Schwartzwalter, Hanson Will Present Selections at Senior Recital Sunday

The Senior Recital of Constance Hanson and Joanne Schwarzwalter will be Sunday afternoon, May 16, at 3 p.m. in the C-M-S Auditorium. Eunice Swenson, sophomore, is the accompanist.

Joanne will sing the following selections: "If Thou Be Near," by J. S. Bach; "Du Bist Die Ruh," "Mignon's Song," and "Gretchen am Spinnrade," by Schubert; "When I Am Laid in Earth," by Purcell; "Vissi d'Arto, Vissi d'Amore" from Puccini's opera Tosca; "The Fuchsia Tree," by Quilter; "One Tone," by Cornelius, and "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal," also by Quilter.

Constance will perform on the piano the following works: "Fantasia Cromatica a Fuga," by J. S. Bach; "Rotnamsknut," by Halling and Edvard Grieg; "Sonatine: Modere, Mouvt de Menuet and Anime," by Maurice Ravel, and "Walzer," by Eugen d'Albert.

APPRECIATION

A Festival such as the Third Annual Drama-Music Festival, which was completed on our campus last week, cannot be successfully accomplished by two men alone. In our hearts we hold a great deal of appreciation, and through this means we express our thanks to the many students and faculty alike who did the jobs to make this Festival a fine thing on our campus.

We hesitate to mention any individual or groups for fear of forgetting some important ones, but feel we must express our special appreciation to the girls who served the many hours in the box office for some three weeks prior to the Festival. This was done out of their interest to the project.

We must express appreciation to those who served as usherettes and ticket takers during all of the performances and gave up their time even though they too had tickets to witness the performance.

To all others who in a small or large way made this Festival a success, our heartfelt thanks, and we express a hope that in the work they did and the time they have, compensation was received in the satisfaction of a job well done for our college.

Sincerely,

Mr Theodore O. H. Karl
and Mr. Karl E. Weiss

Three Will Go To Convention

Onella Lee, PLC sophomore and president of Mu Phi Epsilon, will attend the golden anniversary convention of the national music honorary at Salt Lake City in June. With Onella will go Mr. John A. Travis, newly installed president of the Tacoma chapter, and Jeanette Foss, retiring president of the PLC chapter. Jeanette, a graduating senior, will represent her group as a music delegate.

On the agenda for the convention are three sorority concerts in the assembly hall on Temple Square, the president's reception at the governor's mansion, and a special program by the Tabernacle Choir in honor of Mu Phi Epsilon.

Band Members Will Hold Annual Picnic

A softball game, girls challenging boys, will be the highlight of the PLC Band picnic, to be held May 21 at Spanaway.

Barbara Howard is general chairman of the outing, assisted by Paul Lucky; Clyde Genz and Douglas Mandt, entertainment; and Delphine Danielson and Marlan Leonard, food.

Last Day For Hole-in-One

When you are walking around the SUB, be sure to wear two pair of jeans because you may have a hole-in-one.

If you've been wondering who the creatures are that have been scurrying around on lower campus this last week, don't be worried; these are the "athletes" that have represented you in intercollegiate sports for the past few seasons. Synchronizing as a well-oiled machine, the Lettermen have been on their annual money-making spree, commonly referred to as the Hole-in-One Contest.

With a grand prize for both the men and women, this contest is gaining more popularity every year. The men's grand prize is a forty dollar Arvin portable radio, and the women's grand prize is a General Electric steam iron. They also contribute a daily prize for the closest to the pin.

The golf and tennis teams are benefitting this year, with the money paying their expenses.

Red Headed Prexy Severtson Will Take Office Even Though Not Irish, Says Ball

By Walt Ball

I wonder how many people have noticed the general atmosphere of gloom which has prevailed on our campus during the past few years. Well, let's face it, there is now nothing but utter despair. Severtson is president.

Poor Erv, he already has two strikes against him. First, he's a native of Duluth, Minnesota, and then to make things worse he has red hair. (Anyone who has red hair and isn't Irish can come to no good end!).

