Pres. Tingelstad Returns From East

P. L. C. Gets Added Appropriation At Meeting in Wisconsin; Preus-Elvstrom Plan Fails

President O. A. Tingelstad returned last Sunday morning from the Middle West, where he attended the convention of the American Lutheran Church at Fond du Lac, Wisconsin.

Radical action was taken at the convention, he said, and on account of the financial situation, many of the smaller Lutheran colleges in the East were voted to be merged. Pacific Lutheran College, however, was voted an increase of $1,800 a year in appropriations, making the total sum now $4,300 per year, instead of $2,500.

The Preus-Elvstrom plan, which provides for the gathering of gifts and loans and for other means of raising money for the P. L. C. budget, failed to win approval for 1933 by the American Lutheran Church. This plan will be re-considered later, however, and may be carried through when financial conditions improve.

Dr. Tingelstad was deeply gratified by the interest and fine feeling shown for Pacific Lutheran College at the convention.

"The outstanding impression I obtained during my trip in the Middle West," stated Dr. Tingelstad, "was that things are indeed in a mess—a mess of man's own making. But, in the midst of all this," he continued, "The people who keep the most steady keel are the Christian people."

He stated further that conditions on the Atlantic coast are definitely improving, but that in the Middle West people are more pessimistic than on either coast. The plight of the farmer is truly desperate. Interest in the present presidential campaign seems to be more intense there than in the case out here.

Drama Night Nov. 11

Three Groups to Present Plays for Homecoming

The three groups of the Drama Club have begun rehearsals of the one-act plays they are giving for homecoming, November 11. Group No. 1, under Dickie Leland, is giving "The Economic Boomerang," with the following cast: Olga Overath, Tryvne Rungold, Kathleen Porath, Cora Ilen, Clarence Monson, and Ray Lerbeck.

Group No. 2, under Rachel Flint, is preparing "The Orange-Colored Necktie," with Carl Martin, Kathryn Johnson, Shirley Hecht, William Pfueger, Mildred Monson, Ervin Dammal and Lorraine Thoren taking part.

"The Bishop's Candlesticks" is being staged by Group No. 3, under Clarence Lemming. The cast for this play is Nordis Arneson, Saffie Torrestad, Clarence Lemming, Jesse Pfueger, Leonard Wesson, and Clifford Mestorod.

The first two of these plays are comedies, and the last is a drama.

Group No. 2 is now known as the "Stage Steppers." The other divisions have not chosen their names as yet.

Another group of plays is to be given the last week of November, and rehearsals on these will start soon.

Last Tuition Payment Is Due Next Tuesday

"This is just a reminder to those students who have payments on tuition due November first. These obligations must be paid by next Monday or the students owing money to the school will be deprived of the privileges of taking mid-semester examinations," stated Ludwig Larson, business manager.

"It was through the kindness of those in charge that students were permitted to pay their tuition in monthly installments, so we think it only fair to ask that they pay on time. Besides clearing themselves of debt, prompt payment of these obligations will help the school clear itself financially. Let us all, therefore, try to help all we can by meeting this bill when it is due."

Luther League, Fireside Hour Will Meet Oct. 30

Kathleen Porath will lead the Fireside hour next Sunday evening, October 30. The subject to be discussed will be announced later. At the Trinity Lutheran League will hold its regular meeting in the church parlors of the Trinity Lutheran Church. The subject for discussion will be "The Consequences of Sin," led by Carrie Hidding, Jesse Pfueger, and Ruth Faddess. Walter Ustad will render several vocal solos and Lewis Hunter will be in charge of the social hour.

Ruth Faddess, Mary Louise Preus, Walter Young, Carl Colton, and Margaret Jacobson, as delegates to the South Puget Sound Circuit Convention at Seattle, will give reports on the convention.

French Club Hears of Paris

A talk on the city of Paris by Edgar Larson was the feature of the French club Friday, October 21. Pictures illustrated the places of interest.

