

knightletter

VOL 5 NO 13 Pacific Lutheran University January 18, 1968

Community Planning Conference Brings City Officials to Campus

The work done by regional-governing bodies will be emphasized Friday when Pacific Lutheran University hosts its second Conference on Community Planning.

The all-day affair will concentrate on explaining how regional councils, consisting of members from local governmental units, solve problems of mutual concern.

"The purpose of Councils of Government," said Dr. Lowell Culver, director of the conference, "is to promote a sense of harmony and cooperation among the governments of an area, and to seek the solution of metropolitan problems through mutually agreed courses of action."

Four speakers will address the conference. They are Mayor Woodrow W. Dumas, president of the East Baton Rouge (La.) Parish; Walter A. Scheiber, executive director of the Metropolitan Washington (D.C.) Council of Governments; Minneapolis Mayor Arthur Naftalin; and Warren Schmid, executive director of the Association of Bay Area Governments, of Berkeley, Calif.

Following the 8:45 a.m., registration and introduction by Dr. Thomas Langevin, academic vice president at PLU, Dumas will speak on "The Politics of City-County Consolidation in Baton Rouge." He will be followed by Scheiber, whose topic is "The Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments."

After lunch Naftalin will address the group on "Intergovernmental Cooperation in Metropolitan Minneapolis." The last topic, "Regional Cooperation in the San Francisco Bay Area," will be delivered by Schmid.

A 3 p.m. question-and-answer session on policies of metropolitan cooperation will include all four speakers.

Culver, assistant professor of political science at PLU, said enrollment for this conference has been expanded to include members of the Committee on Local Government of the State Legislature; the Legislative Council; the County Boards of Commissioners in the Puget Sound area; the Puget Sound Governmental Conference; and freeholders from Seattle.

Culver

The purpose of the series of conferences is to acquaint area governmental and community leaders with the manner in which communities in other metropolitan areas have cooperated to meet their common problems.

"Pierce County has many problems brought about by rapid population and industrial growth," said Culver. "Plu, in cooperation with the Planning and Community Affairs Agency of the State of Washington, has started these conferences to seek solutions to our urban problems."

The first of the conferences, held last November, dealt with metropolitan problems in general, and also with those existing in Pierce County. The next two, to be held in the spring, will involve just Pierce County representatives.

Registration
(A Time to Wait - Page 3)

ROUNDTABLE

Burton T. Ostenson (biology) attended the conference on Outdoor Education at North Bend, Wash., last week sponsored by the Washington Conservation Forum . . . Vern Utzinger (speech) spoke on "Development of Speech" last week to 50 adults at the Parkland Nursery School . . . Kathryn Strickland (music) will present a concert with cellist Ian Edlund of Olympia at Washington State University on Sunday . . . Charlotte Garretson (music) has been awarded a PONCHO grant for performing in cultural activities in Seattle . . . she will be singing two major roles in a U of W opera production this spring . . . there will be a no-host luncheon for Mrs. Marie Kraabel at noon next Thursday in Chris Knutsen Hall . . . Mrs. Kraabel is leaving PLU at the end of the month . . . those wishing to contribute towards a gift may do so at the information desk where reservations for dinner will also be made.

FRIDAY A total of 18 students will perform this week at Friday
MUSIC Noon Music at 12:30 p.m., in Eastvold Auditorium. They are: Bradley Miller, bass baritone; Kay Bolstad, piano; Roxanne Sansness, contralto; Thomas Brandt, tenor;

Joyce Johnson, soprano; Philip Nesvig, her accompanist; Diana Hope, piano; Sharon Rodkey, mezzo-soprano; David Qualley, her accompanist; Brigitte Greve, piano; Kenneth Sammons, tenor; Roberta Allen, his accompanist;

Connie Koschman, piano; Marcia Nielsen, soprano; Patti Hudemann, her accompanist; Eunice Wallin, piano; and Margaret Hult, piano.

Frederick Newnham will accompany two numbers.

I. D. The business office notes that all students, faculty and staff in need CARDS of I.D. cards should contact Ken Dunmire, ext. 265, for an appointment before Jan. 29th.

JUST A Coffee for faculty members will be served in the small dining room REMINDER of the CUB on Friday instead of the faculty lounge in Xavier Hall.

FACULTY Mrs. Paul Bondo will discuss the art of painting and mending china at the WIVES Monday, Jan. 22 meeting of Faculty Wives. She will bring several samples of her work to illustrate her talk.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m., in Xavier Hall.

Mrs. Vivian Saint Moore and Rosalind Olson, recipients of the club's 1967 scholarships, will be special guests.

The treasurer will accept dues and the $2 scholarship assessment from members.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Harry Adams; Mrs. Seiichi Adachi; Mrs. E. M. Akre, Mrs. Richard Alseth, Mrs. Mark Andersen, and Mrs. Ronald Genda.