He has been lucky in finding such wonderful companions for his four

Friday evening, May 14, at 8:15, the Senior class of 1954 will present a Senior Review, which will be in the nature of flashbacks of their four years on the campus of PLC. This is an annual affair which gives the seniors the opportunity to bring forth their talents (some hidden).

CHEER LEADERS

By close decision, the following were elected to serve as the cheer leaders for the coming year: Terry Brown, Barbara Keller, Wally Berton, and Norma Crawford.

They will represent the school at all basketball and football games next year. However, the complete support of the student body is hoped for to further promote the pep needed to encourage our school athletes.

Equipment Plans For New Dorms Have Modern Ideas

The colors and equipment for the two new dormitories will be very modern. The committee working on this are Dr. Eastvold, Mrs. Holstad, Mrs. Enge, Dean Wickstrom, Dr. Hauge, Mr. Roskos, Kenneth Jacobs, Dean Eklund, Mr. Karl, Milton Nesvig, John Richards, and Mr. McMahon, manager of Schoenfeld's.

The girls' dormitory houses 130 girls and the boys' dormitory will house 120 boys. The student rooms will have a light frosty walnut woodwork and cabinet work finish. Asphalt tile flooring in the rooms will be light brown marbled. Green and gold draw drapes go on the windows. Bedspreads for the North Hall will be dark brown and turquoise, and for the South Hall they will be dark brown, tan, turquoise and chartreuse. The buildings will be steam heated.

Furniture in the student rooms consist of built-in desks with an upholstered chair in addition to two student chairs. The movable beds will have inner spring mattresses and box springs. The headboard will have a book case with formica. (Continued on Page Two)

Seniors featured will be Paul Steen and his trumpet, Barbara Hedlund at the piano, Marguerite Thompson and Joanne Schwartzwalter singing, Connie Hanson at the piano, Bill Borden singing his popular number from the Letterman's Show last year, and Bob Haycraft will also sing. Many others are portraying incidents that have happened in the past four years. The cast will include 45-50 people.

Marian Christenson is directing. Joyce Genz and Marian Christenson wrote the script. Those on the program committee are Don Hefty, Luella Vig, Ruth Hansen and Elmore Duncan. Those on publicity are Kathy Hinricks, J. P. Carlstrom, Martha Coolick, Don Ogaard, and Darlene De Jardine. The make-up committee will consist of Edith Engel, Kathy Rinricks, Jeanne Hansen, and Harriet Shull. The stage crew will consist of Dick Griswold.

The price for this outstanding performance will be only 25 cents per person and it is the last chance to see the seniors perform.

ASB Officers To Be Installed

The official installation of the student body officers for 1954-55 will take place Tuesday, May 18, during chapel. The officers for the past year will then turn over their positions to the newly elected members, after which they will formally take office.

The officers for this year were: John Rydgren, president; Glenn Johnson, vice-president; Mary Ensborg, secretary, and J. P. Carlstrom, treasurer. Those coming into office are: Erv Severtson, president; Donald Gaarder, vice-president; Thelma Nygaard, secretary; Suzanne Skubiinna, treasurer.

Chapel Prize To Be Portable Radio

This coming Tuesday, as well as being the installation of next year's officers, will have as a Lucky Chapel Seat prize a Silvertone portable radio.

President John Rydgren contacted the local Sears, Roebuck department store. When asked if they would be kind enough to contribute something to be used as a prize for student body day, they were generous enough to offer the portable radio. It is a gray model that can either be used as a standard plug-in type or with batteries.

Sears Roebuck and Company has many other models in radios to choose from, besides handling almost anything one could wish to buy. Our student patronage would be more than appreciated and welcomed.

year stay at PLC. Why, just look at his roommates—two idiots and one baseball pitcher who is a moron. How could the boy go wrong. We feel that to no one else can be attributed the rapidity of his fast falling grade point.

Let's look back through these there years prior to the incoming administration. These are a roommate's reminiscences.

Attention, Students . . .

Disrespect and negligence are poor references for a college, especially a college of our calibre.

