GOVERNOR DUE—Governor William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania will be interviewed by ten panelists when he arrives with Washington's Governor Dan Evans, Jan. 19.

Governor Scranton To Appear; YR's Sponsor Panel Discussion

Governor William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania will appear in a Public Affairs Forum on PLU's Eastvold Chapel stage at 4:30 p.m., Jan. 19.

Sponsored by the PLU Young Republicans, the event is designed to provide an opportunity for both students and public to meet one of the nation's leading political figures.

Introducing the Pennsylvania governor will be Washington's own Governor Daniel J. Evans. Evans spoke in Harrisburg, Penn., last fall, and Scranton is returning his visit.

After graduation from Yale, Gov. Scranton served as a captain in the Air Corps, became a lawyer and industrial leader, then accepted President Eisenhower's invitation to be a special assistant to Secretary of State Christian Herter.

In 1960, he was elected to Congress from Pennsylvania's 10th District. He defeated Richardson Dilworth for the governorship of his home state by 486,000 votes in 1962.

Just prior to the 1964 Republican Nominating Convention, Scranton tried for the nomination as a "moderate."

The dynamic governor will be interviewed by ten panelists: Russ Brubaker and Bill Matson, editors of the Lincoln High and Franklin Pierce High students newspapers; Roger Stillman, MM editor; Dave Ekberg, Bob Erickson, Jean Knutson, and Francis Winn, PLU Young Republicans; Larry Porter from UPS; and Tony Merkel and Tom Wynia from Tacoma.

Dr. Earl Gerheim, professor of biology, will moderate the discussion.

"We are pleased and fortunate to be able to host this nationally known personality at Pacific Lutheran University," remarked Howard O'Connor, president of PLU's Young Republicans.

Pertinent Program on SE Asia Slated by Expression Series

"The Four Faces of Southeast Asia," a film-lecture program particularly pertinent at this time, will be presented by Fran William Hall as part of the Expression Series Jan. 29 in Eastvold Chapel at 8:00 p.m.

Hall, who spent much time in Cambodia, Thailand, Burma, and Malaysia getting to know the people, found that even in the midst of tension South Asians have a brighter side. The people who he encountered here had learned to live life in an usual way, taking the great strides of their country in stride.

Hall found this land a true paradox. Although torn by war and political strife, it still possessed all the beauty and splendor of majestic Buddhist temples and the fabulous ruins of Angkor Wat.

Fran William Hall, who is nationally known through his color films and lectures, has served as a Walt Disney photographer, having worked on the film "Secrets of Life." He also headed the Department of Photography at Carleton College in Northfield, Minn.

Hall has lectured in almost every part of the United States and Canada, and has lived and traveled in some 50 countries.

Tickets for "The Four Faces of Southeast Asia" can be purchased at the information desk in the ad building.

Times Humorist To Spice MM Banquet

Don Duncan, humor-columnist for The Seattle Times, will speak at the third annual Mooring Mast awards banquet to be held in Chris Knutzen Jan. 28.

In confirming the engagement, Duncan wrote: "I will keep the talk light and breezy . . . I will toss in some other things, too, including what has become my favorite after-dinner 'gut-buster'—my two visits to nudist camps as a reporter. Yes, I kept my pants on," he added.

Duncan, a native Seattleite, is a 1949 graduate of the University of Washington School of Journalism. He has worked as an investigative, general-assignment and feature reporter for The Seattle Times the past six years and as a columnist for the past year and a half.

He served as the sports editor of the University of Washington Daily in 1949, is the recipient of 19 Washington State Press writing awards, is active in the Methodist church, the King County library board, and the state-wide Parents and Citizens for Education board.

Awards To Be Presented

During the banquet MM Editor Roger Stillman will present awards to the best MM feature writer, news writer, and columnist this semester. A special award will also be presented to the staff member who is voted by the staff members as the best all-around worker.

"Baggy Eye" columnist Joe Aalbuuc will serve as the master of ceremonies. Members of the Interscholastic Knights will serve the banquet. Dave Sundberg, Dennis Beard and Jack Shannon will provide vocal entertainment.

Dennis Hale, UPS Trail editor, trimmings will top the menu for the evening. The banquet will be free to staff members by invitation. Over 90 students and special guests are expected to attend the event.

TO HIGHLIGHT BANQUET—Don Duncan, humor columnist for The Seattle Times, will speak at the third annual MM awards banquet Jan. 28.

will attend the banquet as well as other selected members of the Trail staff.

