

It's Full Steam Ahead in Evergreen; Gladiators to Invade Wildcat Lair

New Loop Bowls Over 11 Foes In 13 Warmups

For several years, Winsco drummers maintained that their little league was the toughest college circuit in the Northwest. Last spring, the Winsco outfit was re-organized into a league of seven Washington institutions, ranging from St. Martin's, with only 310 students, to College of Puget Sound, boasting a population of 1920.

Now these same sports addicts are taking the same thing about the new Evergreen loop. And the league is well-deserving of this reputation, recent scores and statistics prove.

During three weeks of pre-season play, the Evergreeners have challenged 13 colleges and universities from other circuits, including the Coast Conference, the Far West, California, Northwest, and Minnesota leagues. The locals trounced all but two of them.

Facing such opposition as University of Montana, Southern Oregon, Willamette, St. Olaf, and San Jose State, the Evergreeners amassed a grand total of 208 points, while the thirteen foes were able to muster only 95 centers. This averages out to a 2-to-6 per-game licking.

Leading the parade is the impressive Eastern Washington eleven, which tomorrow collides with the Western Washington Vikings. The Savages first upset Montana 12-7, then whitewashed Southern Oregon 23-0, and Montana State 13-6. The touchdown-happy Vikings have nothing to be ashamed of either, having trounced Linfield 37-6 and British Columbia 46-0.

Whitworth, paced by Vern Tucker, has rolled over North Idaho 47-6 and Whitman 11-4. Tonight the Pirates tangle with Puget Sound in the inaugural Evergreen fray for both, in the cross-town Stadium.

The lone pair of losses suffered by the Evergreen league so far was St. Martin's 13-12 setback at the hands of Oregon College of Education, and CIS's defeat at San Jose.

Sports Slants

By Dick Weathermon

With one conference win chalked up on the credit side of the ledger, the Pacific Lutheran Gladiators will step tomorrow from the frying pan into the fire, as they journey to Ellensburg to do battle with the Wildcatters of Central Washington College of Education.

The Lutes gave a good account of themselves in their 20-9 win over St. Martin's Ravens last Saturday evening, but from here on in, the competition is going to be much tougher.

The Wildcats, coached by newcomer "Shorty" Luft, are a far different club from the one that PLC mauled last season to the tune of 26-2. There are many lettermen back in harness, plus an imposing array of freshmen. The backfield is particularly strong this season, with Eric Beardley, freshman quarterback, topping at the head of the pack.

The Lutes should be at top strength for the contest, with guard Roy Hagen and halfback Lowell Knutson off the injured list for the first time since the St. Olaf opener. Ends Bob Andrew and Vern Morris played exceptional half at Olympia last week, and should be towers of strength on the Lute forward wall.

A game that should throw quite a bit of light on the current Evergreen chase is the Eastern-Western get-together tomorrow. Both teams are regarded highly, and both of them have yet to meet PLC. Eastern has been especially powerful, mixing a strong running attack with the pass combo of Rippano to Thrapp.

Splinters . . .

The College of Puget Sound received a jolt last weekend when Bill Kowalski, veteran tackle, dislocated his knee in the San Jose game. The injury will sideline the husky lineman for the rest of his college career.

Although Big Bill carried the banner of one of our opponents, he played good ball all the way, and we hope for a speedy recovery.

Eric Beardley, Eastern's ace back, and Lute Coach Mary Harshman were stationed together at Adak in the Aleutians during their service days. They'll have an opportunity to talk over old times after the Lutheran-Savage tilt coming up on October 23.

Central Poses As Threat to Lute Title Hopes

Tomorrow night the stage will be set for the sixteenth revival of the PLC vs. Central Washington College feud, the oldest rivalry in the Lute grid book. And the 1948 contest will be one of the most important of any of the sixteen times the Glads have faced the Wildcats.

The Cats, with a record of two impressive victories and no defeats, pose a formidable foe in the path of the tide-sweeping Gladiators.

With a new coach, "Shorty" Luft, and a host of new strength in the backfield, the Central Washington eleven has proven itself to be a definite threat, especially by virtue of its 13-7 triumph over Willamette University, last year's Northwest Conference kingpin.

