Lecture series celebrates educators

John Stanford, Seattle Schools' superintendent, presents the first of five lectures by community leaders on "The Power of Difference: Challenges, People and Schools" at 5:15 pm on Feb. 10 in the CK. The lecture series is sponsored by the School of Education, and was created to provide celebration of and recognition and tribute to African-American educators, both present and future, and the community at large in celebration of Black History Month. The series continues through the week with Carolyn Vaughn Young, executive director of Public Schools Personnel Cooperative, at 4:30 pm on Feb. 11; Tim Sullivan, Auburn High School administrator, at 4:30 pm on Feb. 12; Bernardean Broadous, prosecuting attorney for Thurston County and county leader in juvenile justice, speaking at 4 pm on Feb. 13; and William Ponder, registrar at Pierce College, speaking at 4 pm on Feb. 14, all in the Regency Room. The lectures are free.

Banquet continues the celebration

After listening to the presentation by John Stanford on Feb. 10 at 5:15 pm, join other members of the PLU community for the Black History Month Banquet, which begins at 6:30 pm in the SCC. Tickets for the banquet are $15. For banquet reservations, call 7195.

Woodcarver depicts Black history

Jim Smith has been carving wood for almost all of his life, since he made his first wooden replica of a Colt .45 pistol at age 8. His works -- some of which were specially carved for the event -- will be presented in an art exhibit from 3-8:30 pm on Feb. 6 in the CK. Smith will also give an on-site demonstration during a 6:30-8:30 pm reception. Many of Smith's ideas come from family and Black events, he said. "I do art from history." The reception is free.

Language center puts profs on home page

You already knew that the new Language Resource Center is home to computers, CD ROMs, laser disc players and a knowledgeable staff to help language students sort out their imperfect and preterit tenses. Did you also know that the center has its own web page, which includes the names of professors -- outside the language that froze the campus in late December have arrived. The storm caused $130,000 in damage, said Holly Godard, grounds supervisor. The price includes overtime pay for employees who spent four days of their Christmas breaks cleaning the grounds, as well as the cost of two different outside crews to help grind stumps and remove damaged trees. Nearly 30 trees fell because of the ice, and many more were completely deformed or ruined, although no buildings sustained damage, Godard said. Firewood from the storm cleanup is available for $30 for a large truckload and $20 for a small truckload. Call Plant Services, 7380, for information.

Time to update business cards

As the April date to change the local area code from 206 to 253 advances, University Printing requests your help in reprinting university materials with the new numbers. On this month's docket are business cards. Please send samples of all the cards from your office or department, with a print request form, to University Printing by mid-February. Cards will be printed in initial batches of 250 to ensure that all employees have a supply. Also, look for the annual stationery order form in the first part of March.

Student payroll forms relocate

The Student Services Center is the new home of applications for several student forms. These include student payroll, hourly time records, stipend forms, change forms, I-9 forms and W-4 forms. Send a note to Admin. 102A or call 7161 to obtain any of them. You can also call Mike Quatsoe, 7463, with any questions

Donate a meal to science

K-12 students from across the state will grow crystals and plants and make mouse trap-powered cars, drinking straw towers, toothpick bridges and wind-powered lifting devices at the 26th annual Washington Science Teachers Association Science and Engineering Contest on Feb. 15 in Olson Auditorium and Rieke Science Center. Over 100 MESA students from the Tacoma/Pierce County area will participate. After burning all that creative energy, these

Fastelavnfest means spring has come

The 15th annual Danish Fastelavnfest will usher in spring on Feb. 15 at 2 pm in the SCC. Put on your costume, enjoy fastelavnsboller (hot cross buns) and hot chocolate and help smash a barrel full of surprises. The event is $3 for adults, $1 for students and free for children under 12. Call Susan Young, 7349, for more information.

Learn the art of rosemaling

Norwegian rosemaling classes for beginning and intermediate students are held in the SCC this spring. The next three sessions are Feb. 11, Feb. 15 and March 11, all from 9 am-3 pm in the SCC. Classes are $25, with a $10 non-refundable deposit due five days before class, and each session is limited to eight students. Call Dean Iverson, 839-7712 for more information and registration.

Staff and faculty group offers prayers

Are there times when you wish the PLU community was keeping you or someone you care about in their prayers? There is a prayer group at PLU to do just that. Staff and faculty who want to leave a message for the prayer group can call Opal Huston at 7126. Campus Ministries is also grateful when they receive news of staff or faculty members who are ill or have other family concerns. If you contact the prayer group, please mention if you would like Campus Ministries to receive your message, too. You can also just phone Campus Ministries directly at 7464. If you would like to be part of the prayer group and pray for others, ask Opal to add you to the voice mail group. Prayer group members are asked to keep all information strictly confidential.