First, to deal with disrespect: The guests that we have quite frequently deserve our attention when they speak in chapel. Irregardless of how pressed you are for time, there MUST be some other thirty minutes of the day that you can study, sleep, or chat with your friends. Let's wake up and realize that we're supposedly men and women in a grown-up world.

Now for negligence:

Who are the idiots that are walking on the sidewalks? Let's turn the campus into an intricate network of cow-paths, so we can show our true character. Nothing, absolutely nothing, looks better than a campus interwoven with animal trails. Keep up the good work!

Get to Work . . .

The year is drawing to an end quite rapidly now, and there are only two weeks of actual school left. Have you accomplished all the things you vowed to do when you came last fall? If you are the average student, probably not!

Those promises of high grades and much studying haven't been fulfilled, have they? It seems there were too many other things taking up your time.

It's about time to get wise to yourself, and realize that a college education is necessary, and a good one is a great reference.

Do your best the next two weeks, and come back in the fall with the feeling that this is going to be your year!

Dorm Doin's . . .

By Joanie and Euny

Somebody has got to go! The writers of this column are very crushed that somebody left the last vital, all important, crucial, explanatory paragraph out of the column last week! If you remember, we asked what your opinion of a Selt-forp Nairtelorp was! It was Proletarian Profiles spelled backwards and answers given were their friends' opinion of them! (Guess that low blow fell short). This week we're putting a detective on the trail of anyone who looks like a paper cutter-upper!

Back to gossip! Some very interesting parties have been uncovered which have happened in the last couple of month or so! (Oh, well, no news is good news, but late news is juicier news! It has time to pick up more dirt!).

Ever hear of a hat party? Well, third floor girls had one! Everyone was to come to the party with an original creation of a hat! Prizes were then given for the most original, and let me clue you some were very original. Mrs. Holstad turned up in a turned down cake tin with a monkey sitting on top of the pan. It was held together by conglomeration of net and string. Judy Bureker was a runner-up for a prize, wearing a glamorous corsage on the head of a panda bear. These third floor girls really go in for the unusual parties. They also had a crab party in which only the former could attend! The topic of conversation of the evening was concerned with crabbing about roommates and eating crab salad.

Drama-Music Festivals come and go and with it borrowed clothes! Scrambling from room to room, hoping for a formal that might fit or a white shortie jacket to go with their roommate's navy blue dress, girls were seen in a terrorized state upon finding out that Sue next door had already traded clothes with Jezebel down the hall. Of course, wearing the same formal two nights in a row is just not quite cricket, so therefore we won't go at all. After the festival was over, one by one, sheepskins came home wagging their tails behind them!

By the way did you know that we have an incorporated paper? (Editor and Assistant Editor). They have a common agreement and the common emblem is a ring! (That's all we can say at the moment about this secret organization. McCarthy investigations, you know!).

Here comes the question! "Why didn't you run for student body president?"

Billie Utzinger: "I did!"

Nat Ho: "Because they wouldn't give me a free trip to Hawaii!"

Marilyn Luff: "No brains."

Stella Anderson: "Because I'm not going to be here next year!"

Ester Edlund: "Because of women suffrage."

Carol Brace: "I would if Pd known I could have."

Lois Danielson: "Come to think of it I should have!"

Lois Sand: "We couldn't have 3 Lois' on the ballot!"

Lois Anseth: "If all the Lois' ran we would argue."

Anabelle Christiansen: "My grades were too good."

Shirley Lewis: "I'm not one for the public eye!"

Jerrie Dixon: "I'm not much on Robert's Rules of Order!"

Mary Estergreen: "Because I'm too lazy!"

Florence Christiansen: "Because I'm working for McCarthy!"

Janet Moc: "Because I don't like to kiss babies and hand out cigars!"

Who's got the stubby refund racket? Who got all the empties after the last letterman's picnic? Who caught mama kissing Santa Claus? Who stole the ding-dong? Who isn't tree-top tall? Frank Karwoski! Frank Karwoski! Frank Karwoski! Frank Karwoski!