Coach Luft is new to collegiate coaching, formerly being coach at Renton high, near Seattle, where last year he produced a championship combination.

Eric Beardley, left halfback, is the key man in the Wildcat's "T" attack. An outstanding passer and hard runner, Beardley is a transfer from Washington State. Don Doran and Bob Barrett are a couple of speed merchants who will also need watching. The main threat in the Wildcat line will be Bob Goodard, a guard and an all-conference end last season.

Pacific will be in top shape for the encounter, with Lowell Knutson and Roy Hagen fully recovered from injuries suffered earlier in the season. Thirty-six graders will make the jump, leaving Parkland at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Ellensburgers hold a ten to five edge in the series that began in 1930 when PLC was still a true struggling junior college. It wasn't until 1936 that the Lutherans were able to beat the Cowboys, but since then the competition has been fairly neck-and-neck.

The result of this Saturday's mix may decide the Evergreen crown.

Lute Skiers Slate Wednesday Opener

PLC's thriving Ski Club will start its 1948-49 season with a season on Wednesday night at 7 in the Student Union. Main speaker will be Howie Clifford, skiing editor of the Tacoma News-Tribune.

Temporary chairman will be Johnny Raalviken, who has presided over the PLC Club for the past two years. He will officiate over the election of new officers, and will discuss the club's plans for the year, which he predicts will be "the best ever."

The snow finals will meet regularly through the winter. A sking movie is tentatively planned for the next meeting.

Lutes Win Initial Conference Tilt By Walloping St. Martin's 20-0

The Pacific Lutheran football team last Saturday night sounded a warning note to other Evergreen Conference entries by defeating St. Martin's College, 20-0, on the loess' home gridiron at Olympia.

Highlighting the evening's activities were the splendid performances of Gene Strandness and Ray S. Brock in the backfield and the brilliant play of Jack Carbone and Jack Proud in the Lute line.

Gene Strandness was the offensive show in the first half for Pacific, running and passing St. Martin's to death. It was he who, on a lateral from Jackowski, stripped off 47 yards for the Lutes' first scoring play in the first stanza, reversing the field beautifully and outrunning the St. Martin's secondary. Mc-Kenna split the uprights to make the count 7-0.

Pacific was virtually cheated out of a T.D. early in the second period when they failed to go over after a first down on the two-yard marker.

A few plays later, however, after St. Martin's had brought the ball out to the 13 yard line, Marty Marchewka, St. Martin's quarterback, passed, only to have Vern Morris, PLC right end, jump into the line for the interception, run hard to the left side of the playing field and cross the goal line for a 13-0 margin. Mc-Kenna's placement was blocked.

The Gladiator's final touchdown was registered early in the fourth quarter after Buck Brock and Norm Sturm alternated carrying the ball from mid-field, with Brock going over on the 11-yard line on a reverse. Mc-Kenna again kicked the conversion for a final 20-0 count.

That the Pacific line was tough from end to end is verified by the fact that the Mariners gained but 70 yards from scrimmage by rushing. Along with standouts Carbone and Proud, the end play was very good. Time and again Morris and Andrew turned against end runs into the line where Proud and Carbone nailed them at the line.

Another feature of the game was the punting of Harry Malnes, who averaged 11 yards in five tries.

Pacific Lutheran and St. Martin's each had seven first downs, but the Lutes led in yards gained by rushing, with 211 to 70.

Baltic Speaker Tells Lutes Of Europe's DP Problems

Rev. Oswald A. Blumit, founder and director of the Baltic Evangelical Mission spoke to an interested chapel audience Tuesday on behalf of several hundred thousand displaced Baltics whose homeland has been taken over by Communism. The PLC visit was part of an extensive speaking tour to acquaint the American citizens with the problems of those people, and to find American homes and jobs for them.

The Soviets, Rev. Blumit pointed out, are aiming their treacherous attack at the three main Baltic institutions—"faith in God, loyalty to one's family, and high morals." Strengthening the conditions existing in countries which have fallen under the Russian sphere of influence, he said, that means Baltics are actually praying for war. They feel that would be the only way they may ever become reunited with other members of their family who have disappeared behind the "Iron Curtain."