Special guests will include Mrs. Carl Johnson, the first editor of the Mooring Mast in 1924; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dunmire, MM photographer; and MM advisor Dr. Philip Nordquist.

Artist Series Presents Choir Boys

by Patty Thoe

A group of charming good-will ambassadors from Vienna will storm onto campus Feb. 2, for what promises to be a memorable concert of folk songs and costume operettas as well as sacred music.

For more than 450 years the Vienna Choir Boys have delighted audiences with their freshness, artistry, and deceivingly angelic dignity on stage.

The choir is solidly united with the history and tradition of the Imperial Court Orchestra and Choir of especially the latter part of the 15th century.

During the rule of Maximilian I there occurred a major shift of emphasis in the material and spiritual life of Europe. New continents were discovered, and the world expanded in an increase of economic, political, and social opportunities. The Vienna Choir Boys were founded in this age of enlightenment—the Renaissance.

Now in the 20th century the Vienna Choir Boys are considered by many the most beloved choir ever to tour the United States. Works by Jacob Gallas, G. F. Handel, Josef Haydn, Zoltan Kodaly, W. A. Mozart, Max Reger, Franz Schubert, Robert Schumann, Johann Strauss, and Giuseppe Verdi are included in their American repertoire.

The New York Times had the following praise for the choir after a recent performance: "The choir sang all of the contributions with a purity of tone, wealth of color effects and precision of attacks and releases quite remarkable for its depth of devotional feeling and security with which their exactions of the music were met. The chorus proved so successful with the audience in the delivery of the choral compositions by Schumann, Brahms, and Johann Strauss, as well as in the Austrian folk songs, that they were called back for six encores."

Students with Artist Series tickets are urged to have them punched early at the information desk in the ad building where the cards will be exchanged for tickets. To accommodate the expected large turn-out for the concert, the choir will perform in Memorial Gymnasium instead of Eastvold Chapel.

HISTORIC CHOIR—The Vienna Choir Boys will appear Feb. 2 in an Artist Series concert. The concert will include folk songs, costume operettas and sacred music.

It's Been Great

Editing the student newspaper on this campus is indeed a unique and rewarding experience. The power of the press can only be fully realized from sitting behind the editor's desk and performing the functions which the position demands.

Well, how has it gone? What has the year been like?

I cannot, nor would I want to retract one word of print that has appeared in the newspaper. I have been indeed fortunate to be blessed with a staff second to none. Our writers have performed their tasks with the utmost responsibility. And because I have had faith in their intellectual honesty, I have often been proud to stand up to many a blast.

Relations with the administration have been exceptional. Certainly we have differences of opinion. But this is as it should be. Evidence of the growing liberal temperament, of which I wrote last week, can be seen in the almost unquestioned freedom given to the press on this campus.

Administration officials have often bent over backwards to supply us with information even to the extent that we have on many occasions been able to scoop the Tacoma News Tribune.

I only wish that I could give the same praise to the ASPLU and its officers. Working with them and attempting to obtain clear and accurate information has sometimes been a frustrating chore. It often becomes more like wading through a toy sandbox with kids all throwing sand at each other. To student government I can make NO apologies and I might add—they have never asked me to do so.

One should realize, I suppose, that when he makes a comparison between administration and ASPLU relations with the Mooring Mast that the ASPLU is a student extra-curricular activity in which most of the members are not paid to perform their tasks. Still this should not be a barrier to communications.

All these relationships, whether with students, faculty, or administration, have been educational experiences. I have probably grown intellectually more in the past year than any year in my life. There is something unique in the learning experience that comes from actual application in work on the newspaper. Not wishing to offend any of my past professors, I must say that I have learned more from one year of editing the MM than in all of their courses combined.

And in conclusion I can only say that it has truly been an experience of a lifetime. Part of the excitement no doubt has stemmed from the rapid growth and expansion occurring throughout the campus both physically and academically. Life under the new regime is action-packed. This university is on the move. And with God's grace I have no doubt whatsoever that Pacific Lutheran University will become "a distinctive center of learning."

Reflections from the Good Old Days

by Trygve Anderson

After looking at stories in old MM's for a semester, we should be able to come to some sort of conclusion as to the paper's quality under the present regime. Now, in the final installment of this column, is an appropriate time to make this comparison.

From the standpoint of one who has read samples of this paper from nearly every year it has existed, the present Mooring Mast is the best yet. It has progressed from inane, high-schoolish drivel to a point where it now looks and reads like a real newspaper. This change has occurred over the past few years, especially the year ending with this issue.