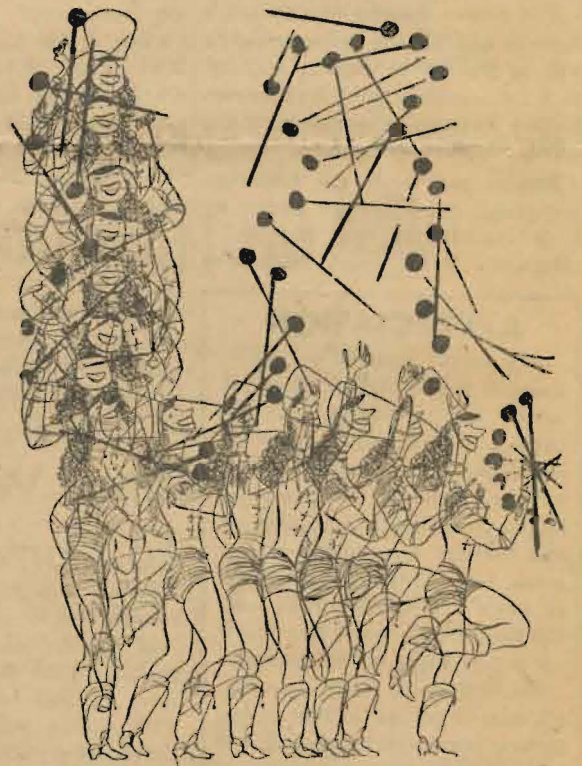

Frank is the only subversive currently ruining our economy with imitation popcorn who is not being uncovered by the clear-thinking guardian of U.S.A. shores, Joseph R. After drinking watered down Cokes and eating "reject" wienies for four years at basketball games at "Karwoski's Koncessions," our indigestion has forced us to acknowledge "the wart."

His nibs has been a practicing captialist since the age of two months when he was found shaking down his mother for clean diapers. The difficulty came when Mom Karwoski stirred cyanide into his gruel and Frank found out that life was not just a bowl full of jelly.

Another thing that Frank found out was that he'd have to go to school sometime, and he couldn't buy all of the teachers, all of the time. So, taking up his loins, Frank set up his stand at the edge of the play ground and whiled away lulls between rush hours watching the big kids play ball. Frank dreamed of the day that he would be big enough to play with the other boys, but something tragic happened and Frank never grew up. This sad news was broken to Frank by his mother during an all night checker game when she knew he would be too tired to cry. But, astonishingly enough, the boy was undaunted by this knowledge, for he vowed that he would make up for it by being just a little bit dumber than everyone else.

The really surprising thing about the whole thing though, was that Frank turned out to be an athlete of no little versatility, and today he is known throughout the Northwest in football circles as "the half back who . . . something. Anyway, to those at PLC who don't know that Frank had to jump up and down on Harsh's neck for three hours to obtain permission to get a baseball uniform, he remains a legend of athletic prowess which refuses to fade away. This fact is caused mainly by Frank's admitted refusal to graduate.

F. K. learned to ski this winter, although he deplores the commercialization of the ski tows in the area. He got around this by forging tow tickets and even made a little money selling them on the sly. He wanted us to remind everyone at this point to see him about "cheaper skiing" next year.

"From the Bench"

By Ted Siek

The Lutes were the best baseball team last Friday against the Loggers. Both games had to be won to stay in contention for the Western Division title. Highlighting the first game was Ron Billings' 350-foot homer over the right field wall. Freshman Duane Brandt starved the Logger batters, giving them no runs and only three hits. Harshman had revised his batting order before the two games. Billings, moved from second hitter to third, and Don Gaarder shifted from fourth to second. Jim Ball was moved to the clean-up spot.

Roger Bannister of England has ended the quest for the four-minute mile. The twenty-five year old medical student of Oxford University broke the athletic "sound barrier" by running the distance in 3:59.4, beating the old mark by two seconds. In a time when automobiles and trains cruise at 60 miles an hour and when jets and rockets fly faster than sound, the headline of the day read that a man had run a mile in less than four minutes.

