

AMS Carnival On Tap

The annual AMS Spring Carnival is scheduled for March 25-26. It will be the third annual AMS Carnival. In all there should be some twenty-six different activities for people to participate in. Hours for both nights will be 8:30 p.m. until 12:00 midnight.

According to Ted Schneider, general chairman for the carnival, preparations are coming along very well and student response has been encouraging. Persons in charge of various aspects of the planning are Ben Erickson, beard growing contest; Harry Wicks, carnival affairs; Mike McKean, coronation; and Bruce Swanson, publicity.

The carnival will start with the coronation of the king and queen of the carnival on Friday. The program will start at 8:00 p.m. Entertainment will include Jack Shannon, Dave Sundberg, and Dennis Beard serenading the king, queen, and court.

Following that will be the Ivy C-wing Traveling Troubadors Marching and Conservatory Band Plus Drill Team and Bird.

The elections for the king and queen will be held March 23 and 24. The candidates that are presently entered in the voting for king and queen are Ron Bombartner and

Cecil Hopper, West Hall; Terry Oliver and Carol Erickson, Intercollegiate Knights; Dave Sundberg and Patty Boyson, South; Marsha Husted, North Hall; Tim Sherry and Kim Morley, Harstad Hall; and Mike Lockerby and Mae Plumb, Ivy Court.

The entertainment doesn't end at the coronation. The carnival will feature many entertainers on the floor. Phil Aarhus and the stage band will play on Saturday night. The beards will be judged on Saturday night.

Booths at the carnival will include the Jail, Bingo Booth, Bottle tip-up, dart throw, kissing booth, intelligence tester, turtle race, horse race, shoe shine, pie throw, run house, miniature golf, cake walk, and the handcuffing booth.

Tickets at the carnival will be 10c. Prizes will include everything from Junior Prom tickets to stuffed animals.

Lutes To Enter Float

by Bruce Swanson, MMI News Editor

A daffodil float representing the active minds and unlimited labor of ASPLU will be entered in the 33rd annual Puyallup Daffodil Festival parade. The float will be entered in the educational division of the parade which will be April 2 at 10:00 a.m., beginning at 17th and Broadway in Tacoma.

In past years PLU has been represented in the parade by a float made by the students, but in the past two years there hasn't been any float. ASPLU felt that a float in the parade this year might fulfill the students' participation in the celebration of the 75th anniversary. Gordon Stewart and Bruce Swanson were appointed co-chairmen and the float project began three weeks ago.

The float is fifty feet long, thirteen feet high at its maximum height, and twelve feet wide at its maximum width. The float is reminiscent of an ice-cream cone cut longitudinally. The front is slightly rounded and comes back at an angle to finally widen to twelve feet.

It is slightly rounded at the front and the back. In the back is a sphere upon which the PLU seal will be built. The float will consist almost entirely of daffodils which have been purchased from the Puyallup Valley Daffodil Festival, Inc. Riding on the float will be Marion Whitley, Lucia Bride, and Nancy Jurgensen, Homecoming Queen.

It is hoped the lines on the float will be the real "eye-catcher." The eye should be able to follow the lines of the float from a very low front end which will have a rise of about four feet over a length of thirty-six feet. The lines of the float will come to a climax at the University seal in the rear. The seal will be constructed in great detail including the Evergreen tree representing Washington's evergreen playground, the open book of knowledge, the burning lamp of learning, and the chiro to symbolize Christ.

On the front of the float between the two girls will be an LXXV to identify the 75th Anniversary year. The theme of the parade is "This Land Is Ours" and the theme of the PLU float will be "Land of Learning."

Help in the building of the float has been miraculously coming in. A "50" Studebaker was acquired by advertisement over KMO's Pacific Lutheran University Folk Festival.

The owner of the car gave ASPLU a much reduced price on the car because his son had gone to PLU. The Studebaker was in very good shape and is being counted on to push the float. The float will be built around the car in the area of the seal.

There is a chance that the community of Parkland and Franklin-Pierce High School will help in the building and financing of the float. This proposition is not definite yet.

The Grand Floral Street Parade will begin on Broadway and proceed north to Ninth Street, east on Ninth to Pacific Avenue, south on Pacific to Twenty-first Street, east on Twenty-first Street to Bay Street, and then out the River Road to Puyallup.

The Decorating of the float will begin March 31 and continue on April 2. Many students will be needed to help insert the 50,000 daffodils to be used in the float. As an incentive to the invitation there will be a party and refreshments served for all active decorators.

Tragedy Highlights One-Acts

by Diane Skazr

Tragedy, including serious drama, is the theme of this year's High School One-Act Play Festival at PLU. The festival is held over two consecutive weekends, March 11 and 12, and March 18 and 19, in order to accommodate the approximately 24 high schools participating from all over the state of Washington. Housing and food service is provided for those schools requesting it.

