

TRYOUTS FOR DEBATE TO BE HELD SOON

Available Talent Argues for Team of Real Forensic Power

The question for College debate this year is: "Resolved, that the United States should cease to protect by armed force capital invested in foreign lands, except after formal declaration of war." This is the regular question and also that of the Pi Kappa Delta National Honorary Debate Fraternity, and of the Midwest Conference.

Tryout to be Held

A group of six will compose the mens' team, while the girls' team will consist of nine members. Tryouts for the girls and boys will be held at seven o'clock, November 18 and 21 respectively. Either the regular college question or the following may be used in tryout speeches: "Resolved, that the intervention of the United States in Nicaragua is justifiable."

Debate coach Ph. E. Hauge says that, judging from the talent already displayed and interest shown, there should be some good college teams this year; he also says that he has planned several very interesting debates. Keen competition is expected and everyone is urged to turn out.

To Debate Badgers

The following were selected by Mr. Hauge to form the team that will hold a dual debate with the Badger Club of the University of Washington on December 2: Esther Towe, Louise Henriksen, Arling Sannerud, Marie Egeseth, Erling Jacobsen and Gladys Jorgenson.

The question for debate is: "Resolved, that American interference in Nicaragua is justifiable." This group will not necessarily form the regular debate squad as the tryout was limited to members of the argumentation class.

PRES. ORDAL GOES EAST FOR MEETING

Thursday, Nov. 3, President Ordal left on the Great Northern for Minneapolis, Minn. At the last meeting of the Board of Trustees of Pacific Lutheran College, it was decided to send Pres. Ordal East to confer with the National Board of Education on important matters in the interests of P. L. C. The conference is therefore one of great importance to Pacific.

Pirate Crews Cease Battle and Join Hands in Celebrating Victory of Good Ship Mooring Mast

Saturday, October 29, the "Sanderudians" entertained the "Ordalians" and their friends with a masquerade party which proved an outstanding success.

Everyone blossomed out in new and otherwise novel costumes. Originality was displayed on every side. There were present, beautiful gypsy maids, Spanish maids, Julieta, pirates, handsome sheiks, bums, cowboys, cavaliers, frivolous would-be girls or what have you? The one gruesome feature of the costuming was the "Hunchback of Notre Dame."

The program consisted of entirely impromptu numbers which included a number by the boys' quartette. "Why I Didn't Get Married," by

SILLY STUDENTS PRACTICE PRANKS FOR FOOLISH FUN

Hallowe'en! What is it? Just a silly excuse for silly children to do something silly! But, "thaab awright" just think what a bleak world this would be if there was no Hallowe'en, no 4th of July, and no Santa Claus! We're quite sure we don't know what the poor little boys in the dorm would do. Why, the very thought of such an impossibility brings tears to the eyes of each and all of them!

By the way, did you notice that it was dark and stormy every minute up until Thursday noon? Or Jupiter is indeed a sympathetic soul!

Some lads had the most unique ideas on decorating the front of the campus on Hallowe'en. But it could not have been the College boys because they all said that they were sound asleep before ten that night; it must have been true because they told us so.

Some of the boys certainly were big-hearted in offering to help remove the after-effects when they didn't even contribute to the fun.

STUDENT BODY HAS STICKERS FOR SALE NOW

Behold! The new Pacific Lutheran College sticker! Far and near may the name of Pacific now find its way with automobile, luggage, or mail! As the Mooring Mast goes to press it is expected that the stickers will be printed and ready for distribution.

This sticker was selected by the student body as being the best of the designs submitted by the sticker committee. The committee was composed of Lyell Kreidler, chairman, Mortimer Legore, and Irene Dahl. The idea of this design was originated by Mrs. Kreidler, art instructor here at the college. Mortimer Legore drew the design and made it ready for the engraver.

What could be more fitting than a sketch of the famous Mt. Tacoma with a few of Washington's giant firs in the foreground? But the name "In big letters framing the landscape is the best of all.

The stickers will be on sale at the bookstore tomorrow. Everyone get a few and stick 'em around.

TRADITION AGAIN GRIPS MINDS OF YOUNG STUDENTS

We'll all agree that school has been going along pretty smoothly now, and as the school year gets smaller every day, we begin to look forward to coming events.