To understand what this is like, we can make some comparisons. The average male college student would have been able to keep up with Bannister for 150 yards if he gave it everything he had; a basketball player could keep up for 300 yards; the average college runner could hold the pace for 600-800 yards, about two-fifths of the distance. Or try running alongside a car at 15 miles an hour. While you wonder at this don't forget to give credit to the high school boy who trains vigorously to break five minutes in a mile. Without Chris Brasher and Chris Chataway, who took the role of the pace setters, the record would not have been possible; it is less fatiguing psychologically to run behind than to lead. Bannister stayed back until the last 300 yards and then finished with an all-out sprint.

Another great milestone in track and field was surpassed during the week when Perry O'Brien excelled 60 feet in the shotput. O'Brien used to sneak into the Los Angeles Coliseum at night and practice before 100,000 empty seats, with only the light of the moon and the Olympic torch on the top of the stadium to see what he was doing.

The old man was out showing the kids how at the intramural track meet last Tuesday. Harshman threw the football, the shot and broad-jumped and high-jumped. He scratched from all the running events. The broad-jump distance in the intramural meet was comparable to what the varsity has been doing. Dale Schimke jumped 20 feet, 6 inches in winning the event.

Seattle Chiefs Defeat Glads

Pacific Lutheran's 4-game winning streak came to an end the hard way Saturday afternoon as they were dumped twice by Seattle University. The first game was especially humiliating to PLC as Ernie Pastonicky hurled a no-hitter, his second against the Lutes in two years. Meanwhile the Chieftains pecked away at freshman Jerry Larson for 5 runs on only 6 hits. Bob Ward kept the shutout string going by winning the second game 4-0. The Lutes got to him for six hits, one a triple by Dick Larson, but could not bunch them together for a score. Bud Lester, starting pitcher for the Lutes, settled down after the second inning and pitched shutout ball the rest of the way. Tempers flared on the field at times and one Seattle player was ejected from the game.

The Lutes take a rest till Friday when they meet the Seattle Pacific Falcons at Cheney Field. Playing time is 1:30.

Lucky Chapel Four Catch Golf Balls

On May first the lucky Chapel seat award contest was handled in a new manner by the Letterman's Club as a means of advertising their hole-in-one contest.

Four practice golf balls were hit into the audience from the stage by Paul Steen and the persons catching them were the lucky winners. They were: Kathy Gulhaugen, Bob Timm, Floyd Ohman, and Monique Wetten. Two free tries at the hole-in-one contest were given to each one for their prize.

Next week on May 18, the new Student Body officers will be installed in their offices. They are: President, Erving Severson; vice-president, Don Gaarder; secretary, Thelma Nygaard, and treasurer, Suzanne Skubinna.

One coed to another: "Why, no, I didn't tell anyone. I didn't know it was a secret."

Season Closes As Lute Track Squad Wins PLC Takes CPS

Marv Harshman's Pacific Lutheran College Gladiators stayed in contention for the Evergreen Conference Western Division title by trimming the College of Puget Sound Loggers in both ends of a double-header, 2-0 and 5-1. Thus PLC closed out its conference season with five wins and three losses.

Lefty Dwaine Brandt pitched a neat, three-hit shutout in the first contest. Joe Stortini picked up two of the CPS hits, a 435-foot triple and a single, but his mates couldn't bring him home.

Frank "Mouse" Karwoski opened the first inning with a double. Don Gaarder moved him up with an infield out and he scored when Ron Billings drove a sacrifice fly to right. The other Lute run came in the fourth when Billings hit a John Barnett offering over the right field wall, 350 feet away.

In the second contest, the Logger starter pitched shutout ball until the fifth inning when the Lutes picked up three tallies. CPS got one back in their half of that frame, but PLC added two insurance runs in the seventh to win easily 5-1.

Vern Hanson pitched six-hit ball for the Lutes and won his third conference game. He has lost one. Frank Karwoski and Bob Ross led the attack in the second game. Karwoski hit a double, a single and drove in one run. Ross got credit for the other RBI with a double.

Lute Netmen To Meet Central

Pete Luvaas and his teammates swung into action this weekend, playing the Central netmen on Saturday and University of British Columbia on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. UBC's team is rated as one of the best in the Conference.