Reporter Finds Strange News Revealed In "Sissy's" Letter Home

While wandering about the campus one day, shortly after the opening of school, a reporter found a letter which one of the freshman girls (we couldn't tell which one) had just finished writing to her parents. Evidently she had lost it in the wild rush for an education. We got such a big bang out of it that we decided to publish it for your enlightenment.

Dear Mom and Pop:
I arrived on the 81 stage on Saturday before school began. I was supposed to be met, but the 81 stages don't do such very good business in Tacoma, and the college representative couldn't find the depot, so I had to take the streetcar. It costs you 15c and takes 45 minutes from town. My blanket roll came undone on the way from the bus station to the streetcar line, and I lost that pink and lavender comforter which Aunt Sophronia sent you for your wedding present. I'm awful sorry, but it either meant missing that or the street car, and you have to wait a whole hour. I wondered how I'd get from the carline to the college, but the cutest little boy came after

Attendance Good at Seattle Convention

Eighth Annual Meeting of South Puget Sound Circuit of Young People's Lutheran League Attracts Over 200

With more than 200 people attending, the South Puget Sound Circuit of the Young People's Lutheran League held its eighth annual convention in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Seattle, October 21, 22 and 23.

Speeches on the convention theme "The Life Victorious," were given by visiting pastors of the circuit and by league members. Rev. A. K. Vinje, president of the North Puget, South Circuit opened the convention with an address on "Life" in which he stated that life was a gift of God and should be returned to Him. Mr. L. C. Elliott of Tacoma spoke on "The Resource," saying that the person who gives his life for Christ has all the resources of heaven at his command. Mr. Edwin Tingelstad, Parkland, addressed the convention on "The Result." He pointed out that the life victorious gives the most lasting and genuine happiness. "The Victorious Faith" was the subject of a speech by Rev. Mikkel Iono of Tacoma who stated that without faith nothing is possible, but through faith anything can be done.

Noon and evening meals were served by the ladies of the church. Saturday evening a fellowship supper was served and an entertainment put on by members of the Immanuel Club of the church. Mr. Gerhardt Stub was toastmaster.

Circuit officers were reelected for a term of one year. They are Irene Dahl, president; Byron Rise, vice president; Berdine Knutsen, secretary; Alfred Slarg, treasurer; L. B. Amdal, pocket Testament League Secretary; Rev. T. O. Svare, director; George Cronquist, director; Morris Torvik, director; Kenneth Lyman, Choral Union Director.

the mail sack at the car stop, and he said that he'd take my things down for me in the wheel barrow. I rode too, and it was just like a ride on the hay wagon. It sorta made me feel homesick, but the boy's curly hair felt all right, as it reminded me of old Spot. His name (the boy's not the dog's) is Ervin for the first part, but I can't tell you the last one 'cause it sounds kinda profane.

Everybody around here eats apples, but still there's a doctor here too. I suppose that's for the "ball fights." You know, Pop, I always thought those Olympic games they had in the old Roman times in the Coliseum were "ball fights" but instead of fighting with balls here they fight with balls. The ball gets trounced something awful sometimes, but the players get it worst. There's a boy here that's grandest to the team, too. He watches their ears and faces after they get through fighting, just like granddaddy to Sillas' when he fought with Jeremia. I guess he makes the rounds in the morning to see if the necks are OK, and he does a good job 'cause

Hunter Gives Lessons for Prospective Members of Band

Under the direction of Lewis O. Hunter ten students are taking lessons on horns, preparatory to entering the Pep Band. Mr. Hunter announces that practice for the new members is under way, and that he expects to organize a saxophone quintette. The members of the band are: Donald Reid, Jack Hudson, Ray Hinderlic, Dille Qualg, Emory Whitaker, Norman Jensen, Clarence Monson, Harry McCormick, Leonard Wesson and Ferdinand Bondy. New members are: Melophones, Angela Jacobson, Jean-Marie Fowler, George Knudson, Martha Grande, Baritone, Louise Miller; saxophones, Carl Essman, Edgar Larson, Paul Mounssen, Hazel Monson; cornet, Gilbert Sydow.

Vocalist and Pianist Entertain in Chapel

Mrs. E. H. Watts, soloist at Christ's Episcopal Church, Tacoma, and Miss Margaret Roen, sister of Clarence, gave a short musical program at the student body meeting in chapel October 13.

