

L. D. R. Girls Plan Silver Tea Mar. 17 To Honor Mothers

Proceeds to Go to Shismaref Mission; Jane Williams Is Named Chairman of the Affair by President

With committees already at work, arrangements are under way for the silver tea which members of the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation are planning for March 17 in honor of their mothers. The proceeds of the tea will be sent to the Shismaref Mission in Alaska, which the L. D. R. girls of Pacific Lutheran College are helping to support. This tea, one of the first of its kind ever sponsored by any group at this school, will be one of the largest affairs of the year to be given by any organization here, according to Kathryn Johnson, president of the group.

More than one hundred invitations have been issued for the affair. The Women's Dormitory Auxiliary and the mother of each girl in school being invited. The dormitory mothers who will come from a distance, while girls whose mothers are unable to be present will "adopt" mothers from among the faculty groups and from among friends of the school in Parkland. After the program and refreshments in the college dining hall, girls will show their mothers around the school building and campus.

A St. Patrick's Day motif in green and white will be carried out in the decorations in the dining hall, according to Virginia Mancke, who is in charge of these arrangements. The program, as tentatively announced by Evelyn Irwin, chairman of the program committee, will include a violin solo by Alice Peterson, a reading, and vocal solos by Anna Mikkelson. Mrs. Paul Preus will speak as a representative of the mothers present, while Kathryn Johnson will represent the L. D. R. girls. Refreshments, consisting of tea, coffee, wafers and mints will be served before the program, with the hostesses in charge.

Mrs. Keldler, dean of women, and Mrs. A. W. Ramsdell, adviser of the L. D. R. group and district key-woman of the Women's Missionary Federation, will be the faculty representatives on the hostess group. The rest will be made up by the committee chairman for the affair. They are Jennie Lee, invitations; Saffie Torresdal, arrangements; Alice Roe, refreshments; Evelyn Irwin, program; Virginia Mancke, decorations; and Ellen Soley, advertising. (Continued on Page Two)

French Club Sponsors Luncheon for Visitor

Presenting Mrs. Ira L. Richardson, a native of France and former instructor at Annie Wright Seminary in Tacoma, the French Club held a luncheon, meeting in the Chapel basement on Friday, February 24. Mrs. Richardson spoke on the education of the French youth in contrast with the education of the American youth. Anna Mikkelson sang, accompanied by Ardis Aarhus.

Florence Post was chairman of the luncheon committee, assisted by Carrie Hvidding, Angela Jacobson and Shirley Hecht. Jane Williams, Freda Henrichsen and Margaret Wesson were waitresses.

L. S. U. Meet Postponed By Closing of Banks

Due to the unforeseen closing of all the banks of the United States by President Roosevelt, the Lutheran Students' Union Convention, which Walter Young was to have attended as a delegate from Pacific Lutheran College, has been indefinitely postponed, according to a telegram received yesterday. The convention was to have been held the week end of March 10-12 at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Whether or not the convention will be held this year is dependent upon financial conditions over the country at the close of the nation wide bank holidays. Further notice is being awaited by Student Body officers in regard to this.

T.L.L. Plan Sunrise Service For Easter

Program to Be Held on Chataouga Grounds Followed by Breakfast; Young People to Have Charge

That the Tacoma Luther League will again sponsor an early morning Sunrise Service on the Chataouga grounds of the Pacific Lutheran College campus was decided at a meeting of the group last week. The service program will consist of three talks on a theme to be decided later, several musical numbers, selections by a joint choir, and devotions.

The service will be on the same order as the one which the united Tacoma Luther Leagues held here last year, followed by a breakfast in the college dining hall or the basement of the Trinity Lutheran Church. All the topics, musical numbers, and work connected with the service are taken care of by young people, with a committee working under the officers of the organization in charge. Each Luther League that is affiliated with the central group will supply at least one number on the program, and will have two representatives on the working committee.

Since its organization more than two years ago as the Tacoma Luther Leagues have put on two early morning Easter services. They have sponsored regular Sunday evening services in many Tacoma Churches, and have put on numerous social and religious programs in which all Luther League members of Tacoma were interested.