Alpha Psi Omega sponsors the annual event. This year's festival director is Miss Lyla Tsujii; the assistant director is Miss Jean Knutson.

The various high schools, ranging from 200 to 2,000 in enrollment, present one-act plays in CB-200. At the conclusion of each performance an adjudicator presents a short critique on the acting, directing, and choice of the play itself.

Dr. Abe Bassett and Mr. Judd Doughty of PLU's Speech Department are this year's adjudicators. The plays are also judged in competition for first, second, and third place trophies. Individual trophies are presented to the best actor and best actress, and awards are presented to the second and third place actors and actresses.

Judges for March 11 and 12 were Miss Anne Knutson and Dr. Raymond Klopsch of PLU's English Department; Mrs. Barbara Workman, a member of Alpha Psi Omega; and Mrs. Barbara Wilson from KTNT radio.

Judges for March 18 and 19 are Alpha Psi Omega members Miss Kathy Vold, Mrs. Barbara Workman, and Rick Steen; Mrs. Lucille Johnson of PLU's English Department; and Mrs. Helen Hauge.

Last weekend's winners were High-line High School, Busien, first; Federal Way High School, Federal Way, second; and Colfax High School, Colfax, third. Colfax High School has an enrollment of 300 students.

The performance time span for Friday, March 18, is 1:45 p.m. until 9:00 p.m.; and for Saturday, March 19, it is 8:45 a.m. until 11:00 a.m., with awards being presented at 2:00 p.m. Each play runs from 20 to 30 minutes.

Miss Tsujii stated that the purpose of the festival is to provide an educational experience, while arousing an interest in drama.

49,988 TO GO—A total of 50,000 daffodils will be used in the construction of a float to be entered in the 33rd annual Puyallup Daffodil Festival. Though PLU has not entered a float in the past two years, ASPLU considered the 75th Anniversary year to be an appropriate time to do so. The float will be entered in the educational division of the April 2 parade in Tacoma.

VOTE TODAY

The election on the appealed amendments previously voted on in February takes place today. Vote today at dinner in Columbia Center or the CUB.

Delta Triumphant in College Bowl Contest

In a KPLU-TV televised game Thursday, March 10, Delta Hall's College Bowl team rolled over Alpha Phi Omega by a score of 245 to 50 to clinch the title in the final match of the second annual PLU College Bowl.

For its first place finish from a field of 16 teams, Delta was awarded $25. The other placing teams included Off-campus, Letterman's Club, South Hall, Blue Key, Evergreen No. 2 and Harstad Hall, respectively.

Individual awards of $25 each went to Carolyn Craig, Joe Aalbu, Ken Johnson and Frank Johnson. These awards were given for individual high point totals throughout College Bowl competitive matches.

College Bowl may be expanded to include further competition with other schools in the Northwest. Tentative plans include a match with Western at Bellingham some time in April. If these plans materialize, Delta, PLU's winning team, will travel to Bellingham for the match.

The second annual College Bowl tournament began Feb. 28 this year and ran for two weeks. Four matches per night were held four nights per week. Winners' and losers' brackets were used to determine who should play whom. This year the event was held in two classrooms in the Administration building; it proved to be adequate space for the audiences that attended.

The College Bowl committee was composed of Sue Neupert, Paul Hartman, Bruce Swanson and Mike Malary. They were assisted by Mike Cullam, ASPLU president, who moderated several of the early matches, and Dennis Beard, who moderated preliminaries and the final match on television.

Questions for the competition came from other colleges, including Western Washington State College and Seattle Pacific, and from professors at PLU.

Baloney

On the same page as this editorial is the staff box. Beneath the words Mooring Mast there are two italicized, bold-face lines of type which state: "Voice of the Students at Pacific Lutheran University." Baloney.

The staff itself must face the fact that the MOORING MAST is more of a voice to the students than OF the students. It is true that its producers are students, but they represents neither a very large nor very typical cross-section of the total student body.

Page two of the Mooring Mast has been and will continue to be dominated primarily by the views of the editorial staff and the columnists. That is inevitable. No staff can be honest with itself and merely reflect in mirror fashion the majority student opinion on every issue. Describing the status quo is no way to bring change.

But there is a need for a balance between editorial views and ideas of the students in general. The theory is that that balance is provided by letters to the editor. Last week's seven letters almost established that balance. But that is a rarity. Generally the balance of expressed opinion is decidedly in favor of MM staff members.

To combat this "unfavorable balance," I have adopted the policy that ANY signed letter to the editor WILL be published, providing it is in good taste. The editorial board, during my editorship, will adhere to this policy religiously.

