

Ericson Takes First, PLC Wins Sweepstake At Vanport Tourney

PLC took the sweepstakes prize and Jon Ericson won first place in the discussion tournament last Monday and Tuesday at the Invitational Northwest Collegiate Town Meeting held at Vanport College.

Fifteen schools in Washington and Oregon were invited to compete. Representing Washington were PLC, CPS and the University of Washington. Each school was allowed three speakers. Making the trip for PLC were Jon Ericson, Bill Rieke and Malcolm Soler.

Unlike a debate tournament, the participants argued their side of a question at a panel discussion in front of public groups.

It was not determined what place Soler and Rieke took, but their points, together with Ericson's, gave PLC the sweepstakes prize.

Campus to Camp Transfer Seen As College Enrollments Decrease

Enrollment in American universities and colleges has dropped 7.1 per cent in grand total attendance this year from the enrollment of last year, according to a report released by Raymond

As of November 1, a total of 1,414,428 full time students and 433,759 part time students, or 1,848,187 in all, were reported in attendance by 770 approved higher educational institutions of the nation.

A breakdown of the figures for different types of educational institutions shows the following:

For universities under public control, the drop is 9.2 per cent. Universities under private control show a decrease of 5.7 per cent. Independent colleges of arts and sciences have a 7 per cent lower attendance, and independent technological institutions have a decrease of 6.1 per cent. Independent teachers colleges have a decline of 4.1 per cent.

These 1950 enrollment figures form evidence that this is a year of transition in American higher education. Drawing to its end is the post-World War II era when a host of veteran students overflowed the college campus, establishing a highly creditable scholastic record. In attendance now are greatly reduced numbers of veterans and somewhat reduced numbers of non-veteran students, men and women.

Ahead lies the prospect, for the non-veteran men students, of a transfer from campus to camp—a transfer for military training which is of vital necessity to America's defense at the present time.

Lettermen to Give Next Skating Party

The Lettermen's Club will sponsor the next all-school skate February 9 at the Redondo Skating Rink.

Veteran Information Released by Eklund

All veterans graduating at the end of fall semester must apply for graduate work before the end of this semester if they plan to do such work, according to Dean L. O. Eklund.

Veterans planning to graduate in June, who wish to go on for graduate work in the fall, must apply for this work before the end of spring semester.

Blank forms are available in Eklund's office.

All veterans discontinuing training at the end of fall semester must enter school again before July 25, 1951, in order to be entitled to further assistance through the G.I. Bill.

Annual Oratory Contest, Be Held Saturday In SUB

PLC's annual oratorical contest, sponsored by the local chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, speech fraternity, will be held on Saturday, Jan. 20, at 8 p.m. in the Student Union building.

"Six finalists will speak on different subjects in the program," stated Howard Worley, chairman, "and the three top orators will be chosen."

Prizes ranging from $3 to $10 will be awarded the three best speakers.

Last year's winner of the oratorical contest was sophomore Herb Neve. The students and faculty are invited to attend this annual event.

Dormitory Auxiliary

Dormitory Auxiliary No. 1 will meet Tuesday, Jan. 23, at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. A. W. Ramstad with Mrs. T. O. Sware and Mrs. P. A. Pruis as assisting hostesses.

Two One-Act Plays Are Scheduled By Drama Group

Under the sponsorship of Currian Call Club, campus drama organization, two one-act plays will be presented Friday, Feb. 9.

Directed by Val Johnson, "Silently Steal Away" is a comedy in which a young couple, Marge and Joe, who will be played by Joan Gardner and Dale Keller, try to stealthily move out of their apartment without their landlady finding out.

They are "helped" in this procedure by their upstairs neighbor, Fred, who is played by Howard Shull, and by a chorus girl friend of Marge's, Gerlie, played by Dorothy Brammfield.

"The Monkey's Paw" is a serious, mysterious drama written by Edgar Allan Poe. The play, which will be directed by Margaret Katz, is the story of four people who are involved with a monkey's paw which has a magic charm, for a person's three wishes will be granted by it.