Bertil Johnson to Speak
Bertil Johnson, Pierce County prosecuting attorney, will speak at the Trinity League meeting Sunday.

Showalter Bill Will Increase Percentage Of Teachers Placed

Passing of Measure Now in State Legislature Would Increase Placements; Graduates Urged to Get Credentials Up to Date

Due to the oversupply of graduated school teachers without positions in the State of Washington, W. D. Showalter, prominent education enthusiast, has introduced a bill into the state legislature, the passing of which will correct the situation. The percentage of placements of normal school graduates will be increased if this bill is passed, so that Pacific Lutheran College students and alumni should be actively interested in its progress through the state legislature according to Registrar Philip E. Haug.

Letters are being sent through the registrar's office, to the graduates of Pacific Lutheran College who are now teaching, urging them to get their credentials and recommendations up to date from their respective school boards.

"The success of the Teachers' Placement Committee, which is now busy collecting credentials, is dependent on the amount of cooperation given by the students and graduates of the Normal department of our institution. These should all feel it their duty to notify the college of any possible vacancy in teaching positions," stated Professor Haug in commenting on the situation to a Mooring Mast reporter.

Rev. Sydow Compares Christ to Diver in Chapel Talk Friday

Rev. Arthur Sydow, pastor of the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran College of Tacoma, addressed Pacific Lutheran College students in chapel last Friday morning. In his talk, Rev. Sydow stated that Christ was to this world what a diver is to the sea. In that Christ was in the world, but not of the world; just as a diver is in the sea, but not of the sea.

Although this is the first time he has spoken in chapel this year, Rev. Sydow is well known at Pacific Lutheran College, having a son, Gilbert, here now, and two daughters who are former students.

On Friday, February 17, Rev. Bloomquist of Seattle, a pastor of the Augustana Synod and Secretary of the Columbia Conference, spoke in chapel.

L. D. R. Will Meet Today At Home of Mrs. Svare

Mrs. A. H. O. Erickson will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation, to be held this afternoon at three-thirty at the home of Mrs. T. Q. Svare, wife of the college pastor. Mrs. Erickson will speak on the topic "Mission Work Among the Lepers."

Other program numbers will include a reading by Saffie Torresdal, and a cornet solo by Dillie Quale. Mrs. J. P. Fluenger will be the assisting hostess. In the business meeting, plans will be completed for the silver tea to honor the mothers, set for March 17.

Drama Club Votes To Improve Stage

Flooring and Scenery to Be Repaired; Slip-Covers Will Protect Upholstery; 'Cabbages' Wins First Place

That "Cabbages," presented by Group number 1 under the leadership of Ray Lerback February 24, received first place, with "Detour Ahead" receiving second, and "The Cheer-up Specialist" third, was the announcement made by Clarence Lemming, Drama Club president, at a meeting last Monday.

At the same meeting it was decided to begin immediately on further improvements of the stage. New flooring in the front of the stage, repairs on the scenery, and the procuring of slip-covers for the overstuffed furniture are the projects planned for the next few weeks. Committees to carry out these plans were appointed by the president as follows: floor repair—Ray Lerback, (chairman), Gilbert Sydow, and Clarence Lemming; scenery—Leonard Weston (chairman), Gilbert Sydow, Edgar Larson, and Trygve Runsvold; to make the slip-covers—Kathleen Porath (chairman), Louise Jackson, Saffie Torresdal, Ross Dahl, and Evelyn Monson.

A care-taking committee, composed of Lila Rudd (chairman) and Virginia Evers, whose duties are to keep the drapes and other small properties belonging to the club laundered and in repair, was also appointed.

The president commended Norman Westling on the manner in which he took charge of the seating in the gymnasium for Drama Night.

Debate Squad Is Active As Season Nears Completion

Affirmative Men End Schedule in Tour to Centralia and Aberdeen; Negative Boys May go to Spokane

In carrying out the schedule mapped out for them by Professor Prufer, the debate squad has completed a strenuous two weeks' work. All four teams have had numerous opportunities to show their skill in argumentation in intercollegiate contests with Whitworth of Spokane, College of Puget Sound, Gray's Harbor Junior College of Aberdeen, and Centralia Junior College.