Mrs. Watts sang "I love a little Cottage" by O'Hara, "Homeing" by Del Rago, "Where my Caravan has Rested" by Lohr, and "Newly-weds" by Ives and Trull. Miss Roen accompanied at the piano and played two piano solos, "Manhattan Serenade" and "Narcissus." Carl Martin announced the program.

PEP CLUB MEETS OCT. 13

At the regular meeting Thursday, October 13, the PEP Club president, Dickie Leland, announced the committee to plan the party for the Delta Rho Gamma girls. Olga Overath, Mary Nash, and Delores Roe composed the committee.

Ardia Aarhus and Mildred Lee served refreshments, after which the girls adjourned to the reception room to hear the Atwater-Kent radio audition contest.

they all seem all right. The boy's name is John, and I can't think of the last one but it is something awfully Swedish.

The professors are sorta nice. They must have kind of nice wives too, because Mr. Edwards told us the other day that his wife calls him Brown Sugar because he's so sweet and unrefined. The professors are trustful too, that is, they trust other people. Mr. Hoog, who tells us that clauses in English don't scratch, even asks in Chapel for a ride to town. I guess they're kind of hard up, and they have to think of the depression and save the 15c.

The weather here is rather nice yet, but I guess you'd better send me those red Gansels you wanted me to bring. When I take my bath Saturday, I'll send my other ones home to be washed. Please buy me some more shoe strings too and send them. In a town this size they haven't any laces for high shoes except for loggers. I'm certainly not a logger, but even a college student has to have shoe strings, but

Game in Lincoln Bowl Is Highlight Of Events Planned

May Take Place of Annual Grad Reunion; Banquet to Be in Tacoma Hotel

Interest of Pacific Lutheran College students and alumni will be centered on November 11 and 12 about the homecoming events scheduled to take place here and in Tacoma. According to Dean Philip E. Hauge, this event may take place of the annual alumni reunion so that elections of officers may be held. However, this matter will not be finally decided until the homecoming meetings, when the alumni themselves will make the decision. Other highlights on the program include a parade through Tacoma, Drama Night, homecoming football game with Columbia University, and a banquet at the Tacoma Hotel.

A complete schedule of events follows:

Friday, November 11
Parade of decorated cars through Tacoma, leaving P. L. C. at 6:00 p. m. Drama Night in school gymnasium at 8:00 p. m.

Saturday, November 12

No special homecoming events have been scheduled for Sunday, November 13, so that there will be no conflicts with the Mission Conference in Fir-Conway, Washington.

WELCOME HOME, PRESIDENT TINGELSTAD

We are glad to welcome Pres. O. A. Tingelstad home again. The accepted order of things is that each family should have a "head" and that to all interests and purposes that family which has a "head" is the most efficient and the happiest family. Therefore it is with satisfaction that we see the president return to offer aid and encouragement to the members of his Pacific Lutheran College family.

HOW ABOUT A SWIMMING CLUB?

Rumors of the imminence of a swimming organization which may be former at Pacific Lutheran College are flipping about us thick and fast. Students should give these rumors serious consideration in view of the facts that swimming builds sound bodies to be fit abiding places for sound minds and loyal hearts, and that hte campus offers unusually good facilities for an outdoor pool which could be built by the students themselves, were they real "go-getters."

HAVE YOU MET?

The young lady who might have been described by that poet who wrote "divinely fair, and most divinely tall?" She has blue eyes, blond hair, worn in a rather long, wavy bob, and the kind of complexion which would naturally accompany such hair and eyes.

This girl is very musical, singing in the college choir, and playing the piano for several school functions. However, she is also athletic, golf and horseback riding being her favorite sports.

During the time she has been at P. L. C. this individual has been exceptionally active in student affairs, and is at present one of the officers of her class. Watch for her in the coming group of Drama Club plays.