The Mooring Mast staff would prefer to blush a little less deeply at the thought that it publishes weekly 2400 copies of the statement: "Mooring Mast—Voice of the Students at Pacific Lutheran University."

Call A Spade A Spade

Guest Editorial:

by Stan Stenersen

The clanging din of criticism which has filled the Mooring Mast's editorial and letter columns in past weeks seems to show that the student body of PLL is considering more openly and perhaps honestly the problems of standards freedom, and instructional quality that for the most part remained dorm-room and dinner-line mutterings in the past.

The tone of campus criticism, verbal and written, seems to be that PLL must discard its Victorian attitudes to confront us with responsibility, freedom, and an unbiased search for truth, the assumption being that these things logically follow from changing the rules and policies.

While I am in favor of many of the proposed changes, I feel that caution is needed—caution, not for fear of liberalizing this campus, but for establishing the changes as ends in themselves.

If students are thinking that once these ideas are effected our seeming indifference will be replaced by a more involved and open-minded attitude toward academics and life as a whole, they had better take another look.

Dick Gregory's appearance, new smoking and drinking rules, elimination of compulsory chapel—all this means little or nothing, to a more liberal education. The change, if one is to come, must go deeper than that.

We claim that we are intellectually sheltered—"spoon-fed" in test-oriented classes, restricted from outside speakers, and the like—and yet when opportunities for thought and expression such as the discussion of Bronowski's Science and Human Values are provided, we find other things to do. We complain that professors in many cases fail to create interest and controversy, but we consider the notion absurd to create it for ourselves.

How many students screaming about what they consider "Sunday-school religion" have ever read something they consider more meaty—Robinson's "Honest to God" for example—on their own?

"University, define thyself," pens the Mooring Mast editor, and students all nod in agreement and find something else to do when Drs. Mor and Langevin do just that at 3:30 Friday. We convince ourselves that chapel is verbal Sominex and fail to see that it can be a time for reflection and worship.

"More responsibility for our own lives" is the constant cacophony, and yet we fail to act responsibly enough to validate an election which requires one-third of us to vote.

This is not to say that rules should not be changed, but at the same time we had better throw out the notion that new rules (and even a new curriculum) will errate a more responsible and dedicated student body. If the Administration can hide behind the claim that changes will offend alumni and church, we can equally hide behind the guise of agitation for "liberal education." Call a spade a spade, people. We haven't answered the big questions yet.

AD INFINITVM

by Mike McKeon

The world sure has its problems. DeGaulle is toppling NATO, hopes for peace in the Dominican Republic are dim, a settlement in Viet Nam is years away, food shortages in India are causing riots, and China was just hit by a large earthquake. In addition, airliners have been crashing at the rate of two a day, Indonesia is coming apart at the seams, the Canadian government is now going through a sex-and-spy scandal, AND—in Dublin, Ireland, last week a 134 foot high English monument was blown in half by the Irish Republican Army. This monument had been a symbol of English oppression and its destruction testifies to the indomitable Irish free spirit.

The present Irish Republican Army is an outgrowth of a group of Irish volunteers who served in World War I. After the war, these brave and cunning volunteers rose up to crush their cruel English overlords who had ruled Ireland with an iron hand.

On December 6, 1921, after prolonged hardship, the demoralized English could no longer withstand the torrential onslaught of the heroic Irish. At this point England was forced to sign The Articles of Agreement for a Treaty. This was the beginning of the Irish Free State, later to become the Republic of Ireland.

Unfortunately, this treaty only gave independence to the southern provinces of Ireland. The large northern province of Ulster, is still occupied territory and remains under the heavy weight of the English crown. To any self-respecting Irish man this is no less than TOTAL TYRRANY! What the Irish Republican Army demands is "Ireland for the Irish."

I ask all decent Irishmen to call for United States intervention against England's age-old imperialist policy of aggression toward Ireland.

The United States should take all measures necessary to halt this flagrant violation of Irish human rights; immediate economic sanctions against Great Britain, and, if necessary, a military blockade of the British Isles.

My apologies to Gordon Stewart Queen Elizabeth II and Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

CLARIFICATION

Reacting to the recent rash of anonymous letters, the Mooring Mast has decided to adopt the following policy:

All letters, written and signed by any student, professor or administrator on campus will be printed. The only exceptions are obscene letters and those which make false charges against an individual.

Letters will be printed without a signature only in the event that the originals are signed, and include a request that the name be withheld. The request should state the reason for withholding the name.

Changes Proposed In Rules Structure

Dear Editor:

In surveying the structure of several rules at PLU, I find that generally the highest written codification is found in the University catalog. I shall quote this document, and present several proposals.