In their last match, PLC lost to Wenatchee Junior College 7-2. Adrian Knutzen won the only singles match for PLC and Luvaas and Hille won the first doubles match in three sets.

A man celebrates his birthday by taking a day off. A woman celebrates her birthday by taking a year off.

With Galen Nusbaum leading the way with four first places, the Lute track squad outpointed the CPS Loggers 81-50 last Saturday afternoon at College of Puget Sound.

Nusbaum, a Puyallup high school product, won the 100-yard dash in :10.3, the 220 in :23.7, the pole vault with 10 feet, 6 inches, and the broad jump with 19 feet, 10 inches. That wasn't all for Galen. He ran second leg on the winning relay team. The several ties which resulted are an indication of the close competition in many of the events. Ivar Eliason tied for second in the high hurdles, Bill Anderson tied for second in the pole vault and the high jump ended in a three-way tie between Lund, Storaasli and Tiesson. Jack Ellingson was second high in points for PLC with 10, for winning the high and low hurdles.

100 yards: Nusbaum (PLC), Baker (CPS) and Hoover (PLC). :10.3.

220 yards: Nusbaum (PLC), Hoover PLC and Davidson (CPS). :23.7.

440 yards: Jacobson (PLC) Rader (CPS) and Running (PLC). :54.0.

Western Wins Track And Field Meet

Western District walked off with the intramural track and field meet by piling up 82 points to the next closest team's 28 points. Dale Schimke led the Westerners with 14 points, which made him the leading performer of the day.

Third Annual Drama-Music Festival
Another Success for Pacific Lutheran

By Pat Darville

The third annual Drama-Music Festival is past history for the year 1954. It was a great success as far as the excellence of performances is concerned and the number of tickets sold was good for most performances. Most of the credit is due Mr. Karl and Mrs. Weiss (as well as all the students who participated) for the success of the Festival.

It was opened Wednesday evening, May 5, with the May Festival, which was directed by Mrs. Young. Dean Hauge crowned Queen Marie and then the colorful program of folk art from such countries as Mexico, Lithuania, The Philippines, England and America was presented for the Queen and her court. The costumes of the performers were very authentic and the numbers were interesting and performed with what looked like precision timing. The May Court and attendants looked very springlike and pretty in their various pastel colored dresses. Mrs. Young, Duane Dahl, her assistant, Mr. Larson and the band should be commended for the enjoyable program.

Thursday evening, May 6, Jakob Gimpel the famous concert pianist appeared in a concert of music by Mozart, Weber, Schubert, Scriabine and Chopin. His wonderful technique and faultless style kept the audience fairly enraptured so that at the conclusion of his performance, Mr. Gimpel came back for six or seven encores.

Friday, May 7, at eleven o'clock the ceremony for laying the two cornerstones for the new dormitories now under construction began. Rev. F. J. Molten laid the cornerstone for the men's dormitory and Mr. Olaf T. Hageness laid the one for the women's dormitory.

Thirty-nine documents were placed in each cornerstone. This was a thrilling experience for the students to hear the dedication of the buildings where they will reside next fall. Friday afternoon Jakob Gimpel and Luise Rainer gave an interesting performance of reminiscences of their past experiences in their particular field. It was very different to hear two famous people carry on an ordinary conversation in front of an audience. Mr. Gimpel played some compositions by Beethoven and Miss Rainer read I. Corinthians 13 on Faith, Hope and Charity. In the evening the play "Joan of Lorraine" was presented to a capacity crowd. Miss Rainer made Joan come alive with her performance. Outstanding student players were Thomas Swindland as Masters, Glenn Johnson as the Dauphin, David Ensberg as the Archbishop of Rheims, Jerald Slatum as Jean d'Arc, Daniel Wilkins as Pierre d'Arc, and Donald Lyles as George de Tremoile. It was an outstanding performance on the part of all the players and the whole cast came back for a number of curtain calls.

