Stage Door In SUB Friday, Saturday Nights

'Stage Door," the annual all-col- Thorleifson, and Toppy Ramst lege production staged by the Speech Department of Pacific Lutheran College, opened Thursday evening, No-vember 10, at 8:15. The play, produced in the Student Union Building on the campus, will be shown for three performances on Thursday, Friday performances on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, each performance beginning at 8:15.

The "Footlight Club," a boarding house in - New York's West 50%, is the setting for "Stage Door." It is a character study involving a group of people engaged in the professional theater, showing that the real values in life are west fishible and seals. in life are worth fighting and sacri-ficing for and are infinitely more important than the fleeting pleasures of Theater-goers will be interested in the set that has been constructed for this production. Howard Shull, stage manager of the show, had to overcome the problem of accommodating a cast of twenty-six on a camparatively small stage. In meeting this difficulty, Howard has designed a set which gives both horizontal and vertical variation to the actions of the cast. Besides constructing an attrac-tive set it is believed that it will offer a different sort of variety in staging that will make the show much more interesting to the audience.

Tickets will be on sale at the door each evening from 7:30 until curtain time. The adult admission is $.85.

Committees

Evangeline Ordahl, chairman of the production committee, has announced the following committees and their members for the all-school play, Stage Door, to be held on November 10-12.

Make-up committee consists of Les McDonald, Jim Williamson, Cam Loftness, Pearl Jacobson, Marion Ben-jaminson, and Roberta Schoessler.

To Elect MM Editor-Council

The Student Council decided at week's meeting that the editor of the Mooring Mast in addition to the Mast's business manager will be elected by the student body in the

On motion of the present editor, the students will choose their editor and business manager from a slate nominated by the Literary Board This board consists of the members of the Faculty Publications Commit tee and three students appointed by the student council. The outgoing editor will be a member of this board for the purpose of nominating the future editor and business manager.

The Mooring Mast system will be different than that used with the Saga in that the assistant and associate editors of the Mast will be se lected by the editor who is elected.

This action by the student council also requires that the constitution be amended in a special election prior to the forthcoming spring elections. If the constitution was amended during the spring ASB elections the editor and business manager could not be elected until the following spring.

Although this program is still in the beginning stages of organization, it will, in the near future, become one of the greatest assets to the Stu-dent Body. On a campus the size of curs, it is necessary to have a welloranized and efficient program of health service. It is with deepest gratitude that we give our thanks to Miss Ordahl, her faithful student helpers, and especially to Dr. Strunk for his foresight in the organizing of this program.

The success of this program is dependent upon not only its organiz-ers, but also upon the cooperation of the students as a whole. One of the many ways in which the students can help is by the prompt payment of

Stanford Sauad Leaves Next Sat.

The Pacific Lutheran College debate squad leaves for Stanford Uni-versity at 5:30 a.m. on the 19th of this month. Those persons making the trip are Prof. Theodore O. H. Karl, Mrs. Pauline Schaffer, Lou Innerar-Mrs. Fauline Schaffer, Lillian Leikauf, Mary Larson, Herb Neve, Jon Eric-son, and Joyce Taylor. The varsity debate squad consists of Lou Inner-arity and Don Graham. The other members of the team will be entered in the junior varsity division with the exception of Mary Larson, who will compete in individual events ex-

The squad faces another test in the WSA Congress, an event that they won last year at Seattle, and which they garnered at Linfield last February. This event has been going to PLC consistently in recent sessions, and there will be a number of schools out to change that situation at Stanford. The rules for the Congress are ambiguous enough to prevent anyone from knowing how the event will be conducted. It is not even certain that any one individual will be permitted to win this event for his school this time, and it is rumored by R. D. Mahaffey, director of the tournament, that only certificates of proficiency will be awarded, but in large numbers. This could easily destroy a major part of the interest in the event by schools whose delegations have proven themselves to be proficient parliamen-

The debate squad will follow up the touranment with a three-day speech convention at San Jose, California, and will return to PLC on November 28. Mr. Karl will address the WSA convention on the subject of "The Educational Theater in the College and the University."

At Seattle-Pacific last week, the debate squads of PLC and CPS renewed their annual pact of cooperation and friendship in major tourna-

The entire program has been modeled as closely as possible after the U. S. Congress, even to the extent of a State of the Union message by a member of the legislature. delegates will work in committees, senate and house sessions, and will convene in a joint session near the close of the day to make a final de-cision on all legislation that has been proposed Judges for the congress are members of Pi Kappa Delta and the speech department, and they have been in-structed to select the winners carefully on a predetermined basis of total effectiveness. The students will b judged in all committees and general difficult decisions to be made the en-tire panel of judges will rule on the matter by majority vote.

Speakers of the joint and general sessions of the two houses are mem-bers of the speech honor group, and have had considerable experience with events of this kind in college circles. ou Innerarity will preside over joint sessions and the senate, while Donald Graham will wield the gavel in the house of representatives.

Student judges are listed as Lloyd Cleven, president of Pi Kappa Delta's local chapter, Lillian Leikauf, Robert Ericson, Walter Dingfield, Robert Crumbaugh, Jon Ericson, Larry Hauge and Hyman Fisch. These pgople will serve as temporary chairmen of the committees to which they are assigned as judges until the student delegates have elected their own committee chairmen and secretaries.

