Reunion Banquet Is Success This Year

Students, Faculty, and Alumni Meet Old Classmates and Renew Acquaintances

Living up to a tradition which has been observed for many years, the Alumni Association and many present students of Pacific Lutheran College held their annual reunion banquet at the Tacoma Hotel Saturday evening, March 9. The banquet was well attended, students, faculty, and alumni, numbering nearly one hundred and fifty. Everyone enjoyed renewing old acquaintances with old classmates and meeting fellow alumni. An outstanding feature of the reunion was the prevalence of the same P. L. C. spirit as only this institution can give. This spirit gave unity to the entire meeting.

The banquet room was artistically decorated with orange and yellow balloons. A bouquet of marigolds stood in the center of each table, and streamers of red, blue, and green confetti, which began falling from all sides almost as soon as the banquet was started, served as connecting links between the tables. A spirit of humor and enthusiasm was shown in the yells given by the groups of the different tables to each other.

The program consisted of short speeches, humorous and otherwise, and musical numbers by alumni and students. Martha Hjerstad, president of the Alumni Association and at present a student at the University of Washington, acted as toastmaster. She welcomed the students and alumni, and wished everyone an enjoyable evening. Mr. N. Hagensen gave a very interesting talk on the humor in our schools, showing the difference between good jokes and jokes that cause ill feeling. John C. Goplerud and Doctor Tringstad stressed the importance of the Development Campaign now being carried on, and showed how alumni could help along these lines. Miss Esther Towe, of Silverton, Oregon, brought greetings from the class of '28. Ingeborg Bolstad, '29, represented the present students of the college in showing the relation of the college today to that of former years.

Civics Class Takes Visit to Olympia

Most interesting and instructive trip was taken by Mrs. Taylor's Civics class on Tuesday, March 12.

The sixteen members of the class left Parkland in private autos in the morning, and at ten o'clock they formed part of the interested audience in the senate chamber of the magnificent new capitol building at Olympia.

From eleven o'clock until two in the afternoon, the time was spent in examining the capitol building, meeting governor Hartley, and climbing to the top of the dome.

It is said that some of the members were uneasy because they thought the chandler was not attached firmly enough to the dome.

At two o'clock these students listened to the proceedings in the House of Representatives being particularly interested in Mr. Showalter's speech regarding the use and distribution of school finances.

The trip, which ended in Parkland late in the afternoon, was unanimously voted a success.

Cooperation Result in Development Plan Drive Is Favorable

The students responded heartily to the plea to support the Pacific Lutheran College Development Association. As a result of this one part of cooperation the association was able to reach the 1,000 mark on March 6, and by March 15 the number was increased to 1119 members. Glory also belongs to those churches who accomplished, with the help of the students, the reaching of the 1,000 mark.

This month Doctor Tingstad and Mr. Einarstrom received new members from the congregations of Rev. Nevig in Seattle; Rev. Loto in Tacoma; Rev. Krasbel in Portland, and from the two churches in Silverton.

Sunday, March 24, Doctor Tingstad will present the Development Association in Rev. Edwards' church in Tacoma. In April plans have been made to present the campaign to congregations of the Puget Sound district.

The number of members of the association by states is as follows: Washington 578, California 222, Oregon 208, Minnesota 47, Iowa 20, North Dakota (Continued on Page 4)

Dr. Solberg Speaks About 'Catechism'

The Anniversary of the Catechism was the theme of a short talk given at the chapel exercises Tuesday, March 12, by Rev. Dr. Solberg, Dean of the Lutheran Bible School in Chicago.

"The little catechism is still unchanged," said the speaker, "and is the most perfect document of its kind ever put together. Luther set out to do three things—to teach the people how to sing; to give them a Bible they could use; to teach them a religion they could remember." The little catechism was a means of accomplishing the third purpose, and in no other church is the doctrine stated so clearly. The commandments, the Creed, the Lord's prayer, the sacrament of baptism, the sacrament of the altar—all are given and explained in simple words that can be easily understood. Doctor Solberg conducted a series of lectures at Central Lutheran Church in Tacoma, last week. Rev. Rustad of Central Lutheran Church, accompanied the dean on his visit to the college.

