

PLC Band Presents Home Concert This Sunday After Nine-Day Tour

Homecoming concert of the PLC Concert Band, under the direction of Prof. Gordon O. Gilbertson, will be presented on the CMS stage this Sunday, March 23, at 4:00 p.m. The band returned to the college last Sunday from a nine-day tour, during which 14 performances were given in Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

The program for the 1958 Concert Season includes marches, modern works and semi-classical and classical selections. It is divided into three groups:

The first section begins with Mozart's overture, "The Impresario," from the comic opera. Next is a Bach choral prelude, "Sleepers Awake"; the brass section is featured in the chorale melody. Dave Knutson, clarinet soloist, will perform with the band, "Adagio and Tarantella," by Cavallini-Walm. This group closes with Rimski-Korsakov's well-known Polonaise from the opera, "Christmas Night."

Ballet music will be featured in the second section. First is the Berceuse and Finale from an early work of Igor Stravinsky, "The Firebird." This will be followed by themes from "Petrouchka," also by Stravinsky; xylophone solos are played by Shirley Hagen. Last in this section is the ballet music from Borodin's opera, "Prince Igor," divided into four contrasting parts.

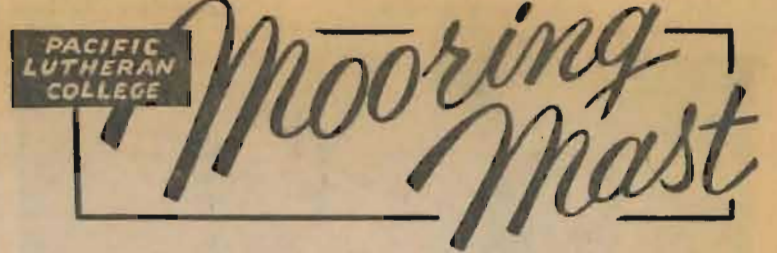

The third section of the concert is in a lighter vein. The band will play a medley of tunes from the score of "My Fair Lady," by Frederick Loewe, in an arrangement by Robert Russell Bennett. Jerry Bayne is trumpet soloist in Morton Gould's "Pavanne," which is followed by "Bolero," from the symphonic suite, "Verdiana," as arranged by Camarata. Final number on the program is "Deep Purple," by Peter de Rose.

Popular marches and novelty numbers will be included as encores and optional selections.

PLC's concert band is recognized as one of the finest college bands in the Northwest. Students who have heard the group only at athletic events are urged to attend the concert to see the variety of tonal color possible in a concert situation.

The concert is free to students and to the public. A free-will offering will be taken to help defray the expenses of the 1958 concert tour.

Over 4,000 See 'Beanstalk' Play

Record breaking crowds filled the CMS auditorium last week for the six performances of "Jack and the Beanstalk." The Children's Theatre production played to a total of over 4,000 adults and children.

Viewing the first performance of the show was an audience entirely of adults and students, a crowd comparatively few in number, but who had only compliments for the show. The Saturday morning show, sponsored by the Methodist Women's Guild, filled the house including the balcony with predominantly pre-school children.

For the other performances children of the Tacoma area were transported by bus during school time to see this semester's Children's Theatre play.

The cast and crew of the show attended a dinner given in their honor Friday night. The menu, to fit the theme of the play, was mostly English. The crew presented the director of the Theatre, Mr. Eric Nordholm, with a silver and glass stein engraved with his initials and a beanstalk.

GIVING ITS HOME CONCERT this Sunday at 4:00 p.m. in the C-M-S is the 1958 Pacific Lutheran College Concert Band, under the direction of Prof. Gordon O. Gilbertson.

Call Goes Out for Workers on Float As PLC Daffodil Parade Work Begins

With construction on the PLC daffodil float getting under way tomorrow, those in charge of the parade entry are asking for workers to help build and decorate the float.

This Monday at 8:00 p.m., in L-104, a meeting will be held to organize help for the float work. Anyone interested in any type of work is urged to attend the meeting, as many workers will be needed.

Jay Tronsdale, head chairman of the float, emphasized that everyone can come down to lower campus to help, and especially the night of April 11 to aid in putting on the flowers. Work will continue almost every night until the week of April 7 when the job will be continuous every night.

Three themes are now under consideration by Jim Stewart, art chairman, and one of the art workers, Alice Jensen. These are "Thumbelina," "Ugly Duckling," and "Mother Goose." The title and plans will be definite by next Tuesday.

In five years of competition PLC has won four first places and one second award in the school division. This year's Daffodil Parade will begin from downtown Tacoma at 11:00 a.m. on April 12.

