Saga Distributed Monday; Annual Is Well-Received

Signifies "The Dream" Realized With Dedication To The Pioneers of Forty Years Ago; Unique Covers

New and different in the line of P. L. C. annuals is the 1935 yearbook which made its appearance Monday in the College corridors. Beautifully covered in rich green and brown suede, lined with a soft harmonizing yellow, the books are simply and artistically decorated with Luther's Coat of Arms.

The Saga, whose theme this year is the Fortieth Anniversary of the founding of Pacific Lutheran College, is most appropriately dedicated to the great men of vision who established this institution in 1894.

Differing from former Sagas in the manner of type and cuts, the yearbook displays the Traflet Script on all title pages and headlines, while panels depicting the campus and school activities are done in the novel Flush cut and tinted a delicate green. These excellent photographic panels have brought to the attention of the students enchanting beauty spots on our campus hitherto unnoticed. "Features" has caught clever glimpses of the social life and school events, and the students and faculty as they really are. The kicking post is not to be forgotten, standing straight and tall on the title page—a friend to all romancers.

For the labor and effort in production this splendid annual which signifies "The Dream Realized" gratitude is due to Thelma Daniels, editor, and her efficient staff.

On the editorial staff are Helen Holtcamp and James Gilliam; associate editors, Evelyn Ecklund, Evelyn Syverson, Evelyn Archbold, and Bertum Myhre; activities, Rachel Flint, Ellen Bergstrom, Ida Merz, and Harry Grilbohm; class editors, Eldon Anderson and Judith Benson; athletics, Valborg Norby and Gerhard Pfleger; school life, Arnold Anderson; Roberts, Dorlson; artists, Louise Jackson, personals, Elaine Benson, Elizabeth Fris, typists, Professor N. J. Hong, adviser.

Roland Swanson, business manager had as his staff, William Pfleger, circulation manager; Alda Johnson; Irene Odell and Ione Madson, circulation solicitors; Clifford Mesford advertising manager; Jean Armour, Erling Larson and Vern Knutzen, advertising solicitors; Frithjof Tayet, accountant; and Mr. Ludvig Larson, adviser.

Unsung Hero Gets Deserving Credit

The leads of operettas and plays are flashed out in headlines, the cast is written in italics, but seldom is seen the names of those who make the performance possible. We are thinking now of one individual who, for the last two years, has had full charge of the stage managing for all occasions.

Being interested in electrical work, he has made it a hobby to meddle around, rewiring the gym, installing new flood lights, furnishing new reflectors, remodeling the property rooms, and connecting base plugs—all such things which add in every way to the performances put on by various groups.

Late into the evening, and far into the morning, he is heard hammering and tinkering, getting ready for dress rehearsal. When the time comes, the lights are all set to go on. He pulls curtains and turns the down into daylight—morning into evening. Coherent to us is his virtue. His reward is small, but our appreciation is great. We salute RAY REID!

Foss Committee Is Organizing Church Support For P. L. C.

Contacting Every Church in District to Aid in Finances; Elvestrom Reports to Students

Our field agent, Mr. Victor Elvestrom, in his chapel address last Monday, reported on the work of the Foss committee for the support of this school. The purposes of this committee are:

1. To organize Pacific Lutheran College territory in such a way that circuits, congregations, organizations, and individuals may stand shoulder to shoulder supporting P. L. C. and to aid in a practical way by providing necessary funds that the cost of yearly operation may be balanced in cash.

2. To provide funds either through gifts or through borrowing for the payment of outstanding obligations. The borrowed is to be paid back over a period of the ten years.

The members of the committee are: Rev. H. L. Foss, president of Pacific district, Rev. Theodore Hokenstad, financial secretary of the Pacific district, Rev. S. J. Yivisaker, financial secretary of the North Puget Sound circuit, Rev. T. O. Svare, financial secretary of the South Puget Sound circuit, Mr. Ludvig Larson, college business manager, and Mr. Victor Elvestrom, college field man. All the congregations in the Washington and Oregon circuits have been contacted and have accepted their allocations. Mrs. A. H. O. Erickson, president of the Pacific District Women's Missionary Federations, has presented the cause of P. L. C. to her organization at the district and circuit meetings in Washington, Oregon, and California. The W. M. P. is striving to give annual appreciations and to increase the membership of the Development Association from the present nearly 10,000 to 15,000. Luther Leagues are asked to sponsor each year a special program to bring this cause before all Lutherans, especially the young people.