This play has a surprise ending. Karl Bachner and Frances Berry play the parts of Mr. and Mrs. White, who gain possession of the paw from a friend of their son, Herbert. Herbert is played by Glenn Werner, and his friend, Sgt.-Major Morris, is Bill Finkle.

Seniors Are Offered Scholarship Awards

Colleges and universities throughout the nation now are offering scholarships, assistantships and fellowships to present seniors who plan to enter post-graduate study for the academic year 1951-1952. There are offerings for both men and women.

Aid is being offered in education, business or governmental administration, law, medicine and engineering. Regular academic scholarships and special achievement awards are being offered.

Institutions giving these scholarships include: the University of Chicago, George Peppentine College, Claremont Men's College, University of Pennsylvania, The State College of Washington, Stanford University, Claremont Graduate School and University of Utah.

Complete details of application deadlines and qualifications will be posted on the bulletin board in Old Main after test week. Any further questions should be taken to the Registrar's office.

Eleven Pre-Seminary Students To Leave For Midwest In June

All students and faculty are urged to turn in as many names and addresses as possible immediately.

DPK's to Receive Gold Pins Monday

Pins ordered by the dormitory girls several weeks ago will probably be ready some time Monday, according to Betty Hanson, who is in charge of the orders. She requests that all girls who ordered pins from her to have their money ready when the pins arrive.

The pins selected by the Delta Phi Kappa organization are gold with the letters "DPK" in Greek, and have been adopted as the official pins of the group. Orders for the pins were obtained at Springer and Jones Jewelry in Tacoma.

The Saga pictures will be taken again as soon as the second semester starts.

Plans are now being made for the Saga Carnival, which will take place the last day of April.

Time of Decision

Are we rearing a generation of helpless, spineless, soulless young people? Are we training them to shun responsibility, to laugh at the mention of duty, to refuse the disciplines of life that mould them into useful, courageous citizens of a great democracy? These and many other similar questions are being asked by people throughout the world who feel there are signs that this disquieting thought might have some basis in fact.

We have only to look around us to see how many young people are going through life without a purpose or a vision. They refuse the hard discipline of daily life: work, sacrifice, service to their school and community. And whenever they have the opportunity, they escape the burden of making decisions for the present and future. To them the path of least resistance is the easiest lane to follow, for this path is smooth to the outward eye, while the other is full of cuts and pitfalls.

Angela Patric once wisely said, "Happiness is not born of idleness, uselessness and self-will. It is created by serving, by spending oneself in useful labor for oneself and for others, never by self-seeking toward material ends. Life is a constant change, a restless active driving toward a goal. Face that fact, take life in both hands and bend it to service and at once life is beautiful and warm contentment sweeps through the soul."

Only a few days away students in scattered classrooms over the campus will be eagerly bending over test papers and unconsciously making decisions for the future. For many it will be the final choice, but for numerous others it will mark the beginning of an endless line of decisions. But no matter what the outcome, it is wise to keep in mind that the tests we take, the courses we select, and the books we choose to study are the result of decisions and are in truth the signposts that mark our path through life.

Especially now, in view of the perilous times, when many are beginning to wonder if its worth is so continuous with their college education, it is important to take our decisions seriously, for the next few months will decide and test not only our mental and physical qualities and talents, but our values of life itself.

Let us, as students in a fine Christian college, show a darkened world that we can plan and build, plant and tend, and make this world a garden of loveliness and ourselves a race of young men and women dedicated to a purpose in life.

Chapel Quotes

Dr. Knorr:
 God is always in control of everything: this is His world, not ours; therefore we never have to bear our burdens alone unless we want to.

A Christian always takes all his problems in his hands and lays them in God's hands.
 We are the instruments through which God does his work.

Dr. Hauge:
 Army regulations: When men get into tight spots they pray and they feel better for it.

The military are afraid public opinion will force them to take men into the service faster than they can be trained. Stay in school until you are called.

Dr. Pfeiffer:
 Christ, the Prince of Life itself, died as a sinner on the Cross in order that all sinners might have eternal life.

