First woman to scale Everest shares tale

On Sept. 29, 1988, after 29 days on Mt. Everest, Stacy Allison became the first American woman to reach the summit, at 29,028 feet. She will share what she has learned about challenges, pursuing dreams, adventure and goals at a 7 pm lecture on March 11 in the CK. Allison also documented her trials in the book "Beyond the Limits: A Woman's Triumph on Everest."

A Mother's Own Story

Dorothy Hajdys is the mother of Allen Schindler, a gay sailor beaten to death by a shipmate whose only motive for the murder was anti-gay prejudice. In the talk "A Mother's Own Story," Hajdys will tell her story with reference to the ways in which prejudice and discrimination create a climate in which gay-bashing can flourish. The free presentation is co-sponsored by Harmony of PLU. The talk begins at 7 pm on March 12 in Kilworth Chapel at UPS. Call Beth Kraig, 7296, for more information.

Two-hour parking is old hat

The "new" green-and-white signs flanking roads near campus and proclaiming two-hour parking limits aren't really new at all. Walt Huston (Campus Safety) said the signs on Yakima, 120th, 121st, Park and Wheeler streets and 8th Avenue are replacements for signs that have been stolen. Keep an eye on the clock: violation of the time limit bears a $38 parking ticket.

Hoorah for business! Come celebrate!

All business majors are invited to attend "Celebrations!" from 6:30 to 9 pm on March 14 at the Tacoma Art Museum. See the 20th-century Catalan Masters exhibit while networking with alums, fellow Lutes, faculty and staff. Share a memory with Dave McNabb, retiring after 18 years of teaching at PLU, and celebrate the School of Business' American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business accreditation anniversaries, and the 20th and 25th birthdays of the MBA and BBA programs. The event is sponsored by PLUS Business. Tickets are $12 for PLUS Business members, and $15 for non-members. Call Susan Martensen, 7328, to RSVP or for more information.

The Sustainability of Urban Agriculture

From Nairobi to Bangkok to Hartford, Conn., Rachel Nugent (Economics) has studied urban agriculture and its sustainability. In cities across the nation and throughout the world, there are places

Streetcar Named Desire

University Theatre presents "Streetcar Named Desire," Tennessee Williams' masterpiece about a fragile Southern gentlewoman who struggles to retain a way of life that is doomed to extinction. The where people are able to grow their own produce, in vacant lots, on rooftops and in their backyards. Nugent examined why people choose to raise gardens in the city, and if it is economically, socially and environmentally sustainable. She will present her findings from 2:30 to 3:30 pm on March 14 in Xavier 114 as part of the "Perspectives in the Social Sciences" lecture series.

Genocide essays due

Submissions for the Raphael Lemkin Essay Competition, for essays on the topic of genocide, are due by March 14 to the Social Sciences Office (Xavier 121). The contest honors the man who coined the term "genocide" and labored for passage of the United Nations Genocide Convention, outlawing destruction of races and groups. Contact the Social Sciences Office for more information.

PLU Music shirts on sale

Update your wardrobe with a PLU Music shirt. The forest green, long-sleeved T-shirts are designed to be worn by anyone involved with the music program, whether in ensembles or not. Shirts are only $13 each ($14 for sizes XXXL and larger), plus $1 to have the name of your choice printed on the back. Buy one for yourself, and some for your friends and family. The sale is sponsored by PLU's College Music Educators National Conference chapter. Pick up order forms at the MENC bulletin board upstairs in Eastvold or call 7043 for more information.

Rethinking math and science ed

How can barriers that prevent minority students, girls and low-income students from mastering math and science be removed? Why aren't schools graduating students who can meet the needs of industry, and how can this be improved? These are two of the questions that David Drew, education professor at Claremont Graduate School, will try to answer in "Rethinking Math and Science Education for Washington," an all-day conference at PLU on March 21. Administrators, teachers, students, parents and community leaders are welcome to attend. The play begins at 8 pm on March 14 and 15, and at 2 pm on March 16 in Eastvold. Tickets are $4 for PLU students, staff and faculty.

Inspired by PLU women

Like pebbles tossed onto a still pond surface, the actions of some people make ripples that impact many others. Many women at PLU have inspired and promoted a positive, supportive climate in which all women and men are valued and empowered to pursue their goals, and which is then spread out into the community. Such women will be honored at a banquet in celebration of Women's History Month at 6 pm on March 12 in the CK. The banquet is sponsored by the Women's Center, and will celebrate past or present PLU faculty, staff or administrators that have inspired others. Tickets are $12. Call the Women's Center, 8759, by March 10 to RSVP.

Stroll Through the Arts

The Society for the Arts and the School of the Arts sponsor the annual Stroll Through the Arts on March 16. The evening begins with dinner and entertainment at 4 pm in the CK, and ends with a dessert buffet and more entertainment in Ingram. The event is $10 for Society of the Arts members, and $15 for non-members. Call 7150 for more information and reservations.

Ms. Lute: talent competition with a twist

Does your residence hall have the most-spirited male? Find out at the Ms. Lute contest, sponsored by RHA. The all-hall competition will be hosted by a comedian, who will present the male candidates (one from each hall) as they compete in the swimsuit, evening gown and talent competitions. Show your support at 8:30 pm on March 13 in Xavier 201.

Coming Attractions at MBR

Violin Recital March 11

Guest artists Leonid Keylin of the Seattle Symphony and Michael Hentz of the Paris Conservatoire perform an all-Bach concert at 8 pm, including solo Bach sonatas and Bach's Double Concerto for Two Violins assisted by pianist Jane Harty.

conference, co-sponsored by MESA, will take place from 8:30 am to 4 pm in the UC. The conference is $15, including a continental breakfast and lunch. Call Brenda Walker, 7190, for more information or registration details.

Jazz Concert March 14
Park Avenue Vocal Jazz and PLU's Instrumental Jazz Ensemble will perform at 8 pm. Symphony Orchestra March 18
The University Symphony Orchestra performs at 8 pm, featuring Zwillich's "Celebration," Thomson's "Symphony on a Hymn Tune" and Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 2, in B flat Major, Op. 19.

Faculty & Staff

Susan Martensen (Business) was one of 10 winners in a national essay contest for "Delicious!" magazine (circulation 375,000). Martensen placed as a runner-up in the contest to write about "Motivating Your Family Towards a Healthy Lifestyle." Though not quite as nice as the first place "Week at a Spa," she was happy to receive a natural foods cookbook as a prize.

Dick Olufs (Political Science) was chosen as president-elect of the Pacific Northwest Political Science Association at its 48th annual conference at the Benson Hotel in Portland, Ore. During Oluf's presidential term the annual conference will be held in Victoria, British Columbia, in October 1998. The association represents faculty from Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Montana, Alaska and British Columbia. The group's main interests are scholarly research, current national and international issues, and teaching materials.

Chairs and Tenure : Just so you know, John Hallam (Art), Doug Oakman (Religion) and Gary Peterson (Math) will be new department chairs in September, and Susan Brown Carlton (English), Douglas Lamoreaux (Education), Rachel Nugent (Economics) and Dean Waldow (Chemistry) have been approved for tenure.

Workplace Safety: Two sets of classes in ergonomics and lifting (materials handling) will train supervisors (and non-supervisors as space allows). Ergonomics will be held at 1:30 pm on March 10, and 8:30 pm on March 11 in UC 210, and Lifting will be held at 3 pm on March 10, and 10 am on March 11, also in UC 210. Space is limited to 20 participants. Call Nancy , 7233, to sign up, or fax attendee lists to 535-8328.