Rev. Foss does not confine himself to the coast but finds response in the East, also. President Skindlov of the Rocky Mountain district is lending his active support. Rev. Hokenstad has approached the Lutheran Brotherhoods also.

Orben Sime to Present Concert Friday, June 7

The Trinity Luther League announces a concert to be given next Friday evening, June 7, in the church auditorium, featuring Orben Sime, who will present Theremin and Pitchfork cello selections.

At its last meeting, on May 19, William Pfleger and Walter Young gave reports on the recent Luther League convention. The rest of the program consisted of a farewell talk to the graduates by Rev. Svare, a piano selection by Dorothy Anderson, a vocal solo by Osten Eliassen, Paul Armstrong led in singing and Irene Odell by games played around the bonfire.

Costumes, Singing Thrill Audience at Colorful Operetta

Pauline Watts, Bob Svare Star in Leads; Oriental Setting Created by Japanese Costumes

Presenting a beautiful display of Japanese pageantry amid a colorful Oriental setting the Drama Club completed the current season, with the presentation of the operetta "Miss Cherryblossom," last Friday evening to an enthusiastic audience. The production was directed by Mr. Keith Reid, Drama Club adviser.

The beautiful soprano voice of Pauline Watts as "Miss Cherryblossom" blended with that of Bob Svare as Jack to thrill the audience with their love songs. Additional romance was furnished by Mildred Monson as Jessica, and Emmet Thompson as Harry. Eldon Anderson played the part of Kikemo, the comedian lead. Osten Eliassen gave an excellent portrayal of the role of the high and noble politician, Togo. The girls in the American chorus wore white and black sport outfits in the first act and formal in the last two acts, while the American boys wore white trousers, dark coats, and straw hats. The Geisha girls in colorful Japanese costumes added a native touch to the production. Both choruses supported the cast with singing and clever dancing.

Special credit for the success of this operetta is due to Shoin Hasegawa who furnished the Japanese costumes and stage setting necessary for the presentation. Thanks are also due to Mrs. Yozozugy, Mrs. Kusumoto, Mrs. Dr. Kurata, and Mr. O. Takemoto who aided the members of the cast in getting into the complicated Japanese costumes.

Ray Reid, George Knutson, and Henry Olson were in charge of the stage setting and lighting.

During intermission of the second and third acts, Arnold Anderson, president of the Drama Club, presented Mr. Reid with a brief case in appreciation for his untiring efforts in working with the cast. Mrs. Dapper, Mrs. Taylor, and Ellen Bergstrom who assisted the director, were presented with corsages.

Helen Holtcamp To Edit Mooring Mast Next School Year

Frithjof Tayet Appointed Business Manager; Faculty Approves Choices

At a meeting of the Associated Students Board of Control Monday, Helen Holtcamp was elected to the position of editor-in-chief of the Mooring Mast for the coming school year. For the post of business manager, the Board chose Frithjof Tayet. This action was approved by the faculty, and these students will assume their duties in the fall.

Miss Holtcamp is a freshman in the normal department, and has been active during the past year on the staffs of both of our student publications. In the fall semester she was associate editor of the Mooring Mast and in the spring semester she was co-associate editor of the Saga. She is a graduate of the Sedro Woolley High School and during her senior year she served as editor of the school paper, "The Cub."

Mr. Tayet, the new business head, is a sophomore in the normal department. He has received a great deal of training in the commercial field, having taken two and a half years of accounting and several other commercial courses. Serving as accountant on the Saga staff this year, he gained practical experience in handling the finances of college publications.

As there is no class in journalism at Pacific Lutheran College, the Mooring Mast is put out by the students themselves, with the responsibility lying upon the department heads. Those who are chosen for the editorial staff receive either one or two credit hours for their work.

Oh, How We Hate to Leave! Graduates Express Their Feelings

Forty graduating classes of P. L. C. have preceded the present one. They each have been a group of the highest type of men and women, as is the case with the graduating class of 1935. Its members are just as enthusiastic, as active and as traditional as any other class. They are in full accordance with the rapid growth and progress of P. L. C. They are fit representatives of our educational institution.