Presentation Well Worthy of Claming Very Big Success

A Product worthy of presentation was the all-school four-act play "Clarence" given in the college auditorium last Saturday night, March 16. The cast, after four weeks of hard work under Miss Sturud's coaching, gave the play in full fashion, and those who heard it pronounced it "well worth the money."

Both Tarkington's comedy plays are readily digested by any audience, and this proved to be no exception. A large crowd attended the performance and everyone went home with a "heart full of joy," as only Tarkington's comedies can produce.

Reynold Jacobson, as Clarence, played the part of the hero and was known for his ability to "drive mules without swearing." "Clarence" gave the audience many a thrill by his unusual knowledge of beetles.

Kurina Hoff, as Cora Wheeler, and Warner Quale, as Bobby Wheeler, gave the attentive audience many a laugh with all of their brotherly and sisterly quarrels. Both were typical Tarkington. (Continued on Page 4)

Report of Meeting Told by Delegate

Twenty-Seven Attend Convention Held for Lutheran Students at Augustana

Attended by 27 delegates representing 12 of the 19 schools of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, the annual national convention of the Lutheran Students' Union was held at Augustana Academy, Canton, South Dakota, March 1, 2, 3. The schools represented were St. Olaf, Luther, Concordia, Augustana, Park Region, Waldorf, and Pacific Lutheran colleges, Luther and Red Wing seminaries, Madison Normal, and the Chicago Deaconess Hospital. Pacific Lutheran College, represented by Irene Dahl, was the most distant school to send a delegate.

The opening gathering took place Friday evening in the Academy Auditorium. The address of welcome by Rev. B. J. Rothnem of Augustana Academy was responded to by the president of the Union, Mr. Oscar Engeström, of Luther Seminary. The convention theme, "Co-workers with Christ" was introduced by Rev. O. G. Malmrin, of Rapid City, South Dakota, who used as his theme, "How Do We Become Workers?" In answering this question the speaker said that one must first get down to the bed rock, Jesus Christ, and, having found that bed rock, proceed to build one's own Christian life on that foundation.

"The Task," the second sub-topic of the convention theme, was the subject of an address given Saturday morning by Rev. A. J. Bergsaker, president of the South Dakota District. In his talk, which was a most challenging one, the speaker emphasized that the task for service in God's kingdom calls for a sin-sick world in Christ's teaching. Now is the time, "Shall we whose souls are lighted deny our fellow men?" It is our duty to obey Christ's command, "Go ye." "Life is short," said the speaker. "How long will you wait?"

Saturday afternoon was spent in a group discussion, led by Rev. N. M. Ylvisaker, who said at the close—"If those who believe that the members of the younger generation are not thinking seriously, let them attend such a convention as this, and hear what we have heard today."

SPRING FEVER

What is the ailment creeping over the students here at college? They walk around, dreamily, only half believing they exist, finding it hard to study and get down to real work. Ah, yea, we know. It is spring fever, the malady from which no one is immune. It is not a germ disease, but comes spontaneously. Its symptoms are drowsiness, especially in class, a carefree spirit, and an irresistible longing to be out of doors.

But all this is to be expected. At a certain time of the year, when the sunshine again clears up the atmosphere, there is always this tendency of preferring to study (?) outside on some beloved spot of the campus. This, however, is a virtue, not a fault. A person would not be human if he were not subject to an attack of spring fever.

March 20, 1929

Dear Ma and Pa:
It was too bad that you couldn't come to the Alumni. Pa. You would of had a good time listening to all the old timers tell about how fixy they was when they went to school and how reckless they was with their father's money. I think the younger generation is greatly improved in this latter respect, as they know how hard it is to get some.