Boat Show Models Chosen from PLC

Mary Lee Skrivanich, PLC freshman, will reign as queen of the 1958 Tacoma Boat Show from March 28 to 30 along with her two PLC princesses, Barbara Jensen and Linda Efinger, and four other models from the college: Janet Haley, Linda Myhre, JoAnn Hanson and Delores Larson.

Chosen by men of the Poggie Club, a Tacoma Businessmen's Club which is sponsoring the Boat Show, to be held in the Tacoma Armory, the girls will be models during the two days. The royalty will appear and speak on television and radio.

Also as queen, Mary Lee will receive a fishing trip at Westport, Washington, and a visit to this year's Seattle Sea Fair.

The queen was chosen by a vote from the businessmen after the candidates had given two-minute speeches before the gathering.

Sophs to Screen 'All That Heaven Allows'

"All That Heaven Allows" will be shown in CB-200 tomorrow night at 7:00 p.m. by the sophomore class.

Admission price will be 45 cents single and 75 cents for couples.

Festival Queen Vote Scheduled

Queen of the May Festival will be chosen from the senior girls in general elections to be held next Wednesday and Thursday, March 26 and 27.

From the list of girls, excluding those dancing in the Festival, the three with the highest number of votes will be taken from the Wednesday ballot and placed on a final ballot the following day. From those three will be chosen the queen, with the other two being her senior attendants.

Other classes are choosing their two attendants for the event in class elections. The May Festival will be held May 1 in the PLC Memorial gymnasium. An admission price of 25c is expected to be charged to help defray expenses.

PLC students, under direction of Miss R. Young, will present the event.

Olsons Fly to Wedding Of Son in Connecticut

Rev. Roy E. Olson, PLC Director of Public Relations, and wife flew to Washington, D. C., yesterday for a visit with their son David and to attend his wedding in Connecticut on March 29.

Rev. Olson will perform the ceremony.

Mr. David Olson, a PLC graduate of 1952, now in business for himself managing the Services Unlimited Corporation in Washington, D. C., is marrying Miss Elizabeth Drummond, a dental technician in Greenwich, Connecticut.

We on the Mooring Mast staff wish all our readers a happy vacation, and to the students, happy tests!

Fleming Sez:

By BOB

I just invented a new game. It's throwing chewing gum out into the street and seeing how many Volkswagons I can catch. May market it. . . . Last week they were going to make me a judge at a flower show but they changed their minds. Said I didn't smell too good. . . . IS IT TRUE THAT the name of the Mooring Mast is to be changed to "Herb Dempsey on Everything"?

I am starting a drive this week and here's what you do—Simply slide ten cents (one dime) under the door of the Mooring Mast office each week. This isn't much and won't hurt anyone. It's equivalent to just one cup of coffee per week! The money will go directly to the fund to build the swimming pool. In my back yard. And I'd like to cordially invite you next summer if you're in the neighborhood to drop in.

IS IT TRUE THAT part of the money from the development fund is to be spent removing the boards that obstruct our view from the windows in the coffee shop? Wishful thinking again. . . . And now a word about my two very dear enemies, Don Cornell and Don Douglas. I made some erroneous reports in previous issues regarding their middle names—now here's the true story. Actually Don Douglas's middle name is Ting-a-ling, cuz when he was born his mother was expecting the telephone; and Don Cornell's middle initial is "Q," cuz when he was born his mother looked at his father and said, and I quote: "Let's call it quits." unquote. . . . Sorry, fellas, guess I'm just a hangnail on the fickle finger of fate.

. . . Well, that's it for this week and always remember, NEVER marry a girl who looks sensible because a sensible girl has more sense than to look sensible.

Report Given On ELC Confab

"Living God's Will," was the theme of the 41st annual ELC Student Conference held at Augustana College, Sioux Falls, South Dakota, March 7-9.

The events of the conference were attended by Beverly Swanson of PLC. Oscar A. Anderson, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Moorhead, Minn., gave the keynote address, "God Shows His Will."

According to the Augustana Mirror, solemnity fell on the conference when news arrived of the death of Jeanette Olson, Diana Paul and Miriam Stoa, PLC girls, in an accident enroute to the conference.

"The death of these three girls made a tremendous impact on the students at the conference, and it was through an experience like this that the students realized the importance of their lives in relationship to the will of God," stated Carl Guthals, conference chairman.

Letters . . . to the Editor

To the Editor:

For about a month now the student body here at PLC has been tossed about from one side to the other on the issue of student support of the Development Fund. Shall we have solicitation, or shall it be assessment? What about Christian liberty? And on and on . . .