A few of the graduates have been interviewed as to their feelings toward school, and toward leaving. It seems to be a unanimous feeling regarding leaving—all dread saying their last goodbye to their school days. Behr are quotes from some of the seniors:

Eldon Anderson: "I consider P. L. C. as a capable institution of learning. It has a most efficient faculty, who put across to the students what they desire to learn. One not only obtains general education, but spiritual education as well."

Dille Quale: "I have enjoyed the family-like atmosphere of the students, and their lasting friendship. Realizing school days are over, I begin to realize that now it means shifting for myself. I will miss the choir a great deal."

Carl Collum: "I have enjoyed my 'brief' stay at P. L. C."

Mary Nash: "Oh, I don't want to leave. I shall miss the influence of the Christian atmosphere that predominates here."

Sydney Glasco: "Three times should be enough for one to graduate from any school."

Thelma Daniels: "I certainly hate to leave it."

Arnold Anderson: "I have enjoyed these years at P. L. C. I hope I can enjoy myself as much everywhere else."

Portia Miller: "I get a lump in my throat whenever I think of leaving."

Sena Johnson: "I think the reason I hate to leave is because I like school. I hold great memories of school here."

Alda Johnson: "I like it. There is something about P. L. C. that makes me want to come back, tho' I don't know what it is."

Graduates Have Heavy Obligations To Meet

*"Come to the North, the East, the South,
Each to the battle of life goes forth,
But all alone they must fight it out,
But not in the sunshine, not in the rain,
Nor in the night of the stars untold
Shall we ever all meet again,
Or be as we were in the days of old,
As she ships that pass and more cheerily go
Exchanging their tidings upon the sea;
So I am richer for those I know,
Nor are they poorer, I trust, by me."*

To their new positions, to their homes, to higher schools of learning they scatter, and we wish them success wherever they go. They carry with them, we trust, pleasant memories of the fine times at P. L. C. and we know we shall always remember the good times we had with them. They have been to us the embodiment of all that the school stands for, and we hope that we can carry on as well as they have done.

Well, here's to you, Seniors. You have set us an example to strive after, and we will never forget you. Wherever you go, and whatever you do in the future, never forget your school, and the ideals that have always been hers. To you, teachers, goes the responsibility of the younger generation, may you influence them for the good in everything that you do. On you, businessmen, scholars, and home-builders lies the duty of showing the type of school you attended, and the kind of ideals you follow.

May you fulfill your mission successfully; may you succeed in all that you undertake.
—Mary Machle

We Hope We Have Been A Success

As we put its last issue to "bed," the Mooring Mast completes its eleventh year as the official organ of the Associated Students of Pacific Lutheran College. To represent the students and faculty in the manner befitting such a publication has been our endeavor during the past year. And as the paper is the representative of a Christian institution, we have tried to observe and present the ideals and beliefs which such a position imply.

If we are to use student opinion as a barometer, we feel that we have accomplished our aim and that our past year's work may be termed a success. Do not get the impression, however, that we have received no criticism. On the contrary, we have received a great deal, for which we are truly grateful. It has been very constructive and we believe has helped us to improve the paper. We have always welcomed it as an indication of the interest that our fellow students have taken in our work.

Additional criticism, which proved invaluable was obtained through the All-American Critical Service from the Press Conference of the Lutheran Students Union held this spring. For the third consecutive year the Mooring Mast received First Class Honor Rating from the N. S. P. A. The suggestions which we received from the Press Conference resulted in the changes in typography which we made, beginning with the issue of March the thirteenth.

To Bert Myhre, business manager, and his staff a few words of appreciation are due. Without their shouldering the financial responsibilities of publication, our journal would have been necessary. Economic conditions have made the problem of securing advertising a sizable one, adding considerably to the work of this staff. Especially commendable is the fact that they do it all without receiving any remuneration.