On Monday, February 27, the Whitworth men's team upheld the negative against Walter Young and John Van Leuven, the Pacific Lutheran College affirmative team. Alfred Marquam and Keith Murray were representatives of Whitworth. That same evening Clarence Lemming and Clarence Ophelm of the P.L.C. negative team met Gray's Harbor affirmative, Richard Street and Wayne Johnson spoke for Gray's Harbor.

Several practice debates have been held between the opposing teams of the college squad, and three debates have been held with the C.P.S. squad during the last week.

John Van Leuven and Walter Young completed their season of debate last Monday when they made a tour of southwest Washington, participating in contests during the afternoon and evening at Centralia and Gray's Harbor respectively.

Clarence Ophelm and Clarence Lemming of the negative are considering a trip to Spokane over the next weekend. There they plan to visit Spokane University and Whitworth College, holding debates at each place.

Contests have also been planned with the University of Washington freshman teams.

All debates held thus far have been non-decision arguments, but all on the squad and the coach feel that these arguments have been very helpful to those who have participated.

Much emphasis is given to debate as an extra curricular activity at Pacific Lutheran College, since two credit hours are given to each of those on the team, according to Coach Prufer. The question is "Resolved that the United States should agree to a cancellation of the inter-allied war debts."

Pep Club Plans Tea For Dorm Auxiliary

To show their appreciation for the gifts the Women's Dorm Auxiliary recently gave them for their radio room now called "Listen Inn," the Pep club is planning a tea to honor the Women's Dorm Auxiliary sometime this month. Kathleen Forath, president, named Nordia Arneson (chairman) Ardis Aarhus and "Dickie" Leland as a committee to arrange the affair.

At the meeting of the Pep club last Thursday, Alice Peterson, Pearl Hamme, and Lila Rudd acted as hostesses. Ardis Aarhus played a piano solo, and Jean-Marie Fowler gave a reading.

Mr. Stuen Worries Over Fortune As Banks Remain Closed

"What do you think of the banks' closing?" was the question put to several members of the faculty and students recently. The answers were as varied as well—as test answers.

Our Professor of English, Mr. Hong, says, "The closing of the banks is a good thing because it will emphasize to the Congress the need of a thorough reorganization of the banking system. As soon as Congress makes a law to safeguard deposits, there will be plenty of money in circulation, and our depression will be over."

When the query was put to Prof. Stuen, he immediately assumed a serious air, saying, "I don't know what to think about it; I am afraid I shall never get the $500,000 I have in one of them." (Don't you dare believe a word of it, though, folks; Mr. Stuen was only spoofing.)

Our business-minded Lelf Klippen, when asked what he thought of the banks' closing, answered, "Judging from what's happening in other states, if something isn't done about it, all the banks in the country will close. I'm not enough of an economist to know what the results will be, but I know it will affect the depression some way.—You're not going to print that are you?" (Yes, Mr. Klippen, we are.)

Mr. Xavier: "It doesn't look good. I understand the banks of California have a moratorium; my prediction is that we shall have it here, too."

Shirley Hecht, when asked what she thought, responded in her usually vivacious manner, "I don't understand it very well; in fact, I know as much about it as I do about men." (How about writing us an article on men, Shirley?)

"Not a thing," was Irene Dahl's sweepng answer to the question.

Miss Fowler, fearful of committing herself, stated, "I don't know much about it, but my brother says it will be a good thing."

Attired in golf clothes, his feet on a desk, Professor Higby ventured the opinion, "It will make things even better than before. People won't play as much golf, because they will hang on to what little cash they have."

"My opinion," states field agent Nelson, "is that it's politics, and they are trying to see how it will affect the stock and bond markets after the Democrats get in."

What About Specialization?