Saturday, May 8, was another great day in the series of performances by students and professionals. In the afternoon the Seattle Symphony Orchestra with Dr. Stanley Chapple conducting played some wonderful music by Mendelssohn, Delius, Mozart, Bizet, Diemer and Moussorgsky. The Festival Chorus and Mr. Newnham joined in on the Coronation Scene from Boris Godunov by Moussorgsky. Then in the evening the Seattle Symphony performed again three numbers by Humperdinck, Vaughan Williams and Dvorak. The second half of the program was a presentation of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" by the orchestra, chorus, and soloists: Ann Carter, Marguerite Thompson, and Rueben Redal. This was so fine that the auditorium resounded with the beautiful notes coming from all the instruments and the voices of the singers. It was beautiful in every sense and was an outstanding climax to the Festival that far.

Sunday morning, May 9, the service in the C-M-S Chapel officially closed the Drama-Music Festival until 1955. The service was conducted by Rev. Konrad Koosmann, and the Choir of the West sang.

Not to be overlooked was the Art Exhibit supervised by Mr. Roskos and open for showing every day of the Festival and immediately following each evening's performance. It included an exhibition of Northwest painting and sculpture and there were sixty-one entries. PLC was represented by Mr. Roskos, whose paintings and sculpture brought him much acclaim from the observers.

Mrs. Karl Elected Faculty Wives Head

The Faculty Wives Club of Pacific Lutheran College, at its last meeting, elected officers to direct the club for the coming year.

Mrs. Theodore O. H. Karl, wife of the college speech professor, was elected to serve as president. Mrs. Burton T. Ostenson, wife of the biology professor, will act as vice-president and Mrs. Robert M. Larson, wife of the band director, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. A. W. Ramstad will handle the publicity for the coming year's activities.

At the last meeting held on May 12, Dr. George Roskos, head of the art department, opened the art studio to the group, introducing them to the various types of work done by his students at PLC. Following this tour of the studio the club was entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Seth C. Eastvold. Mrs. George Roskos and Mrs. Robert I. Johnson, wife of the professor of industrial arts acted as assistant hostesses.

The club was organized in April of last year for closer acquaintance with the college faculty, the campus and various college activities. They are looking forward to a very busy and profitable year.

time for lunch. Was found under dresser three days later, still complaining about the weather.

4. Discovered new type of singing which sounded more like groaning to me.

Sophomore Year

1. Complained about weather in Alaska, where he'd spent the summer.

2. Tried to have dining hall moved closer to Ivy Hall so he wouldn't have to walk so far for meals.

3. Brought his intra-mural softball batting average up to .127.

Junior Year

1. Moved to tenement district and inherited a moron and one more idiot for roommates.

2. Bought a '39 Studebaker and tried to sell it to a good friend two weeks later for twice the amount he paid for it.

3. Wore out tires of roommates' cars trying to get his started on icy mornings.

4. Still complaining about weather.

Well that brings us up to date and now we see a true picture of our president-elect.

Seriously speaking, though, Erv has a big job to do and he'll need our support. He has been active in campus work of all types, including the Mooring Mast, the Saga, Blue Key, L.S.A., and Student Council, and is well qualified to handle this office. So let's look forward to another good year!

Blue Key Banquet Will Be Sunday

A semi-formal initiation banquet, Sunday evening, May 16, at seven o'clock, will culminate a week's pledging period for 14 Blue Key neophytes.

Each year a number of outstanding men are selected from the ranks of the sophomore and junior classes to fill the local organization's quota of twenty members. These men are the very best of next year's list of upperclassmen, rated on their character and personality, college activities, and their maintenance of an average above all men's average for PLC. Their approval must come from the old members, faculty sponsors, and national headquarters.

The concluding event of the evening will be the fraternity's initiation ceremony. Pledges will be asked to affirm their belief in God, their support of the government of the United States, and their desire for intellectual attainment and service toward school and their fellow man. Initiated will be Maurice Fink, John Holum, Bill Knorr, Ray Lester, Dave Ensberg, Stan Hulsman, Stuart Morton, Dick Nodtvedt, Phil Nordquist, Elwood Rieke, Duane Romo, Gordon Stroup, Don Gaarder, and Tore Nielsen. Their final pledge duty will be the traditional ushering at Commencement exercises.