Editorial policy also has changed markedly. The recent editors no longer fear to tackle important and perhaps controversial matters. In the past the editorials chided the students for disliking the food, griping about chapel, etc., and concluded by admonishing the students to be good boys and girls.

To me the most nauseating of these editorials affronting the reader's intelligence appeared in February 1958. It should make us realize how good things are now:

"Perhaps you wonder why we have printed no letters in the '57-'58 MM until now. I felt at the beginning of the year that I did not want to print letters just because they were written, or just because they were of a controversial subject, and would attract the reader. I feel that now the students are more ready to write letters, and the paper is ready to print them."

Clearly both the editorial and the rest of the paper are now written closer to a college level. But some things still are lacking: mainly, coverage of student government.

Very little news other than editorials has appeared on ASPLU. For instance, publicity on last week's election was nil. At other times the students needed to know what was happening, but the MM, the logical means to tell them, said nothing. Hopefully, the MM was not prejudiced against ASPLU matters. To be fair, however, one must admit that the MM often did try.

The character of the paper this past year has been a good blend of intelligence, guts, and wit. It will be a hard act to follow.

After a year of writing a column for the MM, we've come to the end of the line. Someone recently pointed out that there are still people and institutions on our campus that this column hasn't taken a pot-shot at.

Disappointment is a terrible thing, so as a parting gesture we would like to declare you all highly insulted and grievously wronged. (Sorry we had to do it on MM, but it could have been worse; we could have assigned you each a number.) Banjai.

KMO Broadcasting Contract Signed

Interested in radio announcing? The opportunity awaits. KMO Radio and PLU have signed a contract whereby PLU will be responsible for four hours of broadcast time each Saturday.

The program will originate live from the campus, and by use of a telephone line will feed directly to the KMO studios.

Programming will begin Saturday, Jan. 29, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., on KMO at 1360 k.c.

Although the program is billed as the "PLU Hootenanny," a variety of music will be used, according to Paul Steen, temporary co-ordinator of the program. He added that the format will be quite loose.

Publicity of campus news and features as well as items of interest from colleges throughout the Northwest will be aired on the show.

Any student interested in participating is urged to meet tonight, Jan. 13, at 7 p.m., in the radio-studio in Eastvold Chapel. Previous radio experience will not be considered a prerequisite.

SINKING A CASING—Construction crews are sinking a casing for an emergency drain for the new library. Excavation was completed last week. Earth from the excavation was hauled to other areas of the campus where fill dirt was needed for future parking lots.

--- Letters to the Editor ---

A MISINTERPRETATION

In regard to the letter written by Stephen Skjei (MM Jan. 7), I would like to state that I find it unfortunate that Mr. Skjei so grossly misinterpreted my position stated in "Perspective Overlooked" (MM Dec. 17).

By misunderstanding my position, he consequently not only failed to refute my argument on its own terms, but he also gave a very fine example of an individual lost within a historical perspective.

For his benefit, and for the benefit of others, I would like to restate the position.

1. There are two consequences to any action; the immediate, and the ultimate.

(a) We can consider the immediate in terms of "this world."

(b) We can consider the ultimate in terms of "eternity."

2. By taking the life of someone (we are responsible for the consequences of this action on the ultimate scale) to perpetuate an idea, i.e. democracy, communism, DeGaulle-ism (which is within the realm of the immediate) we sacrifice the ultimate for the immediate.

Or: "Thou shalt not kill" (the quotes are the Bible's) does not have the clause "... except for the sake of democracy" (the quotes are my own) inserted after it.

Question of the week: Would Mr. Skjei please tell me the difference between a New York gang member, age 19, killing a rival gang member to protect his "turf"; or an infantryman, age 19 (sic), killing a rival Viet Cong to protect his "turf"?

"There is only one man in the world; and his name is 'All Men'" (from "Timesweep" in Honey and Salt, by Carl Sandberg, copyright 1953 by Carl Sandberg, reprinted by permission of Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc.)

ASKS FOR SETTLEMENT

Recently the students at our University have witnessed a growing hassle emerging between certain officers within student government. I would like to say that this is not only hurting the school as a whole, but that it is also very hard on the students involved in any way with student government.

I think it is about time that they stop antagonizing each other. There is a lot of work to be done so let's get it and be done with this silly bickering.

As was witnessed in legislature last Tuesday night, nothing can be accomplished as long as this continues. May I ask for a settlement of any personal differences and an end to the conflict so that once again things may function smoothly.

