Worth Noting

 [Table of Contents ]

School today? Check the hotline

A new telephone hotline has been set up to carry information regarding the status of PLU's hours of operation. You can dial 535-7100 for information on possible closure or cancellation of classes due to either weather or crisis. Save the number for future reference. In addition, if the normal operating hours of the university are changed, every effort will be made to send a campus-wide voice mail message. In the event of weather-related changes, the university will contact the campus media as well as local TV stations -- KIRO, KOMO, KSTW and KING -- and radio stations -- KPLU, KIRO, KOMO, KNWX and KHHO.

Food, community and the environment

From pesticide use to poverty to urban agriculture, "Sustainability and the New World Order: Food, Community and the Environment in the Americas" will examine issues surrounding food, particularly its production. The afternoon conference will take place from 12:30-6:30 pm on Feb. 21 in the SCC, and includes three speakers, a screening of the film "The Corumbiara Massacre," and a panel presentation on "Urban Agriculture, Organic Gardening and Food Security in the '90s," which includes Rachel Nugent (Economics). The conference is partially funded by a host of PLU departments and the US Department of Education as part of the Americas Semester. The conference is free. For more information, call Debbie Pereira at 7577.

Lutheran tradition of higher ed

Come hear Phil Nordquist (History), chair of the faculty, discuss "Undressing PLU: What is the Tradition of Lutheran Higher Education?" at an afternoon "Table Talk" over refreshments from 3:30-5 pm on Feb. 20. Nordquist will answer the question, "How and why do university and Lutheran fit together?" The event is hosted by the Church Relations Advisory Task Force and is open to faculty house members and guests. For more information, call 7423.

Lab safety class gets grant

Sheri Tonn (Chemistry) was awarded a $25,899 grant to conduct "Doing Labs Safely," a workshop for teachers. The class is funded under the Eisenhower Professional Development Program through the superintendent of public instruction, and will be held during the summer workshop week. Local emergency response workers and representatives from state agencies such as the Department of Ecology will give presentations, and field trips will show class participants the inside world of hazardous waste management companies and industries, particularly how they prepare, handle and dispose of chemicals.

Diverse entries accepted in diversity competition

Essays, poetry, short stories, film, performance art, music compositions, web pages...whatever form you can use to express what it means for PLU to be a diverse community is a potential entry for the Diversity Prize Competition. The student competition is sponsored by the Faculty-Staff Diversity Committee, and awards a $500 scholarship, a $200 scholarship and two $50 gift certificates to the Bookstore and PLU Northwest. The committee encourages participation from all disciplines and a variety of approaches to the topic, such as critical recollections on encountering differences at PLU or in the world at large, the psycho-social challenges of encountering those perceived as different from oneself, or how particular disciplines consider difference. For specific guidelines on entry submission, contact Denis Arnold, 8107. The contest deadline is noon on March 10.

Health Fair promotes wellness

Be sure not to miss the Health Fair, held from 10 am-3:30 pm on Feb. 27 in the UC. Campus and community organizations will be available to answer questions and provide information related to nutrition, birth control, depression, dermatology, cancer, AIDS, STDs, dentistry and much more. Take advantage of free testing for diabetes, blood pressure, hearing, fitness and vision. Call 7337 for more information.

Aerobics offered for fitness

Remember those New Year's resolutions to live a more active lifestyle? Faculty and staff aerobic fitness classes are available during spring semester. To register for the 11:30 am-12:30 pm class on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays or the 5-6 pm class on Tuesdays and Thursdays, please call Tony Evans, 7638.

Northwest guitarist performs

Jazz and funk acoustical guitarist Michael Powers will give a PLU performance at 8 pm on Feb. 26 in Lagerquist Concert Hall. Powers is a well-known musician in the

Seminary reps visit PLU

Representatives from six Lutheran seminaries are available for questions and conversation from 9 am-5 pm on Feb. 27 in the Scandinavian Cultural Center. Luther, Trinity, Pacific Lutheran, LSTC (Chicago), Gettysburg and Wartburg seminaries will all be represented. Call Campus Ministry, 7464, if you want to make an appointment to see one or more of the representatives, or to sign up for a free informal lunch and open forum from 11:30 am-1 pm in the SCC.

Ground yourself in databases

If you can't tell your CD-ROM database from the Internet or don't know how to access those journal indexes from home, be sure to attend one of the database workshops held by the library. The sessions teach the basics of database searching and include time for hands-on searching. Workshops take place 6-8 pm on Feb. 25 and 7-8:30 pm on March 5. Both are held in the Library Instruction Center in the library basement, and the March 5 class also includes demonstrations of some databases used most heavily at PLU. Call 7507 to sign up.

To make a bronze sculpture

A fish chasing a frog through a pond, Jesus with his arms outstretched, a cowboy rustlin' a calf -- 50 bronze sculptures by Howard Dale, retired medical doctor, are on display in the Scandinavian Cultural Center. Dale will discuss the complicated process of his sculpting, from the making of a mold to the bronze casting, at a luncheon at noon on Feb. 26 in the center. The luncheon is $10, and reservations are required by Feb. 21 with Susan Young, 7349. Public hours for the center are 1-4 pm on Sundays and 11 am-3 pm on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Admission is free.

Endangered Children in America

"History Through Tears: Endangered Children in Modern American History" will be presented by Leroy Ashby, history professor at Washington State University,

Northwest, and has even performed an opening for the Seattle Sonics. Admission is $2 for PLU students and $4 for all others. Music students receive attendance credit.

Plans for Women's Center presented

Judy Mladineo (Women's Center) will present plans for the Women's Center and a preview of Women's History Month (March) at 12:30 pm on Feb. 19 in the Faculty House lower lounge. Faculty House members and guests are invited.

Bible study for doubters

Have questions about your faith? The Doubter's Bible Study begins at 5:30 pm on Feb. 19 and runs every Wednesday in spring semester. The hour-long class will meet in UC 214 and will be lead by Nancy Connor, campus pastor. Regular Campus Ministry Bible study will resume its Wednesday night schedule at 8 pm on Feb. 19 in UC 214. The study is led by Connor and Dennis Sepper.

at the next Walter C. Schnackenberg Memorial Lecture. Ashby is an expert in the history of child welfare, and has written a book on the dependency, neglect and abuses of children in modern America. The lecture will begin at 7:30 pm on March 3 in the Scandinavian Cultural Center. Admission is free.