The first, which is most eagerly anticipated by the Freshmen, is Winter with her snow and ice. Tradition 'has it' that all study periods can be 'cut' to go out and play in the snow and make snow-men, or to go down into the orchard and skate. If we're lucky this year, some morning we'll wake up to find the lanes between the apple trees filled with water frozen smooth as glass. It looks tempting, and it is. Of course we'll get a kick out of ice skating or sliding, but some of the less graceful get a bang out of it too—ask 'em and see if you can't judge from experiences. This season too, is the time when we may hear the following from a sleep-headed day student, on being late to the 8:15 class, "Well, you see the ground is so slippery that for every step I took forward I went back" (Continued on Page 2)

Dame Fashion Makes Interesting Survey Of The New Fall Styles For P. L. C. Students

Dame Fashion smiled amuseedly as she entered the main hall of P. L. C. Her fair eyes hastily scanned the scattered groups who were standing, leaning, or traveling the noog hour away on Main Hall Way or in a place adjoining, usually styled the reception (not exception) room.

Her eyes rested for an instant upon five young swains in the Southeast corner of the hall. She smiled again as the five in unison proceeded to adjust the neckties that were conspicuously not there. Neither could she restrain a wee lady-like laugh when one of the five who was decked in what evidently once upon a time had been a pair of white trousers and a clean shirt, made a mad rush for the steps and to the privacy (?) of his own room.

Reaching the intersection where Ramstad Avenue meets Main Hall Way on the south, Dame Fashion stopped poor blank in her own steps. What was the awful glare? Blinking her eyes, she tried again to gaze upon several young men who were proceeding down the stairs a few steps at a time. Who ever heard of red, blue, green, pink and white plaid or checked shirts that looked like sweaters but weren't? "Just an impulse perhaps," Dame Fashion consoled herself. "These modern young men do have their bright (gaudy, & (Continued on Page 3)

FACULTY SUPERVISORS

Mrs. Bertrand Taylor, O. J. Stuen

WELCOME, QUILCENE!

To the members of the Quilcene High School football team and coach: We, the students and faculty of Pacific Lutheran College wish to welcome you to our school in the hope that your stay here will be pleasant and profitable.

Saturday we will play football. In that game, your team and our team will do its best to win. We want to win. You want to win. The best team will, of course, win. If we win, we want to be good winners. If we lose, we want to be better losers. You feel the same way. The prime object is good sportsmanship and fair play.

Again, we wish to welcome you in the sincere hope that our relationships brought on by this contest will promote good feeling between your school and our school. Hail the winner of Saturday's game!
N. S. L.

ARE WE DOING OUR DUTY

Most of the examinations have come and gone. The students have only one chance when Mr. Examination comes around. Did you take advantage of your chance to make good? Did you prove to your instructor that you have been working? Are you satisfied with your showing?

Too many of us have the habit of telling ourselves that we will start studying next week or that after this we will really start to work. We are inclined to disregard the faith of those who are paying for our tuition. Those who pay for their own realize that they are here to receive benefit for the money and do so.

It is our duty to prove our worth to those who have such explicit faith in us as to pay for our education. Let's work hard and strive for the intellectual achievements of the real scholar.

Smiles here, there, and everywhere at P. L. C.—wholesome laughter as only merriment can cause—inspiring conversations and a general happy-go-lucky attitude among the students! What can be the matter with P. L. C.'s inmates now? What is all this talk about a certain week and its significance? Certainly something unusual must be happening for P. L. C. students are not aroused to such an unusual degree without sufficient reason.

At last the mirth becomes so great that the mystery leaks out. A visitor is coming to P. L. C. to find out what the students have learned since September fourteenth. What does this person know about it? No, he hasn't a machine which he uses for the purpose. Who is this gentleman anyway? No one else but Mr. Examination, who comes to visit four times during the term and is here this week.

He is welcomed joyfully, heartily, and triumphantly. Now that's an example of real sarcasm.