A support group for non-traditional students

If you're part of the 25 percent of PLU's student body that is 25 years old or older, kids will be hungry. If you are a student that could donate a meal to help fuel them with a lunch, please call Lorraine MacKenzie at 8879.

After-school mentor program receives grant

The Center for Public Service received a $4,885 grant from the Greater Pierce County Community Network for its successful After School Enrichment Mentoring Program. The program provides student mentors for at-risk children in grades 1-3 at James Sales Elementary School, and now will be able to expand its work into grades 4 and 5. The mentors and children meet twice a week for after-school group activities, working to establish trust through sharing, and building self-esteem and positive goal-setting.

Church Relations hosts theological symposium

PLU is one of four stops on the Northwest Theological Symposium lecture tour, hosted here by Church Relations. The symposium, called "Individual Rights and Corporate Responsibility: the National Debate from a Biblical and Theological Perspective," will be held from 6 to 9:30 pm on Feb. 4 in the SCC. The event features two short lectures. Terry Fretheim of Luther Seminary will discuss "The Rich and the Poor: the Prophets, Politics and the Year 2000," and Gary Pence will speak on "Parents and Politics: the Cradle of Civic Life." Call 7423 for information and registration.

Face the music and dance!

Faculty, staff and students are welcome to audition for Dance Land, the annual spring dance performance. No experience is necessary -- all are invited. Auditions take place from 4-6 pm on Feb. 6 and from 3-6 pm on Feb. 7 in the East Campus gym. For more information, call Maureen McGill Seal, 7359.

If you have questions, contact Marty Mogk, ASPLU non-traditional student senator, at 863-5392 or e-mail to biophiliac@aol.com.

Bones and Daddies: local bands in Cave

If you're in the mood for local bands this week, check out "Dry Bones" at 9 pm on Feb. 5 in the Cave and "Who's Your Daddy?" and "Cherry Poppin' Daddies" at 10:30 pm on Feb. 8 in Xavier. Both events are free.

Blue-collar masculinity

Theresa Deussen (Sociology) will present "Family Strategy and Constructions of Masculinity among Low Wage Service Workers" on Feb. 14 from 2:30-3:30 pm in Xavier 114. The lecture is part of the "Perspectives in the Social Sciences" lecture series. Refreshments served.

Lutheran tradition of higher ed

Faculty and administrative staff are invited to the next discussion of "PLU 2000: What's in a Middle Name?" Phil Nordquist (History) will explore the nature of a church-related university in "Historical and Theological Roots of Lutherans and the Liberal Arts: What is the Lutheran Tradition of Higher Education?" a table talk from 3:30-5 pm on Feb. 20. The discussion is part of Church Relations' follow-up to one of the initiatives from PLU 2000. Refreshments provided.

Food, community and the environment

From pesticide use to poverty to urban agriculture, "Sustainability and the New World Order: Food, Community and the Environment in the Americas" will examine issues surrounding food, particularly its production. The afternoon conference will take place on Feb. 21 from 12:30-6:30 pm in the SCC, and includes three speakers, a screening of the film "The Corumbiara Massacre," and a panel

Orient yourself in the library

In a large and information-packed building like the library, it's easy to overlook some of the most helpful features. Library orientation tours will point you to the important services and resources the library has to offer. Meet at the lobby at the following times for a 30-45 minute tour -- no reservations are required. Tours start at 3 pm and 4 pm on Feb. 4, 7 pm on Feb. 6, noon on Feb. 10, and 11 am on Feb. 12.

Language classes from the SCC

Is a trip to Norway in your future, or would you like to converse more with a Swedish neighbor? It's not too late to register for conversational language classes in the Scandinavian Cultural Center. Classes in Norwegian and Swedish are $84 for 12 weeks of lessons. Beginning and intermediate Swedish meets Mondays from 7-9 pm in UC 214, beginning Feb. 3. Call 7586 for information and registration. An informational meeting for beginning and intermediate Norwegian will be at 7 pm on Feb. 12 in the SCC. Call 884-2628 for information and registration.

presentation on "Urban Agriculture, Organic Gardening and Food Security in the '90s." The conference is partially funded by a host of PLU departments, as well as by the US Department of Education as part of the Americas Semester at PLU. The conference is free.