Hauge Speaks at Meetings

Because of many conventions and meetings coming up, Dean Philip E. Hauge has been called upon to speak at events which concern Pacific Lutheran College directly or indirectly. He addressed the Gig Harbor P.-T. A. meeting, which program also included Mr. Hunter and Prof. Edwards, who furnished musical numbers. At the pre-school group at Whitman school of Tacoma, Dean Hauge spoke on Child Psychology; at the Washington Education Association meeting in Ilwaco High school he discussed the topic "Debate in the Modern High School."

The book of etiquette doesn't mention it, but it is considered good form to return the book of etiquette you borrowed.

The informal chaperone of one of the well-known campus couples? He is of medium height, with dark hair and hazel eyes.

This man of mystery holds an office of responsibility in his class. He is well known also, for the place he fills in one of the school's leading clubs, an organization in which he has been very active since he first entered P. L. C.

Perhaps one of the surest guides to his identity is his unending good humor, and anyone wishing to make his acquaintance will most likely find him being silenced by the Librarian.

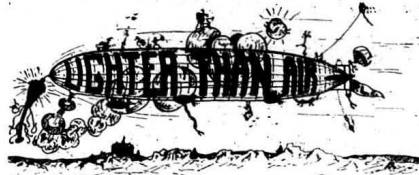

Faculty Discuss Swimming Club

The question of organizing a swimming club at Pacific Lutheran College was considered by the faculty at their meeting held October 24. The committee on organizations, composed of P. J. Bardon, Alvar J. Beck, Mrs. Elizabeth Bondy, and Paul Highby, will look into the matter.

The idea of the club had been suggested by a group of P. L. C. students interested in swimming.

Fairy story: Once upon a time there was a woman who could understand football, and never asked foolish questions about it.

The old-time football player used to spend his part time flirting with some pretty co-ed on the college campus. The modern player spends his off hours in some hotel lobby kidding the telephone girl.

Helen Garbell: "Do you like oatmeal?"
Virginia Boen: "No, I don't like oatmeal, and I'm glad I don't like it, because if I liked it, I eat it, and I hate the stuff."

"Remember, Swedie," said his mother as she bade him goodbye, "when you get to school try to be punctual in the mornings, so as not to keep breakfast waiting."

Tiny: "Theidea, my napkin is damp."
Dutch: "Perhaps—that's because there's so much 'dew' on your board."

L. A.
Wilma: "What's happened, Ray?"
Ray: "Puncture."
Wilma: "You ought to have been on the lookout for this. You remember the guide warned you there was a fork in the road."

L. A.
Clerk: "Are you looking for something in men's clothing?"
Art: "Certainly not. I'm looking for something in women's clothing. I've lost my girl."

L. A.
Mr. Hong: "Mr. Votaw, can you tell me what a hypocrite is?"
Harold Votaw: "Yes, sir. It's a boy who comes to school with a smile on his face."

L. A.
"Yes," said Carl Martin, "I'm a thought-reader. I can tell exactly what a person is thinking."
"In that case," said John Zackrisson, "I beg your pardon."

School Plans Homecoming

Cars to be in the parade will be decorated at the school Friday afternoon, and all alumni having cars are asked to be here then. This work is under the direction of a committee composed of Ray Leback, Dickie Leonard, Kathleen Porath, Mary Nash, Lila Rugg, Evelyn Monson, Hazel Monson, Alice Roe, Margaret Wesson, Jane Williams, Olga Overlie, Helen Collins, Irene Ludahl, Clarence Magnuson and Jeanette Knutzen.

At Drama Night that evening three one-act plays will be presented by the Drama Club, under the direction of Rachel Flint, Clarence Lemming, and Dickie Leonard. Admission will be 10 cents.

Prizes will be given to the two persons selling the highest number of tickets to the game Saturday afternoon. An act to be put on between the halves is being planned, so that besides the stiff competition expected from the visiting team, an added attraction will be provided for fans.

As a grand finale to events, will be the homecoming banquet in the Peacock room of the Tacoma Hotel at 7:30 Saturday evening. Under the direction of Carl Marbin, a program to include greetings from graduates as well as musical numbers has been planned. Clarence Roen will be toastmaster. Reservations for the dinner may be sent to Trygve Ruensvold at the college, but these are not absolutely necessary to attend the dinner. Paul Preuss and Jesse Pflueger are assisting with the program. In charge of decorating the room for the banquet are Jean-Marie Fowler, Cora Lien, Oscar Anderson and Jesse Pflueger.