Well, it was a great banquet. We were at the table from seven o'clock until ten, and I suppose you think that we sat there and ate until we could hardly walk. Howsoever, this was not the case. A banquet is not built on them lines and is meant to puzzle the victims rather than anything else. I wish I could tell you what we had to eat, but most of it is still a dark mystery to me. The Sophomore, which sat next to me, said that the first course was a cocktail, but you can't put anything like that over on me. There wasn't even a suggestion of a chicken in it. I had a narrow escape from swallowing the spoon which we ate with, but was saved by a balloon which burst in the nick of time. You see there was balloons tied to all the chairs which would explode like a shot-gun. The purpose of this was to remind us of the wild and woolly west and make us feel at home.

There was many foolish questions asked by people at the different tables, like for instance, "Have you ever seen a kitchen sink?" or "Have you ever seen a cinnamon roll?"

These questions which the college students asked, may not seem to be of the highest type. They are almost as bad as the ones which the faculty asked, like for instance, "Have you ever seen the teachers pet?"

From now on you cannot expect many letters from your loving daughter, on account of baseball season having started. There is much talent among the girls this year, and it looks as if we are going to have a whirlwind of a team. When Phyllis Grande, which is a girl who plays baseball and goes to school here, starts showing the other teams what she is like, they will ask to have a playing card for a home plate when she is pitching. Otherwise, the championship would be just as good as put on ice, for us.

It looks like spring is actually here, and many students has commenced to take long walks in the open. I suppose their health is in bad condition on account of so much study and worry. One student told me he did not see how he could get thru the semester exams, as he was near to nervous prostration from overwork. Well, if the faculty lets him out of exams, I don't think he will have nervous prostrations from overwork.

There is many expenses which come up at this time of the year, like for example, having a picture taken of yourself to exchange with some friend which might appreciate having it. I think I will get quite a few, so you had better send me some money.

Your loving daughter,

Cheroba.

HIT AND MISS

A parade, four miles long will follow Hoover to the White House. The dirigible, Los Angeles, will be in the procession along with a number of gas bags.

A noted lecturer in Toledo made this statement: "All the world's a stage, and all the speaking parts are given to women."

Try this one: If a pea falling from a twenty-story building develops sufficient velocity to kill a cat, how many pancakes will shingle a smoke house?

A new thought—Lead a sensible school life and you will get along nicely. But the worst thing about making such a radical change is that everyone else will consider you silly.

Just Wondering

As I sit and write my English themes
By the flickering candle light,
I often wonder if other folks' dreams
Are like the ones I dream tonight.

As I sit and read my English themes
And ponder what next I should write,
I often wonder if other folks' themes
Are themes like the one I write tonight.

As I sit and write my English themes
In the candle's fading glow,
I think of the grades of my other themes
And wonder what makes them so low.

Daily Diary

Wednesday, March 6—
What is that awful noise? Sounds like a sea lion roaring? Don't be alarmed, it is only Jack and Jake's ten-dollar Ford.

Thursday, March 7—
Unusual news item—we lost the de-bate.

Friday, March 8—
You can't exactly blame Cora for sneezing even though it was three o'clock in the morning. Anna, you really shouldn't eat ice cream and pickles before you go to bed—it always makes people walk in their sleep.

Saturday, March 9—
Alumni banquet. Welcome, back, old grads!

Monday, March 11—
Peggie: What do you mean by using my clean wash cloth to clean your shoes with?

Aggie: I beg to differ with you. I just washed my neck with it.

Tuesday, March 12—
In nutrition Mr. Xavier said, "Girls are different from any other fruit. They're the sweetest when they are green!"

Wednesday, March 13—
We hear that a couple of girls hiked to Spanaway before breakfast. Caesar was ambitious, and look what happened to him!

Thursday, March 14—
Is that straight goods that Prof Xavier isn't going to give us any more tests this quarter? And here I thought there wasn't any Santa Claus.

Friday, March 15—
There seems to be dire need of another campus day as far as the kicking post is concerned. It surely does need a coat of paint.

Saturday, March 16—
We won the debate with St. Martin's!

Monday, March 18—
Basket ball letters were awarded. Bill certainly does hide his age well, doesn't he? None of us knew he was so dumb that it was necessary for him to spend twenty-five years at P. L. C.

