REV. ROIKO TO SPEAK
AT TRINITY SUNDAY

Rev. Robert Roiko, missionary and former PLU basketballer, will speak at Trinity Lutheran Church at the 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. services Sunday, May 18.

He will also give the benediction at the dedication of the new Clifford O. Olson Physical Education Auditorium Building Monday, May 19, at 7 p.m.

Rev. Roiko has spent the last year in Greyland, Wash., on furlough from missionary work in Brazil. He has spent the past five years in the South American country, serving five congregations with membership of over 4,500.

A PLU graduate, Rev. Roiko was a member of the PLU basketball team that twice finished as high as third in the national NAIA tournament from 1957-59. He scored 573 points in three years and won the PLU Inspirational Trophy his senior year.

Concert...

Four guest soloists will be featured during the performance of Beethoven's "Mass in C Major, Opus 87" by the PLU University Chorale and Symphony Orchestra Sunday, May 18.

The performance of the work comprises the second half of the annual Chorale and Orchestra Spring Concert, which will be held in Trinity Lutheran Church at 8:15 p. m.

Guest soloists include Letitia Garner, soprano; Karen Mara, mezzo soprano; Wallace Englebrect, tenor; and William Sare, baritone.

Miss Garner is currently a student of Leon Lishner at the University of Washington and a soloist at University Methodist Temple in Seattle. She recently placed third in the San Francisco Opera Auditions, and next week will appear in the title role of Puccini's "Suor Angelica" with the University of Washington Festival Opera.

Mrs. Mara is completing her second year as a member of the PLU voice faculty. A former Lishner student, she has been active in both opera and oratorio as well as recitals.

Englebrect, director of choral music at Edmonds High School, has appeared as oratorio soloist with numerous groups throughout the midwest and the Puget Sound area. He was selected as tenor soloist with the Teachers Performance Institute Choir last summer at Oberlin College.

In his first year as director of the PLU Opera Workshop, Sare has performed with the Central City Opera in Colorado and with the Colorado Melodrama Theater. Last month he sang the title role in Gianni Schicchi at PLU, and two weeks ago he presented a faculty recital.

The Chorale, under the direction of David Urness, and the Orchestra, conducted by Stanley Petrusis, will also present Hassler's Missa Super "Dixit Maria" and Stravinsky's "Mass" during the first half of the program.

Student soloists featured during "Mass" are Joyce Johnson, soprano; Gretchen Kreamer, alto; and basses Daniel Howe and Richard Holmes.

The concert is complimentary to the public.

PLU Afro-American Day Begins

* * * * *

Afro-American Day at Pacific Lutheran University will bring black scholars, leaders and drama to the PLU campus Friday, May 16.

The conference is to confront the students, alumni and the community with the reality of the racial crisis, according to Paul Berg, chairman of the event.

Featured speakers are C. Eric Lincoln, professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York City; Melvin Drimmer, historian from Spellman College, Atlanta College, Atlanta, Ga.; William Hertfield, Lutheran pastor to an inner city mission in Oakland, Calif.; and Tom Dixon, executive director of the Tacoma Urban League.

The drama, "Two Shades of Black," will be presented by the cast regularly performing at the Cirque Playhouse in Seattle.

Lincoln, a sociology professor, taught at the University of Chicago before moving to Union. He is the author of three books on black culture, "Black Muslims in America", "Sounds of the Struggle" and "My Face is Black."

Lincoln and Hertfield, a black ministering to the black ghetto, is expected to present a unique approach to the race problem.

Auditorium Dedication This Sunday, Monday

A structure destined to be one of Tacoma's landmarks, the Clifford O. Olson Physical Education Auditorium-Building will be dedicated Monday, May 19.

Dr. Donn D. Moomaw, three-time All-American lineman at UCLA and now a Presbyterian minister, will be the featured speaker at the dedication program Monday at 7 p.m. in the new auditorium.

Dr. Moomaw, pastor of Bel Air Presbyterian Church in Los Angeles, is also a member of the board of directors of the nationwide Fellowship of Christian Athletes organization.

