in scoring with 10 counters. Fadness added 5 pointers to the Gladiators score.