—Rick Steen

Three to Speak During 75th Anniversary

Trygve Lie, Henry T. Heald and Myrl E. Alexander will give addresses at PLU in connection with the University's 75th anniversary year observance.

Trygve Lie of Norway, former secretary general of the United Nations, will appear at PLU as part of a Scandinavian Arts Festival which will be held the last part of April and the first part of May. No date has been set for his address.

Henry T. Heald, who retired Dec. 31 as president of the Ford Foundation, will give the commencement address on Sunday, May 29. A prominent educator, Heald has been president of the Illinois Institute of Technology and chancellor of New York University.

Myrl E. Alexander, director of the Bureau of Prisons in the U. S. Department of Justice, will give three lectures Feb. 20-22 on the PLU Social Life Series program. Alexander was assistant director of the Bureau from 1947-61, and then served for three years as a professor at Southern Illinois University where he was also director of its Center for the Study of Crime, Peiniquency and Corrections.

Dr. Mortvedt, PLU president, stated that the University will confer honorary doctor's degrees on the

by Joe Aalbu

It is late and the music is low
And all but the restless night is asleep.

My eyes are tired.
My head is groggy.
My back aches.

But greater than these is the ache
I carry with me to bed—not to rest.

A hollow loneliness which is the sum of book-filled days and quiet evenings

and beautiful, dove gray, sad music and thinking.

It is a sum which, I suppose, will go on adding itself up, and checking the figures, and analyzing them, and taking my mind's temperature for years and more years of quiet evenings and piles of unread books and quarts of eye-drops and gallons of back-rub, and hours of silent, mathematical music and dozens of diamond needles, and on and on . . .

But no . . .

It is too obstinate for that. It will run my body, and flog my soul, and wear out my eyes, and bow my back. And, in time, it will make room for two of us to pool together, and search in another direction on a large level.

What will it find? Is it even looking?

I suppose deep down inside I enjoy sitting down at home, writing little thoughts, and, I suppose, I hope to be reflective and a bit stuffy always.

'Open End' to View Viet Nam Policy

Four young men subject to the draft will debate "On Going to Viet Nam" when KING-TV presents "Open End" at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 16, on Channel 5.

Two of the young men are actively engaged in protesting the administration policy in Viet Nam. The other two have been active in their support of the policy.

According to David Susskind, host and moderator, the discussion is "provocative, hot and animated and will be most enlightening to people who are confused by the protest movement itself."

The guests will be Don Emmerson of Yale and Robert Shrum of Harvard, who support government policy, and Richard Rothstein of Students for Democratic Society and Dan Styron of the Independent Committee to End War in Viet Nam.

Knorr Favors Further Faculty Study

by Neil Waters, Associate Editor

The faculty evaluation questionnaire which was distributed in chapel last Monday, Jan. 10, is, according to Erich Knorr, dean of the college of arts and sciences, only the beginning.

Both Knorr and Dr. Richard Moe, dean of the college of professional and graduate studies, stressed that the questionnaire is only the first step that will lead to more detailed evaluation procedures in the future. "We hope," said Knorr, "that this will lead instructors to poll their own classes in greater detail."

The form of the questionnaire was in part dictated by the need to adapt the results to IBM analysis. The results, which will be compiled in six weeks, will be made available only to the individual instructors and to "the appropriate academic administrator."

Knorr stated that the questionnaire could by no means be considered "excellent," but part of its purpose is to bring to the attention

Little Lutes

by Gary Richey

With one week to go in the first half of the bowling season for the Little Lutes, individual and team highs in scoring are pretty well set.

This past week did little to change the league standings except to bring teams closer together and to assure the top two teams that they will not drop below second place when the league goes into the position rounds next week, pitting teams together according to league position, 1st against 2nd, 3rd against 4th, etc. But, except for one team, next week could change the entire final position of the league for the first half.

High games and series, respectively, for this past week go to Norm Nesting with 204, Paul Olsen with 200, Jay Young with 553, and Paul Olsen with 552.

Over the season so far games have gone as high as 258, while series have exceeded in some cases the 620's, but if past seasons are an indication of performances, the second half will show performances that equal or exceed the scores of the first half.

With the arrival of a new semester will come the beginning of a second half of the Little Lutes bowling program, a program that to be a real success, will be needing more bowlers. Anyone who would like to bowl and is willing to come regularly can call Gary Richey at ext. 1240 for further information.