Three PLU Distinguished Service Awards will also be presented. Recipients are Marvel K. Harshman, former PLU coach and now head basketball coach at Washington State University; Roger Larson, associate professor of physical education at Washington State and a state leader in efforts to aid handicapped children; and Thomas Anderson, president of Concrete Technology in Tacoma, and leader of the successful civic campaign to raise funds for Olson Auditorium.

Dr. Robert Mortvedt, University President, will be master of ceremonies.

Also scheduled are an open house Sunday from 2-6 p.m. and a dedication concert, featuring the PLU Choir of the West, Saturday, May 31, at 8:15 p.m.

The concert performance, including the world premiere of a new choral composition by Dr. Jean Berger, "The Word of God," is under the direction of Maurice Skones. The Berger work also includes instrumentalists, vocal solos and speaking parts.

The composer will attend the concert and will receive an honorary doctor's degree from PLU during commencement exercises the following day.

The new building was named in honor of Clifford O. Olson in recognition of his achievements as teacher, coach and athletic director at PLU from 1929-48 as well as his accomplishments as a church, community, business and civic leader.

Naftalin Describes 'Oppressive Technology'

Protests and disturbances are not a passing thing. The reasons for them go deep to the heart of our society. They are a reaction to a deeply oppressive technology, according to Arthur Naftalin, mayor of Minneapolis.

Naftalin spoke at the Monday convocation this week as the second in a series of urban affairs lectures, sponsored by PLU and the S & H Foundation.

"This comes as a surprise to the people of my generation," he said.

"What we have today are a large number of people who feel deprived and depressed," he continued. "We have assumed we all shared the same values. We are now finding that we do not have a system of shared values. Instead, we have many communities and societies.

"In this time of great affluence and productivity we still have 20-30 million Americans in deep poverty," Naftalin asserted.

"We sometimes are led to believe that something is being done to close the gap," he continued. "The truth is almost nothing is happening. Congress is in almost total retreat. State and county governments are still indifferent.

"Local governments are immobilized by multiplicity. Federal programs are too shallow, preconceived, overlapping." He made the outlook appear pretty bleak.

The Urban Coalition is an effort to close the gap between groups of people: the suburbanite and the central city; between city hall and the ghetto.

"In Minneapolis our Urban Coalition stands alongside the existing government - as its conscience - also as a bridge to the larger community."

Naftalin added that this is the place for the militants to meet the leaders of a city, rather than channeling their efforts to the streets.

"We have three courses of action," he concluded. "We frustrate rising expectations with half measures. There can be a fierce reaction of law and order against disruptions. Or - we can develop a national policy that establishes priorities, on all fronts, priorities which we will not neglect.

"The measure of our capacity to survive as a free nation rests on our capacity to meet this challenge and make the solution work."

Naftalin, following his PLU lecture, spoke to business leaders at the Winthrop Hotel, followed by a four-station radio program in the evening to replace the scheduled McCarver School appearance.

Jim Flatness, a PLU senior from Tacoma, was named this week to the NWC All-Star baseball team.

Flatness has handled catching chores for the Lutes for the past four years. He is currently hitting .279 after staying over .300 during the first half of the season. His on base average, .398, is the best among Lute regulars.

Fieldhouse

Classrooms

Locker Rooms

The new $2.1 million athletic complex is located in lower campus just west of the swimming pool.

The central feature of the new building is the auditorium. It has been designed to be used for basketball games, the instructional program and social and recreational activities for the students. It is equipped with a full stage and acoustically engineered to be used for conventions, concerts, convocations and other public events.

It seats 3,500 people on chairs and fold-away bleachers. The floor is covered with one of the new synthetics, UNI-TURF, so many different uses will not effect the surface for varsity basketball games

The stage is of professional size and equipped with a retractable shell to insure the best projection of music and voice for public events.

Also included are seven classrooms, a gymnastics room, wrestling room, multi-purpose field house surfaced with Astro-Turf, three handball courts, one squash court, weight training room, offices for teachers, ticket office, reception and concession facilities, lockers, showers, sauna bath and storage facilities.

It effectively compliments the facilities now available in Memorial Gymnasium, the swimming pool, golf course, tennis courts and athletic fields.