Are the American students of today going in too strong for specialization in the courses of studies which they pursue to get a "complete" education? Emphatically "Yes!" How can anyone call his education "complete" when he graduates with a degree in science, but knows nothing of history, mathematics or economics? To know much of one's vocation is indeed profitable, but not so when this interest is pursued to the neglect of other subjects.

From the early days in junior high schools, children are allowed to choose the subjects which they wish to study. How can these mere youngsters know what is best for them? Yet, the directors of education allow this faulty system to continue, and later complain about too much specialization. Why aren't students forced to follow straight courses through the first three years of high school and then permitted to branch into appealing lines, with a limited number of credit hours in each subject required for college graduation?

In this modern age one must indeed know a great deal about a thing to get a job in it. But for everyone to go deeply into his own specialty, with no knowledge of the workings of the rest of the world would be fatal. Our best advice will be "Know a lot about one thing, and quite a bit about everything else, but don't specialize until you have a good foundation."

To Our Hoopmen and Their Coach

With the season over and with only 6 wins under their belts, the Gladiator hoopmen have completed their round of games for the year 1933. Taking into consideration the lack of material, the difficult schedule, and many injuries with which the team was confronted, we congratulate the boys on what they did for our school.

Also, here's a round of cheers to our coach, whose tireless work for the boys deserves the highest praise.

No matter how long the "lost" game list is, if the boys did their best and played the game squarely, there is a moral victory. The friendships and experiences of these games and trips will live forever in the hearts and minds of the players. These unseen but unforgotten incidents are those which will live on, and which will be remembered long after even the victorious scores are forgotten.

Death Takes Three P. L. C. Friends

Grief has entered into three families who were close friends of Pacific Lutheran College. May we again remember that all things work together for good for those who love the Lord, and remember only His kindness to us. May God comfort the bereaved ones!

Howard Vinje, son of Rev. Vinje of Everett, killed in accident.

HAVE YOU MET?

Can you guess the name of a little girl here at P. L. C. who always has a "Hi—Everybody" for all those who are included in her large circle of friends? This special young person (and we all think she is "special," too) has one of those personalities that whenever she's around you just can't be blue nor bored. A very brunette complexion is hers, and her friendly eyes have given her heart to many a lonely freshman, because she's everybody's friend. Besides being active in numerous clubs, dramatics, athletics, dormitory pranks take up a good deal of her time. She isn't a bit light either, because she freely distributes her breakfast food, among the dorm students (not in their mouths, you understand, but in their beds.) But whenever you want anything done right, just see—Guess Who?

"One of these dark and mysterious young men, golf on the brain and studying German on the side"—this can describe only one young gentleman in our student body. Being rather short, in stature, our hero makes up for it in wit and humor which he distributes freely. Though he is rather small, he can toss pianos around at will, as he demonstrates in the college choir, being a member of that select group. Second team basket-ball claimed a good deal of his time last year, and sometimes this season he has officiated at second team games as referee. Although he is rather "quiet," it is well worth one's time to get acquainted with him.

W.A.A. Puts on Pep Act At Last Game

"Clean up on Albany" was the official emblem. Printed on a large paper banner at the basketball game Tuesday evening as the Women's Athletic Association held its first pep project of the year. Donned in gingham dresses and armed with dustpans, buckets and brooms, the girls serpenined the floor of the gymnasium between halves of the game, leading the rest of the school in songs and yells.

At a W. A. A. meeting held last Tuesday afternoon, girls were elected to head the various sports as follows: Helen Collins, skating; Jean-Marie Fowler, swimming; Helen Garbell, golf; Jennie Lee, hiking; Dickie Leland, baseball; Kathleen Porath, archery, and Buster Roe, tennis. Alice Alvnes was named photographer, and Dorothy Peterson scrap book chairman.

Points in most sports must be made by taking either the first or second team in that sport. In hiking and skating points may be made by participating for a certain number of hours in that sport, and in swimming, by passing specified tests.

Membership is open to all girls earning 150 points.