Tuesday, March 19—
Did you notice the depressed look on Lela's face? She didn't hear about the free lunch over at church until eleven o'clock!

Only Three Games Girls Lose During Basketball Season

Although the girls' basketball team had small hopes at the beginning of the season, the tables turned and the season ended well enough to please everyone. Of the eleven games played the girls lost three. There is one big consolation in having lost the three games, as the team also won from each team that defeated them. P. L. C. must give credit to Sumner, Fife, and Lincoln Park for spoiling the victory board. The girls pride themselves on winning one game from Sumner, as that team won the championship of class A.

The summary of the games are as follows:
 P. L. C. 21—Sumner 69
 P. L. C. 20—Sumner 17
 P. L. C. 22—Lincoln Park 24
 P. L. C. 32—Fife 35
 P. L. C. 37—Fife 32
 P. L. C. 32—Fife 35
 P. L. C. 48—Centralia 22
 P. L. C. 27—Centralia 20
 P. L. C. 34—First Lutherans 32
 P. L. C. 31—First Lutherans 26
 P. L. C. 25—Alumni 21

The girls' basketball team rightfully feels that they have had a successful season.

ALUMNI LOSE TO GIRLS

Close Game Ends With Score of 25 To 21

The P. L. C. Alumni after a glorious fight, lost their game with the P. L. C. girls. If they had had the practice, the Gladiators would probably have lost the game. P. L. C. had a 12-point lead at the end of the half, but the Alumni rallied and gave P. L. C. a chance to worry. The whistle blew when the score was 25 to 21 in favor of P. L. C. The game was slow and both teams showed lack of recent practice. Polly Langlow displayed her usual prowess.

The lineup is as follows:
 Alumni P. L. C.

Unusual Season Is Closed In Debate

St. Martin's College Loses One and Wins One Debate From P. L. C.

The debates with St. Martin's College closed a very unusual season for the Pacific Lutheran debaters. Inasmuch as it was both successful and unsuccessful. Considering the victories won, it could not be considered successful, but from the standpoint of the debaters and of students hearing the debates a great deal of benefit was derived from them. The band of fate, which seemingly had gotten the better of our debaters, was overpowered by the desire of our team to win the last debate when the P. L. C. affirmative team won from St. Martin's negative team last Friday evening in a 2-0 decision. This debate, as expressed by many who heard it, contained the most lively discussions of any of the debates. This was the only victory gained by P. L. C. this season. The same evening our negative team lost to St. Martin's affirmative at St. Martin's College, with which we have had forensic relations for several years.

The debaters previous to these two have all been lost to opposing teams. On March 7 the P. L. C. negative team met the Weber College affirmative team from Ogden, Utah. Weber College is renowned for its excellent debate teams, and makes an annual tour along the coast. John Wiese and Erling Jacobsen represented P. L. C. in this debate, and Dan Kennedy and James Neil, Weber College.

On March 8 our negative team, composed of John Wiese and Gerhard Lane, debated the affirmative team of Bellingham Normal, while our affirmative team, Olaf Ordal and Erling Jacobsen, debated the Normal negative team. Both debates were won by Bellingham. The debate question for this year as selected by the Pi Kappa Delta was: "Resolved, that a substitute for trial by jury be adopted." The P. L. C. squad consisted of John Wiese, Gerhard Lane, Erling Jacobsen, and Olaf Ordal. None of these men will be back next year to continue debating here, and it looks as if entirely new material will have to be selected for the coming season.

BOYS AND GIRLS

RECEIVE LETTERS IN AN ASSEMBLY

In chapel on Monday morning March 18, the College boys and the girls' basketball teams received their basketball letters. The coaches of the girls' and boys' teams, Miss Strud and Mr. Ramstad, respectively, complimented each player and presented him with his well-earned letter. Eleven girls won their letters and eight boys. The girls receiving letters were, Pauline Larson, Emma Kaaland, Martha Cline, Eva Knutzen, Eleanor Lothius, Marie Gardin (captain), Margaret Holmberg, Eugenia Crosby, Phyllis Grande, Helen Quabset, and Dorothy Eberole.