STUDENTS' CORNER

HOW TO BE LAZY

I've got an inspiration. I want to write a theme because I feel so lazy. The question will arise "How can any one with an inspiration feel lazy?" This world is full of funny people and I'm one of them. I cannot really be classed among the chosen few, and at the same time I certainly don't belong to the multitudes. But as I continue writing, my laziness grows to more inspiration and my inspiration is now developing into ambition and what do you think? It has developed into an ambition so great that I am going up to my room and study. That is, if I don't meet Omdal. We always have a lot to talk about and this is Halloween—not last year's Halloween either!

COSTUMES

We are in the season most generally accompanied by parties, good times, and costumes. For instance, a Halloween Party has its own variety of costumes as does any party. To be "in with the most of 'em", a person attending such a party must wear a costume. Everyone must wear one!—And prizes are offered to the best costumed person attending.

Perhaps I have no right to write this—perhaps I do not know what I am talking about—perhaps I am without precedent—I might even be classified as being ridiculous and "out of place" with my little story.

But whatever may be the result let me apply the idea—Costumes—to everyday life as it surrounds us—we students.

We are invited to a party—a very important party—which we shall designate as "Life after Death." It is to be a Costume Party with each costume to resemble, or be, your faith in God and His teachings. All our life we are preparing for this party—some eagerly, some negligently, some, we are sorry to say, not at all.

What kind of costume are you going to wear? Are you going to be ashamed of yourself when the Grand March begins? Or are you going to lift your head with confidence, secure in your faith, knowing your costume was the best you could make it? Or worse are you

Chapel Talks

By Dr. Hoff.

Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: "To visit the fatherless and the widows in their afflictions, and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

The education which we receive in school is practically theoretical. It is not until we complete our school work that we can apply this theoretical education in a practical way. Much of our book learning will never be used, but it is a basis and a foundation for practical use later in life.

It is the same way with our spiritual beliefs, we should not be satisfied with only the theoretical. We should make our religion as practical as we hope to make our education in the near future. We can easily adopt practical religion by following the advice in the Epistle of James. Certainly, we should do something for the orphans, the poor, helpless and old people of our community and thereby endeavor to make our religion practical as well as theoretical.

one step: then when I got back home, I turned around and walked backwards and here I am."

Before we know it, almost, we have Christmas vacation. All of us, tired out (as we should be) from so much (!) studying are glad for a couple weeks rest, and equally glad (supposedly) to get back again to school; which goes to show once more that you never know how much you miss a thing until you've been without it. But it isn't long before our happiness is interrupted by the—dare we say, then the abominable subject—semester examinations. Dreadful stuff! Kill joy things! Would that they could be forever banished! Intensive cramming by "last-minute" students faces miles long, blue atmosphere everywhere, sighs, groans, regrets, and that feeling of assurance that so few possess! Then the dawn after the storm as it were—the morning after the nightmare before—and its all over for us. Poor teachers! their worst is yet to come. But now, the silver lining! Teachers and all, we're off to the Mountain! Before we know it, we're in a land of snow and ice and fun. Tobogganing, skiing, sledging, hiking, and snowballing amid honest-to-goodness real deep snow. This traditional event is the most longingly anticipated, eagerly looked-for of all, and it is altogether too short.

going to attend the party with no costume, whatsoever and be left out on "the other side of the fence" when the Judge proclaims those who are to be allowed to remain with Him forever and for aye! Which?

YO, GLADIATORS!

Lutheran Eleven Trims Reserves

Struggle on Wet Field Fought on Oct. 25; Completed Pass Decides Battle

In the return game with C. P. S. Reserves, the Lutheran eleven, despite the galling weather conditions, defeated the Reserves by a score of 6-0.

Although the C. P. S. eleven did their best to gain a point, they were unsuccessful, as the Gladiators held the Reserves, completely outplayed them at each turn of the game, whether at passing or punting, and kept the ball in the Reserves' territory nearly the whole of the game.

During the first quarter the Gladiators, by a series of end runs and line smashes, brought the ball to the 20-yard line, from where it was carried over the goal-line by Christensen, who received a pass from Carlson. The remainder of the game was fought stubbornly up and down the field, but neither team could gain any points, least of all the C. P. S. Reserves.