Cliffor Meeford, in charge of advertising, is sending out letters to inform graduates of the affair. He also is securing posters a vertising the game to be placed in prominent shop windows in town. On his committee are Norman Jensen, Hazel Monson, Jean-Marie Fowler, Helen Garbell, and Wilma O'Brien.

D. R. G. Initiation Held October 14

29 Girls Received at Impressive Candlelight Ceremony; Creed Permanently Adopted

With a candle-lighting ceremony as its conclusion, the initiation of the new Delta Rho Gamma members was held October 14.

During the day the new members caused much merriment for the rest of the school by appearing in class shod with bedroom slippers, carrying umbrellas, and wearing their dresses backwards, which gave them a guess-if-I'm-going-or-coming look.

In the evening the second and third degrees of the initiation were administered at a party to which all day girls had been invited. The second degree consisted of stunts and games by the new girls and of "spats" and peanut-tossing for those girls who were guilty of infractions of the day's rules.

As the third degree came the formal initiation, used for the first time by the day girls' organization and adopted by them as a permanent ceremony of initiation. This service introduced to the new girls the creed of the D. R. G. and impressed upon them more clearly the ideals of Pacific Lutheran College students.

Old members served light refreshments. The following girls were initiated: Virginia Boen, Rosa Dahl, Jean-Marie Fowler, Helen Garbell, Martha Grande, Ethel Hagman, Frieda Hendrickson, Helen Hanlon, Evelyn Irwin, Cora Lien, Irene Lisdahl, Hazel Monsen, Georgiana McClure, Shirley McKenzie, Alice Nolan, Wilma O'Brien, Marion Peterson, Dille Quate, Anna Roness, Junet Runbeck, Shirley Savage, Saffie Torredal, Margaret Wesson, Alice Boe, Delores Burgess, Agnes Lund, Janice Peterson, Fredricka Schlanbusch, and Helen Spencer.

HEAR OF BREMEN

On the first lap of their journey through Germany Der Deutche Vereln, a German Club, visited Bremen at their meeting Tuesday noon, when Clarence Roen gave an illustrated talk about that city. The meeting was opened with the singing of German songs.

At the German Club meeting yesterday, Kathleen Porath told of some of the important features of Hamburg, Germany, illustrating her talk with pictures. Margaret Wesson told of her correspondence with some boys in Hamburg. The group sang German songs and played German games.

Norman Westling presided over the meeting in the absence of Lorraine Thoren.

they all wear Oxford. I think they get excited because I get three times as much shoe in my high ones. Remember they have to be three and a half feet long.

The campus is very pretty but they take the cemetery out in front. Right by the main entrance there's a grave, but it hasn't got a headstone so I don't know "whose bones lie beneath." I got that out of a speech Chuck McMillan gave in Public Speaking. It has eight lines and that's too much to write. Chuck dragged it out to three minutes, but I'm short of paper.

I haven't any sweetie yet, but you don't need to think your end in sending me to college will not be realized. There's one boy here I thought sure had fallen for me, 'cause he always says, "How do," but I found out that he likes all the girls. He's got real curly hair and his name is Clifford Mesford, but he's awful young (going on eighteen). Another kid's sort-of nice to me too, but I'm afraid he'll be taken before he gets to me 'cause my name comes too far down in the alphabet. He started at the "A's" and goes down through the rest of the letters. He's at the L's now and has been trading sweaters with Dickie Leland, so he'll soon be to me. He's some big shot here at school, 'cause he talks in chapel every Thursday and brings all the meetings to order.

The boys here play football to develop the size of their feet. Carl Martin kicks off at every game. You should see his feet. He wears a 12 and a half. Every time he puts them up on the table in the news room—Oh Gee, Mom, but they're big! It says in the paper that Carl's the business manager of the Mooring Mast, but I haven't found any mooring mast around here yet, so I suppose they've got it mixed up and that somebody is the business manager of Carl, as he's about the tallest boy in school and the most like a mooring mast.