The boys who received letters were, Rudolph Sanderson, Carl Colton, John Gardlin, Evans Carlson, Marvin Howick, Ben Palo, Wilbert Nyman and Arnold Thostenson.

 spoke Saturday evening on the topic, "The Spirit." "There is a motive for everything in life," he said, "good or bad." "Our motive for Christian service should be not only the desire, but love, for anything done for God without love is useless. Christ calls everyone, patiently. When will you offer yourself?"

Divine services were held in the Canton Lutheran Church, Sunday morning, where Doctor Roe, president of St. Olaf College, preached the sermon. He discussed Christ as the real leader in God's work, and said that we, in being leaders, must first learn to follow in Christ's steps. Then we too, at the close of life, may be able to say, "I have finished the work thou gavest me to do."

Following a sacred concert by the Augustana College Choir, Sunday afternoon, Rev. P. E. Tjorson, of China, gave a talk on missions, stressing the ever-present need for more workers and more support in the work on the field.

The closing session of the convention was held Sunday evening with Rev. Martin Norstad of Minneapolis as the speaker. In speaking on his subject, "The Awaiting Crown," Rev. Norstad used Paul as an example of one who at the close of his life was satisfied that he had given up worldly fame, glory, honor, and wealth for the better reward of the crown of life.

During the various sessions, musical numbers were given by students of Augustana College, of Sioux Falls, and by the "Trebble Cleff," a girls' chorus of Augustana Academy. Students of Augustana College also assisted members of the Academy in making arrangements.

Among matters discussed at the various business sessions was the "gospel team" idea; reports given by the delegates showed how the plan adopted last year had worked out. The consensus of opinion was that these teams, consisting of several students and teachers who gave school programs outside of the school, were very successful in keeping the school in contact with the people and in interesting new students.

Pacific Lutheran College invited the 1930 convention to Parkland. It was decided to let the executive committee confer with the church board and make the final decision. The only difficulty lies in the fact that this school is rather distant from the "center" of the other church schools.

The new officers of the Lutheran Students Union are: Mr. Morris of Luther Seminary, president; Miss Myrtle Lokken of Augustana College, secretary; Mr. Raymond Rlenholtzen of St. Olaf College, treasurer. The vice president will not be chosen until it has been decided where to hold next year's convention.

Press Conference Is First Feature Of Annual Meeting

The first feature of the national convention of the Lutheran Students Union held at Canton S. Dakota, March 1, 2, 3, was the Lutheran Press Conference, consisting of two sessions on Friday.

Sarah Monsrud, editor of the "Augustana Mirror," gave the opening talk, briefly summarizing the history of the Lutheran Press Association and reviewing its aims.
 Rolfe A. Haavetved, editor of "Luther College Chips," using as his subject, "The College Paper as a Christian Agency," told of the opportunities the college paper has of reflecting Christian ideals and how these opportunities should be made use of. After a vocal solo by Hannah Hanson of Augustana College, the subject, "The Editor's Task," was developed by Norris Halvorson, Editor of the Concordia College "Concordian."

The afternoon session of the Press Conference opened with a selection by the "Trebble Cleff," a chorus of Augustana Academy. Morris Weil, of Luther Seminary, then presented plans which would aid to the effectiveness of the Lutheran Press Association. One suggestion, that a committee be organized at Luther Seminary for the purpose of sending news from the different schools to the Lutheran Church Herald, was adopted.

Miss Borghild Dahl, teacher of Journalism at Augustana, made a comparison of the four college papers. The Concordian, the St. Olaf Messenger, Luther College Chips, and the Augustana Mirror. This was followed by a general discussion.

Charles Norby of Luther College was elected president of the Association for the coming year, succeeding Howard Oesth of St. Olaf College.

Thirty Aspirants Show Up Well in Diamond Turnout

On Monday, March 11, Coach A. W. Rainstad, Pacific Lutheran baseball mentor, issued the first call for diamond aspirants. About thirty men, including seven lettermen, are now out for places on the team. All indications point toward a successful season.