Smoking Rules

I propose that the existing statement which reads as follows: "Smoking by women is not in harmony with the policies of the University," be changed to read as follows:

Smoking by women is allowed in all regularly designated areas. Smoking in the dormitory facilities is permitted only upon majority vote of the individual dormitory student residents.

Current discussion, particularly the letter distributed in Chapel on Wednesday last, has covered the complaint adequately.

Drinking Rules

"Gambling and the use of intoxicating liquors are strictly forbidden."

As stated, there is nothing wrong with this statement. The problem comes in its enforcement. I have no complaints about the rules for those under 21, but those who have majority status are expressly forbidden to drink off-campus. I refer to section 1-B of the Student Activities Handbook, Code of Conduct:

"Should intoxicants be possessed and/or used by those of legal age, the following action shall be taken:

"1. On the first offense, the student shall either be fined (a maximum of $50 and a minimum of $25) or be suspended for a two-week period.

"2. On the second offense, the student shall be suspended for a two-week period or shall be dismissed either immediately or at the end of the semester.

"3. On the third offense, the student shall be immediately dismissed."

The absurdity of this rule is self-evident. It is not talking only about drinking on the campus, but applies as viciously to drinking off-campus. In other words, if my father serves me three glasses of wine in his own home, I am to be immediately dismissed from school. Even though by state law, I am legally eligible to drink wherever I please, the school forbids it.

I propose that the first sentence of this rule be changed to read as follows:

Required Chapel

"Regular attendance at class convocations, and chapel services is basic educational policy at Pacific Lutheran University. Such attendance is not a behavioral matter."

If this is really true, then why are disciplinary probation notices handed out for chapel attendance?

"It is assumed that the intellectual objectives of the University cannot be attained without regular class attendance; it is also assumed that the spiritual objectives cannot be attained without the influence of chapel services."

I question whether chapel attendance four days a week is going to further the spiritual objectives of the school, when it violates the religious principles of students sensitive to the strictness necessitated by the sheer quantity of services. I propose that chapel be "required" only two days a week.

I propose also that the policy of severe disciplinary probation notices for chapel attendance be discontinued. Such a policy automatically makes chapel attendance a "behavioral matter" and violates the catalog's own statement. I propose that chapel attendance be reported to the student's parents, with the grade reports, if such recording is still deemed necessary to provide the incentive for attendance.

PEANUTS

by Lew Giovine

(Editor's Note: This column is the first in a bi-weekly series to be written by Lew Giovine, a senior psychology and sociology major. The column will replace "The Adventures of Christian E. Duction.")

The Student Affairs Office demand for a non-refundable deposit of $50 to insure housing and class priorities imposes a needless hardship on returning students, and is an intolerable request to make of those who are not certain of their desire or ability to return to PLU in the following semester. An unenforced change of plans because of the draft, financial difficulties, grades, or personal problems would force an automatic forfeiture of the fee.

There is no excuse for requiring students to "post bond" to assure their return. Free pre-registration with early deadlines should provide all the information the university needs to make arrangements for space. The $35 we now have on deposit could be held when notice is given of intent to return, and students who give no notice should lose priority—but not their money. This has been the policy in the past, and is certainly better than asking students to choke up $50 in the middle of each semester with the risk of losing it. Is the university so desperate for funds that it has to try to profit from defaults?

We have already been asked to pay an increase of $40 in board fees with no promise of improved services, and we are convinced that this increase is necessary because of higher operating costs. But what evidence is there to convince us that a $50 deposit—$15 more than the previous 4-year deposit—is necessary for anything but increasing the profit margin?

It is becoming increasingly difficult to follow administrative thinking in policy formation. Changes in procedure such as the new $50 deposit announced by Student Affairs give no indication of being the solution appropriate to the problem at hand. Like many others, this policy eliminates one problem only to create a bevy of new ones.

O'Connor Introduces No-Deposit Bill

by Roger Stillman

Fur may fly next Tuesday night if ASPLU Legislators pass a bill which was introduced last Tuesday by Rep. Howard O'Connor. The bill requested the removal of a $50 dormitory and class reservation down payment recently imposed upon all returning students.

Certainly this is not the first time students have been required to make a room deposit, but it is the first time the amount has been $50. It is also the first time the deposit has been non-refundable after May 1.

In previous years the University has required only a $35 deposit which is refundable until June 30.

Rep. O'Connor's bill specifically asks that the Director of Housing be requested to remove the $50 down payment now required and non-refundable after May 1, 1966, and to require only $35 deposit refundable until June 30, 1966. Rep. O'Connor's bill, if passed, will have the effect of asking the Director of Housing to maintain the "status quo" in regard to dormitory "deposits."