Set Crucial Cage Tilt at L & C Friday

The PLU Knights found trouble as they stepped out of their home gym and saw a 7-game winning streak go by the boards as the Linfield Wildcats defeated the Lutes by an 82-63 margin on their home floor.

Leading 29-28 at halftime, the Wildcats put on a 53 point splurge in the second half to hand the Lutes their first league loss and only second loss of the season.

Curt Gammell led the Lutes with 18 points and 18 rebounds, followed by guard Mike Lockerby with 12 tallies.

The Lutes won three games over the weekend, including a 91-72 victory over Linfield and two from the Pacific Badgers.

Displaying a strong defense and clutch shooting from Gammell and Don Rowland, who scored 22 points each, the Lutes forced the visiting Wildcats into many costly mistakes and never gave them the opportunity to put their offense into full swing.

Against Pacific, running into a strong defense and a cold night, the Knights were leading 34-33 at halftime, before putting their offense into gear in the second half and completely running the smaller Badger team off the floor by a 88-53 margin.

Don Rowland and Tim Sherry led all scorers with 17 points, followed by Mike Lockerby who canned 15 points. Larry Franz led the visitors with 12 tallies.

Playing the Badgers again Saturday night, the Lutes ran into trouble against the zone once again, before Curt Gammell found the range and kept the revenge-minded visitors at arms length.

Showing signs of tiredness after playing three nights in a row the Lutheran five did not show much continuity in their offense as players kept shuffling in and out of the game and they did not get any set pattern into operation.

For his outstanding play over the weekend, guard Don Rowland was named Washington State's outstanding small college basketball player of the week.

Tomorrow the Lutes trek to Portland, Ore., to do battle with the Lewis & Clark Pioneers. This will be an important contest for both clubs.

The Pioneers, currently in second place, have a 2-1 conference mark and a 9-2 overall record. In their last encounter they were downed by the College of Idaho 86-75.

In the all-time series record with the Pioneers the Lutes have captured 16 of the 21 meetings. The series began in 1932.

Saturday the Knights will return to the friendly confines of Memorial Gymnasium and entertain Willamette University.

Willamette lost its second conference game of the campaign Monday to Whitman, 70-64, bringing their mark to 1-2.

The Knights lead in the all-time series between the two schools by a 4-2 count. The series began in 1933.

THE WORLD OUTSIDE

Seattle U., Seattle—S.U.'s request for a $1.2 million federal grant to help finance its proposed physical education complex was turned down at a meeting of the Washington State Higher Education Facilities Commission.

Rock Hill, S. C. (I.P.)—The Board of Trustees of Winthrop College has recommended that the college engage in a self study of teaching this year. The board recently proposed that the entire faculty devote time and effort to the task of improving teaching on campus.

In a report to the board, Dr. Walter Douglas Smith, dean of the college, said that the "major responsibility of the Winthrop professor is teaching, and that its improvement might come about if the faculty should carry out a self study."

Dean Smith further reported, "In all the proceedings of the college, teaching receives surprisingly little attention. Most of us tend to focus attention on such matters as grades, classroom and laboratory space and equipment, course titles and numbers, social activities, and the like. What the professor does in the classroom is rarely the subject of debate or discussion.

"Winthrop students have from time to time voiced questions about our teaching. They, above all people, know what we are doing in the classroom and their performance is evidence of our success. Students will be involved in the self study after a faculty steering committee is formed. A request for student involvement will probably be one of their first actions."

"Last year the Southern Regional Education Board carried on a study of undergraduate teaching," Dean Smith stated. However, "some of us felt that this study did not come to grips with the real issues involved or have a strong enough design. We believe that the self study procedure which has evolved over the last decade in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is a most promising procedure because it involves the essential people: faculty and students."

Ithaca, N. Y. (I.P.)—The recently released report by the Faculty Committee on the Quality of Undergraduate Instruction at Cornell University states that students across the nation are being shortchanged in their education. "There can be no doubt that student dissatisfaction with undergraduate instruction, at Cornell as elsewhere, has basis in fact," the report stated bluntly.

The 13,000-word report called for a "marked change" in the attitude of teachers toward students and for increased emphasis on the importance of teaching. Teaching, it said, must be placed on the same level as research, publishing and public service.

However, the report stressed, "we are convinced that the increasing contact with external affairs on the part of professors does benefit undergraduate education. There is too little understanding of this point by students and people outside the University."