The first week consisted mainly of preliminary work as an appetizer for the more strenuous type of turnouts which have been prevalent the last few afternoons.

Several candidates are looming up as contenders for positions.

Stegel is a southpaw but works well behind the plate. Throwing responsibilities will undoubtedly be shouldered by Colton, Palo and Howick. All are showing up well, and all are capable of filling an infield berth if not used as twirlers. Other infield candidates are Nyman, Sanderson, Hoff, Wells, Monson and Berentson. In the outfield French, E. Jacobson, B. Jacobson, L. Sanderson, Gardlin, Johnson and Gopeleurd are staging a battle for positions.

Last Tuesday's practice was featured with a few innings of scrimmage. The results, considering the time of the season, were promising. Although the regular lineup is as yet indefinite, Rainstad used Stegel and Colton as battery for the first squad, with Howick at first, Sanderson at second, Nyman in the short-patch, and Palo on third. Swindland, B. Jacobson, and E. Jacobson worked in the outfield.

"Cold! And how!" At least, that's what Paul Pry surmised when the news flooded about school that two certain girls—and by-the-way, they're perfectly nice girls, too—from our dignified student body actually went "wading" in yonder stream!

Can you beat that? We're wonderin' we are, whether they went wading just to see how it felt, whether they did it for notoriety, or whether they did it from an obscure and shady motive—to give their feet a springtime dousing?

Well, be that as it may, the fact remains—we'll never know.

And now, I ask you, was that the proper conduct for two prospective teachers? a

Fie upon ye—Dot and Helen!

Oh me! Oh my! An' ain't it terrible? That is, ain't it awful for the felix concerned?

That's right! I guess you don't know why all the lamentations—

Well, it's just this:

There's an age-old legend in fair Florida that hidden somewhere in its depths is a fountain—a miraculous Fountain of Youth.

Now to get on with our story—The said that one member of our esteemed faculty has searched for, has found, and has drunk thereof.

Glory be! An' to think that one we sip from this gushing Fountain insures one of eternal youth—or in life not less than 104 years!

Sure an' we'll be proud to know that a century from now old P. L. C. will still be booming along in the capable hands of Doctor Tingelstad!

ton characters.

Mae Keith, as Miss Pinney, the governess, was well characterized by her quiet, reserved personality. Although she was a contrast to the other characters, she filled her part in the play very well.

Music was furnished between the acts by the College orchestra. Between the second and third acts the cast presented Miss Stixrud, their coach, with a beautiful bouquet of sweet peas and roses.

The money taken in from this play, after all expenses are paid, will be used for further stage improvements.

State Manual Test

Tries Ability of 25

Twenty-five second year normal students of P. L. C. tested their ability in the State Manual examinations March 9. Although the results of the tests are not as yet known, the prospective teachers are expressing gratitude—and otherwise—that the exams are over. They were given in the Central School in Tacoma under the supervision of the deputy county superintendent.

The list of questions follows:

1. From what sources is the permanent school fund derived.
2. (a) Name the offices that constitute the executive department of the state. (b) In what courts is the judicial power of the state vested?
3. How does the law define: (1) a school day? (2) a school month? (3) a school year?
4. What are the provisions for physical education: (1) in grade schools, (2) high schools, (3) higher institutions?
5. State the regulations with regard to the use of corporal punishment by a teacher.
6. Name the several different kinds of school districts that may be organized in this state.
7. State the requirements of the compulsory school law.
8. What is the law with regard to aliens teaching in the public schools?
9. Name five powers or duties of the State Board of Education?
10. How may our state constitution be amended?

TWO D. O. R. DELEGATES TO GO TO CONVENTION

The spring convention of the Women's Missionary Federation of South Puget Sound Circuit is being held on Wednesday, March 20, in Our Savior's Church at Aberdeen, Washington.

Since the Daughters of the Reformation is an organization of the Women's Missionary Federation, P. L. C. is sending two delegates to the convention. Ingeborg Bolstad is to give a paper entitled "Youth's Attitude Toward Christian Education." Miram Heimdal is the other delegate.