Exchange of Programs. Puyallup with P. L. C. To Be Annual Affairs

On invitation from Harry P. Hanson, the high school principal, six Pacific Lutheran College students, accompanied by Prof. Philip E. Hauge, journeyed to Puyallup last Friday, where they presented a program before a joint assembly of the Junior and Senior high school groups. At the close of the program, Principal Hanson announced that this program exchange would be an annual affair between the two schools. In comment he stated, "This was a high calibre program which we have heard from real artists."

By introducing each participant of the program as regards his interests in student activities, Clarence Lemming, chairman of the group from P. L. C., brought out an interesting cross-cut of student life at the Parkland school, according to Prof. Hauge. Voal solos by Anna Mikkelsen and Bruce Thayer, saxophone selections by Mr. Hunter, a reading by Margaret Wesson, and a talk on "College Athletics" by "Swede" Willard comprised the program. In his speech, "Swede" pointed out the advantages to be gained in athletic lines through attendance at a smaller college. He spoke from experience, having attended both a large and a small college.

According to statements of Dean Hauge, similar programs are being arranged for preparations in high schools of this vicinity in the coming weeks.

'Alumni Reunion Successful,' Says Pres. Irene Dahl; More Than 200 Former Students Attend Banquet

Built on an optimistic slogan, the 1933 reunion of Pacific Lutheran College Alumni, came to a successful close Sunday, February 26. Many friends and former students returned to the school to celebrate this annual festivity, and as a result the reunion was one of the most cheerful reunions held, according to President Irene Dahl.

As an opening feature, the college Drama Club presented three one-act plays Friday night and the following Saturday afternoon the student basketball teams met Alumni quiliets in their annual struggle. Saturday night nearly two hundred attended the banquet given to honor the former students.

Irene Dahl, Alumni president, presided and Dr. O. A. Tingelstad spoke a few words of welcome, the college band and the "Kollege Knights" quartette furnished music. Representatives of the classes, Ludwig Larson '03, Olga Hong '13, Arnt Oyen '23, and Stanley

Score '33, brought greetings from their respective groups.

Paul Preus, as the main speaker of the evening, with the "Smilin' Through" slogan in mind, kept his listeners in a cheerful mood by his wit in presenting his work to be done for Pacific Lutheran College.

Sunday morning, Rev. Theodore Gulhaugan of South Bend, Wash., delivered the reunion sermon, and Sunday afternoon the second annual choir chairman was held. Eric Hauke, '32, was chairman. The choral group was composed of members from the college choir and former members of the choir.

The program consisted of numbers by the group and selections by the college choir. A violin solo by Lewis G. Hunter and selections by the newly organized P.L.C. band were features of this concert. Dr. O. A. Tingelstad spoke on the importance of the spiritual message as presented by the choir and summed up the spirit of the reunion.

Keeper of the Mast

At last! Twelve basketball boys are back in circulation again after their long term of training. We're glad that's over—no dates, no nothing, not even walks while basketball occupies so much of the time. Krutzen managed to keep pretty happy though, even in the face of this difficulty.

The midnight oil has been replenished for the staff now since our beloved editor (and we don't realize how beloved she is until she's gone!) has "flew the coop." Have a good time, Mary Lou; come back all pepped up, and don't let pappu forget about that choir trip.

Our practice teachers seem to be getting along pretty well this semester (we mean the ones that are teaching at the grade schools—not those that practice every day on us).

Clarence Lemming and "Swede" Willard have made a resolution—never to broadcast over a "mike" again, especially when they have to listen to their own voices. "Hear yourself as others hear you."

Spring has sprung. All the little frogs once again are happily hopping about—not in Clover Creek, but on our own campus. Did you see the Hudson-Smith-Jannsen-Pflueger game of leapfrog last Friday?

Virginia Mahnicke, Margaret Wesson, and Jean-Marie broke all rules and regulations by going swimming in Spanaway lake Sunday, and wading on the campus grounds Monday.

Mary Nash has returned to school after being out more than two weeks due to the illness and death of her father. We're glad to see you back, Mary.

Alums Beat Glads In Reunion Game

Performing a feat that has not been duplicated in the history of the school, the Alumni of Pacific Lutheran College defeated the Varsity quintet, 31 to 30, at the annual Alumni Reunion, February 25.