Test Week Woes Start When Schedule Posted; Cramming Begins

By Joyce Genz

"Let me see," cried Arvid, pushing through the crowd as Hans shouted. "I was here first." "You don't have to get so mad about it," shouted Lars, trying frantically to see over Ole's head. All this confusion and excitement in the main hall of Old Main could only mean one thing—test week schedules were posted.

"Oh," moaned Oskar, "I have Sweilid first period Monday; oh, when will I ever study." "That's nothing, I've got Greek and Swedish both Monday morning," shouted Per.

All of a sudden a loud, shrill cry was heard in the hall. Tor had just found out he had calculus, physics and scientific German all on Tuesday.

No sooner had Tor been revived when a clan of Luteville lassies came pushing through to the bulletin board. "Oh, no," cried Ingborg, "I have all my tests the first of the week." Shoving and pushing wildly, Kim soon finds she has no tests until Wednesday.

But no matter how much anxiety and disgust there is, there is bound to be some joy somewhere in Luteville. For soon we see Olov, Rut, Emil, and Anders all walking down the frost steps, happily, for they are finished with their tests Wednesday and are planning a long weekend skiing.

No matter how many tests you have Monday or all through the week, just remember that 99 and 14/100th students survive.

There will be no Mooring Mast heard next week due to the semester examinations.

PLC Tops Conference With Four Victories

PLC hoopsters made it four straight in conference play by defeating Western Washington and the University of British Columbia last Friday and Saturday night.

On Friday the Lutes eked by the Western Vikings 51-49 in a real thriller. With only 10 seconds remaining in the hectic game, Gene Lundgaard managed a tip-in after Ed Brown's miss on a long howitzer.

The Lutes, under par in the first half, had to battle all the way for the victory. Good support from reserves, Ed Brown and Lee Amundson, saved the Gladiators' undefeated string in conference play.

UBC Game Easier

On Saturday night it was a different story, however, as the Lutes raced to a 68-52 win over the British Columbia Thunderbirds.

Glen Huffman and Gene Lundgaard paced the Glads in the first half as the Lutes had a 35-20 bulge at half-time. With Lundgaard and Berentson supplying the scoring punch in the second half, the Lutherans kept increasing their lead and at the end of the game found themselves on the long end of a 68-52 score.

Jayvees Facing Tough Outfits

Besides furnishing reserves for Coach Harshman's varsity, the Jayvees manage to play a few games on the side.

At the beginning of the hoop season the Jayvee squad was composed wholly of freshmen. But currently the Jayvees are made up of non-freshmen; also, Coach Marv Tommervik has a starting lineup of freshmen ballplayers, including Ron Billings and Don Koessler, guards; Garnet Lund, center; Bob Ross and Lee Bloom, forwards. The non-freshmen make up the first line reserves, and sometimes play most of the game. They are Jack Johnson, Lloyd Eastman, Ray Green and Dick Bergeson.

Up to now the Jayvees have played College of Puget Sound twice, St. Martin's once and Seattle U. once. They beat St. Martin's and GPS once, while losing the other tilt to GPS and the lone encounter with Seattle U.

College Golf Course Gets Once-Over By Local Officials

If you couldn't get your golf score down to a respectable figure last fall when playing on the College Golf Course, perhaps it wasn't all your fault, at that. Officials of the Tacoma Golf Association have just decided that our local cow-pasture is a bit tougher than they had previously thought.

It seems that courses in the Tacoma area, members of the TGA, are re-rated each year by an official committee using the system laid down by the United States Golf Association. This rating then provides a basis for handicapping club members, making possible the regular tournaments among golfers.

Previously the College course has enjoyed a course rating of 65, but upon completion of an imaginary, but theoretically perfect round of golf on our layout by five officials of the TGA, the rating was raised to 68. This figure, which has nothing to do with the par figure of 70, places the College course one stroke easier than Allenmore, one tougher than Highland, and even up with the Brookdale course.

Favorites Win In 'Mural Play

Intramural basketball finally got rolling last week after numerous schedule changes. In the nine contests played, the results ran true to form with most of the favorites winning.