In conclusion, we experience a little regret when we contemplate that this is the last issue under our supervision. We have taken a personal interest in this paper during the past two years, and it has become, as it were, a part of us. We have found this work the most interesting and instructive in our life to date, and wish to thank our fellow students for the honor and opportunity they bestowed upon us by permitting us to edit the Mooring Mast this past school year. We wish to express our thanks to the staffs of both semesters for their conscientious work and hope that, through this activity, they have received knowledge which will be of future value to them. We think, also, all those who have furnished us news for their invaluable cooperation.

CALENDAR OF HA HA'S—

Remember a few months back when Emmett Thompson ate seven pieces of cake at one sitting? . . . And a few weeks ago when Herb and Helen didn't know each other existed? . . . hat ha! Now look! . . . It was in September of last year that HAPPY-Ness got the nickname tacked on to her, and she's been having a grouchy ever since . . . Last October was when EVERETT Lipps finally convinced the dormers that he really wasn't a professor, but just walked that way to keep his hair from falling down over his face . . . In November leaves were drying up and Bucky and Irene were just blossoming in a lovely twosome . . . Ha! ha! Now look! . . . The big event for December was ARNES FUSION with DAHLE . . . If Arnie Anderson had had his way, he would never have made January the hectic month that he did . . . During the first week of school, when every-body liked each other because of their looks, Krull, Hauke, Grady, Holtcamp, Arne and Hagerup paired off, went to town, bought a gallon of gas and pittered all the way home, like the dopes.

PERSONALITIES PLUS—

The year's all around ladies' man is Osten, who has rated seven and routed seven . . . We vote for Hazel as the most popular girl (won by a low look) . . . For the best all around boy, we cast our ballot for Johnny (around 25) . . . We would say that Toby was the year's best goldigger (take your pick out of that mountain) . . . Odell is found to have been the biggest puzzle of the co-ed dormers (solution most difficult) . . . Pansy Collier was the little blue dishes for being the only student who could trail into class late without causing a flow of verbal lava from his excellency up front.

More than one student, at this time, dreams of being on the honor roll, and then wakes up and finds he is only on the bed . . . We are afraid of Vern getting by in his His of Civ, because of falling down on his outside reading. His excuse is that it's been a little too cold to read outside . . . OVERHEARD in the hall: "After all, fools make life amusing. When all the fools are dead I won't want to be alive" . . . Now, we know why Ralph seldom shaves. He bought a tube of shaving cream that read: "No mug required" . . . A dorm girl was overheard swearing upon her honor that no man had ever kissed her (that's enough to make any girl swear) . . . We can't go away without telling about Al Rogen's headlong dash in to the tily pond. He couldn't even stop for a tennis ball.

HAIL AND FAREWELL!
To Carl, Sidney, Lyell and Ole, for who school held no terrors. They came as students, left as students—no hits, no runs, no errors . . . A good way to save transportation expense for those who were lauded highly in the "Have You Met" column, is to sprout wings and fly home . . . Cliff and Ronnie are going to ship-out this summer. Lucky they're both Norwegians, and won't have to use the square port holes to see the world . . . Al Moe is going to do some light reading this summer for a change. He has a job reading light meters . . . All in all, everything is left in good shape, with the exception of the professors and the Mooring Mast treasury . . . What will Nezy (Mr. Nezy to you) do this summer without his pack of reporters giving him sugar-coated candy? . . . or Umpha Swanson without his Omega?

A WORD TO THE WISE—

This year, the students were more afraid of psychology than they were of Prof. Haug . . . Last year it was Prof. Edwards, now it's Prof. Stuen who looks more bored than the rest of the staff . . . It is said that Prof. Ramstad lost his temper but once this term, and that was when his collar button rolled under the bureau . . . We suggest that Prof. Reid rest up after the opera. Go fishing, buy a car, or use the carriage nature has given you . . . Even though we lost miserably, Prof. Hong gained weight this school year (got a milk, or what?) . . . Prof. Bardon. Your year is a success; a student has begun to think, but he just can't make up his mind what to tell Sena when he leaves . . . Miss Reneau and Mrs. Kreidler. The studies like to be nice to them, because it is returned in full measure . . . If he kills me, I'll spend the summer finding out what a prof meant when he told me, to-wit: I din spalte er du en skraeve kjert, men ensom i et rum er du en snill gut. (Chacun a son got, senior!)