The Alumni, composed of ex-stars who have performed under the P.L.C. colors, presented a team that was hard to stop. The Lutherans battled hard throughout the game to maintain their record, but could not connect with the hoop. On the other hand, the Alumni cagers played hard, fast ball, working it down through the Varsity's sore defense and connecting with their shots. At half time, the former P.L.C. stars led by one point. From that point until the end of the third quarter, the college team took the lead and threatened to upset the Alumni; but the visitors came back in the fifth and upset such hopes.

John Fadness and Carl Martin turned in a good performance for the Varsity, while Bill Nyman, Sankey Johnson, and Rudy Sanderson, starred for the visitors.

The boys of the self-appointed committee wish to thank Mrs. Roe for the plate of sandwiches and the pot of coffee she sent over to them the night they worked on the stage.

Sumner Girls Turn Tide to Beat P.L.C.

Averaging a 34 to 25 defeat by the Sumner High School earlier in the season, the Pacific Lutheran College Co-ed basketballers turned the tide on their rivals, last Friday night by chalk-up a 26 to 17 win.

The Gladiator girls appeared to have the upper hand throughout the contest by forcing the Sumner sextette to play a defensive game. Eberhart, Sumner forward, who proved to be the nettes for the Lutherans in the previous game, was checked closely by the guards and failed to duplicate her performance.

The first half was a hotly contested struggle with both teams paying on even par. The Gladiators, although slow in getting started, kept the lead throughout this period and the half ended, 12 to 8, in their favor.

Coming back in the final period with intent to overcome the four point lead, the Sumner girls played much improved ball, but could not seem to cope with the Lutherans, who also stepped on the gas.

Alice A. Vnes, Lutheran forward, was high scorer of the evening with 18 counters, with "Dickie" Leland, the other Gladiator forward and Ness for Sumner coming next with 8 points.

Summary:

P.L.C.	Sumner
A vnes (18)	RF (7) Eberhart
Leland (8)	LF (8) Ness
Knutsen	C Blackadder
Monson	SC Munch
A. Roe	RG Lively
Collins	LG Davis

Substitutions: Sumner—Conant (2).

Well—we saw evidence in our last basket ball contest as to what support can do. Our boys just didn't feel like losing after that display of real school enthusiasm.

Let's hand it to the W.A.A. girls. They haven't been organized long, but when they were, what happened? Bang! they started the ball rolling. Dressed up like country maidens, (and rather poorly dressed ones, too) they marched to the gym to prove to those present that school spirit is not a thing of the past, but just dawning of a new era in which he W.A.A. will reign.

Of course, since this school is no different, complications set in. A few of the students who witnessed the affair, voiced their opinion that the display was a bit too immodest and silly for college girls to participate in. Permit me to gnash my teeth. If this organization had not broken the ice, judging from the spirit shown at the games, it would not have been long before it would have been considered silly to yell.

And there was Paul Preus, causing so much attention by his excessive yelling. And Dr. Tingelstad, forgetting his official duties because of his enthusiasm, and Dean Haugs nearly climbing out a window. It really was a good game.

With a strenuous and rather a disastrous season behind them, the Gladiator cagers can put aside their suits and look hopefully to the next season. Considering the conditions and the material on hand, our basketball team did not turn in such a bad season.

Out of eighteen games, (this is not counting the practice games), we chalked up six wins and twelve losses. Six of these twelve games we lost by such a close margin, that we could hardly hold it against our boys as a defeat at all.

Let's consider some of the teams we played. Take St. Martins College, College of Puget Sound, and Willamette University. Two of these teams are members of the Pacific Northwest Conference, while St. Martins has one of the best quintets ever turned out in the history of that school. Willamette won the championship of the Northwest conference, and C. P. S. did not end up at the bottom of the list by far. Columbia University, that also holds two victories over us, also won over some of the strongest teams in Oregon and Washington and they didn't outclass us, but only defeated us.