It's dreadfully wicked how some of the other students copy off the papers of those bright pupils who have their lessons. Why Ted Cronquist is just mobbed in the morning by Virginia Byers and Lorraine Thoren and a few others who can't get their lessons. Modest as he is, Ted always lets them copy his paper because he doesn't want to run off with the good grades. That's sportsmanship for you.

Someday I may be as bright as Ted, then you'll be proud of me, won't you? I'll write you again soon. I hope the cow hasn't had any more spells. Please write.

Lovingly, your educating daughter,
Stacy

P. L. C. Luncheon Held At Bonneville Hotel In Tacoma October 18

Alumni, faculty members, and some students attended the Pacific Lutheran College luncheon given October 18 at the Bonneville Hotel. This was held in conjunction with the Washington Education Association meetings which were held in Tacoma October 17 and 18.

Violin selections by Lewis G. Hunter and piano numbers by Prof. J. O. Edwards composed the musical part of the program. Registrar Whitney of the Ellensburg Normal school brought greetings to those connected with P. L. C. Hazel Monsen made an announcement about the Mooring Mast. Dean Phillip E. Hauge was toastmaster.

'Dorm Slumber Party' Worth Many Yawns, Say Delta Rho Gamma Girls

This is an explanation to those teachers and students who have been annoyed during the early part of the week by the actions, or lack of actions of the co-eds.

It must be rather disturbing for a professor to lecture to a group of girls, half of which are asleep, and the other half of which fix him with distant pre-occupied gazes.

There is, of course, a reason. Those who nap are catching up on sleep that they did not get at the slumber party the Pep Club girls gave the Delta Rho Gammas last Friday night. Those who dream are wishing that, somewhere on this earth, they would find a man as handsome as Buster Roe in loggers and moustache.

The party is over, but the memory lingers on. It will take a long time for some of the girls to forget the nightmares in which, clad only in pajamas, they were thrust out into the cruel night air by Mary Nash; or chased down dimly lit, bed lined, corridors of what resembled an orphanage, by Jane Williams as "Mrs. Meany."

It will take a long time for Dickie and Porath to recover from the sprained backs they received carrying beds to those girls who just couldn't find any place to sleep. And as for that poor individual who awoke in the "cold grey dawn" to find her nose pointing north, and her toes turned to the south, she never expects to be quite right again. However, whether the girls were at a great enough distance from Shirley's and Collins' spook stories and Virginia Byers' red pajamas to sleep, or whether they lay awake all night to listen to Major bark, and a rooster crow, and wait for a certain dormitory alarm clock to go off, they had a good time. The slumber party was voted a grand success, and well worth a few yawns.

Magazine Sent to Bindery

Library attendants have been busy for the past few days sorting and checking old copies of the Literary Digest and National Geographic magazines to be sent to the bindery to be bound for reference use in our library. Copies dating back as far as 1897 are in preparation, while some of the more recent numbers have been sent already. These will be of great value to students, as the references included in them are both interesting and instructive, according to Prof. J. U. Xavier, library head.

Gladiators Fail To Avenge Defeat At Ellensburg

Lutheran Gridders Drop Game to Wildcats by 14-6 Score; Moe Gains Only Touchdown for P. L. C. in 25-Yard Pass

The attempt of Pacific Lutheran College gridders to avenge a defeat last year by the Ellensburg Normal eleven failed when they dropped a hard contest to the Wildcats, Friday, October 21, 14 to 6.

The teachers were victorious after a hard-fought game which was decided largely on the breaks of the contest, that favored the Normal team. Fumbles by the Lutherans paved the way for both touchdowns by the teachers.

The Gladiators started the game with a bang and gave Coach Nicholson's charges something to think about. The Ellensburg mentor sent in his shock troops about this time to stop the onslaught, but with little success. The first canto ended with the Gladiators holding the upper hand.