In other action Rep. Gordon Stewart informed legislators that the Parkland community is interested in joining with PLU in construction of a float for the daffodil festival parade scheduled for April 2. If an agreement is reached Parkland will donate approximately $130 towards the float's construction and PLU would allow one princess to ride on the float as well as allow the Franklin Pierce band to march behind.

Legislators passed a resolution to allow funds previously allocated to the daffodil float to be used in conjunction with the community if a feasible plan can be reached.

The only other item of business in the 15 minute legislative meeting was a complaint voiced by Rep. Gary Oines over the Choir of the West concert Tuesday night and the fact that PLU students were being charged to see the concert. He pointed out that students have not paid for the home concert in previous years.

Eleven PLU Upperclassmen Participate In Tacoma Local Government Program

Eleven PLU students, one junior, nine seniors and one graduate, participated during the fall semester in the University's first internship program in local government. Participants included Fred Baxter, Jerry Dietz, Fred Eaton, David Ekberg, David Holm, Herb Hosfeld, Dale Houg, Ken Johnson, James Read, Mike Sather, and Sharon Stratton.

Although a Political Science program, participating students came from a wide variety of majors, including Business Administration, Biology, Economics, Political Science and Sociology. An attempt was made to place each student in a position which corresponded with his academic background. Fred Eaton, a Biology major whose special interest is in the area of Hospital Administration, spent his internship at Tacoma General Hospital studying the administrative aspects of a hospital establishment.

Other projects included the development of an approach to activate citizen participation in urban renewal, an analysis of Tacoma's Civil Defense Shelter Program, a retail trade analysis, an economic base study, a city street inventory, an analysis of purchasing procedures and the feasibility of a central store-room for bulk purchasing, a compilation of city-owned property, an analysis of the effects of data processing on various city departments and possible projected uses, and an analysis of the police and fire pension funds.

The internship program was organized and coordinated by Lowell W. Culver, assistant professor of political science, in cooperation with Tacoma City Manager David Rowlands. Each student worked from 8 to 10 hours a week on a noncompensatory basis directly in one of the city departments.

Contact was maintained through periodic meetings and visitations by the internship coordinator. Each student was required to submit a report on his experience, including recommendations, to the City Manager and to the program coordinator.

The program has proven very beneficial to both the City of Tacoma and to the individual students. Over half of the students have been encouraged to continue the study of Public Administration in graduate school or to seek a position in the public service following graduation from PLU as a result of the program.

Further information about the internship program for the fall semester may be obtained from Dr. Farmer or Culver in the Department of Political Science.

OCS Recruiters To Meet Seniors

A selection team for Army officer candidates will visit the PLU campus April 4 and 5. Lt. Harold Elliott, team leader, announced today. Lt. Elliott and Sgt. George Miles, both from the U. S. Army Sixth Recruiting District Headquarters, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif., will interview interested college seniors and graduates at CUB for the officer candidate enlistment option.

Under this program, qualified college graduates enlist in the Army and are guaranteed attendance at one of five officer candidate schools after completing eight weeks of basic training.

Officer candidate training is 23 weeks. Schools are located at Forts Benning and Gordon, Ga., Fort Sill, Okla., Fort Knox, Ky., and Fort Belvoir, Va.

Graduates of OCS are commissioned second lieutenants in the Army. They must agree to serve a minimum of two years as commissioned officers after completing this training.

The Army team visiting the local campus is one of ten touring selected colleges and universities throughout the nation this fall. The recent action of increasing the size of the armed forces has caused a need for a corresponding increase in the Army's officer corps.

Chemistry Scholars Given Fellowships

Paul Bethge, a senior chemistry major, has just been awarded a National Science Foundation graduate fellowship. This is the first such award to a PLU student. These highly competitive fellowships can be applied to study in any recognized doctoral degree program. To date Bethge has been offered teaching assistantships at Harvard University and Stanford University, with other possibilities still pending.

Peter H. Anderson, another senior chemistry major, has been offered a National Defense Education Act fellowship and a teaching assistantship at the University of Oregon, a teaching assistantship at the University of California (Berkeley), and teaching and research assistantships at the University of Washington and Washington State University.

In the field of biochemistry, Linda S. Carlson has been accepted at the University of Oregon and has been offered a research assistantship at Oregon State University, while George L. Long has been awarded a United States Public Health fellowship at the University of California and a departmental scholarship at Brandeis University.

Women Smokers

Due to increased interest on campus concerning the issue of women smoking the Cub-Committee governing policy of the CUB Games Tournament, to be held April 15-16, feels the situation warrants comment.

It is the opinion of this subcommittee that the University policy prohibiting women from smoking on campus is archaic, discriminatory and completely out of line with twentieth century thought. It is therefore the opinion of this subcommittee that at all times during the CUB Games Tournament women who are entered in an event should be permitted to smoke.