It was very fitting that we should win our last game, since it was the last hoop contest in which John Fadness, Stan Score, and Carl Martin will participate under the colors of Pacific Lutheran College. We only wish it were possible that they would be able to return next year.

Before the storm there is a calm and after the storm there is a calm, so let me rave.

Glads Close Season By Beating Albany

Jack Stars in Game Ending With 35-25 Score Over Team Defeating P.L.C. Boys on Oregon Trip

As a fitting close to the hoop season, Coach Cliff Olson's Pacific Lutheran College basketball team broke their long string of defeats Tuesday, February 28, with a triumph over Albany College, gaining revenge for the 35-26 win which the Pirates handed them at Albany.

The game started out with the Lutherans' taking the lead immediately after the opening whistle, when Jack, Gladiator forward, sank a basket by an easy shot from the sidelines. At this point the Pirates began to perk up and soon took the lead from the Gladiators. From then until the end of the first period, the Albany team held a small lead. At the half the score was 14 to 13 in favor of the invaders.

In the opening minutes of the second half, the Pirates again began to score and gained a 19 to 13 margin before the Lutherans could connect with the hoop. In the latter part of the third quarter the Gladiators began to click and soon began to lessen the lead of the Albany quintet.

In the last period the Gladiators exhibited their consistent last half rally and chalked up 12 counters while holding the invaders scoreless. The Lutherans stayed out in front from that point on.

Gene Jack collected 12 points for individual scoring honors, while "Red" Buchanan of Albany was second with nine.

Summary:

P. L. C.	Albany
Votaw (1)	RF (8) Woodring
Sanderson (1)	LF (3) Halton
Jack (12)	C (3) Knotts
Shuster	RG (9) Buchanan
Holmberg	LG (1) George

Substitutions: Pacific Lutheran—Score (4), Martin (4), Hudson (5), Fadness (5), Albany—Kropp, Pickman, Referee, A. Hopkins.

Lutheran Girls Down C. P. S. Sorority Co-eds

In their second game on the Parkland floor, February 28, a College of Puget Sound Sorority proved to be far less successful against the Lutheran girls' team than they were in the previous encounter, being completely submerged, 42 to 22.

The Gladiator girls took the upper hand from the opening whistle and held it throughout the contest. The invaders could not seem to stop the barrage of baskets that the Lutheran forwards were shooting, and fought stubbornly to keep their heads above the surface. At half time the score stood 26 to 14.

Co-eds Meet Undeafated Team in Last Game Friday

In their last game of the season, the Pacific Lutheran College co-eds will meet the girls of the Hoakins' Grill here at 7:30 Friday night. Much interest is being centered around the contest, not only because it is the girls' last game of the season, but because the opposing team from Tacoma has been undefeated so far this year according to Margaret Jacob, the coach.

P.L.C. Fems Win Over Midland Jr. High Team

For a breather, the Pacific Lutheran College girls' basketball team journeyed to Midland, Thursday, March 2, to defeat the Midland Junior High School, 25 to 17.

In this contest, the Lutheran girls encountered more competition than they expected. Both teams were held to a low score in the first period, ending at half time with a score of 11 to 8 in favor of the Gladiators.

The second period was featured by numerous fouls on both teams, which slowed up the game to a large extent. During this period, the Gladiators began to click, and through the efforts of "Dickie," the game ended with the Lutherans holding a 11 point lead.

Leland was high scorer of the game, with 19 counters, M. Curtis coming next with eight.

Last Saturday Nordis Arneson spent the night with Margaret Hillmo in Tacoma.

Girl Reunion Visitors Lose Game to Students
In the annual struggle for supremacy, the Pacific Lutheran College girls' team again conquered the Alumni group, 22 to 14, when the two met at the annual Alumni Reunion February 25.

The College team had difficulty to secure a lead over the Alumni in the first half, which ended 12 to 9, in favor of the college team; but they came back in the second period and ran up a lead sufficient to cinch the game.

The tilt was interesting throughout, with both teams battling for the lead. In the final quarter, the Alumni team appeared to tire and slackened their pace somewhat.