Rev. Blumit is soliciting work projects from Americans who promise to provide employment and shelter for one year to a displaced person. This is the only way they will be admitted to the U. S. under existing immigration laws. He is also encouraging American students to correspond with the young people in European DP camps.

Traveler and world traveler, Rev. Blumit before the war was a high school principal in Latvia. Recently he spent four months touring eight European nations. Upon the signing of President S. C. Eastwood's final journey, in a Tacoma paper, he set the idea of lecturing at PLC. For the past several months, Rev. Blumit has been speaking to groups up and down the West Coast.

Incidentally, the college will cooperate in aiding some of the displaced persons to get to America. On his way, Dr. Eastwood made arrangements for two or three DP professors to be brought here as instructors of mathematics, French, and German next fall. At least one Baltic student may enroll at PLC next spring on a college scholarship.

Nienstedt, Tollfeldt Get Assistantships

Ruth Lois Tollfeldt and Herbert Nienstedt, former PLC students, have been awarded graduate assistantships in zoology at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio, it was announced today by Dr. John C. Baker, president of Ohio University.

Miss Tollfeldt attended here for three years and received her degree in medical technology at the Tacoma General Hospital in 1948. Her home is in Hayslope, Washington. Her sister, Louise, is a student here this year.

Nienstedt was graduated from PLC in June, 1947. His home is in Wapato, Washington.

Debaters Cull Library As Research Begins

Lute debaters are knee-deep in paper work these days, according to Mr. Theodor Karl, debate instructor.

All members are engaged in research work on the recently announced operation. "Resolved: That the Federal Government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunities in tax-supported schools by means of annual grants."

It was emphasized that the next few weeks would be concerned with signal and inter-signal debates. Soon the regular inter-collegiate debates are expected to be scheduled with CPS, St. Martin's, Seattle Pacific College and other schools.

Only a small number of members were present at a meeting in Old Main on Monday, October 1, because of classroom conflicts. The next meeting will be Tuesday, October 12, at 4 p.m. in M-215.

PLCites Invited to Guild Show, Carnival

"If you can't go to the state tomorrow night, don't be lute," Mrs. Earl Platt, president of the Parkland Orthopedic Guild, advised PLC faculty and student body today. "Come to the Guild talent show and carnival at the Parkland school and have a barrel of fun."

This is the first major undertaking of the group, which consists largely of PLC alumni. Mrs. Ernie Peterson is in charge of the talent show, an all-Parkland affair. Mrs. Harold Peterson is the general chairman of the whole she-bang.

The carnival will include everything from bingo to bazaar, with prizes donated by Parkland merchants. The doors open at 7 tomorrow evening with the "amateur hour" getting under way at 8 p.m. Admission is 25 cents.

STUDENT RATES GIVEN
Pacific Lutheran College students attending the Central game in Ellensburg, Saturday, will be admitted for 50 cents. It was announced today by Central Washington college officials. Students must show their activity cards at the ticket window to get this rate, they stated further.

Members of the band will be admitted free. However, they must be in uniform and go into the stands together.

A special section in the stands at Rodra Field is being reserved for PLC students and the band.

"or a dozen cups of coffee," wrote John Lund, president of the club. "This will be the first coffee hour in the newly remodeled First Lutheran Church, located at Sixth and Roby in Ellensburg."

He stated that the only charge would be ten cents for the first cup of java and a doughnut, with all the rest of the coffee being free.

In conclusion, John said: "Good luck to your team in its game with us, and we hope to see you afterwards."

Scientists Study Slide Rule Function

With two meetings already past, members of the Science Club are already making plans for the third, slated for Wednesday, October 10, at 8 p.m.

At the first gathering, officers were named, with last year's president, Jess Buncameter, and last year's vice-president, Lee Stevens, being re-elected. Keith Karpin was chosen secretary-treasurer, and Arnold Helonen, into club executive delegate.

On Wednesday of this week, the Science clubbers headed up on their knowledge of the operation of a slide rule, with Dr. Robert Olsen in charge.

The club is obtaining various scientists from Tacoma and vicinity to speak at the regular meetings. Past events first and third Wednesday evenings in the main science lecture room.