The Short Normalite
With a Sweet Smile

"Dat Beeg Strong Fella"

That great big football player? He's played football for three years and he's also participated in the various track meets at school. Tacoma is his home town and he's a graduate of the Lincoln High School. Although he is known as the "Dorm Pest" because of the many phone calls he receives during the day, he is a well liked fellow. It has been suggested to him that he move into the telephone booth, as he seems to be the only one who uses it, but he doesn't think he gets too many calls. The first semester of his college life he acted as business manager of the Mooring Mast. The second semester dropping out, resuming his work the following year. He's a graduate from the Liberal Arts Class. His friends are many—be one and meet him.

The girl with the sweetest smile. She is a normal graduate and is already a teacher for next year. Her eyes tell us of her sincerity and good sportsmanship. Basketball, baseball, volleyball, and golf are her favorite sports and she participates in all of them at school. Among her various club activities, we see her an active member of D. R. G., having served as treasurer of the club, also a member of the L. D. R. In her sophomore year, she was elected vice president of her class. Her stature is short, and she is of a medium complexion, blue eyes, and brown hair. Her poise and personality is outstanding and is a swell friend to have. Let's get acquainted before she graduates.

PREXY'S CORNER

Let us dream beautiful dreams about our graduates of 1935 these days! And let us wish and work that the beautiful dreams may come true!

I sat down to dream such a dream, and the number three—sacred symbol—wove itself into my dream. Three times ten and three years more my memory drifted back, past my last graduation at Pacific Lutheran Academy in 1902, to my first contact with College Seniors (yes, the capitals are important), three times three times three of them, the twenty-seven members of the Class of 1903, the largest in Lutheran College history up to that time. It was a beautiful, inspiring class, graduating in the Jubilee year, of the Synod organized fifty years before, in 1853. Always at the thought of this class there is "glory shed around"; so also now in my dream.

Out of our three groups at P. L. C.—high school, liberal arts, and normal—comes our beautiful Class of 1935, our largest ever, three times three times the third power of two in number, to climax our fortieth anniversary year. These seventy-two young people come out of the largest P. L. C. student body yet, given us in a year when we most needed their inspiration. And again, in my dream, there is "glory shed around".

God Himself is a Trinity in Unity. He has so revealed Himself in His Word and in His Word. And we are assured by Him, that "now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity." May the unbroken presence of these three Christian graces in the hearts of the members of the Class of 1935 be their abiding glory and the God-given source of blessings, without number!

Former P. L. C. Girls To Be June Brides

Miss Helen Collins, 33 of La Grande, Washington, and Mr. Rolfe E. Anderson of Portland Oregon will be married Sunday, June 9. The nuptials will take place at four o'clock in the Methodist Episcopal Church in Eatonville, Washington. At present Miss Collins is teaching in Bordeaux, Washington. Following their honeymoon they plan to live in Portland, where Mr. Anderson is working.

On June 12, Miss Hulda Simonson, 34, of Astoria, Oregon and Mr. Fred Jessen of Tacoma will be wed at the home of the bride, Miss Simonson is teaching at Greendale, Washington this year. Following the ceremony they intend to live in the residence of Mr. Jessen in Tacoma.

Chapel Gleanings

Contrary to the expectations of physicians the average length of life has increased during the depression. These years have brought many blessings.

Tingelstad

The "world" has made serious inroads into the organizations of the church. But the purest churches grew up in the cesspools of crime and vice. What is required is a Spirit-filled church.

The line of demarcation has been once more drawn between true Christianity and the unregenerate world.

Athletic Program For School Year Termed Successful

One of Most Extensive in P. L. C. History; Football and Basketball Records Most Impressive

Pacific Lutheran College is completing not only one of its most extensive sports calendars, but also probably the most successful in the history of the College.

Starting the season off with a bang, the grid team hung up an enviable record, winning five games and dropping only two; and those two of the strongest outfits in the Northwest. In the seven games played the Gladiators pipped up 115 points to their opponents 48.

Basketball followed "King Football" on the sports stage and held sway for four months. P. L. C. continued her success in the hoop sport winning 17 games and losing 5 games, and, incidentally, winning the State J. C. Hoop Championship. Proof that the Glads were the class of the conference was shown by the fact that they did not lose a conference game.