This game is the fifth the team has played and out of these it has defeated three decisively and has tied two. So far, it has not lost a game, which gives them a very good chance for the Championship of the conference.

SPECIAL TEACHER FOR SHORT COURSE

Announcement was recently made by President O. J. Ordal of the selection of Mrs. Valborg M. Bailey to teach the short course students at Pacific Lutheran College. The course began on October 31st. Heretofore the work was divided among the different teachers on the regular staff but this year it was decided that a special teacher have charge of that department. Mrs. Bailey has taught in the Parkland Public School for a number of years. She will be at the college during the entire short-course period which lasts for four and a half months.

STUDENTS HOLD FIRST PIANO RECITAL OF YEAR

The first student piano recital, under the direction of Prof. J. O. Edwards, dean of music, was held at the College on Tuesday, November 9.

"The purpose of these recitals," states Mr. Edwards, "is to secure practice recitals for the students so that they may gain confidence in playing among themselves." These recitals are to be staged at frequent intervals, not more than one month apart, and should prove of great benefit to the piano students.

Erling Jacobson had as his guests on October 31, Mr. Berger Jacobson of Arlington and Mr. Vernon Heroldson of Seattle.

Mr. Andrew Thompson and Mr. Conrad Tennyson visited friends at the College on Friday.

WINNING COMBINATION—HOPE OF GIRL HOOPSTERS

The 1927-28 Girls' Basketball team promises to be the best ever, and will have a great deal of enthusiasm and pep.

With several members of last year's squad back and the many new ones turning out, a large group of good material is available.

Palma Langlow, last year's star player, is back on the floor, and with Olga Benson, who has shown remarkable ability in the forward section, makes the prospects of a high scoring pair promising. Pauline Larson is also showing splendid ability.

Gladys Knutzen, and Thelma Benson, a guard of last year, are showing good work in the center division. Victoria Rasmussen and Marie Gardlin are on the floor again, as side centers at which positions they starred in '26.

Margaret Jacobson, captain of the team, is again turning out for her old position at guard. Stella Samuelson, a guard of exceptional ability, is back on the basketball floor, after a year's absence because of ill health.

Among the new girls turning out, Ann Leland, Phyllis Cliné, Ladelle Winney and Eleanor Lothaus are working hard to make the team.

There is a possibility of having two teams this year, which would of course mean much to P. L. C. in that it would give better practice to the first squad, and also leave better and experienced players for next year.

A schedule is being worked out which will include games with the various neighboring teams. A game with Centralia Junior College is being looked forward to as an important event of the season. Both Centralia and P. L. C. showed good records in '26, P. L. C. winning 10 out of 13 games. A similar, if not better record, is the goal for this season, and, judging by turnouts and available material, that goal should not be hard to reach.

DAILY DIARY

Oct. 29—Hallow'en Party given by the losing side of the subscription contest. It seems as though all races and all stages of civilization were represented. Perhaps the most outstanding characters were the ancient Roman soldier, the gruesome lurchback, a modern flapper (Miss LeGore), and the most sheltish sheik (Mr. Gladys Knutzen). It might be of interest to know that Mr. Knutzen is the only son of Mother Abigail Applesauce.

Oct. 30. Those who visited in Seattle reported a "cold time in the old town" that night.

Oct. 31. What a great variety of noises! A hoot, a screech and a nerve tickling Bang and once a wee glimpse of ghosts as they chanced to cross the campus, evidently on their way to some haunted place.

Nov. 1. Somehow or other things around the campus seem a little altered. It must indicate that some Hallow'en prank has been completed.

Nov. 2. The rumors are that the feminine day students have organized into some kind of a hiking club. We wish them good luck in their undertaking, if it be such.

ROY GRIDMEN TIE LUTHERAN BABES

Slippery Field Handicaps Good Brand of Ball; Nixon Stars for Roy

In spite of the drizzling rain that made playing on the slippery field almost impossible, the P. L. C. scrubs held the Roy High School gridgers to a 5-6 tie on Thursday, November 3.