The second quarter was the tragic period for the Lutherans, since both the teachers' scores came in this period. The first one came as the result of a fumble by the Lutherans on their own 20-yard line. The next play Sutphin, hard hitting Normal fullback went through the whole Lutheran line on a spinner and romped over for the initial score of the game. The latter part of this period the Gladiators were caught again in their own territory by a fumble and this time Clough of Ellensburg, spun through the line for their last score. Both extra points were converted by Clough.

The lone touchdown of the Lutherans came early in the fourth period, when Moe heaved a 25-yard pass over the goal line to Levinson. Try for point failed.

Outside of the few costly fumbles made by the Gladiators, both teams played snappy football throughout the contest. The whole Lutheran line deserves special credit for their unusual work in this game, while the Normal backs proved to be the shining lights for the teachers.

Summary:

Pacific Lutheran (6)	(14) Ellensburg

By C. Monson

If you want to find a real good definition for "hard luck" ask Coach Olson and he will tell you why his hair has taken on the grayish hue this football season; a good reason we think.

When we have a good team and can't produce in a pinch because of the lack of reserve power, then there is nothing to do but just take it. But permit me to tip my hat to Coach Olson's charges, they're not novices by far.

Willard, Cronquist, Whalen, Fadness, Runsvoid, Martin, Jake, Levinson, Reardon and Score, compose the strongest forward wall this school has ever had, and ever will have for some time to come.

Those who witnessed the last two contests can well substantiate this fact. It was a treat to see those big linesmen smother the opposition—(I got a very good view from the bench)—but our gridders are human too and there is an extent to their endurance.

In such a case most teams substitute, but there is where we are at a loss, we can't. (Don't tell me there is no such word as can't).

Against Bellingham Normal, our line threw the Vikings for more losses than they gained. Against Ellensburg it was practically the same. Permit me to add that it is one game we should have taken.

We are all looking forward to what promises to be the most outstanding event of the year—homecoming. On this date we have our initial game with Columbia University of Portland. Don't disappoint those who are in charge of it, they are looking to the student body for whole-hearted support in making this a booming success.

Our school spirit is like a flame, it starts out with a bang and ends up with a bang and fades. Don't mistake this for a pep talk, but enthusiasm is the biggest advertisement this school can possess.

We have three games left on our schedule. Two of them are with the most highly touted teams on this year's list, and the boys are just in the right frame of mind to give somebody the works. Of course we are considered underdogs in both contests, but there is such a thing as upsetting the dope.

Bill Whalen, our rip snortin' guard, who possesses that uncanny ability of making promising backs on opposing teams look like ping-pong artists, has lost a pound and is in perfect condition for what-ever entices. Remember Bill at Bellingham? What a game he played and why, we wonder? Ask Bill.

Ted Cronquist, our wily captain, learned how to smile during the Ellensburg game and nearly lost his poise watching John smiling coyly at the opposing center.

We all hope that Hal Votaw and Bev Shuster will be back in suit again, they're that good that we need them.

Pres. Tingstad Meets Cousin He had not Seen For Forty Years, Who Is in Indian Service in Idaho

To search 12 years to find a cousin he had not seen for 40 years before he was met with success is the unique experience of Olaf H. Wahl, Indian Field Service man of Idaho. This cousin was none other than President O. A. Tingstad, Pacific Lutheran College. Pres. Tingstad met his cousin here on his return from the east.

Mr. Wahl has for 19 years been connected with the Indian Field Service in cooperation with the University of Idaho Extension Service. This work is under the direction of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C. He is situated at Fort Hall, Idaho, third oldest trading post in the Northwest.

Chief among Mr. Wahl's duties with the Indians is to instruct them in their land cultivation and to advise them as to their business affairs. He also is in charge of the 4-H club work there. He is responsible for the stock sales held three times a year, and must see that white people having land leases on the government reservation make the necessary improvements on their land. The United States government requires that a 50 per cent improvement be made the first year, 25 per cent the second, and 25 per cent the third year.

Characteristics of the Indians, as mentioned by Mr. Wahl, are that they are a happy-go-lucky sort, and seem to have no worries. They have a passion for automobiles and bright colors, and one Indian can easily spend $30,000 a year with nothing to show for it. To see an Indian girl scrubbing the floor in a silk dress is a common sight.