Both these sports were ably coached by Cliff Olson who in turning out these two winning teams also has built for the future. Prospects for winning teams in football and basketball are exceedingly bright at this time with a bevy of lettermen returning next year.

Many have noticed that Pacific Lutheran has been playing in faster company year by year and her athletic standing has risen accordingly. Coach Olson has lined up several strong contests for next fall including games with Ellensburg, Bellingham, British Columbia, Linfield and tentative games with Oregon Normal at Monmouth, Portland U. formerly Columbia, and Albany College. Due to unsettled athletic conditions at St. Martins no game has been scheduled, but if they decide to have a team, P. L. C. will undoubtedly play them.

A full athletic schedule was carried including golf, tennis, and track. The tennis team comprised of Myhre,

In the final match of the season on May 24, the P. L. C. golfers handed the University of Washington, Freshman a 7 1/2 to 4 1/2 hacking on the Parkland course in the last half of a home-and-home series. The Seattleites carried off the first half at Seattle by a 9 to 6 count.

Harry McCormick led scoring at Parkland with a sparkling 68. At Seattle Lloyd Thompson took medal honors with a snappy 77 on the tough University course.

Due to examinations only four members of the Frosh Squad travelled to Parkland to meet P. L. C. for the first time on the Glad's home course.

As the end of the school year approaches Pacific Lutheran College can look back on one of the most successful athletic seasons in years and is looking forward next fall with good reason for a still brighter season.

Frosh Give Picnic For Senior Class

As its annual entertainment for the graduates the Freshman class sponsored an outing at Lake Spanaway yesterday afternoon and evening.

The students gathered at the picnic grounds and the first feature of the afternoon was two baseball games, one between the Freshman and Senior boys and the other between the girls of the two classes. Games, swimming, and boating rounded out the afternoon's entertainment after which a picnic lunch was served. In the evening a beach fire and informal program, after which refreshments were served, concluded the day's activities.

Vern Knutsen had charge of the entertainment features of the day, and Margaret Rorem headed the eats committee.

Alice Nolan and Marvin Hansen are described in Have You Met.

Lutheran Tennis Team Swamps Grays Harbor

In their second meeting of the year, May 24, the P. L. C. netmen swamped Grays Harbor J. C. on the Lincoln Park courts.

With all four men playing an improved brand of tennis, the Gladiators had little difficulty in turning back the Harborites in all four matches.

The tennis squad concluded its schedule Wednesday, meeting the St. Martin Rangers at Lacey.

Enid Hutson Elected New W. A. A. Head

Joanna Manoussos, Judith Benson Other Officers Chosen: 32 Girls to Receive Letters

As a result of the election held this week, Enid Hutson will be the president of the W. A. A. next year. Joanna Manoussos was chosen for the vice-presidency, and Judith Benson was elected secretary.

This afternoon at 2:40 the W. A. A. Field Day will take place, during which the final track events will take place as well as baseball and volleyball games which will be played between the day and dorm girls. The track events include hurdles, ball throwing, high-jumps, hop-skip and jump and relays.

Letters are to be awarded by the W. A. A. to thirty two girls who have earned five hundred points for their participation in the athletic program.

Those receiving letters are: Judith Benson, Edna Tolbason, Thelma Ness, Hazel Hagerup, Eleanor Hauke, Helen Holmstrom, Enid Hutson, Marie Johnson, Gertrude Stenberg, Edna Kelsey, Valborg Norby, Bergill Vogan, Lila Rudd, Jane Williams, Louise Jackson, Rhoda Hokenstad, Ida Thompson, Irene Odell, Thelma Daniels, Norma Preus, Melba Penney, Fredricka Schlanbusch, Virginia Davis, Elizabeth Stuen, Helen Lilla, Louise Williams, Mary Nash, Bernice Haug, Alice Barnum, Ruth Froyen, Neva Olson, Louise Hendricksen.

With Glasso, Burgoyne, and Manoussos graduating, the tennis team will be the hardest hit by graduation. Burgoyne has been a consistent winner in his two years of tennis for P. L. C. while Glasso and Manoussos played on the squad for the first time this year. Although these men will be sadly missed, Bert Myhre and Hal Johansen will be back next year to form the nucleus of the 1936 tennis squad.