Both teams played a good game even though numerous penalties were administered on both sides. In opening minutes of play, Knutzen, for the Lutherans, cooped up a Roy fumble and galloped the remaining 20 yards to a touchdown. The try for point failed. The game then see-sawed up and down the field with the fighting Gladiators having the edge over the Roy team. In the third quarter, the Roy team blocked a Lutheran punt and fell over the line for a touchdown. Their try for point also failed. The score was tied.

The 'H' Gladiators staged a desperate comeback in the fourth period but were unable to shove over the winning point. They were but 15 yards from a touchdown when the whistle blew that ended the game.

Nixon for Roy displayed a brilliant brand of ball and perhaps was the outstanding star of the game. E. Knutzen, Weie, Sanderson and I. Fedt played a hard game for P. L. C.

In the first game held with Roy, the Lutheran scrubs won by a 8-0 count.

"Perhaps I am mistaken," said Dame Fashion as she watched a group of the fair sex swaying down the hall, "but I was certain that I heard these girls had to wear the regulation uniform. Perhaps these are supposed to be middy and skirt parodies. You know—just different words to the same tune."

A college education is a great thing. We have arrived at this conclusion after considerable deliberation, extensive research, thorough knowledge analysis of the subject. And lastly, Commencement speakers say so. During our investigation, we learned much of the inside facts; insignificant they may seem at times, but oh my! What a difference little things can make. For instance, just think of how Mr. Ramstad's er—ah—mistache, oh, but that's getting off the subject. So for the benefit of the world, in general which every June suffers the would-be conquering efforts of college goods, we herewith put forth a few hints and feel our efforts will be justified.

In the first place, always remember "tact". This idea can best be explained by the eminent upholsterer and prologer of "Two Black Crows", Mr. Norris Langlow, who says: If you tell a girl that time stands still when you look into her eyes, that's tact. But if you tell her that her face would stop a clock, look out!

A few points of etiquette won't be amiss at this juncture. Margaret Jacobson says that the only safe time to eat onions is when you take your best girl to a restaurant and the bill will take your breath away. She also says: "When in doubt as to whether you should send candy or flowers, send both." Christy says a great deal of time would be saved by Jewish clothing-store proprietors if, when Freshmen lads ask for college clothes, they would specify "humorous, studious, or otherwise ridiculous."

Never let your excuse get so stale that you will tell a teacher, "I didn't hear the bell," and expect to get away with it. "I lost my book," or "the bell rang before I got here," are much more original. Never, above all, use such poor reasoning as this:

Mr. Ramstad (after Halloween): "You weren't at that party? Why somebody told me you were. He said he saw you."

Ted Felt: "Well, that was somebody else. I saw him there myself and I admit he did look a lot like me."

In writing compositions, always use the most interesting subject. Of course, if this happens to be yourself, why be yourself and use a little discretion. You might instead, use this title: "Pigs in Pigs" or "Britannia: It's uses and effects." Don't be silly, however, and tell the teacher you wrote on "Paper". Professor Hauge says that if in impregnating your esoteric cogitations you will beware of platitudinous pondergittles, a great deal of difficulty will be avoided. If your teacher tells you words don't count ask him if he ever sent a telegram.

Be friendly with your classmates.

If you want to become acquainted with someone, walk down to the Kicking Post. If you aren't sufficiently acquainted, go on to the Fountain of Youth. If you don't know each other by that time, don't ever expect to get a M. L. A. (Master of Love Arts) degree.

Always look intelligent (if possible) in class and out. But don't over do it so that a stranger happens to remark "He's a bright looking lad"; your friend needs must say "Yes, thats the way he looks." (Emphasis on looks).

You may lose your heart to someone all you want, but don't lose your head. And don't expect everyone to agree with you just because you think "she's" an angel, and the best looking girl in school. If love isn't blind, it's certainly awfully misty at times.

This is all the information we can give at this time. For further information write to Izat Nize, c/o this column. But please remember this: Don't let your classes interfere with your college education!

"They ought to.—Paint's a great preservative, you know."

Seller: "This book will do half of your studying for you."

Feller: "Give me two of them quick."

"Have you ever run amuck? No, I drive a Dodge."

"Are you a graduate? No, just a test tube."

Gladys J.: "I just came from the beauty parlor."

Alyce C.: "You didn't get waited on, did you?"