Now instead of going around and around for another month and splitting the student body any more than it is, let us just take a look at what is involved. Through its Development Fund, PLC is taking a great step forward. Thinking selfishly, the donations that interested people are making to the development of our college will increase the value of our diplomas and lend prestige to PLC alumni. How can we, who are so intimately concerned, stand back and say, "We want no part of this fund?"

Most of us at times have had our differences with the Student Council, the student body, and the administration. However, to any conscientious student, his loyalty and debt to the school as a whole should far outweigh any differences with any factions on the campus.

Therefore, let's unite as a whole and forgetting catch phrases and unpronounceable "rationales," face the real issue: shall we as a student body exercise our responsibility to our school with the only feasible program, assessment, or shall we put ourselves again into the old position of being told that we do not know what is best for ourselves? Let's support this program now.

Your Vote Will Count

Vote Next Tuesday

With speedy, well handled procedure it was decided unanimously at Tuesday's student body business meeting to hold a general election on the swimming pool assessment proposal; the election will be next Tuesday, March 24, in the CUB.

As was stipulated in the motion, the resolution will have to pass by a two-thirds majority in order to go into effect. Therefore, I urge you all to vote; and also to vote in favor of the measure.

After thinking over the assessment proposal very conscientiously, even many of those who formerly were against the plan have come to be in favor of it. If you were at Tuesday's chapel meeting you probably felt as I did that the great majority, if not everyone present, was in favor of the proposal to be voted upon next Tuesday.

Before you vote, think the matter over carefully. Be fully informed: find out what the proposal actually is; read Mr. Peterson's comment on the kiosk which he gave in student body chapel upon request in answer to many questions; if you are not in favor of the proposal, talk over the question with someone who is.

I feel that here is our opportunity as a student body to act positively, unselfishly and generously in accomplishing a very worthwhile, definite task for which results can and will be guaranteed. Let's not drop the ball! — Dave Crowner, editor.

Recollections from Backstage

by Solveig Leraas

Our chapel a garden? Never! Yet last week a beanstalk grew up in the center of the stage. Four thousand twenty-eight people watched this unorthodox procedure, and no one raised a finger—except the stage crew, which was vigorously pulling on sandbags.

Probably you weren't among those who believed this was a real vegetable-type beanstalk. Even some youngsters would have been disillusioned to have seen it closely—for instance, the three-year-old who told her mother she was going to take her teapot along to the "Beanstalk play" so she could pick jellybeans. Frihol had blue beans and red beans and yellow-striped beans, but no jellybeans.

A Few Sidelights

Luckily, perhaps, and for the protection of the cast and crew, all isn't known that goes on behind, in front of, and to each side of the beanstalk. A very few sidelights, I'm sure, won't bring libel suits against me, I hope.

One of our favorite prop girls is Susie Lannen, who made the request on Mothers' Weekend, "I know none of you like me, but my mother is here this weekend, so will you please all pretend like you do, anyway?"

Pitching Practice

During the first rehearsals the giant (Jason Graham) took careful aim and bounced eggs merrily off his poor little wife (Jeri Dubail). When the eggs were changed from wads of paper to something much harder, however, this had to stop.

Poor Old Tyb . . . whenever Widow Bess threw Jack's magic beans over the wall, they hit Tyb in the head. And Rafe Heywood (Dan Triolo) even twisted his tongue one day and called himself Rafe Heyfever. And all this happened while Mr. Nordholm used a coffee can for an ashtray because it holds more.

The audiences were filled with all sorts of children. Some sat quietly, some didn't—like the one who kept shouting, "Stingy!" at Rafe Heywood. One little fellow, during the giant's chasing Jack with a club, ran down the aisle to the rescue and jumped into the orchestra pit.

Charlie Brown's pal Linus was there, too, and sat in the aisle with his blanket, contentedly sucking his thumb.

Rafe Heywood and the giant were the favorite (?) characters. At least they received the most applause—when they fell off the beanstalk.

After one performance a group of Bluebirds came backstage. When asked if they'd like to shake hands with the giant they stood still and their eyes grew bigger and rounder, but none of them would touch him. One comment, "He must be seven feet tall!"

Well, how about it? Does your imagination measure up to theirs?

Ivy Hall was second in team success with a total of 392 good shots. Third Floor Old Main with 382, DeJardines 368, and Fourth Floor Old Main 313, rounded out the first five teams placing.

Coach MARK SALZMAN expects to enter three men in the Washington State College indoor track meet tomorrow. All-American javelin thrower JOHN FROMM heads the list of entries with freshman discus thrower KEITH CREELY and freshman half-miler BOB LEE also listed for entry.