The golf squad wound up its schedule by taking the strong U of W Frosh, here last week. This is the first year the two schools have met in golf, and a step up for the Gladiator golfers.

Speaking of golf, Lloyd Thompson has played consistently better than any of his team mates on strange courses. And Harry McCormick was the first golfer to equal par in a P. L. C. golf match when he shot a 68 last Friday.

Solie's Nightowls Win Playoff; Take Kitten Ball Honors

Second Half Champs Take Three Out of Five Games in Series With Hayseeds

Taking a double header from the Hayseeds, Solie's Nightowls walked away with the playoff for the Intramural Softball League Championship.

The Nightowls thumped the Hayseeds 20 to 5 in the first game to tie the count at two games when the Hayseeds blew sky high after leading in the opening innings.

The final contest was a ding dong battle with the Nightowls coming from behind to score five runs in the sixth inning to clinch the pennant.

The Night Owls jumped into an early lead by winning the first contest by the score of 14-8. However, the lead was short lived when the Parkland outfit came back strong and took both ends of Monday's double header. The scores were seven to three and nine to five.

Play was characterized by heavy clotting on the part of both teams. Great improvement was shown over the early season games and it is believed that the sport has been firmly established as a spring sport of P. L. C.'s gladland.

Glad Divorcees Take Aberdeen J. C.'s, 10-5

On May 9 five men of the P. L. C. golf squad travelled to Aberdeen to hand Grays Harbor J. C. a 10 to 5 lacing.

Play in all the matches was close, with Ward of Aberdeen carrying off medal honors with a 75. Thompson led the Gladiators with a nice 78.

This was the second half of a home-and-home series. The Lutherans took the first, 14 to 4, at Parkland.

Seniors Score Big Success in Annual Class Production

English Accent Mastered by Excellent Cast; Portrayal of Character Parts Adds

Acclaimed as a distinct dramatic triumph, the Senior class play, "Tilly of Bloomsbury," depicting two types of English life, was presented on May 17th to a large audience in the College gymnasium. The difficult cockney English accent was mastered successfully by the cast and proved an outstanding feature of the production.

Thelma Daniels as Tilly was charming in the feminine lead, and equally well suited for his part was Roland Swanson as Richard. Harry Gribbohm as Mr. Stribbottle was particularly outstanding for his character part and was responsible for much of the humor in the play. Rhoda Hokenstad and Lila Rudd playing the roles of the mothers in the two English families portrayed their parts well, while Rachel Flint as Grandma Banks and Bert Myhr as Rev. Adrian Rylands, contributed to the comedy of the play. Other members of the cast were Lloyd Roti, Milton Nesvig, Jane Williams, Evelyn Irwin, Arnold Anderson, Louise Jackson, William Pflueger, John Van Leuven and Eldon Anderson.

The setting of the presentation was in two different English homes, one of the aristocratic type, and the other a common one. The contrast between the two families was marked, and the difficulties in the romance of Tilly and Richard were thrilling, though at times pathetic.

The director of this delightful play was Mrs. Ardy E. Edwards. To show their appreciation for her work, Roland Swanson on behalf of the cast presented her with a golf club. Mary Nash, assistant to the director, received a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

High School Notes

by Melba Fenney

Since this is the last issue of the Mooring Mast, we shall, as a review, endeavor to touch lightly on a few of the high points of the year.

Sept. 25, 1934—High school organized. The officers chosen to lead the student body were: Verner Bitter, president; Norma Preus, vice-president; Frederica Schlanbusch, secretary-treasurer; and Orlando Asper, sergeant-at-arms.

Oct. 4, 1934—Senior class organized. Officers chosen were: Harry Gribbohm, president; Norma Preus, vice-president; Elizabeth Dahl, secretary; and Melba Fenney, treasurer.

Dec. 20, 1934—High school senior class gives chapel program, using a Christmas theme.

Feb. 16, 1935—High school graduating class has dinner party.

March 9, 1935—High School party, also acclaimed a great success.

May 11, 1935—Graduating class party. The adviser, Mr. Keith Reid, gave this party at his home for the high school graduating class.