Dr. Drimmer will give a historical approach to the current crisis during a 1 p.m. lecture session at Eastvold Auditorium, followed by an open seminar in Xavier Hall in which all the guest speakers will be taking part. The seminar begins at 3 p.m.

How to get more minority participation at PLU will be the focus of Dixon's presentation during a 5:15 p.m. dinner meeting in Chris Knutzen Fellowship Hall. The Urban League director will also speak at the May 13 convocation at PLU as a prelude to the Afro-American Day Conference.

"Two Shades of Black," scheduled for 8 p.m. in Eastvold Auditorium, utilizes humor, satire and wit to deliver its wallop, which is leveled at all forms of bigotry.

Lute Rowers, Runners Stop UPS

PLU ROWERS DEFEAT UPS TO WIN SIXTH STRAIGHT MEYER CUP

Pride, psychology and just plain hard work paid off on American Lake Sunday as PLU rowers won the Meyer Cup for the sixth straight year, defeating arch-rival University of Puget Sound by a full boat length.

The win, in eight minutes, 26.3 seconds over a two-mile course, gave the PLU crew a measure of satisfaction at the end of a somewhat discouraging season.

The victory was the first time this season that the Lutes defeated UPS and was also the first varsity victory of the season.

KNIGHT CINDERMEN DROP UPS, ST. MARTINS AGAIN; LOSE TO WESTERN WASHINGTON

Pacific Lutheran won 11 events Tuesday to defeat University of Puget Sound and St. Martins College for the second time as distance man Jerry Gugel and jumper Tom Holmes each won two events.

Gugel took the mile and two-mile events while Holmes was leading a Lute sweep in the high jump and also placed first in the triple jump.

Doug Jansen took the 220 in 23 seconds flat; Steve LeMonds won the 440 in 51.4 and Mark Woldseth won the 880 in 2:00.4.

In other events Phil Bement won the 120 high hurdles in 15.6, a new school mark; Randy Jorgenson won the shotput and Stan Pietras led a PLU sweep in the discuss event. PLU also won the mile relay in 3:25, less than two seconds off the PLU record.

The Lutes, who amassed 90 points in the triangular, lost to Western 88-57, but several individual times were better. Gugel again won the mile and two mile, threatening school marks in both events at 4:27.6 and 9:39.

Ted Homme broke the school pole vault mark for the second time this season with a 13-3 leap. Jansen again won the 220, Bement won the 120 high hurdles and Ron Hoff took the 440 intermediate hurdles.

Jorgenson and Pietras were winners in the shotput and discuss events.

KNIGHTS WIN FIRST DOUBLE HEADER OF SEASON OVER ST. MARTINS

A 13-run outburst keyed by shortstop Bill Ranta gave Pacific Lutheran its first double-header sweep of the year Saturday, but the week's total effort resulted in two wins and four losses.

The Lutes posted 9-3 and 4-0 wins over St. Martins to bring their season record to 6-19, five of the victories coming in the past two weeks.

Gordy Gunderson picked up his second win in the opener, firing six-hitter. A seven-run sixth inning broke loose what had been a tight 2-2 contest.

In the second game Doug Wenk pitched a four-hit shutout for his first win of the season.

In other games PLU dropped double headers to Lewis and Clark and Western Washington State. John Polzin absorbed his first loss of the season in the opener with the Pioneers, a 10-2 shellacking. Eric Steinman suffered a 6-3 loss in the nightcap as Ron Toff blasted a three-run homer for the Lutes.

Wenk was the victim of an 8-0 shutout in the WWSC opener. John McLaughlin was beaten 7-4 in the second game.

LUTE LINKSTERS DROP TO FOURTH IN NWC PORTLAND TOURNEY

Pacific Lutheran, winners of the Northwest Conference Tip-Off Tourney and the Northwest Small College Classic, slipped to fourth in the NWC Portland tourney last Monday.

Whitman won the championship with a 607 aggregate. Willamette fired a 631, Pacific a 640 and PLU had 645. College of Idaho, Linfield and Lewis and Clark trailed.

Jay Robinson finished second in the race for medalist.