John Jurkovich led all scorers last week when he tickled the twine for 14 points to lead the Ballard Bums to a hard-fought decision over Neal's Wheels, 24-21. The Bums won their other scheduled game with the Missouri Mules, by forfeit.

The Hasbeens registered their second league win, 36-14, over the Things and Castle Rockets downed the Nip 'n Tuckers, 24-13. An erratic Wild Geese five waxed the hapless Things, 41-18. Neal's Wheels earned their first win, 29-16, in a tussle with the Lower Slobovians.

Forty-five points, the highest score of the week, was chalked up by the Black Sox as they defeated the Missouri Mules, 45-11.

Gladiators In Crucial Series

Seeking their fifth and sixth conference wins, the high-riding Gladiator twine ticklers invade the home courts of Eastern and Whitworth tonight and tomorrow evening. These two contests are perhaps the most important on the Lute schedule as they strive for top honors in the title race.

Red Reese's quintet is shooting for its seventh title since the organization of the Winco league in 1939, while the Lutes are hoping for their third.

Sparkplug of the Savages thus far has been talented 6'4" center Dick Eicher, who at last count was the second scorer in the Northwest behind John O'Brien and one rung ahead of Gene Lundgaard. He led the Reese-men in total points last year with 429 counters for a 15.1 game average.

Other first liners the Glads will attempt to put the skids on are Bill Hallett, speedy 5'10" guard, who is a dead-eye on one-handers and who ranked third among Eastern's scorers last season.

Meet Pirates Saturday

Saturday evening's contest for the Harshman-coached five will provide just as stern a test. The Pirates' conference record to date is 2-2, which doesn't raise any eyebrows.

However, three starters for the Whits were declared ineligible until the completion of one semester of school. Unfortunately for the Lutes, these ball players will be eligible to play Saturday.

Whitworth's entire basketball set-up contains new faces this year. Jim McGregor, new head mentor of the Whits and former Jayvee coach at USC, heads the list of newcomers. With McGregor came a host of transfers, two of whom are starters.

Ralph Polson, 6'7" center from Riverside J. C., will be the Lutes' big worry. He leads the Pirates in point getting; and 6'3" guard Jim Doherty, transfer from Duluth, Minn., and Bill Freeman, 6'4" forward from USC, complete the nucleus of the quintet.

This jaunt across the mountains no doubt will have a great bearing on the final standings of all three teams.

Glad Tidings

By Dave Nesvig

When the Lute cagers cross the lofty Cascade mountains today for crucial contests with Whitworth and Eastern, the East-side fans will see some real basketball. They will also watch such stars as Ralph Polson of Whitworth and Dick Eicher, Eastern ace, perform. Overshadowing them all, though, will be a foreigner from the rainy side of the mountains—Gene Lundgaard.

Gene has a habit of gaining top honors in everything he does. This year, for instance, he started out the conference schedule by pouring a meaty 40 points through the twine in the four games to date, to lead Evergreen scorers. He ranks second in the Northwest college circle, behind John O'Brien of Seattle U., with 279 tallies or a 17.4 per game average.

In three seasons for the Black and Gold outfit, he has dunked in 916 points, including 309 counters which ranked him 10th among Evergreen hoopsters last year. He received second team All-Conference honors last year for his brilliant play. In high school Gene climaxed his four-year stint at Anacortes by being named to the All-State team in 1947.

Many ball players who own high scoring records are "gunners"; that is, they shoot whenever they have the chance. "Gosh," as he is called by his teammates, is far from a "gunner." He is a marvelous team player and keeps the team running smoothly. When he fouls out, which is a rare occasion, the ball club loses its steadiness.

An excellent ball handler and rebound man, too, Gene Lundgaard gets my vote for the outstanding ball player in the Northwest.

THE OFFICIAL DOPE

Herewith in their simplest form, without the fancy adjectives, are the official statistics for the 16 Gladiator hoop tussles to date.