Middle-aged Indians are slow at grasping thoughts, but the younger ones are as quick as a white man at this. Only about 50 per cent of the children attend public schools, the rest being enrolled in private institutions. To get more Indian children into the public schools is a problem now confronting Mr. Wahl.

Tuberculosis and Trachoma are diseases common among Indians on the reservation, according to Mr. Wahl. The former illness has, however, been greatly decreased by a home building program in which 360 homes were built in six years. Trachoma is a disease of the eye, peculiar to Indians, which is made contagious by the poor sanitary conditions employed by the red-skins.

Mr. Wahl was on his vacation when he visited the Tingstad's here, so he was required to return to Fort Hall early this week. He had not seen the college president for 40 years, and this meeting was his first with his cousin E. Tingstad.

Normal Students Visit Class at Horace Mann
Professor Sophia R. Fowler's class in Introduction to Teaching visited the first-grade class of Mrs. Katherine Grimstead at Horace Mann School Friday, October 14. Since Mrs. Grimstead attended Teachers' college at Columbia University in New York last year, the students are especially interested in her methods.

Lutherans Lose to Viking Team, 7-0

Bellingham Shows Great Improvement Over Last Year: Give Gladiators Hard Battle

Fighting a stubborn battle, the Pacific Lutheran College Gladiators lived up to their expectations by defeating Bellingham Normal Saturday, October 15 7 to 0. The Vikings were a much improved club over last year, but failed to threaten the Lutherans once during the entire game.

The first quarter was featured by a kicking duel between Hansen of Pacific Lutheran and Smith of Bellingham, and since the wind was with the Vikings, they kept the Lutherans pretty well in their own territory. The second canto the Vikings took the leading role by tearing off occasional yards by play and penalties. In spite of the bad breaks the Gladiators got down to business and sneared their teachers in their drive.

The second half, the Lutherans dissatisfied with the unusual number of penalties called on them, came back with war in their eyes. Since neither team could make yardage by line play, they resorted to a passing attack. Both teams eager for victory fought hard this period and again the kicking game was resumed. This time the Gladiators took the edge and as a result kept the ball in the Vikings territory a great deal of the time.

The only score of the game came early in the last quarter, when Chuck McMillan, Lutheran signal barker, faded back and threw a long pass to Mary Hanson, who brought the oval up to the five yard line. The next play McMillan hit tackle for two yards. Bellingham called time-out and was penalized for four time-outs. This brought the ball up to the Vikings one yard stripe. The next play, McMillan behind a beautiful interference, crested around right end to score. A pass from McMillan to Jacobson was completed for extra point.

Willard, Whalen and Fadness were the shining light in the line for the Lutherans, although Whalen proved to be the biggest thorn in the Viking's side. McMillan and Moe did some creditable work in the backfield by their ball botting. Bev Shuster, although crippled to a certain extent, turned in a nice piece of work.

Solkosky, Flowers and Bagley, were the main threats for the Vikings and kept the Gladiators in constant trouble throughout the contest.

P. L. C. Plays Army Saturday Afternoon

Gladiators Favored to Win Game With Fort Lewis Gridders at American Lake

Saturday afternoon our gridders will meet the Fort Lewis eleven at the soldier's domicile. The Gladiators are out to take this game and the government men will have to put up a real battle to stop Coach Olson's charges.

The line appears to be in good condition for this contest, but it seems as if the backfield will still be without the services of Hal Votaw and Bev Shuster. Both these men add a great deal of scoring punch to the Lutheran machine, but if they are in condition for the Saturday's contest, it is hardly probable that they will be used, as extreme care will be made in saving them for the Columbia, and Moomouth game.

Moe, McMillan, Jack Hanson and Norman Frye, lasted the whole Ellensburg game and played a nice game. If the soldiers do not prove to be very dangerous, it is probable that some of the toll-worn regulars will get a slight rest.

Advance dope does not point the strength of the Army men and so steps will be taken to wipe out the over-confidence that may exist among the gridders. Since no chances will be taken the Gladiators are expected to enter the contest all primed.