Chairman of the Sub-Committee Governing Policy of the CUB Games Tournament.

NSA President Tours Viet Nam

Washington (CPS)—Philip Sherburne, president of the U. S. National Student Association, and two other NSA officials will make a two-week tour of Viet Nam. It was learned this week.

The announcement of the trip was made in Monday's edition of The New York Times which said it had learned of the trip from "private sources." The Times said an official disclosure of the trip is to be made later in the week by NSA officials.

Also scheduled to leave in the near future for Viet Nam are Charles Goldmark, NSA International Affairs Vice President, and Greg Delin, the NSA assistant for Asian Affairs.

The trip will include conferences with student leaders in Viet Nam and is labeled as a "fact-finding" mission. A spokesman said the trip was decided on because the Viet Nam war had become such a controversy in the student movement that "we want to make a first hand evaluation of our own."

THE WORLD OUTSIDE

by Lois Smidt

Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa: The Board of Regents of Wartburg College approved a faculty recommendation for the adoption of a 4-4-1 calendar to be put into effect in September, 1967. The first fourteen week term would conclude with finals prior to Christmas vacation. The second fourteen week period would conclude near the end of April. During these two terms students would take four courses and graduation requirements would not be given in terms of hours or credits but in terms of course, nine per year. The third term of four weeks in April and May would allow students to take experimental courses, travel, do research, or study.

Humboldt State College, Arcata, Calif.: Students at Humboldt State College are paying little attention to the efforts of one Henry Mouse who sets up a one-man display of Marxist-Leninist literature on campus every Monday, in an attempt to motivate the generation he feels must make the greatest social and political decisions in history.

Augustana College, Sioux Falls, South Dakota: Augustana has revised its policy for students entering marriage during the school year. Formerly, students were required to contact the dean at least 60 days before the wedding. Now this waiting period has been shortened to 30 days as recommended by faculty members.

Oregon State University, Corvallis: Rad Dewey reports in his column, "Point and Counterpoint," of a Bronx mother who is making her second bid for the presidency in 1968, after running unsuccessfully in 1964 under the slogan, "Vote for Yetta and Watch Things Get Better." Mrs. Yetta Bronstein's platform is as follows: "1) Lower the voting age to 18, 2) better government, 3) Fluoridation, 4) national Bingo, 5) sex education, and 6) stronger government." She claims that the real boss in the family, the only person you can trust, and so forth is your mother. Speaking to students, she says, "Think of all the things that your mother did for you... Now you can pay her back by putting me in office."

West Hall witnessed two candle-passings this past week. Carol Ostberg was first when she announced her engagement to John Holland. Carol is a junior from Fairfield, Montana, majoring in elementary education. She plans to transfer next year and complete her senior year at Carrol College in Waukesha, Wisconsin. John, who is from Oconomowoc, Wisconsin, is serving in the Air Force and will be out this summer. He will be working in Milwaukee next year. The couple is planning to be married on July 29.

During the second candlepassing Marcia Soine announced her engagement to Kurt Higgins. Marcia is a sophomore majoring in sociology. She plans to go into the field of social work. Kurt is a junior at Western Washington State College and is majoring in English. Both are from Mt. Vernon. Marcia and Kurt plan to be married during the summer of 1967.

At a recent luncheon Mary Schnackenberg revealed her engagement to Jim Skurdall. Mary is a senior from Tacoma majoring in French. She spent one year studying in France at the Sorbonne. Jim graduated from PLU last spring with a German major. He also studied at the University of Heidelberg and is now teaching German in the Tacoma Public Schools. He is from Gig Harbor. # Help!, A K Psi Tie For Lead

by Gary Richey

During the last few weeks Little Lutes have been active, as is shown by the standings. Teams have been on the move, both up and down, especially Help! which has moved up to tie the first place A K Psi.

There have been a few high series and games these last few weeks, too. Two weeks ago Norm Nesting came up with a 547 and 195 to take honors in both high game and series. Cliff Sunden followed with a 520 in the series department as well as in the high game department with a 191 tying Nesting's second game of 191, also.

In the team events, Help! was way out in front of the rest with 1538 for team series, with the LP's next with 1370. As for team high game, Help! with 525 and 515, dominated the league.

This last week saw Larry Carlson finish with a 547 and 191 for high individual series and game honors. Jay Young had the second high series with 531, while there was a three way tie for second place in the individual high games department. Steve Stout, Mike Leppaluoto, and Gary Richey each had a 190.

For the second week running, Help! has dominated the team honors department with a series of 1533, and individual games of 521 and 513. A K Psi, was second in the series department with 1427.