"At Cornell today there are few mechanisms whereby students can get the faculty and administration to give real consideration to their reactions and proposals without running the risk of being viewed by many as violators of good taste, or worse. But the fact that student discontent or indifference may derive in part from circumstances beyond the university's control does not mean that institutions of higher learning have no obligation to respond to the student's problems. On the contrary, in its teaching role the university is more than a dispenser of knowledge; as an educational institution it is charged with evoking and guiding the development of the young person's potential in judgment as well as intellect."

Christian Scientist to Speak in Convo.

PLU will experience a part of the Ecumenical Movement on the local level Jan. 17. On that day Father William B. Greenspun, C.S.P. National Director, Apostolic of Good Will, Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, will speak to the student body during chapel.

Father Greenspun is a representative of the Roman Catholic Church who travels throughout the country presenting programs and organizing meetings with the purpose of creating a better understanding between Roman Catholic and Protestant.

He will meet in Chris Knutzen Fellowship Hall with pastors, both Protestant and Catholic, the evening of Jan. 17. This meeting is a preliminary to a larger meeting in February where laymen will be invited to participate.

Father Greenspun will conduct a large Ecumenical meeting in Seattle on Jan. 16.

Pastor John Larsgaard commented that the world-wide Ecumenical Movement is being felt at the local level in meetings such as this, and in the type of work Father Greenspun is doing. He pointed out that the churches are not trying to achieve unity in the sense of becoming one church, but are striving to maintain their identity while still achieving a sense of friendship between the brethren of different churches.

Indian Samples American Life

by David Yearsley

PLU has a distinctive foreign visitor staying on campus. With his turban, beard, and meticulously white clothes, Mannohan Singh presents a picture of the man from India.

He is living in the Pflueger Hall guest room during his stay at PLU.

Under the auspices of the International Teacher Development Program, Singh is surveying secondary education in the United States. The program includes 280 educators from 73 different countries, who are studying American methods of education and administration.

Since he arrived in the U. S. Aug. 31, Singh has observed schools in Washington, D. C., New York, and Ohio. Presently he is observing at Franklin Pierce High School.

His home is in Panjab, a province in northern India on the border between Tibet and China. He is married and has three children.

INDIAN VISITOR—Mannohan Singh shows Phil Strain, one of his Pflueger Hall roommates, his passport to this country. Singh is currently studying the secondary education systems of the United States.

India is now facing grave social crises, poverty, illiteracy, and the ominous threat of widespread famine. Yet amidst this, according to Singh, the people are basically contented. The Hindu religion ingrains deeply a passive acceptance of all things.

Singh feels the slow process of education is the only basis for progress and improvement.

Singh's faith is called Sikh, which is a 300 year old off-shoot of Hinduism. Originally it was a warrior sect against the Moslems. Some basic tenets of Sikhism are: the fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man, the importance of serving others, the idea of God as an impersonal Eternal Reality, and the transmigration of souls.

Singh will be at PLU until Feb. 24, when he will leave for India.

Wicks Places First In Oratory Contest

Freshman Harry Wicks grabbed first place and $25 in prize money in the finals of the All School Oratorical contest held in CB-200 on Wednesday, Jan. 12.

Wicks' speech entitled "Illegitimacy," dealt with the alarming rise of teenage illegitimacy amongst the populace as viewed through the eyes of a parent.

Fred Theiste, MM sports editor, took second prize and $15 with his oration entitled, "Communism, the Roadblock to Freedom."

Placing third was sophomore Diane Garnet. Her speech was entitled "The Great Persuader."

Others participating in the final round were Paula Keiser and Judy Drake, both freshmen.

Two requirements for speeches given in the contest were that they were to be ten minutes in length and memorized. The first prize winner will have his name engraved on the All School Oratorical trophy, according to Ron Merchant, chairman of the contest.

Carolyn Malde To Receive Honor

Carolyn Malde, recipient of the 1965-66 Faculty Wives Scholarship, will be the honored guest at the next meeting of the PLU Faculty Wives Club Monday, Jan. 24, at 8 p.m., in Harned Hall Lounge.

Miss Malde, a nursing student from Corona, Calif., is a member of Tau Sigma, senior women's honorary, and the Choir of the West. She will be introduced by Mrs. Elvin Akre, vice-president of the organization and program chairman.

Mrs. George Arbaugh will announce committee assignments and discuss plans for the annual Faculty Wives' Scholarship Tea scheduled for Feb. 13.

Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. A. Dean Buchanan, chairman, and Mesdames Alta Pierson, Richard Bakken, Harold Bexton, and David Christian.