SOHOS USHER AT PLAY

At the recent meeting of the Sohos the group appointed six usherettes for each night of the all-school play which is being held November 19-12.

The Sohos have been active since the beginning of school. A few of their services have been the taking care of the voting booths at the Homecoming elections, making the corsages for Homecoming, and cleaning the trophy case in the SUB. On November 12, the girls show those students attending the High School Congress around the campus. This student congress is being sponsored by Pi Kappa Delta.

Yeah, We Didn't Win

PLC sent its Stanford travelling squad to Seattle-Pacific College last Tuesday to participate in some practice debates with a few other Northwest area colleges. The next day the Tacoma News Tribune carried a front-page article with a head-line reading, "PLC Debaters Win Practice Tournament."

On that same Wednesday, Jacqueline Hodgson, who debates for CPS, called our speech department and singed the telephone wanting to know wot's wot. Miss Hodgson says PLC didn't win the tourney. She's right, no one won it, mainly because there is seldom a practice tournament that selects a winning school. At this one there were three schools who wound up with undefeated teams, and PLC's Don Graham-Lou Innerarity and a team from CPS were two of them.

How come we got credit? The story went in to the Tribune from PLC's news bureau. The Tribune man who wrote the head gave us the win. We thank him for his kindness, and we hope that Jackie will sleep better knowing that we didn't try to pull a fast one on Dr. Battin's CPS squad .- LAI.

Students and Politics

With almost two hundred high school students on the campus tomorrow for the mock U. S. Congress being held here, the walls of the Student Union Building, Old Main and Library will resound with the noise and vibration that go into the drafting and passage of legislation.

The congress may be only a mock session, but the students that participate in it will be speaking and acting in accordance with their views and opinions on matters of national and internatonal importance. Since these delegates to the congress will be voting in our local, state and national elections within a very few years it is important that they become conversant with the problems of our time while approaching the age of voting eligibility.

PLC is taking a forward step in holding the first student congress in the Tacoma area for high school students that has ever been sponsored by a four-year college. It is our determination to make the congress a success from the standpoint of the delegates' participation. Our first responsibility is that the congress be a success from their point of view, and if this is accomplshed, then the entire event will have been a success in our point of view.

In our first undertaking of this type we will be under the observance of such persons as the city editor of the Tacoma News Tribune, a member of the state legislature, and faculty members from the University of Washington. Last, but not least, we will be responsible to the coaches and principals of the high schools who will be represented. We will be responsible to them for a congress that is both enlightening and interesting to their students. It is our task to conduct this event so that these high school faculty people will leave PLC with a feeling that the trip and the effort was really worthwhile.

This is probably my best opportunity to convey the thanks of Pi Kappa Delta, the speech department, and myself as the congress director, to Tawasi, Sohos, Tassels, and all of the other people who have so willingly lent themselves to the task of making this event a reality. Without their assistance we could not have hoped to accomplish a congress that is worthy of our own college and the efforts of the people who will attend.

Even though the plans for the congress have been carefully drawn up, reviewed and coordinated, there is always the last minute job to be done. We hope that those people who are interested in helping with the event, and who have not already accepted responsibilities, will make themselves available to the Congress Tournament Committee for assignment to jobs that will need to be accomplished. Those so inclined should contact either Karl Bachner, Lou Innerarity, Professor Karl, or Donald Graham any time between now and ten o'clock tomorrow morning. Your assistance will be appreciated .- LAI.

maining game to tie for the league lead and if CPS or Western wants to share in the bunting, they must win both of their remaining games.

CPS takes on two of the more improved teams of the conference, both Western and PLC having come a long way since the early part of the season. Western does not have a chance to tie for the crown, however, unless Eastern should tie in its remaining game, since Western tied with PLC.
Over the weekend we find that the College of Puget Sound surprised the College of Puget Sound surprised everyone by defeating Whitworth by such a large margin, though some quarters did expect them to win. They rolled up a 46 to 7 margin despite the fact that Ed Kretz, Vern Tucker and Co. rolled up consider-ably more than 200 yards in the air and made one more first down! Western powered to a 20 to 8 win over Central, putting them in the fifth slot, a half game behind the Gladia-

You're Fired!

The editor said to me this week "You write a football story."
So I will now proceed to tell My story, nice and gory.

The big gun sounded one loud bang, Xyowzski kicked the ball, Zucchini caught—and in He headed for a fall.

The horse-hide skin was carried far. Say, this is quite a show. But if you'll please excuse me now, I see a friend I know.

Then fellow number twenty-one Ran down the third base line. His par must certainly be low, 'Cause "ref' ignored the sign.

The ice-cold pop and hot dog mar Came by when scores were tied. I couldn't remember who got ahead, But our side nearly died.

To close the game, there was a bunt That ended in the basket. I may not knof my football— But at least you shouldn't have asked!

"There is no such thing as a partial forgiveness . . .; God forgives ALL sins to him who believes in Jesus Christ."—Dr. Eastvold.

Columbia is the favorite off-campus haunt of University of Missouri students. That's because Gaebler's is a friendly place, always full of the busy atmosphere of college life. There is always plenty of icecold Coca-Cola, too. For here, as in college gathering spots everywhere—Coke belongs.

Ask for it either way ... both trade-marks mean the same thing.