Gene Lundgaard—Field goals, 89; free throws, att. 133, scored 101, pct. 76; personal fouls, 53; total points, 279; average, 17.4. Duane Berentson—Field goals, 72; free throws, att. 10, scored 25; pct. 62.5; personal fouls, 55; total points, 169; average, 10.5. Bert Wells—Field goals, 51; free throws, att. 50, scored 29, pct. 58; personal fouls, 52; total points, 130; average, 8.1. Gerald Hefty—Field goals, 37; free throws, att. 45, scored 26, pct. 57; personal fouls, 58; total points, 100; average, 6.2. Glen Huffman—Field goals, 39; free throws, att. 36, scored 23, pct. 55; personal fouls, 47; total points, 96; average, 6.

Examinations for all special classes will be given during the regular class time during examination week.

The class will meet ten sessions.

That does not mean that one can learn to read Greek in "ten easy lessons." But it does mean that one can learn the alphabet and a few Greek roots around each of which a family of English words exist.

Special attention will be devoted to root-forms, the compounding of two root-forms to form a new English word, and the combining of prefixes and suffixes with the Greek roots.

The first Greek word the students will learn is the word for head: KEPHALE. Note how readily you recognize that word in the following English words: Encephalon, Encephalitis, Oxycephaly, Acephaly, Microcephaly, Megacephaly, Anencephaly. Simple, isn't it!

And the dictionary becomes a most interesting book when you are conscious of etymology (which see).

Latin should be included in a course like this. For example, pulpit is from the Latin pulpitum, "a stage for actors." Now, now, that can't be true. And pew is from the Latin podium, originally "a balcony for distinguished visitors to the arena." There may be something to that.

Do you suppose we know our Anglo-Saxon language? Well, steward is from stierd, "keeper of the pigs."

This course should be interesting: no books, no examinations, no credit, and "one teach one."

The four students taking third year Greek will be present to give individual attention on the alphabet.

"The Greeks have a word for it."

Operation Groan: Herb Neve Winning Two Week Battle Over Acute Bronchitis

By Bill Williams

Poor little Herby . . . he's been "groaningly" sick from bronchitis for the past two weeks. He is now well on the road to recovery, though, due to the special attention of Mrs. Miles, R.N.

I realize Herb isn't so little as far as length is concerned, but the other way around he is smaller still since his sickness. Herb is now so little around the waist that there isn't a jail that will hold him till they put the bars closer together. In fact, Herb is so little in the midsection that he just slips a rubber band around his waist instead of wearing a belt.

The title of this little piece is "Operation Groan." I thought of the title as I was passing the voice studio in Old Main while someone was practicing. To my surprise it was Herb groaning in the dispensary below the studio.

Herb is quite a singer, you know. He can sing everything from Bach to Sigmund Romberg to Roe. But, as I say, Herb was groaning so much that he now has the reputation as a groaner rather than a crooner.

Soon our boy will be among us again. But a word of caution, please! It will take him a little while to become adjusted to civilian life and wearing apparel. Don't be surprised if he comes to class with his pajamas on—gradual rehabilitation, you know.

As Neve began to recuperate he became adjusted to dispensary chow. He was so disappointed the other day when the nurse made him eat some pancakes instead of the usual ground thermometer with cream and sugar.

For a week Herby had to take aspirin at 8, 12, 4 and 8 o'clock, day and night. That is why there is a shortage of pills now. It isn't because of the war situation. I just thought I'd mention it here; we must stop these rumors.

When Herb registers for the new term he may register under the name of "Carier," but he's no pill. Herb will be with us sooner than we may realize. His return is greatly assisted by the efforts of Mrs. Miles, the school nurse.

Hurry back, Herb! We miss you.

Special Course Offered to Aid Reading Habits

Any students wishing to improve their reading habits and reading speed should plan to register next semester for a special course in remedial reading, according to L. O. Eklund, dean of men.

"Good readers, as well as poor ones, can benefit from the course," Eklund stressed. "Students who have taken remedial reading courses have increased their reading speed to 1500 words per minute."

The course will be given Thursday afternoons at a time yet to be arranged.