BIRTHDAYS

Marie Kraabel	January 21
Alberta Latimer	January 21
Louise Carpentar	January 22
Curtis Huber	January 23
Sue Pokela	January 23
Willie M. Callahan	January 25

The Natural Science Foundation has published a list of summer 1968 and academic year 1968-79 study and research opportunities available at universities across the country. Faculty members teaching in the social or natural sciences are invited to study the list, which is available from many department chairmen or from the office of the academic deans.

Registration: a time to gossip with friends, read over someone's shoulder, and worry about your class being filled before you get a chance to register. But mainly it is a time to stand: a time to wait.

Elizabeth Ann Fenn, a freshman from Alameda, Calif., practices for her solo for the Sea Sprites' annual water show to be held March 8 and 9 at PLU.

Hoopsters Bounce Back to Form

The Pacific Lutheran University basketball team dropped out of contention for a first place finish in the Northwest Conference last Friday after its shattering defeat to Linfield College.

However, it is slowly working its way back up the ratings. On Wednesday the Lutes overpowered Pacific University, a team they had defeated twice before. Last night they took on Lewis and Clark College.

The hoopsters return to the security of their home court Saturday for a battle with the Bearcats from Willamette University.

Willamette is 3-2 in NWC action after being dumped by Lewis and Clark last Saturday. However, the Bearcats won the previous night, and they also have registered wins over College of Idaho and Whitman College.

Lute Tankmen Host Two Weekend Meets

The tankmen of PLU will take to their damp race track again this weekend as they host the University of British Columbia on Friday and Central Washington on Saturday.

Although UBC has some outstanding swimmers, PLU coach Rich Alseth thinks PLU should win on the basis of its team depth.

"It will go down to the last race," he said, "but we should win that one."

Central, on the other hand, will present a much better team. In their previous meet with the Lutes last December, Central overpowered its rival.

Friday's meet starts at 7:30 p.m., and Saturday's meet at 12:30 p.m.

Willamette is a fast-breaking team, and it has plenty of material to push the ball through the hoop. Six players continue to average in the double figures after 11 games, which indicates their scoring threat.

The top scorer and rebounder is junior John Barker, a 6-3 forward. He is followed by Sandy Marcelino, a 5-8 guard who is the leader of the squad's fast break.

Height is not a factor at Salem, and both teams should be about equal. Al Kollar, PLU's center and top rebounder, will be matched against freshman Jack Dale who stands 6-5.

Willamette is a team that likes to run and shoot. Four times this season it has broken into the 100-plus column; a 123-73 win over George Fox College; 103-81 win over Pacific; 115-101 win over Humboldt State; and a 115-103 loss last Saturday over Lewis and Clark. It should be an exciting game.

Jerry Kracht, director of the University Orchestra, rehearses prior to last Tuesday's concert.

Gerheim Is Campaign Manager

Dr. Earl B. Gerheim, professor of biology at PLU, will serve as campaign manager for Prof. Hugh Nutley, a Seattle Pacific College physics faculty member, who is running for the vacated seat in the 28th District.

Gerheim, an active Republican, said the seat became vacated after Dr. Newschwander decided to run for the Senate.

Norwegian Singers Plan PLU Concert on Sunday

The Norwegian Male Choruses from Seattle, Tacoma and Everett will present a joint concert at 4 p.m., Sunday, in Eastvold Auditorium.

The Normanna Male Chorus of Tacoma, one of the three performing groups, will host the event.

August Werner, director-in-chief of the Pacific Coast Norwegian Singers Association, will conduct. The retired University of Washington professor will present Dr. Robert Mortvedt with a bust of Edvard Grieg during the concert.

Presentation of Werner's sculpture prompted the concert.

Mrs. Dorothy Malmin, wife of PLU Norwegian professor Gunnar Malmin, will assist in the directing of the 125-voice choir.

Mrs. Clara Sandvig, who was one of the featured soloists at the dedication of Eastvold Chapel, will be featured. She will sing: "Veslemey" (The Mountain Maid); "Elsk" (Love); "Sne" (Snow); "Her En Enkel Vuggesand" (Listen to a Simple Lullaby); and "En Drem" (A Dream).

In addition, she will sing "My Heart Ever Faithful"; "Come Unto Him All Ye That Labor"; and "God's Lark at Morning."

Some of the choir's selections include: "Let There Be Music"; "Gud Signe Norigs Land"; "I Midnattsolen"; "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee"; "Naar Fjordene Blaaner"; "En Jaegersang"; "Sanctus"; "The Lost Chord"; "Beautiful Saviour"; "Deu Store Hvide Flok"; with a solo by Mrs. Sandvig; and "Laudkjending" with a solo by George Jacobsen.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased at the door. The prices are $1.25 for adults and $.75 for students.