With the way the league standings have been shifting, no one can dare miss a week unless they want to see their team change positions fast. The teams are proving to be evenly matched as shown by both the rapid changes in standings and the results of last Sunday. Every team except two split 2 and 2 with their opponents. This is a sign of balance.

TIME OUT

by Fred Theiste

The Sports Department salutes Dick Kunkle PLU's sports information director, for the Special Award of Merit presented to him by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The award was presented during last week's NAIA basketball championships at Kansas City, Kansas. It is the highest award given by the NAIA to sports information directors.

Kunkle is vice president of the NAIA Sports Information Directors' Association and has been publicity chairman for both District I and Area I of the NAIA.

The basketball season for the Lutes is over but this does not end the spectator sports for the year.

PLU sponsors four spring sports each year in intercollegiate competition. These include baseball, track, golf, and tennis. But one strange thing seems to be the lack of spectator participation by the students.

Why do these sports lack student following? Basically the problem is an "I don't care attitude" which results from a lack of understanding of the sport involved and from the feeling that these are just "minor" sports.

The athletes in these unheralded sports work and sweat as much as, if not more than, those in the prominent sports. Each of these athletes has given up innumerable hours of free time in order to participate in their particular event, but still the majority of the students do not support them.

Nothing decimates the spirit of the athlete more than an empty cheering section.

The spring season is now upon us, so get out and cheer for the Lutes and show our athletes you are behind them. The Knight track team will host Pacific University March 26 while the first home baseball game is scheduled for April 2 against the Seattle Pacific College Falcons.

Glen Graham is participating in the three-day NAIA Swimming and Diving Championships which opened yesterday at Hendrix College, in Conway, Arkansas. Graham, who entered the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events, qualified for the nationals with the fifth best time among small-college swimmers in the 50 yard freestyle.

Graham's chances in the 50 yard freestyle will be determined by split-second timing in an event which usually winds up in a blanket finish.

One of the meet's highlights will come when the 1968 swim meet is awarded. Since the 1967 site will be on the East Coast, PLU is given an excellent chance for the 1968 championships.

The Knights' Curt Gammell was a unanimous selection on the 1966 Northwest Conference all-star basketball team, picked recently. The 6-6 senior was joined on the first team by Taft Jackson, College of Idaho; Jim Pippin, Lewis and Clark; and Don Hakala and Ed Griffin, Linfield.

Tim Sherry, 6-4 junior forward, was named to the second team while Mark Andersen, junior guard, and Tom Lorentzen, junior forward, received honorable mention.

Intramural Scene

by Dave Fenn

Last year was a year of records in the free-throw contest and this year was the year of near misses. Bob Erickson of Evergreen hit 96 of 100 attempts to come within one of Bill Dikeman's record of 97 set last year.

Second Pflueger Grabs Title
Erickson's dead eye was not enough to get Evergreen the team title, however. Second Pflueger came within one of breaking the team record. They hit 440 of a possible 500 to take the team title. The record, set last year, is 441 by Evergreen.

Bill Dikeman and Rick Nelson of Second Pflueger helped their team capture the title as they both connected on 91 of 100 free throw attempts.

Other high individual scorers were Mark Carlson of Evergreen and Dave Johnson of Second Pflueger, 88; Bruce Eklund of Second Foss and Keith Johnson of Second Pflueger, 87; Mike Benson of Ivy with 86; Glenn Mald of Third Pflueger and Mark Selim of Ivy, 84; Mike Leppaluoto of First Pflueger and Dick Follestad of Second Pflueger, 83; Emery Billings of Eastern with 81; and Dave Fenn of Third Pflueger, Mike

Ford and Ed Peterson of Evergreen followed with 80.

In the team standings, Evergreen came in second with 418. 2nd Foss had 393, 3rd Pflueger 390 and Ivy 380.

The all-stars and individual scoring leaders from each league have been selected and will be announced in the next issue of the MM, March 31.

Volleyball Begins

The districts have been in the process of forming volleyball teams the past week. League play is scheduled to begin Tuesday evening. The teams again will be divided into different leagues depending on ability.

Also getting under way this week was the competition in badminton. There are 36 competitors out to try and take the crown away from defending champion Bill Dikeman. The competition is wide open in the doubles action since last year's titleholders, Dave Ekberg and Bill Juaneau, have graduated.

Concert Wins Encores

by Kerry Kirking

Pacific Lutheran's Choir of the West brought its two-week concert tour to a close Tuesday night with an admirable homecoming concert in Eastvold Auditorium. The choir, flu-ridden since departing for the tour, responded magnificently to the direction of Prof. Maurice Skones in a program containing many moments of sheer professional excellence.