May 15, 1935—High school sneak. Is it possible that any one who went on this sneak will ever forget it? H. S. N.

Do You Know?

Although he was born in China, he is not Chinese. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall, has brown hair and blue eyes. On the baseball team he has the distinction of being one of the pitchers, and he also plays a good game of tennis. He holds the office of sergeant-at-arms in the high school class of which he is a senior. Chemistry seems to be his hobby, as he is a star pupil in his class. Chemistry, however, is not the only subject that he excels in, as he has the reputation of being an A student in practically all the classes he undertakes. Although he graduates this June, you will have an opportunity to meet him if you have not already done so, because he will be back with us again next year.

H. S. N.

This year the High School has gained great distinction, having accomplished more than has been done since 1921. The athletic progress has been very noticeable with the boys and girls basketball teams being great successes the girls tying with second year normal for first place. A great cooperative spirit has prevailed throughout the year.

Paul Preus Meets Varied Conditions

Encounters Much Interest in National Affairs; Much Unrest Among Labor

Mr. Paul A. Preus, field agent for Pacific Lutheran College returned from the east Saturday evening, May 25.

Having travelled through most of the mid-western and eastern states he finds that conditions are varied with genuine improvement in some sections and only temporary betterment produced by government aid in others.

There are labor disturbance in all industrial centers, due to uncertainty because of the administration and the fluctuating value of currency.

Much discussed is the possibility of a third party in the coming election. There is great excitement about the Soldiers Bonus Bill and the President's veto of it. The conservatives are very well pleased by the veto while Progressives and soldiers are extremely critical.

Prospects for crops this year are especially good, except in the dust storm area. Plenty of moisture, even in sections which have been dried out for a number of years, promises good crops to most of the northern mid-western states.

L. D. R. Entertains Wives of Faculty

Bringing its activities for the school year to a close, the L. D. R. met in the Recreation Room Thursday afternoon. The faculty wives were guest of honor at this meeting.

The program opened with a welcome greeting by Rhoda Hokenstad, L. D. R. president. Mrs. O. A. Tingelstad responded on behalf of the guests of honor. Other numbers on the program were a piano solo by Eleanor Asper, a talk by Valborg Norby, a piano solo by Theina Daniels, and a reading by Ellen Bergstrom.

In the business session Margaret Rorem was elected president for next year and Mrs. J. U. Xavier for next year as club adviser.

Goff Elected To Head French Club Next Year

At its final meeting of the school year, the French Club held election Monday, May 26, for officers to serve during the fall term of 1935. Eula Mae Goff was chosen president, Ione Madden, vice president, and Romola Rust, secretary-treasurer.

Activities this semester have been varied and successful under the direction of Ellen Bergstrom, president. Romola Rust, vice-president; Eula Mae Goff, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. E. Bondy, who is club adviser.

Throughout the year the "Circle Francese" has sponsored candy sales on alternate Fridays, the proceeds of which enable the club to bring guest speakers to their meetings, and to present the college with a shrub for the rock garden.

Mr. Pflueger expressed himself as being well pleased with the debate season this year. Sgt. Anderson Gives Plea For Army Men

Soldiers Should Have Christian Contacts; Mission Work Lacking

Reverend George W. Anderson, a sergeant working in the medical department of the army and accompanying the military maneuvers now stationed at Fort Lewis, presented an earnest plea to our students and faculty in behalf of army mission work, in his chapel address on May 20.

Seeing the increased army enlistments, Sgt. Anderson feels very keenly the need for Christian contacts. Although there are many good men in the army, the average soldier deserves his bad reputation. The type of life is very degenerating to personality and the new recruits are almost the only men who can be contacted by the Church.

The army chaplaincy is not a satisfactory religious office. There is one chaplain to 1200 soldiers. Not all are doing their duty. Besides, the men prefer church contacts. But they find that their uniforms put a bar against them. The Church should make this an advantage by showing that it does welcome these men.

"I have tried to put over this point to many groups and have failed," concluded Rev. Anderson. "I am sure some of you here have caught the meaning of it and will act accordingly."

Rev. Anderson is acquainted with many of the faculty and students. He and his people are also supporters of our school.

Twelve Normalites Have Teaching Posts To Date