The fieldhouse at Washington State is 200 feet long and last year it was necessary to open the doors on both ends so Fromm could compete. Fromm successfull threw the spear through the doors for a 215-foot toss! He bettered this mark throughout the season and came through with a tremendous 248-foot heave at Austin, Texas, in June and was ultimately named to the All-American track team. It will be interesting to see how far out of the building Fromm can throw the javelin next week.

LETTERMEN REQUESTED TO OBTAIN DUCATS

All Lute felt winners are urged to pick up their tickets in the Public Relations office not later than APRIL 1, for the All-School Athletic Banquet which is scheduled for Thursday, April 10. All lettermen will again be the guests of the student body at this banquet. Don't put it off, fellows, it's free.

By Bernie Brotman

The Prairie Dogs ended the intramural season with a 12-5 win-loss record which was good for a fourth place. They had a win streak of ten games going as the season closed.

John Mitchell headed the scoring column of the Ivy "A" dorm team with a total of 286 points this year. Little "Mitch" played in 16 of his team's games and averaged about 18 points per game.

Tennessee State made a repeat performance as NAIA champs as they downed Western Illinois 85-73. Georgetown, which beat the Lutes, ended the tourney in fourth place. The Kentuckians were beaten 109-121 by Texas Southern.

Glad Hoopsters Receive Honors

Three Gladiators made the Evergreen All-Conference first "six" while two more placed on the second five and honorable mention lists.

Jim Van Beck, Roger Iverson, and Chuck headed the list of PLC hoopsters who received honors. The trio was selected to the all-star six of the conference. Don Moseid of CPS, Bill Coordes of Central, and Al Koetje of Western rounded out the overloaded first team. A tie in votes for Moseid and Koetje constituted the dual selection for the fifth position on the quintet.

Tom Sahli was given recognition for his fine work on the Evergreen champion team being selected on the second team. Big Tom topped selections for the second five.

Bob Roiko placed high among the conference hoopsters given honorable mention for their contributions to their respective teams.

Curtis also was given honorable mention on the All-Coast basketball summary.

Memorable Time: Band Trip

by Dick Fisher

I wonder if everyone knows the purpose of a band trip? Like a choir trip, the principle purpose is to spread good will, and, of course, advertise for the college. Altogether there were about 50 of us good will (?) ambassadors, including chief ambassadors Milt Nesvig and Mr. Gilbertson.

What stands out in my memories very vividly is the actual trip on the buses; there were two buses, each carrying about 24 band members. I think everyone should make it his goal to go on a trip similar to ours, for you cannot imagine the boring, exciting, fun-filled hours we had traveling together until you've been on such a journey.

We were all one big family, and if you come from a large family you can appreciate the riot we had. And just feature spending all that time with Mr. Gilbertson and Mr. Nesvig.

One of the morale builders for the band was Gilbertson's words for the day. Everyone looked forward to them. The theme for the week was the "feeding of the 5000." Among the words were, "make it last," "pass it around," and "Grace alone."

We played several afternoon concerts for schools and always had an evening concert. Wednesday we even played for a lenten service. After each concert we were assigned to individual homes to spend the night, where refreshments were always served, and we usually talked until very late.

Highlighting moments of the tour for me, and most everyone, were the devotions before every concert. Chaplain for these occasions was Dave Knutson, who read a portion of scripture and led in prayer. This always helped us to realize we were not just playing music, but were giving a testimony to the college and to God.

We were all sorry to see the trip come to an end, but were all glad to come back to the college grind again.

What is the relationship between Lutheran Brotherhood and the Lutheran Church?

At a Lutheran Church convention, 40 years ago, in St. Paul, a prominent layman stood up to persuade the group that Lutherans should work together to help each other in time of trouble.

To make his point, he used a simple illustration: "Suppose two brothers made an agreement," he said. "Each promised that if the other died, he would provide for the widow and her children. That would be, in effect, an insurance contract."

A few days later the organization now called Lutheran Brotherhood was incorporated by church leaders. Its purposes were "to aid the Lutheran Church; to foster justice, charity and benevolence; to provide education . . . to encourage industry, savings, thrift . . . to furnish relief and protection to its members, their dependents and beneficiaries, through the payment of benefits in case of death or disability."

While its primary purpose is to give protection to members of the Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Brotherhood also helps build churches by loaning money . . . helps train church leaders by providing scholarships . . . helps churches grow by giving money and supplies.

The Lutheran Brotherhood serves members of all Lutheran Churches with "Living Benefits."