The program was given in inspirational beginning as a full house audience rose to W. B. Olds' arrangement of "A Mighty Fortress." Perhaps the most beautiful ovation of the evening was the complete silence following Graun's "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs"—a silence which told the choir and director that their message had been conveyed. Bach's motet, "Sing Ye to the Lord," R. Vaughan Williams' "Mass in G-minor," as well as "Howl Ye" and "Ye Shall Have a Song," by Randall Thompson, were warmly received. Edvard Grieg's lush, romantic "Spring," interpreted with obvious musical acumen, was especially appreciated by the Scandinavian element in the audience.

Miklos Rozsa's "To Everything There Is a Season," a sister composition of the "Vanities of Life," which was premiered by the choir a year ago, received impressive and expressive treatment.

Insistent applause brought the choir back for three encores. In the first of these, a Negro spiritual, ailing tenor soloist Steve Cornils turned in an amazing exhibition of musical showmanship. This was followed by the sprightly "Hallelujah, He Was Born," and "O Day Full of Grace," which was highlighted by Ron Johnson's fine solo.

Two of the choir's soloists, tenor Cornils and baritone Lynn Erstgaard, are in their final year with the choir. Two, however, soprano Diane Moore and alto Paula Grams, are newcomers first plunged into concert service during the fluplugged tour; judging by last Tuesday's performance, both show promise of a brilliant career with the group.

Congratulations are due the Choir and Prof. Skones for a fine concert

Bach's 'Passion' Presented April 4

Johann Sebastian Bach's magnificent setting of the Passion of Our Lord, according to Saint Matthew an Oratorio described by Sir Hubert Parry as the "finest example of devotional music in existence," will be given by the Pacific Lutheran University Festival Chorus and Orchestra on Monday, April 4, at 8:00 p.m. in Eastvold Auditorium on campus.

The University Orchestra, prepared and directed by Stanley D. Petrulis, will accompany the Oratorio. Calvin Knapp will serve as organist and Mrs. Erling Thompson as harpsichordist.

A children's choir, singing the Agnus Dei, is directed by Mikkel Thompson. Rolf Espeseth, director of the PLU Concert Chorus and member of the music faculty, will conduct the Oratorio.

Tickets ($1.00 for adults, $.50 for students) may be procured by calling the PLU Information Desk.

Nominating Convention April 1

by Jan Loreen

Get out your campaign buttons, confetti, and crusading spirit—nominating convention time is near.

Just two weeks from today, Friday, April 1, PLU's second two-day nominating convention will convene in Memorial Gymnasium. Following the pattern set by last year's convention, it should be complete with wild demonstrations, caucusing, speeches, floor fights, oratory, and a keynote address.

The most powerful members of the convention, as in national party nominating conventions, will be the delegates, for they shall have speaking and voting privileges. However, placing many votes into the hands of one individual involves a careful responsibility on the part of both the delegate's constituents, and the delegate himself.

Heading the convention this year are chairmen Sandy Tillson and Wayne Saverud. They are assisted by Jerry Johnson, credentials; Stan Stenersen, rules; Kristy Smith, secretary; Dale Tuvey, arrangements and clean-up; and Leanne Odegaard, publicity.

Committee members stress that the convention will be fun, as well as a learning experience. Leanne Odegaard defines it as being a small-scale 'real McCoy.'

A calendar of events for the convention is in the Corner Office window. As committee meetings and other sessions are planned, the time and date will be posted on this calendar.

Committee members have urged that all students become involved, whether as active delegates, or as committee members. All committee meetings are open to the entire student body, and non-delegates are urged to participate in the mechanics of the convention.

The purposes of the convention are to add color to the ASPLU election, bring out issues more fully, increase student interest, and bring the candidates and issues actively before the student body.

Serving as a primary election, the convention should spur student interest, and also increase the number of voters at the polls. It will provide the opportunity for candidates to fully express their opinions, and will aid their campaigning by enabling them to confront a great portion of the student body. It also serves to make student government a working tool of many, rather than the monopoly of a few.

One element which contributes to a successful nominating convention is student participation. Student delegates are chosen on the basis of living group population. This year, according to Sandy Tillson, chairman, there will be 229 delegates.

THAT WAS THE WEEK THAT WAS—This picture of last year's nominating convention might convey some idea of the activity that can be expected this year.

Half-price to college students and faculty: the newspaper that newspaper people read. . .

At last count, we had more than 3,800 newspaper editors on our list of subscribers to The Christian Science Monitor. Editors from all over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" read the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's only daily international newspaper. Unlike local papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively on world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it considers most significant and reports it, interprets it, analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further into the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like to be reading, we will send it to you right away at half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspapermen themselves read the Monitor — and why they invariably name it as one of the five best papers in the world.
